Prophets Speculate on Future.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Virtually complete returns from the Nov. 8 congressional and state elections reveal the full sweep of the Republican tidal wave that jolted the New Deal and submerged two radical third parties.

In addition to gaining 8 senators and 14 governors the Republicans, the final figures disclose, added 81 seats in the seventy-sixth congress to the 89 they had in the seventy-fifth. Recounts of votes in progress may increase the house gains of the Republicans to 83 seats.

Gain Eight Senators.

The Republicans gained one senator in each of the following 8 states: Connecticut, Kansas, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Wisconsin.

The gain of 81 house seats was distributed as follows:

California	4	New Hampshire	1
Connecticut	4	New Jersey	4
Delaware	1	New York	3
Idaho	1	Ohio	13
Illinois	4	Oregon	1
Indiana	6	Pennsylvania	12
Iowa	3	Rhode Island	2
Kansas	1	South Dakota	1
Michigan	3	West Virginia	1
Minnesota	4	Wisconsin	8
Montana	1	Wyoming	1
Nebraska	2

Before the election the Republicans held governorships in five states: California, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, and Vermont. After the election they had seventeen. They lost two—California and Maryland—to the Democrats. They gained governors in the following fourteen states:

Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. In most of these states also the Republicans captured control of the legislatures.

Almost Capture New York.

The Republicans also came within 70,000 votes of electing the governor of New York and within a mere handful of votes of electing senators in Iowa and Indiana.

The territory swept by the Republicans extends from coast to coast outside the south. The only states, outside the solid south in which no Republican gains were scored were Washington, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Missouri, Kentucky, and Oklahoma.

If the Republicans in a presidential election were to carry all the territory previously held and that in which they made gains on Nov. 8, the Republican electorial vote would be 365 distributed as follows:

California	22	Montana	4
Colorado	6	Nebraska	7
Connecticut	8	New Hampshire	4
Delaware	3	New Jersey	16
Idaho	4	New York	47
Illinois	29	North Dakota	4
Indiana	14	Ohio	26
Iowa	11	Oregon	5
Kansas	9	Pennsylvania	36
Maine	5	Rhode Island	4
Maryland	8	South Dakota	4
Massachusetts	17	Vermont	4
Michigan	19	West Virginia	8
Missouri	15	Wyoming	3

The majority of the electoral college is 266. Whether the Republican gains in the recent election are an augury of Republican victory in the 1940 presidential election is a matter of much discussion at the moment.

Augurs Change of Control.

The Republicans point out that a change in control of the central government generally is foreshadowed by marked gains made by the minority party two years previously, as in 1910, 1918, and 1930. The Democrats retort that in each of these years the minority party regained actual control of congress, whereas the gains made by the Republicans on Nov. 8 last, fall far short of achieving a majority in either house. Hence, they dismiss the Republican gains as no augury at all.

What encourages the Republicans and worries the Democrats, however, is that the territory in which the Republicans wrested senate and house seats and governorships and legislatures from the Democrats and also from the La Follette Progressives in Wisconsin and the radical Farmer-Laborites in Minnesota, is normally Republican. It produced the Republican landslides of 1920, 1924, and 1928. The Republicans are confident and the Democrats are apprehensive that Nov. 8 recorded the start of the politi-

SANTA ARRIVES WITH BUSINESS BOOM IN HIS BAG

City Starts Early on Christmas Buying.

Chicago is feeling the stirrings of the Christmas spirit. A carload of balsam trees arrived from the Michigan forests yesterday. Santa Claus, brave in scarlet and white, and long woolly whiskers, left a plane at the city airport for a tour of the loop. Cheering youngsters waved him a greeting in the streets and hurried into stores to see the toy exhibits, on display a week earlier than usual. Santa's assistants were greeted by cheering thousands in neighborhood shopping areas.

It's too early to be positive, and all forecasts are subject to revision.

Part of this optimism is based on general improvement in economic conditions. Since the fall elections business reports have taken on a sunny tinge. They don't bubble, but no longer do they produce loud groans. They indicate that the United States generally, and Chicagoland in particular, are on the upgrade.

Week Surpasses 1937 Figure.

Statistics for the week ending Nov. 12 showed that Chicago department stores did more business than in the corresponding week of 1937. It was the first week in a whole year to give the winner's pat on the back to 1938.

Steel output, electric power production, and house building in the entire country hit new highs for the year. Automobile manufacturers turned out 96,735 cars and trucks, more by 10,000 than the 1937 week's production. Retail trade as a whole and cotton mills in particular are prospering more than they did in recent weeks.

Wage increases in many lines and the announcement of bonus payments to come have added to the feeling of betterment impending. Such announcements affected 17,000 workers last week. General Motors' announcement of stabilized wage payments to the bulk of its employés was another factor for optimism.

A Billion Dollar Christmas.

David Mayer, president of the State Street council, said that this was going to be a "billion dollar Christmas" in Chicago.

"There's that much stock in the downtown stores," he said, "and I believe it will be sold. I think it's going to be a practical Christmas. Novelties and incidentals will have buyers, of course, but it's the solid things they will be concentrating on. The stores are well stocked and business is definitly getting better."

Henry C. Lytton, the oldest of the loop merchants, asserted that there had been a sharp change in sentiment recently and that he was looking forward to a brighter Christmas season than any one would have expected in the early fall.

Other merchants said that they believed a little cold weather would start a buying wave; that the demand for winter goods had been greatly lessened by the almost unprecedented mild temperatures.

Wait for First Snowfall.

"When the first snow falls, we will be able to make an accurate guess," was the verdict of this group. Most of them were confident that, with the kind of weather they hoped for, the 1938 buying season would be more active than that of 1937.

Others held that the buying urge would be stimulated by new and better merchandise, and that they already found their customers leaning to articles of high quality.

The customers who really make Christmas although they have no incomes [the children, of course] were satisfied yesterday with the Santa Claus invasion. An estimated 10,000 gave vocal approval for the head man Santa and thousands of others hailed the thirty-one assistants who went into neighborhood shopping districts to spread his message. Usually the season starts after Thanksgiving.

Continents and seas I span; I penetrate unyielding steel
And whisper lightly through the granite wall.

If sleeping, sleep—if feasting, finish while I wait.
It is the hour of 8, and they who follow radio reach

Forty Girls Try 'Clinging Vine' Gag on 40 Boys

BY MARCIA WINN.

The girls at Jennings seminary, a girls' boarding school in Aurora, have a definite philosophy on how to get your man. Be, they say, a clinging vine.

As Patsy Malek, a tall girl of 16 with a mass of auburn hair, explained it, "Always look up into a man's eyes admiringly. Say, 'O, do you think so?' and draw out the 'think'. . . ."

But it is hard, Patsy and her fellow students found yesterday, to be a clinging vine on roller skates. And it becomes almost impossible when you first have to ASK him to skate with you.

Sad State of Affairs.

But this was the state of affairs yesterday evening when forty "men" [ages 15 to 18] from Elgin academy were the guests of forty girls [ages 15 to 17] of Jennings for a mass date. A mass blind date.

The date, lasting eight hours, included a merry two hours at an Aurora skating rink, a buffet supper, skits, and dancing. The skating was first on the program, as the joys of the rink were supposed to thaw youthful bashfulness.

"We thought it a fine way to start a lovely acquaintance," explained Mrs. Mina Malek, superintendent of the seminary and mother of Patsy. "We start gradually and let it generate its own momentum," put in Earl G. Leinbach, academy headmaster.

Well, it did, and it didn't.

The Division Is Uneven.

One little girl, in a blue angora sweater, a cloud of black hair foaming over her shoulders, skated between two young gentlemen in gay bow ties. But right behind them two girls skated disconsolately together.

One little girl, a winsome, moist eyed blonde in a plaid dirndl, glided along for hours in intricate figure skating, her hands clasped firmly by an attentive young man in blue trousers and checked jacket. Over on the sidelines ten young males crouched inert on a bench.

"Members of the varsity team," explained the headmaster. "Afraid they'll hurt their ankles."

Another girl, skating by herself, said yes, she had seen lots of cute boys, but she had skated with only one, and he was a poor skater.

"We're putting on a skit," said Patsy, "on how to get your man. Grandma swooned to get hers. Mother held up her fan and fluttered her eyelashes. We say, make him think he is the most perfect one in the world . . . and use the clinging vine . . ."

But outside the rink, as a "Ladies' Choice" was held again within, seven young gentlemen from Elgin sought the shadowy solace of their chartered bus. They talked to their driver and awaited the next move, which was food.

TAPPING NOISES SPUR RESCUERS TRYING TO SAVE TRAPPED MINERS

Shenandoah, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Faint tapping noises encouraged rescuers today in the hope that two men trapped in a thirty foot coal hole since midafternoon yesterday might still be alive.

After back breaking hours of frantic digging through tons of dirt and twisted timber, volunteer crews believed they were near the entombed pair. The entombed miners, William Buckanavage and Michael Chevinsky, were trapped when timbers they were setting in a narrow shaft collapsed.

Queen Maud of Norway Dies on London Trip

LONDON, Nov. 20 [Sunday].—(AP)—Queen Maud of Norway, sister of late King George V., died early today four days after undergoing an abdominal operation. She was 68 years old and the last surviving child of King Edward VII. She was stricken last week while on her annual visit to England.

Queen Maud.

King Haakon VII. was at her bedside having hurried from Oslo when the queen's illness became grave. The precise nature of her illness was not disclosed, although the doctors' bulletin said "the obstruction was dealt with satisfactorily."

Maud, Norway's "little queen," was the thrid daughter of Edward VII. of England, the first cousin of her husband, and three years his senior.

Became Haakon's Bride.

They were married July 22, 1896, when Haakon was Prince Charles of Denmark, second son of the crown prince of that country. They were called to the throne of Norway in 1905 when that country divorced itself from the domination of Sweden.

The queen's early married life in Copenhagen was far from pleasant. Her mother-in-law, Princess Louise of Denmark, was a domineering woman more than 6 feet tall who had planned to marry Prince Charles to Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, thus obtaining thrones for both her sons. When he balked this scheme by falling in love with Princess Maud and insisting upon marrying her his mother was bitterly disappointed.

Helped by Christian.

The court atmosphere in Copenhagen was, in fact, so hostile to the shy little English bride that she spent most of her time in her home country. It was even proposed at one stage that Charles should renounce his Danish citizenship and become a British subject, but old King Christian of Denmark, "grandfather of Europe," refused to consent to the plan.

Instead the old king interested himself actively in his grandson's wife and when a son was born to Maud and Charles and her father ascended the British throne, the balance of court favor swung to her side. The son is Prince Olaf. On March 21, 1929, he married Princess Martha of Sweden.

Hitler Moves to Blot Out All Trace of Jewry

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Nazi Germany broadened its campaign to eradicate all possible traces of Jewry from national life today.

Wealthy Jews in Nuremberg, according to advices received in Munich, were forced to sign over 90 per cent of their possessions to the German Labor Front and then told to leave the city within three months.

A mass eviction of Jews was reported in Vienna. In Berlin thousands clamored in vain for permission to leave while officials debated ways and means of letting them go.

Protestant churches in some parts of the country were ordered to eliminate the word "Jehovah," taken from the Hebrew for God, and Old Testament names of Jewish prophets.

Physician Is Shot.

Lay teachers of religion in public schools asked that pastors and priests assume such instruction. They explained no German teacher could interest Nordic pupils in "Jew-written psalms" and Old Testament history.

A police order was issued today forbidding Jews to use bridle paths.

Authenticated reports accumulated in offices of foreign missions regarding the killing of Jews in anti-Semitic disturbances that followed the slaying of Ernst von Rath, secretary in the German embassy in Paris, by a young Jew last week.

Various envoys asked themselves how many German Jews had paid with their lives for the assassination. Cases on file in one diplomatic office included:

Jews Reported Killed.

Hermann Fuerstenheim, director of a large firm in Chemnitz, was shot to death in the cellar of his home and his ashes were delivered later to his family.

A physician named Lewin of Polzin was shot when he opened his door in response to a knock.

A Duesseldorf restaurant owner named Markus was forced to watch his property being demolished. Afterward he was killed. At Kuestrin a Jewish attorney was shot to death.

The diplomatic office recording these cases had additional reports which could not be verified.

A levy of $400,000,000 has been decreed against the Jewish population as a penalty for the murder of Von Rath. A week has passed, but no intimation has been given about how it is to be collected.

Hold Up Finance Certificates.

Informed circles declared a behind-the-scenes controversy was going on to determine whether Jews should be expelled from Germany without funds or whether sufficient money should be left them collectively to make possible a regulated emigration. The latter procedure is in agreement with the international refugee committee established last July at a meeting of representatives of thirty-one countries in Evian-Les-Bains, France. This indecision on policy has halted virtually all emigration.

Not knowing how much to exact from each Jew who wants to leave, the finance ministry, responsible for devising means of collection, has instructed its collectors to decline to issue certificates showing all the applicant's financial obligations to the state have been met.

When a Jew asks for an immigration passport he is told service regulations prevent giving passports without the financial certificates.

Urges World Take Jews.

REICHENBERG, Germany, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels said today it was Germany's wish that the world "become so pro-Jewish that it would take our Jews off our hands." With biting sarcasm, Goebbels referred to the Jewish problem in a speech before an election massmeeting in this Sudetenland capital.

"We do not want to export anti-Semitism; on the contrary we want to export Semites," he said in a speech delivered in connection with the forthcoming Dec. 4 supplementary elections to admit Sudeten Germans to the reichstag.

"Supposing the whole world was anti-Semitic, how should we rid ourselves of our Jews? It is our wish that the world may become so pro-Jewish that it would take our Jews off our hands."

La Guardia Says Sally Rand Can't Fan Dance at His Fair

HAVANA, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Mayor La Guardia of New York, here for the Pan-American conference of municipalities, said that Sally Rand, the fan dancer, would not appear at the New York world's fair next spring. In reply to a query of a reporter about Sally the mayor replied: "When we have to use a bare body for advertising New York, I don't want to be mayor—and put that down!"

COLOMBIA'S NEW ENVOY TURNED DOWN BY HITLER

Latins Look on Act as an Insult.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Because he attempted to photograph scenes of anti-Jewish violence in Berlin last week, Rafael Jaramillo, Colombia's new minister to Germany, is being refused a chance to present his diplomatic credentials to Reichsfuehrer Hitler. This was disclosed today.

Jaramillo was scheduled to be received by Hitler on Thursday, but the ceremony was postponed. Diplomats reported that German official quarters have said that he will not be recognized as his country's representative in Germany.

Diplomats Indignant.

All South American diplomats accredited to Berlin were indignant. They described the incident as an insult to South America. They saw in the treatment of Jaramillo the "same high handed Nazi tactics" which have caused anxiety in their ranks on previous occasions.

Jaramillo and the Colombian chargé d'affaires were driving down the Kurfurstendamm during the anti-Jewish disorder and sought to take pictures of the scenes. A mob turned on them and the police, despite the fact the Colombians were traveling in a car marked with diplomatic letters, "detained them." The foreign office told the police Jaramillo "was not accredited to the German government."

The willingness with which European powers have compromised with Germany apparently aroused Berlin's expectations that South America and other nations would bow to the reich's slightest wishes.

Scores New Triumph.

Germany has just scored another diplomatic victory over the carved up Czechoslovak republic by compelling the Prague government to turn over more territory than was agreed upon in Munich or any other international conference.

The Czech trafic minister, Gen. Karel Husarek, is in Berlin. He has entered negotiations on the construction of canals and roads which the Germans want built in Czechoslovakia.

A proposed system of canals will run north and south through the heart of what is left of Czechoslovakia. It will be of great value to Germany in the dispatch of goods from Silesia to the province of Austria. The highway system is to run from east to west through Czechoslovakia to the republic's eastern tip in the Carpathians [Ruthenia]—the ideal route when it becomes possible for Germany to get badly needed grain from the rich fields of the Ukraine.

Edges Toward Ukraine.

Germany's desire to get as close as possible to the Ukraine has played a vital part in all negotiations in Europe since the Munich four power peace conference. For the sake of getting close to the Ukraine, Germany opposed the wishes of Poland and Hungary to divide Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia], realizing that it would be harder to make them obey her wishes than it would be a weakened Prague.

A narrow strip of Rumanian territory will still separate the model road Germany wants the Czechs to build from Ukrainian soil, but Germany is confident that "Rumania eventually will realize the necessity of joining up with the big international network," or, as the Nazis hope, ally herself with the authoritarian governments.

Germany meanwhile is silently but systematically strengthening her foothold in the Bohemian region. Bismarck once said the power which would be able to control Bohemia would be the master of Europe. The Nazis are turning many of the fortified areas of the former Czechoslovak defense lines into air fields.

Open Ukraine Departments.

Five weeks after they took over the Sudetenland area they had established fifty new airports, using part of the former fortifications for this purpose. In many Nazi organizations, special branches have been opened to study "Ukrainian problems." Even the GSP [secret police] has a "Ukrainian department."

Feeling that the population has not shown the expected approval for the recent violences against Jews, Nazi authorities have ordered their best propaganda orators to lecture on the

Rumors have circulated in Berlin that a number of Jews "committed suicide" after their arrest. However, only comparatively few persons have received the dreaded postal card from the secret police announcing that their relatives had died during their detention.

CAMPAIGN STIRS FRANCE

PARIS, Nov. 19.—(AP)—An anti-Jewish current in France continued today, and at the same time voices were raised in protest against the government's silence on the German-Jewish issue.

The anti-Semitic royalist newspaper Action Française asserted a campaign against Nazi anti-Jewish measures was "started by American bankers who want a world war."

Anti-Semitism, which was brought to the surface by extreme nationalists when Leon Blum, a Jew, became premier two years ago, has been growing apace, especially in regions near the German frontier.

Aroused by Slaying.

New attention was focused on the question by the recent slaying of Ernst von Rath, German diplomat in Paris, by a young Polish Jew and the anti-Jewish wave which resulted in Germany. Certain newspapers again have attacked Blum, who is the Socialist leader, calling him a "foreigner."

Blum, in reply, published a statement declaring his family had been French for generations.

In a speech last Sunday in Lille, however, Blum indicated that a Jew, even if called to head the French cabinet, would refuse because "it is not his duty to increase the international difficulties of his country."

"But will that continue always?" he asked. "Are we destined to submit even in the free acts of our international life to the pressure of foreign ideologies?"

Merchants Are Complaining.

French merchants loudly complain that German Jewish refugees and other foreigners are ruining their businesses by competition. Chambers of commerce, complaining of a "veritable invasion," have asked the premier to drive foreigners out of business in the country. A campaign against foreigners whose identification papers are not in order brought expulsion of 4,187 persons from France during the summer.

Premier Edouard Daladier, whose cabinet includes two Jews, was reported worried by Reichsfuehrer Hitler's displeasure because German refugees are finding havens in France.

GERMAN LEADER FORMS HITLER YOUTH IN MEMEL

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Dr. Ernst Neumann, Memel German leader, announced today the formation of a uniformed German youth movement similar to the Hitler Youth in Germany and declared he would follow Nazi racial policy in the Memel territory.

Dr. Neumann spoke at the opening of his campaign for Memel diet elections Dec. 11. As long as Lithuanian safety police remain in Memel, he said, and certain Lithuanian regulations are not withdrawn, "negotiations with our adversary are impossible." Germans demand autonomous police and executive authority for Memelland.

The Memel territory, an area of 1,099 square miles, was detached from Germany by the treaty of Versailles and handed over to Lithuania in 1923. Within the territory is the important Baltic port of Memel. The population of the Memel territory in 1937 was 151,960.

BLAST AND FIRE IN SPANISH ARMS PLANT KILL 200

PERPIGNAN, France [at the Spanish frontier], Nov. 19.—(AP)—Between 200 and 300 persons perished in a fire and explosion which wrecked a Spanish government munitions factory yesterday in Barcelona, informants said today. Many persons were wounded.

The estimate of the toll was brought into France by travelers from government Spain. They asserted the fire started from the explosion of a shell dropped by a worker. Many of the victims were said to have been asphyxiated when trapped in air raid shelters. They had fled to the shelters believing the factory was being bombed.

CZECHS FACE NEW SLICING; HUNGARY TO GET RUTHENIA

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 19.—Hungary is anxiously awaiting the next step in its resurrection.

This step is the annexation of what remains of the autonomous Czechoslovak province of Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia]. Hungary already has annexed one huge slice of Ruthenia. This slice was awarded to her last month by Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini, acting as arbiters in the Hungarian-Czech frontier dispute. Now foreign diplomats here are convinced that the collapse of the remainder of this fantom state is only a matter of days.

Hitherto, the one serious obstacle in Hungary's path has been Hitler's unwillingness to grant the full program of Hungarian revisionism in this region and the diplomatic support he has been giving to his Czechoslovak vassals in their struggle to maintain sovereignty over at least a fragment of Ruthenia.

Based on Strategic Reasons.

This stand was based on the Nazi principle of self-determination for all racial groups in central Europe, but it had two more important strategic objectives:

FIRST—Hitler wanted the remaining strip of Ruthenia as a prolongation of the Slovak corridor along which his armies might one day pass on their way to carve a new empire for Germany from the Russian Ukraine.

SECOND—As a complement or alternative to this plan, Germany apparently wished to maintain an independent Ukrainian state, however small, as a nucleus for propaganda activities in both the Polish and Russian Ukraine. That is the reason Poland is so generously trying to help Hungary get all of Ruthenia.

Now the news reaches here from Poland of alleged secret assurances given by Warsaw to Berlin that the common Hungarian-Polish frontier which would be created by the elimination of Ruthenia will never be a barrier to German expansion toward the east.

Softens Nazi Opposition.

In plain language, this could mean only that the Poles will give the German armies passage across the southern tip of Galicia under certain conditions.

This, in turn, would seem to imply as a corollary that Hungary, too, might permit Germany to use the Ruthenian corridor as planned in case of war with Russia.

In any case, it is believed that these secret Polish assurances have softened German opposition to a common Polish-Hungarian frontier.

The German press still supports Ruthenian independence, but the Hungarians believe that both the Germans and the Czechs—to say nothing of the Ruthenians themselves — soon will give up the costly and fruitless struggle.

[The Czechoslovak lower house yesterday voted autonomy for Slovakia and Ruthenia.]

Odds Favor Hungarians.

Geography, economics, and the rigorous Carpathian winter are against them and on the side of the Hungarians. Without any real capital, without independent food supplies, without rail communication with the rest of the Czechoslovakia, the Ruthenians are facing starvation. When snow blocks the passes in the higher valleys their plight will be critical, it is believed here.

Even if Ruthenia can hold out until next spring, there would be no secure future to look forward to. Its economic life depends on exchanges with the Hungarian plain—timber against wheat.

Political chaos is increasing in Ruthenia. The Ruthenians are said to be badly divided among themselves.

Guerrilla warfare is raging in the Carpathian valleys. Almost daily clashes occur between bands of Ruthenian and Hungarian irregulars or between irregulars and Czech or Hungarian regulars. So far there have been no clashes between Czech and Hungarian regulars. The Hungarians, however, are massing thousands of men close to the Ruthenian frontier. Neither Prague nor Budapest, in fact, knows exactly where that frontier is.

[Czechoslovakia yesterday reported terrorist bands from Hungary and Poland had caused six deaths in Ruthenia. Existence of a "revolt" as reported by Hungary and Poland was denied. A Budapest newspaper said thirty-nine police officers had been killed battling "rebels." Czech officials said reports of an uprising were efforts to make the world believe cession of Ruthenia to Hungary was a necessity.]

Obviously the situation is loaded with dynamite, but Budapest believes that before long the Czech regulars will withdraw and Hungarian troops will occupy the whole country without meeting serious resistance.

The Hungarians have promised the Ruthenians a generous measure of autonomy and are counting heavily on these promises to win over the bulk of the population. A plebiscite will be held to determine the future status of the territory.

In expectation of the great day when the Hungarian flag will float once more on the crest of the Carpathians, this whole country is living at a high pitch of patriotic excitement. The walls of Budapest are placarded with patriotic posters and proclamations, nearly every show window displays maps graphically illustrating the injustices done Hungary by the world war peace treaty.

Hungary Anxious to Annex Ruthenia

Hungary is preparing to annex what is left of Ruthenia (sub-Carpathian Russia) as indicated by dark area on map. Hungary already has annexed a big slice of Czechoslovakia as shown by diagonally lined area. Poland has promised Germany that elimination of Ruthenia, which would give Poland and Hungary a common frontier, will give Nazi armies a path to Russia. Forty-five deaths in Ruthenian disorders were reported yesterday. Thirty-nine Hungarian guards were reported killed battling "rebels" at Iza. Czechs blamed the disorders on Hungarian and Polish terrorist bands. The Czechoslovak lower house yesterday voted autonomy for Slovakia and Ruthenia.

GERMAN SOLDIERS DRIVE 30 JEWS INTO CZECH TERRITORY

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A German military patrol near Taus yesterday drove a group of thirty Jewish men across the new German-Czechoslovak frontier into Czechoslovak territory with threats they would be shot if they returned.

The refugees were stopped at the Taus railway station by the Czechoslovak police. They will remain in the custody of the Taus police over the week-end. It was believed they might be set free and not turned back to Germany.

The Jews, including several physicians and land owners, begged tearfully not to be sent back to death.

DECLARES GIRL FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE A SUICIDE

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 19.—(AP)—With the filing of a medical examiner's verdict that Elizabeth Dorr, 23 years old, Junior leaguer, was a "suicide by carbon monoxide gas poisoning," Police Captain Daniel F. McCarthy tonight announced the case was closed.

Elizabeth Dorr.

While expressing "surprise," Dr. C. J. Downey, in making the verdict, said he was satisfied with a state toxicologist's report on the cause of death.

Dressed in pajamas and a beach robe, Miss Dorr was found dead Thursday morning in the family garage. Detectives said they were puzzled, as the ignitions in two automobiles were shut off when they arrived. Detective William J. Hogan said the girl's father, Percy O. Dorr, an investment broker, told him he failed to notice "in the excitement" how the ignitions were when the body was found.

The medical examiner at first gave a tentative verdict of "suicide by an undetermined poison." Since then he learned the girl, a Smith college graduate, had attempted to take her life three weeks ago while visiting in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

An announcement from the governor's office said he selected one of the choicest varieties of edible soy beans from the University of Illinois for the dinner, sending with them some tested recipes worked out by the home economics department of the university.

BIBLE STUDENTS SMILE OVER NAZI BAN ON JEHOVAH

Find Christians, Not Jews, Coined the Word.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Dispatches last night from Germany saying that the name of Jehovah has been ordered erased from Protestant churches as another step toward taking Jewish elements out of Christianity, caused American Bible students to smile. Jehovah, they said, is a coined word, conceived by Christians, and is not Jewish.

In addition to the fact that the word was invented by medieval Christians, scholars pointed to latest views which hold that such supposed Hebrew elements as are in Jehovah probably came from the Horites, mentioned in Genesis xvi., 6, who were neither Hebrews nor Semites.

U. of C. Professor Quoted.

Prof. William Irwin of the University of Chicago said the Horites, now known as Hurrians, may have substituted the name for their God, probably a form of Jahveh, for the probably more ancient name of the Hebrew's God, Elohim. It was to Elohim, under the possessive form of the word Eloi, that Christ prayed when on the cross, Prof. Irwin said.

In view of the order of Friedrich Werner, president of supreme Evangelical church council of Germany to rub out "the name of the God of Israel" wherever displayed this has a humorous aspect, scholars said, explaining that the Nazis got mixed up on what names for God are really Jewish.

The demand that the German form of the word God, or Gott, be substituted, they added, is also humorous. Prof. Ernest C. Colwell of the University of Chicago explained that God is not a proper name in its origin, but a common noun. Gott, the scholars said, might mean Thor, Wotan, Jahveh, Jehovah, Elohim, Christ, or even Hitler.

Jahweh Spelled JHVH.

Prof. Irwin explained that the Hebrew language was composed only of consonants, that the Hurrian name Jahweh was spelled JHVH. Reverence for JHVH came to be so great that it was not pronounced at all, but the Hebrew word Adonai, Lord, was substituted for it. When the Christian Bible was completed the two words, JHVH and Adonai were coined into one word with the vowel sounds of the latter put into the ancient Horite name.

This vocalization of the word, Prof. Irwin said, occurred centuries after Christ's birth and some time before 900 A. D.

The Werner order included the demand that the names of Hebrew prophets be eliminated. The action was termed a sequel to threats in parts of Saxony that Christian churches permitting such names to remain would be burned, as were Jewish synagogues last week. Dispatches said that the order is not believed by theologians to have the force of law, but that many pastors would conform. Confessional Evangelical Lutheran pastors, who are fighting for freedom of creed, were expected to refuse to obey it.

15,000 JEWS LOSE JOBS UNDER NEW DECREE IN ITALY

One in Each Family Out of Work.

ROME, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Italy's new racial laws were said to have resulted in the discharge of 15,000 Jews from government and private jobs in the last few days. The laws are expected to reduce most of Italy's Jewish bread winners to the position of small tradesmen.

Since the government has estimated Italy's 57,425 Jews are in approximately 15,000 families, estimates of the newly unemployed Jews indicated an average of one per family has lost his job.

Usually reliable private sources reporting the action said it was in compliance with the decree of Nov. 10. That decree excluded Jews from government positions, restricted their businesses and professions, and forbade their marriage to Italian "Aryans."

Are Entitled to Month's Pay.

Virtually the only occupations left open to Jews are the operation of small businesses and manual labor. Presumably the 15,000 now are looking for those types of work. The Italian press noted that few Jews are laborers.

Immediate economic distress of the displaced Jews was believed averted by a provision that discharged Jews are to receive the usual legal indemnity of one month's salary for every year of service and pensions where they have earned them.

Discuss Marriage Ban.

Also seeking new jobs are an undetermined number of non-Jewish servants of Jewish families, who no longer may employ "Aryan" domestics. Police in the last few days visited some of Rome's Jewish households to notify servants they must quit their jobs at once.

Another phase of the new racial laws, the marriage provisions, was reported to be the subject of negotiations by Father Pietro Tacchi-Venturi, rector of Rome's Church of Jesus and a noted peacemaker between the Fascist government and the church.

Father Tacchi-Venturi, it was reported, is seeking a solution of the dispute over the ban on marriages between "Aryan" and "non-Aryan" Italians. Pope Pius himself personally protested against the ban in letters to both Premier Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy.

2 SECTIONS OF CZECH REPUBLIC GRANTED POLITICAL FREEDOM

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The lower house of the Czechoslovak parliament today voted autonomy for Slovakia and Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia].

The autonomy program is expected to result next week in the establishment of a federal Czech-Slovak state. The senate will pass on the autonomy laws Tuesday, and Frantisek Chvalkovsky, now foreign minister, is expected to be elected president of the transformed state later in the week. He is the only candidate.

The new federal state will consist of three autonomous parts: Bohemia-Moravia, Slovakia, and Ruthenia. Under the new constitution parliament will have little occasion to meet in view of an "enabling act" to be passed next week granting extraordinary powers to president and cabinet. The legislative body will not be dissolved, however.

EUROPE RESISTS HITLER'S DRIVE TO GET COLONIES

New Crisis Seen Nearing Exploding Point.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Europe apparently is moving toward another explosion over the problem of awarding Reichsfuehrer Hitler colonies in Africa.

With the propaganda machine of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels turning the matter into a major issue of German prestige, the situation admittedly is dangerous.

Opinion has outwardly stiffened here and in France against any plan which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain may have had about satisfying Hitler's demands for land in Africa. At the same time the Portuguese and Belgians have taken a resolute stand against the proposal of Oswald Pirow, defense minister of the Union of South Africa, to create a composite colony for Hitler out of pieces of the Cameroons, Togoland, Angola, Urundi, and Uganda to which all would contribute.

Watch Flirtations in Germany.

All sorts of speculation has been aroused by Pirow's visit to Europe and all eyes in Europe now are watching his flirtations with Nazi officials during his present visit in Germany.

It is feared that something may be in the process of being cooked up directly between South Africa and Germany over the heads of the British government.

Pirow is a son of a German and at one time was a vehement republican although he has become a loyal advocate for dominion status of South Africa.

Rumors about Pirow's intentions to come to terms directly with Hitler were somewhat set at rest by Gen. Jan C. Smuts, South Africa's minister of justice. He denied any deal with Germany and said that Pirow was in Europe to buy more planes and means of defense from British manufacturers. This statement seems to have put an end for the moment to reports that South Africa would remain neutral in a war involving England.

South Africa Ready to Fight.

Gen. Smuts said that if there were a war South Africa would not be able to keep out. He added that in a conflict South Africa "will defend South Africa, including Southwest Africa, to the bitter end."

This apparently means that the Union of South Africa is determined to hold Southwest Africa, a former German colony which was given to the Union of South Africa under a league of nations mandate. Although the Union of South Africa is one of the dominions, it is, nevertheless, a sovereign state and any attempt to bargain with Germany without its consent might have disastrous effects on the British commonwealth.

During conversations at Godesburg, Germany, Hitler told Chamberlain that the problem of colonies was awkward but it would not lead to another German mobilization. Yet since that time the Germans have been agitating for revision of the colonial question.

Wants All Lost Colonies.

Several of Hitler's spokesmen have made it clear that the Fuehrer will not be satisfied with anything less than unconditional restoration of all territory taken away from Germany after the war and that he expects Britain to make the first move in that direction.

The British position is that they are ready to make concessions—probably of Portuguese and Belgian possessions—but cannot interfere with the affairs of the Union of South Africa. Without the Union's consent, the former German Southwest Africa cannot be restored to Germany.

Cuban Beauties Arrive for Visit

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

On the heels of the visit of Cuba's strong man, Col. Fulgencio Batista, three winners of beauty prizes in the island republic sailed into New York. The one in the center, Dora Cueva, is known as the girl with the midnight eyes. Her companions are Olga Ramos (left), a clever rhumba dancer, and Grace Santi.

7 CRIPPLED BOYS DROWN AS AUTO DIVES OFF ROAD

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Seven crippled boys and a young man who was driving them to a clinic drowned today when their automobile plunged into thirty feet of water in a hole caused by a mine cave-in.

The car plowed through a barrier at the cave-in and fell into the hole, which was 100 feet in diameter.

The dead, all from Wilkes-Barre or vicinity, were William McIntosh, 23 years old, the driver; Gerald Altavilla and Vincent Wajers, both 10; Frank Yankosky, 7; Francis Zionkoski, 11; John Pomionek, 9; Edward Pomionek, 7, his brother, and Lawrence Dress, 12.

The bodies were identified by Miss Miriam Velasco, executive secretary of the Wyoming Valley Crippled Children's association.

A railroad crane on tracks adjoining the hole pulled the car to the surface. All the bodies were inside, the position of some indicating that the boys had made a frantic struggle to escape.

The cave-in was caused by a mine settlement three months ago. A heavy rain yesterday softened the crumbling earth and deepened the water in the hole. The mine has not been used for three years.

FLAMES CAUSE $10,000 LOSS TO 'HAUNTED' HOUSE

The old "haunted" Hoffman house at 216 Keystone avenue, River Forest, was damaged by fire of mysterious origin yesterday. Firemen worked six hours to put the flames out. One fireman, Frank Schoff, was injured when the roof of a porch collapsed. Damage was estimated at more than $10,000.

The house has been vacant twelve years, but partly filled with furnishings, many antique, of its last owners. A few years ago the house was thoroughly searched on rumors $100,000 was hidden in it. No money was found. New owners recently purchased the place, it is said, announcing they planned to remodel it at a cost of $21,000.

WIFE IN TORTURE CASE TESTIFIES SHE WAS RAPED

Accuses Friend of Her Doctor Husband.

Olympia, Wash., Nov. 19.—(AP)—White faced and trembling, Mrs. Elizabeth Kevin Berry, 27 years old, swore from the witness stand today she was violated by Irving Baker, former coast guard officer, whom her husband, Dr. Kent W. Berry, is accused of abducting and torturing.

Mrs. Elizabeth Berry after testifying.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Berry said the attack occurred on a lonely road early on the morning of last July 5. She testified that Baker volunteered to take her home from a July Fourth party near Olympia.

She related that about a quarter of a mile from the cabin he turned into the side road and raped her in his automobile.

Doctor Weeps During Testimony.

Dr. Berry wept during his wife's testimony. On cross-examination J. W. Graham, assistant prosecutor, tried to get Mrs. Berry to admit she had made advances to Baker, but she denied it. Then Graham tried to get her to admit she had not resisted Baker.

"I slapped him and hit him as many times as I could," she said. "I screamed many times for help."

Her husband, Dr. Berry, 50 years old, on the stand in his own defense yesterday, collapsed in tears after testifying that he planned to beat up Baker, a family friend, for raping his wife.

Pleads No Recollection.

However, the defendant, a socially prominent physician, swore that he had no recollection of torturing Baker or of trying to emasculate him with a pair of plyers.

Baker, who also testified yesterday before the prosecution closed its case, denied repeatedly that he attacked Mrs. Berry.

Three other men are on trial with her husband, charged with kidnaping and torturing Baker the night of Aug. 19. They are William McAloon, James Reddick, and Robert H. Smith, accused by the state of aiding Berry to drive Baker to a lonely spot near Olympia where the brutal beating was administered.

ROOSEVELT PLAN TO AID REFUGEES MEETS CRITICISM

Fear Proposal Will Upset Immigration Policies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Congressional leaders today voiced fears that liberalization of United States immigration laws to help Jewish refugees might cause an upset of this nation's settled immigration policies. They objected to any removal of quota restrictions which would aggravate unemployment and relief problems here.

Congressman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] chairman of the house committee investigating unAmerican activities, said that President Roosevelt is proposing a violation of the immigration law in his plan to have the state department extend visas indefinitly for Germans and Austrians who are in this country and are afraid to go home.

Dies said he did not believe the law gave the President power to go beyond the quota limits and grant indefinite stays to foreigners.

Borah Adds Warning.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] added his warning against a suggestion made yesterday by President Roosevelt, who said immigration laws might be changed by the next congress to aid refugee Jews from Germany and Austria.

Borah predicted that any attempt by the President to let down the immigration bars would arouse opposition in and out of congress. Borah has been a powerful influence in deciding the international policies of the United States for thirty years.

"I imagine congress will be reluctant to 'liberalize' any of the immigration laws," said Senator Borah. "I think rather there will be a strong movement to tighten them. I do not believe it is desirable to change the laws at this time. Any change would be wholly inadequate of real relief, and I think any change in the law is purely a question for congress to decide. I don't believe the executive branch has any authority in the matter."

Roosevelt Asks Prayers.

President Roosevelt gave further recognition to the plight of Jews in Europe today when he called upon the nation to offer a prayer for unfortunates in other lands. He issued a proclamation designating Nov. 24 as Thanksgiving day.

"Our fathers set aside such a day as they hewed the nation from the primeval forest," the President said. "The observance was consecrated when George Washington issued a Thanksgiving proclamation in the first year of his presidency.

"For the blessings which have been ours during the present year we have ample cause to be thankful. Our lands have yielded a goodly harvest, and the toiler in shop and mill receives a most just return for his labor. We have cherished and preserved our democracy. We have lived in peace and understanding with our neighbors and have seen the world escape the impending disaster of a general war. In the time of our fortune it is fitting that we offer prayers for unfortunate people in other lands who are in dire distress at this thanksgiving season."

Lists Reasons for Thanks.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Gov. Henry Horner's annual Thanksgiving day proclamation was issued today from his office here. It said:

"We in Illinois have much for which to be thankful. Our fertile, unfailing countryside again has brought forth a bountiful yield of grain and all necessary articles of food. At a time when many of the earth's peoples stand fearful in the presence of harsh and unfriendly forces, our state and nation are secure. Coveting nothing that belongs to others, we are conscious of the strength to defend what rightly is ours."

A petition for release of three of four men arrested by Austin police for questioning in connection with the murder of Policeman John A. Olson was filed in the Criminal court yesterday. Acting Chief Justice Robert J. Dunne continued the hearing until tomorrow.

Attorney Bernard J. McDonnell, who apepared for the prisoners, was given permission to talk with them at the station. Later he charged that one of them had been beaten by the police. He sent telegrams to Commissioner Allman, State's Attorney Courtney, and Capt. George Lynch that he would ask for a full investigation by the court.

Jerry Catenazzo, 28 years old, 1340 Erie street, the prisoner alleged to have been beaten, was taken to the Bridewell hospital for examination. The others held were Michael Catenazzo, 22, of 515 North Wood street; a cousin; Rudolph Stefanick, 21, of 1746 Grand avenue, and John Flaherty, 25, of 1628 Ohio street.

JAPANESE CLAIM 200,000 CHINESE MENACE YANGTZE

Give This Reason for Ban on Foreign Shipping.

(Turn to today's Graphic Section for the colorfully illustrated story of the part played by a geisha girl in the establishment of diplomatic and commercial relations between the United States and Japan more than 80 years ago.)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A Japanese spokesman said today that despite more than a year of Japanese operations in the Yangtze river valley, more than 200,000 Chinese guerrilla troops and bandits were operating between Shanghai and Nanking.

He cited this as the reason for the virtual blockade of the river against non-Japanese shipping. The presence of the guerrillas, he said, made river trafic dangerous and required constant military attention.

The spokesman's estimate of the number of Chinese irregulars was at a rate of about 500 for each mile of both banks of the Yangtze between Shanghai and Nanking. The spokesman asserted the movement of foreign ships would interfere with mopping up operations. He expressed the suspicion that the guerrillas might get munitions and other supplies if third power vessels were permitted to go upstream.

Give Dates of Jap Shipping.

Foreign shipping circles, meanwhile, furnished the names of Japanese vessels, the dates of their passage in the Yangtze, and the nature of their cargoes imported and exported.

Questioned in a press conference on these and other phases of the shipping situation, the spokesman finally made this flat statement: "The Japanese control the Yangtze and are using it for military operations."

Meanwhile, Chinese armies appeared to have fought the invaders to a standstill, at least temporarily, on the Canton, or South China, and the Changsha, or Hunan province, fronts. Japanese announcements sidestepped any claims of advances in either section.

Try to Mop Up Chinese Force.

The Japanese have pushed their central front into Hunan province, at a point about 150 miles south of Hankow and forty miles north of Changsha since Hankow fell on Oct. 26.

East of Hankow and southeast along the Yangtze the Japanese were attempting to mop up remnants of the army that failed to block their entry into Hankow after Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese commander in chief, withdrew his main forces.

On the South China front, ranging from east to northeast of Canton, the Japanese said they controled all territory within a radius of from twenty to forty miles about Canton.

FOREIGN AGENTS DIGEST LATEST U.S. AIR ADVANCES

Show Interest in American Technical Development.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

(The United States army's plans for the largest airplane ever built are told in today's Graphic Section.)

Indications of the international interest in American aeronautical achievements and technical development were to be seen here Friday and yesterday at the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences discussions on problems of the air transportation industry. The meetings were held in the Morrison hotel.

Some 200 of the country's best airmen, most famous aeronautical engineers, and airplane and engine manufacturers attended. Important technical disclosures were made in connection with studies of airplanes, airplane instruments—particularly the new radio altimeter—aero motors, and flight procedures.

The international flavor was given to the meeting by the presence of the air attachés of four European nations, a representative of Amtork Trading corporation who also is a Russian aero engineer, and an aeronautical expert from the Mitsubishi company, greatest military airplane and engine manufacturing company of Japan.

Stenographers Keep Busy.

S. Shumovsky, the Amtorg agent, sat down in the front row of the audience in the hotel casino with a stenotype operator beside him. The girl's fingers flew during the reading of every paper and the discussion that followed. Every word spoken from the floor or the speaker's platform was recorded.

High up, near the rim of the bowl-like casino, Tsutomu Kamijo from the Mitsubishi company's plants at Nagoya, Japan, sat immobile throughout the meetings. But beside him a pair of his secretaries or assistants made mountainous piles of notes in a delicate Japanese shorthand.

G. C. Pirie, air attaché of the British embassy in Washington, lounged with A. Woods Humphrey, formerly chief of Imperial Airways, who is visiting in the United States. Louis Giusta, air corps engineer for the French Army of the Air, sat with a notebook open on his knee making occasional notations.

Peter Riedel, assistant to the air attaché at the German embassy and a former transport flyer on the Scadta lines in South America, listened intently or exchanged a whispered sentence with friends. Riedel, one of the world's greatest soaring pilots, has been in the United States for two years and is well known and liked by pilots from coast to coast.

Gets Copies From Authors.

His system of covering the meetings, he confessed to friends, was to obtain copies of the papers that were read from the authors themselves. This system also was adopted by A. Chraniec, military attaché of the Polish embassy at Washington, who also was present at every meeting.

Maj. Lester D. Gardner, an official of the institute, pointed out that the attachés and other foreign guests at the meetings had registered openly. He said the meetings had aroused the interest of other governments for years, and that attendance of foreign representatives was a usual occurrence.

The meeting during the morning and afternoon yesterday dealt with highly technical aspects of flight procedure, of radio communications and of instrument and radio blind landing technique.

81, SHE BREAKS HIP, BUT SEES TO IT DOG GETS CARE

Mrs. Florence Filkins, 81 years old, was more concerned about her pet Boston bull dog than herself yesterday when she was taken to the Henrotin hospital. Mrs. Filkins suffered a broken hip when she fell while boarding a street car at State and Erie streets. She told Policeman George Lend she really shouldn't stay at the hospital because the dog was awaiting her return home at 119 West Erie street. But when Policeman Lend assured her he would see that a neighbor cared for the pet until her recovery, she agreed to stay for treatment.

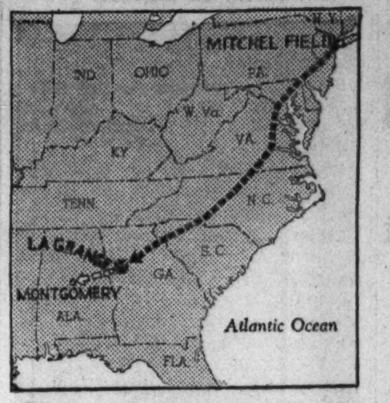
Fatal Plane Crash Hurls Motor Great Distance



Route of the plane which crashed near Lagrange, Ga. (cross), with loss of seven lives.

TELLS OF ARMY BOMBERS'S CRASH WHEN SEVEN DIED

Flyer Says Plane Hit Trees in Rain.

Lagrange, Ga., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A dying member of the crew of an army bomber which crashed in flames last night, killing seven of the eight aboard, gave information which will help army officials to determine the cause of the disaster.

The dead included five of the six members of the crew and two military passengers. The eighth man aboard is near death from injuries.

The plane was on a routine flight from Mitchel field, New York, to Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala. Most of the trip was made in the rain, which was general last night over the southeastern part of the United States. Private Joseph Nanartowich gave the information which Maj. W. O. Maxwell, operations manager of Maxwell field, said may aid in solving the crash.

No Mechanical Defects.

"We were flying low to get under the ceiling," Nanartowich told Maj. Maxwell a few minutes before he died in a Lagrange hospital. "It was raining. Suddenly we hit a rough spot and bounced. Next thing I knew we were plowing through the trees. There were no mechanical defects so far as I could tell."

The rough spot to which Nanartowich referred was believed to have been a downward current of air. These currents are encountered frequently when flying over rough country and forests.

The scene of the crash was seven miles northeast of Lagrange and could be reached by rescuers only after wading ankle deep in mud that covered a two mile lane from the main road.

Find Two Still Alive.

When rescuers reached the burning plane they found Nanartowich and Lieut. John D. Madre alive. Stretcher bearers started back to Lagrange with them at once. Lieut. Madre still was clinging to life tonight, although unconscious.

The dead members of the crew were Lieut. Robert R. McKechnie of Cleveland, O., Robert K. Black of Meridian, Ga.; Lieut. Allen M. Howery of Russellville, Tenn, and Sergt. Harry T. Jones of Hempstead, N. Y.

The two dead passengers were Lieut. James W. Stewart of East Orange, N. J., who was returning to his station at Randolph field, Tex., and Corporal J. E. Galloway of Sulphur Springs, Tex., who was returning to his station in Dallas.

Traveling 200 Miles an Hour.

Army officers estimated the plane was traveling 200 miles an hour when it struck the trees. Trees as large as 15 inches in diameter were snapped off for a distance of 500 feet and one of the plane's two engines was thrown clear of the woods to the edge of a corn field.

The plane was heard circling Lagrange about 11 o'clock last night. It was believed the pilot was looking for an emergency landing field. Nearly two hours later a colored share cropper made his way through the mud into town and told of the crash near his home.

The plane was one of the newest type bombers to be delivered to the air corps. It was the military conception of the DC-3 airliner used by commercial companies. It was designed to carry bombs in the fuselage and mounted machine guns fore and aft.

Seizes Alleged Pickpocket in Oak Park Business Area

Isadore Sacks, 45 years old, was seized as a pickpocket suspect last night at Lake and Marion streets, in the heart of Oak Park's business district. His captor was Jack Mason, 60 years old, 501 Elgin avenue, Forest Park. Mason was boarding a bus when, he said, he felt a hand at his pocket. He turned and Sacks fled. Mason chased Sacks and caught him, but he slipped out of his overcoat and ran again. Mason nabbed him the second time. Police quoted him as admitting he had been arrested more than thirty times as a pickpocket suspect, but he denied trying to pick Mason's pocket.

CITY OF FLOATING ISLANDS A BEAUTY SPOT IN MEXICO

Founded Centuries Ago by Banished Tribe.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17 [By Air Mail].—Of the numerous points of interest to tourists outside Mexico City proper by far the most unique is presented by Xochimilco, twenty miles to the south. It is the site of the floating gardens.

In the dim dark years before Cortes' invasion of this country, so history and fable go, one tribe of nomad Indians got the upper hand of another tribe and banished their victims to the swamp lands—a piece of land about twenty-five miles long and five miles wide—for the purpose of extinguishing their opponents by starvation.

Victims Build a Homeland.

The victims proved too energetic to starve. Instead of giving up the ghost and quitting, they went to work, divided the territory into sections, laid out and excavated—or rather dredged—streets and put the muck onto the lots.

Today those streets, or canals as they actually are, furnish the transportation arteries for perhaps the richest small pieces of land in the country.

The canals generally are about fifteen feet wide and four feet deep. The islands go up about four feet above the water and are flat on top. These little islands, cut up like city blocks, furnish all the vegetables and flowers used by Mexico City.

Natives Are Unspoiled.

The history and commercial value of the layout are of small value to the average tourist visiting them on Sunday. The festive spirit of Latin America is out in force. Flowers of every color and shade furnish the background. Rowboats or canoes seating anywhere from two to thirty persons, and all dressed up like a Fourth of July parade, float about in the canals.

Perhaps the greatest charm in the place is that the natives are still controlable. The tourists haven't spoiled them. As one rents a float for a ride through the canals the first impression is of the deftness displayed by the youngsters rowing the boats. They get them in and out of tight places with little effort.

The waters are filled with every conceivable kind of peddler's boat. Some carry little stoves cooking hot dogs and potatoes, some offer cold drinks.

Dance Places Dot Isles.

But the prettiest, of course, are those piled high with flowers.

All, naturally, try to make a sale, but they are not obnoxious if no interest is expressed.

Many little dime a dance places spot the sides of the canals, so if romantic couples tire of the water they may tie up and dance awhile. Music can be heard on the water. Little flatboats carrying musicians are looking for business.

Adjoining the gardens are other forms of amusements and pastimes. Horseback riding is popular. Neither horses nor riders are exciting.

Beautiful dense forests are near by.

Farmers Live in Grass Huts.

The Mexico City Country club is about midway between the gardens and the city. It has an atmosphere of Florida. A snappy orchestra plays during lunch. Half a mile away farmers live in grass huts about ten feet square with cornstalk roofs. Corn and beans are the chief crops.

A magnificent monument to the late President Alvaro Obregon is seen near the city. It was erected on the exact spot where the assassin asked permission to paint his picture during a luncheon and killed him instead. The two bullets taken from Obregon's body are in a glass case within the monument.

Gen. Obregon traveled with from ten to twenty bodyguards. The present president, Lazaro Cardenas, travels with none. A revolution is not expected in Mexico, although a few disgruntled politicians may like one. The situation is well in hand.

After 56 Years

Mrs. James White and her brother, Frank Danner, at dinner after seeing each other for the first time since 1882.

A sister and a brother were reunited in Chicago yesterday after a separation of fifty-six years. They are Mrs. James White, 70 years old, 5823 Magnolia avenue, and Frank Danner, 75, a farmer of Raymond, Minn.

They had last seen each other in Freiburg, Germany, in 1882 when Danner, as a young man of 19, left for America. His sister followed a few years later. They settled in different communities, but corresponded for a time.

Eventually Mrs. White and Danner lost track of each other. His last known address was Garner, Ia. Last year Mrs. White's son, C. J. Young, local manager of the American Express company, went to Iowa to trace Danner. After a year's investigation and with the aid of the postoffice Young found Danner at Raymond. The reunion was celebrated last night with a sightseeing tour and a dinner in a loop restaurant.

EGYPT'S BOY KING PLEDGES NATION TO REARMAMENT

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 19.—(AP)—King Farouk, opening a new session of Egypt's parliament today, dedicated his nation to an extensive rearmament program as a sequel to the September crisis in Europe.

The king, who is 18 years old and who became a father on Thursday, was cheered as he drove from his palace to the chamber of deputies. His opening speech there was read by the premier.

The speech said the Egyptian air force would be strengthened considerably, a naval fleet created and munitions and other factories established to make the country independent in producing war materials in time of emergency. A new recruiting bill was disclosed which would require all Egyptians to serve three years in the nation's armed forces.

Egypt already had announced expenditure of $12,500,000 for national defense in the current year. It hopes to attain a standing army of at least 50,000 men this year.

DIES OF HEAD INJURY.

Roger Bourke, 63 years old, 440 South Clark street, died yesterday in the County hospital of a head injury suffered Oct. 12, presumably in a fall.

NAVY LETS 3 NEW SHIP CONTRACTS FOR 200 MILLION

4th Battleship Is Held Up to Improve Design.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The navy department today announced the award of contracts for three new battleships to cost more than 200 million dollars.

Secretary Swanson.

Secretary of Navy Claude A. Swanson announced that plans for construction of a fourth battleship are being held back pending a further study of design and construction.

One battleship, designated as No. 58, will be constructed in the yards of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company at Newport News, Va. The company bid $49,540,000 for the job, subject to adjustments for increased labor and material costs.

This contract provides that the government will furnish the main propelling machinery, which the shipbuilder will install.

Finished Cost 70 Millions.

The armament and other items which the government will furnish will bring the total cost of the vessel to over 70 million dollars.

The second battleship, No. 59, will be built in the yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation of Quincy, Mass. This contract was awarded on a bid of $49,815,000 and provides that the company shall furnish the main propelling machinery.

The third, No. 60, a capital ship, will be constructed in the Norfolk, Va., navy yard.

The contract awards for these three new dreadnaughts and the impending start on a fourth vessel marked the second stage of the navy's rearmament program. The first stage began with the laying of the keels of two battleships, now on the ways, during the year. This marked the first battleship construction by this country since the Washington and London limitation treaties.

Two More Proposed.

The 1939-'40 naval appropriation, upon which President Roosevelt is working with the navy high command, is expected to provide funds for a start on two more capital ships. This would put eight battleships under construction to replace ageing ships now in the fleet. All eight probably would not be in service until 1944 or 1945, as it requires four years to construct and place this type of vessel in commission.

Battleships	15	2	17
Heavy cruisers	17	1	18
Light cruisers	15	4	19
Aircraft carriers	5	1	6
Destroyers	112	34	146
Submarines	53	11	64
Mine layers	1	0	1
Light mine layers	4	0	4
Gunboats	6	0	6
Patrol vessels	21	0	21
Auxiliaries	94	2	96
Unclassified	13	0	13

Under construction plans, the older vessels are to be retired as soon as new ships are commissioned. The eight proposed battleships would swell the fleet by only three vessels. The other five capital ships would replace outmoded craft.

Swanson Outlines Policies.

"Few Americans who have given any serious thought to the navy and its responsibilities will question the wisdom of the policy of a United States navy second to none," Secretary Swanson said today.

"Neither will they question the two principle reasons for maintaining such a navy—'to support the national policies and commerce' and 'to guard the continental and overseas possessions of the United States.'

"It is emphasized that a navy cannot be created for a considerable time after the outbreak of war. Furthermore, the navy does not expect and would greatly deplore an international building race.

"The policy of the navy is to gain an authorized strength by a slow, orderly, progressive building program. This method is efficient and economical, for it permits the benefits of research and experimentation with previous types to be analyzed and studied in order to gain the lessons for utilization in modern construction."

Flames in Melrose Park Store Cause Heavy Loss

Fire of undetermined origin did thousands of dollars damage to the Home Department store, 151-53 Broadway, Melrose Park, early today. Fire Chief Anthony Prignano called on the Oak Park and Maywood fire departments for assistance. The flames swept through both floors of the store, destroyed part of the roof, and destroyed or damaged most of the merchandise.

SANTA ARRIVES WITH BUSINESS BOOM IN HIS BAG

Chicago Gets Early Start on Christmas Buying.

but the Association of Commerce and the State Street council decided to give the early shoppers a little better chance this year.

As usual, the store toy departments found the older children and the adults more interested in new mechanical gadgets.

No suggestions seemed necessary to the eager eyed boys and girls who overran the toy departments. Train sections became Grand Central stations, with shiny streamliners roaring up and down the tracks.

Army's on the March.

A motorized army, with searchlights, anti-aircraft guns, and a fleet of tanks was held at bay by a mounted "Big Bertha" in the hands of a 12 year old boy as his mother stood by breathlessly remonstrating. Above the din mysterious airplanes skimmed through the air, held aloft by a magic wand.

In the bicycle and skate departments new clerks had strained diplomatic relations with young customers who insisted on learning to balance a two-wheeler on the spot.

"What's it good for, if not to ride?" remarked one youth in disgust as his hands were firmly removed from the handlebars. "Gee, how'm I gonna learn?"

And department managers, surveying them all, murmured patiently, "Only thirty-six more days till Christmas!"

The first Christmas trees, from Whitedale, Mich., arrived over the Soo railroad line. They are not to be offered to the public; even the most enthusiastic don't care to decorate theirs yet.

Will Decorate State Street.

Instead the branches of the evergreens are to be made into wreaths nine and half feet in diameter, to be placed on the light standards along State street, from Lake street to Congress street. There they will remain from Dec. 1 to New Year's day. A white taper, ten feet high and a foot in diameter, will pierce the center of each wreath. This system of decoration was evolved by John Root, the architect, and E. D. Tillsen, lighting expert.

ARLETTE G. ABELL BECOMES BRIDE OF J. W. MARTINE

Miss Arlette Giffert Abell, a model, and James Weckler Martine, Chicago insurance man, were married last night in the First Methodist church, Elgin.

Miss Abell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Abell of Elgin. Mr. Martine is the son of Mrs. Edwina M. Weckler, and is associated with her in the Martine Dancing school.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John C. Spencer. Mrs. Wade Patterson of Mason City, Ia., sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Edwin Weckler, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. The newlyweds will live at 1048 Foster avenue.

NEW WATERWAY FREIGHT RECORD SET THIS YEAR

Sanitary Canal Handles 2,750,000 Tons.

When the last barge slips through the locks this year, freight trafic on the Illinois waterway will have set a new record, war department engineers estimated yesterday. The engineers also are predicting tonnage records for the upper Mississippi river locks.

Trafic over the Chicago Sanitary and Ship canal, that section of the Illinois waterway between Lockport and Damen avenue, is expected to total 2,750,000 tons, according to Capt. S. N. Karrick, United States divisional engineer for the Chicago district. This would be 10 per cent ahead of 1937 and double the volume for 1936.

Coal and Grain Increase.

Increases in shipments of coal and grain have more than offset declines in some other commodities. Grain shipments increased from 64,117 tons in the first eight months of 1937 to 340,035 tons in the 1938 period. It is expected that total coal shipments for 1938 will be near the million ton mark.

Shipments of coal, during the first eight months of this year, totaled 536,146 tons. This was 80 per cent more than the corresponding period in 1937. In 1936, coal was a negligible river freight item.

The most remarkable increase in freight tonnage has been in coal shipments from Illinois mines to Chicago consuming plants. It has been found that this coal can be shipped to Chicago docks at savings in freight rates of 40 to 65 cents a ton. This advantage, because of freight charges from the docks, accrues only to those concerns situated adjacent to the waterway.

Capt. Karrick also estimates that the through freight trafic coming all the way up the waterway from Grafton, at the mouth of the Illinois river, to Lockport, will approximate 2,000,000 tons. This would be a gain of more than 20 per cent over the 1,639,363 tons carried in 1937.

Mississippi Load Trebles.

Engineers of the Mississippi river Rock Island district, at the Rock Island arsenal, estimated that trafic this year will be three times that carried in 1937, which had twice the tonnage of any previous year. They base their estimates on the tonnage for October and the totals for the season to date.

Petroleum products lead the list of commodities in that district of the Mississippi, a stretch of 358 miles. Coal is second, and corn, most of which moves south, is third. Southbound shipments are expected to increase later. It was reported that private petroleum companies anticipate the building of tank barges with deck tracks for loaded trailers.

Asks $200,000 for Injuries in 'L' Crash That Killed 11

Richard T. Pryor yesterday filed suit for $200,000 damages in the Circuit court for injuries allegedly received Nov. 24, 1936, when a North Shore electric line train crashed into an "L" train at the Granville avenue station killing eleven persons. The suit was filed against the North Shore Line, the Rapid Transit company, and the Milwaukee railroad, said to own that section of the elevated track. Pryor formerly lived at 1033 Loyola avenue. His attorney refused to disclose his present address.

INSPECT LABORATORIES.

New laboratories of the Northwestern university school of engineering were inspected yesterday by students from fourteen high schools in Chicago and the north shore suburbs.

OVERRULE FARM CONFISCATION IN SEIZURE OF STILL

Court Limits Forfeit to Distillery Area.

If there is an illegal distillery on a farm, the federal government can seize the still. It can also take away from its owner such part of the property as is used for distilling purposes. But the government cannot take the whole farm on the theory that the land is all part of a distillery.

This opinion was given in a decision yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The three judges ordered a new trial for John Jursich, whose 151 acre farm in McHenry county was awarded to the government by a jury in the federal court. Jursich and his daughter Elinor, who live now at 5525 Agatite avenue, had appealed from the lower court's decree.

Seize 1,700 Gallon Still.

Alcohol agents raided the Jursich place in April, 1937. They found a 1,700 gallon still in a barn. The suit for forfeiture of the whole property was then started. Jursich's defense was that he had no knowledge of the operation of the still.

The Circuit court held that the jury could hardly have decided, on the evidence, that Jursich had no guilty knowledge. The judges, however, said they were convinced that the application of the law in regard to the extent of the seizure was too broad.

Under the seizure statute, the government is permitted to take the "lot or tract of land on which such distillery is situated." The government's legal experts contended that this made the whole farm seizable. One argument was, that with a still of such large size, the whole farm was a part of the mechanism of concealment.

Call Interpretation Too Literal.

The Appeals court, however, declared that such literal construction of the language of the statute would "lead to consequences unreasonable and never intended." It pointed out that if a 151 acre farm could be seized, one three times as large could be similarly treated. It added that the justices were not impressed with the notion that a big still necessarily had to have much land for concealment.

In the order for a new trial, the justices specified that the government should show by direct testimony how much of the property involved was actually used for the illegal distilling.

The opinion was written by Judge J. Earl Major, and was concurred in by Judges Will M. Sparks and Evan A. Evans.

SUN BATHES LAKE AIRPORT SITE AS HAZE GRIPS CITY

Island Field Proponents Cite New Argument.

A pall of smoke and haze that kept the loop area darkened until nearly noon and seriously interfered with flight operations from the city airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue, yesterday demonstrated to Chicagoans one important reason for building a downtown air terminal on the lake front.

The smoke, pushed to the southwest by light northeast winds, blanketed the city's airport so that visibility on the ground was limited at one time to half a mile. This forced all planes arriving or departing from the field to fly by instruments and radio signals, and caused pilots to obey special safety trafic rules drawn up for such conditions.

Lake Front Free of Haze.

During the same period, however, observers found the city's lake shore entirely free from the haze and smoke. Visibility along the shore line was unlimited and bright sunshine made the day cheerful there. Official weather observers said that the haze line extended no farther east than Michigan avenue.

"This is not an unusual condition in Chicago," said C. A. Donnel, official forecaster for the United States weather bureau. "The city's usual outpouring of smoke was trapped under a layer of warm air at 500 feet and pressed down on the city streets.

"The smoke was forced to the southwest by the northeast winds of two or three miles an hour."

The forecaster said that the ground temperatures during the early morning was about 35 degrees and this temperature during the early mornthat height there was a layer of air 38 degrees in temperature. The colder smoke-filled air could not rise through this warm layer and float away as usual.

Didn't Vanish Until 10 A. M.

Not until after 10 o'clock, when the air at the surface warmed up to 42 degrees, was the smoke dissipated.

City engineers and aeronautical experts pointed to the situation as evidence that a downtown terminal airport is needed. If such a field had existed yesterday airliners approaching it would have found the way perfectly clear, despite the instrument weather conditions at what is now Chicago airport.

Civil aeronautics authority engineers will begin tomorrow to redesign plans drawn up in 1933 for a lake front field on a man-made island in Chicago harbor. Within the next month Works Progress administration and CAA authorities will meet with Mayor Kelly to consider methods of obtaining federal assistance to help the city build the field.

Pall Over Loop an Argument for Lake Front Airport

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A striking photo showing how dense smoke and fog extended to Michigan avenue yesterday, the lake front remaining clear. Advocates of a lake front airport pointed out that under such conditions, not rare in Chicago, airplanes could have landed near downtown area without difficulty.

OPERA'S REVIVAL OF "TURANDOT" IS ELECTRIFYING

Chinese Extravaganza Thrills Spectators.

"TURANDOT."

Posthumous opera in three acts and five scenes by Giacomo Puccini, completed by Franco Alfano. Libretto by Giuseppe Adami and Renato Simoni, after a play by Carlo Gozzi. Presented by the Chicago City Opera company in the Civic Opera house, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 19, 1938.

THE CAST.

Princess Turandot	Eva Turner
Calaf	Galliano Masini
Liu	Annunciata Garrotto
Timur	Virgilio Lazzari
Emperor Altoum	Clement Laskowsky
Ping	Daniel Harris
Pang	Lodovico Oliviero

Conductor	Leo Kopp

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Chicago City Opera company provided one of the season's most electric performances yesterday afternoon when it brought back into the répertoire, after a lapse of three years, "Turandot," the Chinese fairy tale extravaganza left unfinished by Giacomo Puccini and completed by Franco Alfano.

Yesterday's presentation missed few of the thrills that enable this opera, in its sheer bigness and massing of effects, to engender a degree of excitement hardly surpassed even by "Aïda." Under the dynamic leadership of Leo Kopp, the orchestra lifted the symphonic score out of the rut of routine into which many of its workaday efforts slip.

Eva Turner in Title Rôle.

Eva Turner, noted English dramatic soprano, made her reëntry in the spectacular title rôle after nine years' absence from Chicago.

Although Turandot is one of her most famous rôles, she had never sung it here. This proved overwhelmingly our loss, for she delivered its superhuman, high, sustained music with almost unparalleled magnificence. Her large, brilliant voice is as solid as a rock and contains the most glorious high C heard in a long time. If she does not greet a sold out house at next Saturday afternoon's "Aïda," and at a later repetition of "Turandot," the operagoers of Chicago will overlook one of the finest dramatic sopranos now singing.

Masini at His Best.

Galliano Masini was in his best vocal fettle as the unknown prince, discovering ample reserves of tone in climactic moments and singing with faultless ease and security. Virgilio Lazzari brought deep pathos to the music of the prince's father. The three whimsical philosophers, Ping, Pang, and Pong, became sprightly figures in the hands of Daniel Harris, Lodovico Oliviero, and Giuseppe Cavadore. In two small bits Richard Schreiber showed again that the company has made a desirable find.

While the Liu of Annunciata Garrotto did not quite reach the vocal standard Chicago is accustomed to, she usually confined her voice to the volume in which its texture still remains pleasant.

In the evening Kirsten Flagstad took possession of the stage in Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde." Because her Isolde is the noblest operatic achievement of this decade, Mme. Flagstad seemed to tower above her associates artistically, as is her wont.

Yet a cast of high competence supported her, and the performance maintained high excellence. Paul Althouse, a satisfying Tristan, replaced the originally announced Carl Hartmann, who has been unable to sing in Chicago this season because of a serious injury to his throat. Hertha Glatz, recruited from the Salzburg Opera guild, projected a finished conception of the part of Brangaene, singing with taste and intelligence even when her voice seemed rather too light for the score. George Czaplicki as Kurwenal, and Douglas Beattie, singing King Marke for the first time here, completed the list of major principals.

The mixed bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and items by the Littlefield ballet, announced for Tuesday evening in today's music section, has been summarily canceled.

CHASES HUNTERS OFF LAND; SLAIN BY ONE WHO KILLS HIMSELF

Edwardsburg, Mich., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Leo Wojtysiak killed himself with a shotgun tonight when a sherif's posse trailed him home and sought to arrest him for slaying Harry Gerlanger two hours earlier. Gerlanger, a farmer 50 years old, was shot to death when he attempted to chase two hunters off his land.

Mrs. Gerlanger called the sherif and a posse took up the trail which led to Wojtysiak's yard. As the posse entered a shot was fired from a window. Deputies returned the fire and when shots from within stopped they rushed the house.

Wojtysiak, 52, was found dead. His sons, Joseph, 16, and John, 13, were hiding behind an overturned table. Joseph said his father had killed Gerlanger and committed suicide when he saw he could not escape from the posse.

Rifle Bullet Pierces Target, Door and Wounds Passerby

Jay McDemrott, 14 years old, was shooting his .22 calibre rifle yesterday at a target set up inside the garage door of his home in Crystal Lake. One bullet pierced the door, wounding Lloyd Wolf, 19, who was passing. Paralyzed from the waist down, Wolf, who lives in Crystal Lake, was taken to the Sherman hospital in Elgin.

RENEW CHICAGO DRIVE FOR BIGGER CONVENTION HALL

The Chicago Association of Commerce has renewed its effort to give Chicago one of the country's largest convention halls, it was disclosed yesterday.

Last week the association sent a delegation to Washington to seek Public Works administration approval of a $1,277,500 project to expand Navy pier's exhibition and auditorium space from 240,000 to nearly 400,000 square feet.

The delegation, headed by Lawrence Whiting, vice president of the association, assured Public Works Administrator Ickes the project would be a sound investment. William J. Hennessy, head of the convention bureau, said it would bring to Chicago sixteen major conventions which now avoid this city because of a lack of floor space here.

These include the conventions of the American Medical association, the American Road Builders' association, the Dairy, Ice Cream Machinery and supplies associations, and railway, foundry, heating, and bakers' conventions.

The delegation asked for action on Mayor Kelly's application of last June for an outright grant of $574,875 and a loan of $702,625 for building a 110 by 1,200 foot convention hall at the west end of the pier and expanding the present exhibit quarters in the pier's two wings.

The loan would be repaid within twenty years out of rent for convention space. It was understood that Ickes was favorably disposed toward the project, although there was some question of availability of PWA funds.

Begin Work Soon on New South Side School Stadium

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, announced yesterday that work will be started after Jan. 1 on an athletic stadium at Yates avenue and 83d street for the use of public school pupils. It will cost $363,000. Part of the money will come from a federal appropriation. The stadium will seat 6,000. It will be available for many sports, including baseball and football.

MUM'S THE WORD

By CALEB

MECCA OF flower lovers, these days, is the great hangar-like edifice of glass which houses the annual Chrysanthemum Show in Garfield Park's conservatory. Our recent stay in its fragrant precincts was like admission to another world —whose color and beauty lie far removed from the headlong world of workaday.

Transition to that world from this other is a treasurable experience—a thing of rich green dimnesses; of aloof tranquillity; of tropical, plant-perfumed warmth; of shadows accented with fountain music. In the gloom of winding walks, palms and ferns and trailing vines build a welcome barrier against intrusion. Instinctively, the spirit prepares itself for worship at the shrine of Flora.

A door swings softly inward—and the shrine is reality. Here are no bare clean lines of an altar, however, nor the flame-tipped tallness of candles. This we have entered is a myriad-hued bower . . . where one's lungs inhale, not air, but color-glory. Pendant from the crystal roof are huge baskets of petalled radiance. Ranged in deep banks around the crystal walls are more counterparts of their splendor . . . and lo! we are literally engulfed in—chrysanthemums!

This sonorous word, our guide reminds us, is the Greek for Golden Flower —and in the galaxy of pompons, anemones and singles about us are seven hundred and seventy-five different varieties . . . all of them the superlative offspring of Indicum, a simple little wild-daisy of the Asiatic deserts, a bare half inch across, whose discovery dates from the early 1600's.

Only if syllables themselves were flowers could the Show visitor's sensations be adequately expressed. Placarded on every hand, and represented by names as glamorous as their blooms . . . Marne, Pomona, La France, Purple Queen, Cardinal, Fantasia, Valencia, Robin Hood, Glorianna . . . are famous varieties with which familiarity only increases delight. Among them, huge singles, with heads twenty-two inches around; dainty miniatures with forty and fifty heads, aptly called "Wee Dot,". and only a quarter-inch across; while massed in between is every variant of size and hue imaginable, from deep-tinted Ball-of-Gold to crisp—curled, ermine-white Japanese Anemone.

"Mum" is a word that will prompt many thousands to renew their acquaintance with this queen flower of Autumn —at one of the loveliest of her showings. It is our pleasant duty to remind you that her court, until December fourth, stands hospitably open to all comers.

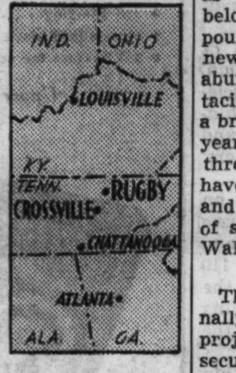
U. S. HOMESTEADS RISE ON SITE OF EARLIER FAILURE

New Experiment Tried on Cumberland Plateau.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Crossville, Tenn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Sad, tender, and beautiful as Dvorak's New World symphony is the story of Thomas Hughes, author of Tom "Tom Brown's School Days," and his group of young English idealists who came to the Cumberland plateau sixty years ago to found a colony and a new way of life.



Location of Resettlement Project in Tennessee.

It was to escape the competitive scramble of living in England, the common ideal of success founded on money, that Hughes and his school boys came to this wild mountain country peopled 100 years before by Scotch-Irish refugees of the religious persecution of King James I. Rugby was to be their city of abundant living, friendly, gay, intellectual, with food and housing problems made largely a communal affair. A nonsectarian church, a library, and a newspaper were their first efforts.

Little Remains Today.

All that remains of Rugby today is a wide place in the road, a tangled graveyard where Hughes buried his mother in 1887, a little white English church, and a library with stacks of unread and precious volumes. The mountains and the mountain men absorbed the experiment with indifference, and life in the new world was unchanged. The thin soil refused them a living, the industries failed, and a typhoid epidemic did the rest.

It was in this neighborhood that Mark Twain and Cordell Hull were born, and here at Crossville, as well as in the great Tennessee valley below, the federal government is pouring out the people's money in a new effort to establish centers of abundant living and uplift these thin, taciturn Scotch-Irish, who have made a brave living from their soil all these years, who are tenacious of life through poverty and disease, who have remained much the same in life and religion through all the impact of science and the evolution trial at Walden's ridge.

Countryside Is Altered.

The Cumberland homesteads, originally a resettlement administration project, but now a work of the farm security administration, with the interior department taking a hand, is changing the face of the countryside for many miles. Two hundred and fifty-one homestead units have been built of native field and quarried stone, framed, shingled, and covered with native oak and pine, finished inside mostly with native white pine. Each one has a neat gate, with a number and a name on it, and each home has become in a way a ward of the government.

Each family has an average of 35 acres. There is a park and a 32 acre lake in the process of building, with a CCC camp at work. The settlers' coöperative already runs a trading post, a gift shop, a canning plant, and a coal mine.

Danger Inherent in Plan.

A danger inherent in the plan, and what may happen to it, may be foreseen in an address by M. L. Taylor, chairman of the county board, at a recent new ground pageant dedicated to Cordell Hull.

"The people of this plateau did not grow strong depending on any agency," warned Mr. Taylor. "You must depend on yourself.

"There is opportunity here. The land can be made better than virgin with fertilizers. Learn history, music, the legends of the mountains. You are living in a kind of wilderness where people are scared and suspicious of each other, baffled by a changing world that no one seems able to understand or solve. Learn coöperatives, but do your own thinking."

The homes and farms are being sold to these selected mountain families on monthly payments, but, like the Dyess colony in Arkansas, millions will have to be written off the books. The project is said to have cost to date about $3,500,000.

Help Build Own Home.

J. T. Harris was a trucker in a small town nearby, getting along, but poorly, when the government picked him up, with his wife and boy, and set them down on a 13 acre tract, where he helped to build his own home. It is five rooms, set in a lawn with flowers and trees, sunny and attractive, with running water, sanitary facilities, electrically wired.

He is digging potatoes out of long grass and weeds while his wife clips flowers with all the grace of an English country woman. She displays her home with pride. A bus takes her boy to school every day. They are paying $14.20 a month for the home and land and hope to own it some day.

"I was a trucker before and I still have the truck to pay the rent," said Mr. Harris. "I can't pay the rent and make a living from the produce. Some of the colonists don't like the government contracts, but if there is work everything will be all right."

Other Work Is Problem.

This is the problem—outside work. The farms will not keep these people and give them the purchase money demanded by the government. The first work of construction is over and the problem now is to get some kind of industry in here. Otherwise the colony will fail. People in town are afraid it will fail, but hope it will not. It has been a gold mine to the community. The government is faced with the necessity of finding work for the 1,282 homesteaders.

Robert Taylor is found plowing the ground for cover crops, in accordance with instructions from the farm management. He came here with his family from Crab Orchard, where his father was a laborer and where they had one acre and raised potatoes. Here they have nine acres, one of the nice homes where his mother and sister are happily at work, and hope they can make the $14 payment each month and stay. Taylor is at work on a rock crusher.

The corn on these farms is better than in the average mountain field, and the products of this high, thin land are sweet, sweet as hickory cured ham, corn pone, and fried chicken. The colony as a whole seems to be in a better mood than that at Dyess. The members have their own council, and it is said there is less unrest and radicalism here than in Crossville itself.

The high school here is something to attract educators. It is under the direction of W. B. Shoulders, a University of Tennessee graduate, and has 102 pupils, with 7 teachers.

"We are raising a generation that will be able to take over the business here," said Shoulders. "They are studying economics in the cannery, or in the new mill project here. We are not training them for college, but offer courses in home economics, including weaving and child care, building trades in the shops, agricultural, and commercial."

[The twelfth and final story in this series will deal with young miners and a boy going up to the door of opportunity.]

MINNESOTA G.O.P. PLANS QUIZ ON HIGHWAY DEALS

Farmer-Labor Slush Fund Also to Be Examined.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A movement is afoot for an investigation by the legislature, when it meets next January, of the state highway department and the political slush fund collected from state employés by the statehouse machine.

During the recent campaign in which Gov. Elmer Benson and the rest of the Farmer-Labor state ticket were defeated by Harold E. Stassen, governor elect, and the Republican ticket, charges were made that highway supplies had been purchased on a basis of special favors.

Stassen's backers distributed a pictorial campaign folder accusing the highway department of carrying on permanent improvements under the guise of maintenance and accused the statehouse of buying materials without the proper competitive bidding required by law on purchases of $500 and more.

Prices Are Compared.

One charge was that from May 20, 1936, to July 22, 1938, the highway department bought 35,000 tons of black top road surfacing from one firm for $11 and $11.50 a ton at its St. Paul plant. The total amount came to $390,000. This purchase, it was charged, was made without public advertising. The price was compared with purchases, made at the Minneapolis plant, of black top mix at $2.75 a ton last year and $3.25 this year.

Reflector buttons placed along the center line of highways at curves and dangerous spots were another item exploited in the campaign. Taxpayers filed a suit against the highway department and state officials in an effort to hold back a purchase of 10,000 of these buttons.

The Stassen literature said that arrangements had been made to buy these markers from a Pittsburgh house at $1.38 each, while the taxpayers' suit contended they should be bought for 40 cents.

College Job Is Cited.

Much attention also was directed at the handling of funds for the Bemidji Teachers' college building. It was charged that the statehouse agreed to pay $600 a month for ten months for the rental of a gravel crusher, with fuel and operator. The machine could be bought outright for $2,500.

The cost of maintaining Minnesota highways jumped nearly threefold in 1937 under the Benson administration, as compared with 1933 under the administration of the late Gov. Floyd Olson, according to campaign charges. In 1937 the gasoline tax was increased 1 cent, resulting in a $4,000,000 annual boost in taxes for automobile owners.

DUKE OF ATHOLL QUITS CLUB WHICH REFUSED TO NOMINATE HIS WIFE

PERTH, Scotland, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The duke of Atholl angrily resigned as president and member of a club of his wife's constituents today when it refused to renominate her for the house of commons.

With the duke presiding, the Kinross and West Perth Unionist association voted 173 to 167 to instruct its council to name a candidate "who will support the prime minister's policy of peaceful understanding in Europe."

The outspoken duchess of Atholl is a warm friend of loyalist Spain and an opponent of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's foreign policy. She has refused to follow the Conservative whip in commons. Her husband, a soldierly Scottish peer, immediately quit the group and announced the duchess would run as an independent next time.

The duchess has won five elections to the house of commons as the association's candidate.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD IN STREET; SUSPECT MURDER

Police were confronted with a possible murder mystery early today with the finding of the body of an attractive young woman in the middle of the street in front of 1246 West Adams street, near Jefferson Park. Her shoes and hat were missing.

Whether she had been murdered or had died a natural death could not be immediately determined. Her body was flat on its back. Her dress was disarranged. Desplaines street police said they believed that the body was placed in the position in which it was found by a person or persons last with her.

The absence of her shoes added mystery to the case. The bottoms of her stockings were clean, proving, police said, that she had not walked without shoes. The shoes probably had been purposely removed before her body, which was found by Park Policemen William Campbell and William Harrington, was abandoned.

The body was removed to the county morgue where an examination revealed numerous bruises about the legs, sides and face. Nothing indicated the woman was struck by an automobile.

Lieut. Phil Carroll, of the Desplaines street station, described the woman as 25 years old, five feet two inches tall and weighing 135 pounds. She had brown curly hair and blue eyes. She wore a dark blue flowered dress and a blue coat.

IGOE AND KERNER MAY GET JUDGE'S OATH TOMORROW

Campbell Ready to Take U. S. Attorneyship.

Events are to move rapidly tomorrow in connection with President Roosevelt's choice of two new federal judges and a new United States district attorney. At least one and probably both of the judges will be sworn in, and the district attorney probably will take his oath of office.

Attorney General Otto Kerner received notice from Washington yesterday that his commission as a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals had been signed and was being forwarded to him. He said that he already had the affairs of the attorney general's office up to date so that he will be sworn in as soon as the commission arrives.

Igoe to Finish Tasks.

Similar notice was received by District Attorney Michael L. Igoe, who is to become a judge of the United States District court. His commission will reach Chicago tomorrow, but there are matters of such importance pending in the district attorney's office that he may postpone surrendering that responsibility to take up his new duties.

The commission appointing William J. Campbell to succeed Igoe as district attorney also is on its way to Chicago, but Campbell yesterday did not discuss his plans. He is awaiting formal notification that everything is ready for his induction.

Gov. Horner, still confined to the Congress hotel by illness, has been kept in touch with the situation. Attorney General Kerner, who had talked with him earlier about the consequences of his resignation from his state elective office, now has told him of his plan to resign tomorrow. The governor has agreed to accept the resignation and it is his intention to appoint John E. Cassidy of Peoria as attorney general without delay.

Campbell Appointment Surprise.

Well informed politicians expressed surprise only at the appointment of Campbell as district attorney. It had been generally believed that Igoe's appointment to the bench would see his first assistant, Warren Canaday, left in charge of the district attorney's office with at least even chances that he would be given the full title.

Campbell's appointment, it was learned, was entirely of nonpolitical origin, although, when it became known that Washington desired to name him, party leaders at once said there would be no objection from them. Although he has been a practicing attorney for fourteen years, he is better known as one of the cofounders with Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of the Catholic Youth organization, of which he is vice president and general counsel. Recently he has been active as state director of the National Youth administration in a campaign to find employment for 4,200 young people in private industry. A total of 3,619 have been placed in the last seven weeks.

Chicago Congregational Union to Meet Tuesday

The fifty-sixth annual meeting of the Chicago Congregational union will be held Tuesday night in the Stevens hotel. Frederick J. Newey, president of the union; Dr. Ernest G. Guthrie, director, and Dr. Walter E. Judd, medical missionary in China, will be the speakers. The union directs the work of forty churches, neighborhood houses, and community centers in the metropolitan area.

INTERNATIONAL STOCK SHOW TO OPEN SATURDAY

Eight Day Exhibit Draws Large Entry Lists.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Breeders and feeders of North America will open their thirty-ninth annual International Live Stock exposition next Saturday morning in the International amphitheater and surrounding pens at 43d and Halsted streets. It will continue for eight days, closing Saturday, Dec. 3.

Preliminary tabulations of entries, which closed yesterday, were being made last night. Although the count is not yet complete, statisticians already have recorded more than 6,100 head of live stock entered in the carlot section alone. This includes 3,045 fat cattle, 1,220 feeder cattle, 1,110 sheep, and 725 hogs.

3,600 Pure Breds Entered.

In the pure bred classes more than 3,600 head of animals have been entered—1,345 cattle, 1,008 sheep, 779 hogs, and 510 draft horses. In addition there are 432 cattle, sheep, and hogs entered in the junior live stock feeding contest.

B. H. Heide, general manager of the show, said last night that farmers and ranchmen will begin arriving with their live stock early this week. His entry records reveal that live stock from thirty-three states and five Canadian provinces will be represented.

Forty-seven judges, including one woman, from seventeen states, the District of Columbia, Canada, and England will name the champion animals.

In the hay and grain show exhibitors will be represented from thirty-eight states, five Canadian provinces, Australia, South America, Scotland, France, and Mexico.

A 5 Million Dollar Show.

Manager Heide estimates the value of the live stock to be shown at $5,000,000. In addition, there will be several hundred head of the nation's best riding and driving horses and ponies in daily contests at the light horse show.

The seventeenth National 4-H Club congress will be held in connection with the exposition. Approximately 1,200 farm boys and girls, between the ages of 10 and 20, will be here from forty-five states, Canada, Hawaii, and Porto Rico.

The national health contest will be held as a special feature of the boys' and girls' club congress.

BLACK AND KELLY CONFER TODAY ON CITY HEALTH JOB

Dr. Robert A. Black.

Dr. Robert Alfred Black is to confer today with Mayor Kelly, who has urged him to accept the temporary presidency of the city's board of health. The post is vacant because Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, the incumbent, requested a leave while he fights a federal indictment charging him with conspiracy to fix milk prices in Chicago.

"I am not offering a job to Dr. Black," said Mayor Kelly. "I am begging him to take it. He is one of the world's great child specialists and peculiarly fitted for the place. Even though I know he is doing as much work as two or three men ought to attempt, I am hopeful that he will recognize this as a civic duty and accept."

Dr. Black has indicated that he will make known his decision tomorrow.

Prophets Speculate on Political Future.

cal pendulum on its swing back to Republican normalcy.

Point to Political Cycle.

The political weather sharps hold to the theory that there is a regular rhythmical cycle of alternation of the two parties in power and that inasmuch as the country has been normally Republican the cycle runs in favor of the Republicans.

The cycle presents an alternation of 12 years of Republican rule and 8 years of Democratic sway. Thus, there was 12 years of undisputed Republican rule after 1896 followed by four years in which the Democrats gained control of congress. Then there were eight years of Democratic rule beginning with 1912, with the Republicans upsetting Democratic control of congress in the latter part of the period.

In 1920, the Republicans came in for 12 years with the Democrats capturing congress toward the close of the tenure. Now the question is whether the Republican gains of 1938 foreshadow the close of another 8 year tour of power for the Democrats.

The Democratic theory is that the country has become Democratic and that 1940 will register the passing of the 12 year tenure from the Republicans to the Democrats.

ELECTION BOARD TO GIVE OFFICIAL VOTE TOMORROW

Proclamation of official returns of the Nov. 8 elections in 3,850 precincts under the jurisdiction of the Cook county election board will be made tomorrow morning. Final details in the board's canvass were completed last night and John S. Rusch, chief election clerk, is ready to release the results of the official tally.

The board's certificate will be turned over to County Clerk Michael J. Flynn. Figures from country town precincts under Flynn's jurisdiction will be added to those of the election board and the complete results for the county will be proclaimed by Wednesday.

When Flynn issues his proclamation, he will send to Secretary of State Edward Hughes at Springfield the county results of offices voted on by the state at large. The secretary will then tabulate similar returns for 102 counties in the state and state figures probably will be released early next week.

Debate Election Results as 1940 Forecast

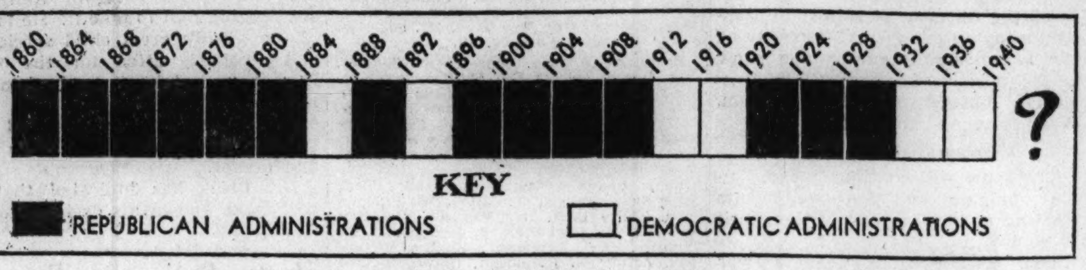
In states reaching across the entire northern portion of the United States the Republicans gained 81 seats in the national house of representatives in the Nov. 8 election. The numbers of new seats won by the party are shown on the respective states.



The cycles of Republican and Democratic presidential victories since 1860 give Republicans hope that their nominee will be elected two years from now.

MEET TOMORROW TO MAP PROGRAM FOR LEGISLATURE

Illinois' legislative council will have its first good opportunity tomorrow to show its effectiveness in planning work for the general assembly. The council, created in 1937, will be in session for two days, its final meeting before the legislature convenes Jan. 3.

State senate chambers in Springfield are ready to receive the twenty council members and any other members of the legislature who accept invitations to attend. With the aid of a research staf to provide facts in connection with proposed laws, the council hopes to introduce more efficiency into the deliberations of the legislature.

Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [D., Chicago], chairman, said the council will consider technical reports on various subjects. Among them are reapportionment of senatorial and congressional districts, downstate oil fields, redistricting of circuit courts, and administration of public schools.

2d 'Do as You Please' Girl of Attorney Spencer Weds

Miss Victoria Spencer, 16 years old, the "do as you please" daughter of Mrs. Mary Belle Spencer, attorney, was married last night to Loren N. Hamilton, 25, in the Spencer home in Chicago Heights. The Rev. Clarence E. Showalter of the First Presbyterian church officiated. Mrs. Spencer's other daughter, Mary Belle, eloped two years ago at the age of 16.

$4,500 FIRE DESTROYS HOME.

Damage estimated at $4,500 was caused yesterday by a fire that destroyed the home of Fred Kaus, near Skokie and Winnetka roads in Northfield.

PERFUME GIRL'S KILLER CHARGED WITH MURDER

Joseph Kadlecek, 27 years old, who confessed slaying Miss Ella Pehrson, blonde perfume saleswoman, in his room at 2017 Warren boulevard Wednesday, was formally charged with the murder yesterday. He will be arraigned in Felony court Tuesday. An inquest will be held in the county morgue tomorrow.

Miss Pehrson, who lived at 210 South Ashland avenue, was the wife of Hjalmar Johnson of Minneapolis.

She visited Kadlecek's room to sell him shaving cream and perfume. He choked her and stabbed her three times when she resisted his advances.

EXPECTS SENATE QUIZ ON POLITICS IN U. S. RELIEF

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] today predicted that Republican demands for an investigation of politics in relief would come to a head when the senate campaign expenditures committee makes its report to congress.

"I shall be greatly disappointed," Vandenberg said, "if the committee does not recommend a sweeping investigation of the WPA. If half of the things the committee has reported about the last campaign are true, it certainly is time for an investigation."

Bursting Tire Kills Truck Driver as He Inflates It

An exploding truck tire yesterday caused the death of Elmer Huffmann, 207 1st street, Libertyville, a driver for the Central Improvement company there. Huffmann was filling the tire in a Libertyville gasoline station. When the tire burst, the driver was struck in the head by the wheel rim. He died later of a fractured skull.

QUASH TRUE BILLS AGAINST MAYOR OF PHILADELPHIA

Wilson, Beaten by Earle in Primary, Jubilant.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Common Pleas Judge Harry S. McDevitt today quashed twenty-one indictments returned Sept. 9 against Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia. The indictments charged Mayor Wilson with misbehavior in office, failure to suppress gambling, and unlawful demotion of policemen and firemen.

Wilson and his friends were jubilant over the court's action. Wilson had contended since the indictments were returned that it merely was an attempt by his political enemies to smear him. Wilson was a battler in the Democratic primary election campaign of last spring which brought charges of graft and corruption against Gov. George H. Earle and thirteen members of his Democratic state administration.

Earle Defeats Mayor.

Earle defeated Wilson for the Democratic nomination for United States senator and the factional split of the Democrats resulted in digging up so much dirt that the Republican nominees swept the election two weeks ago.

Wilson was accused by the grand jurors of having attempted to stop the investigation. In the last year 651 true bills have been returned against 343 persons. Dismissal of the indictments against Wilson today casts doubt upon the legality of the indictments against 146 other persons named by the jury in October last year. Vice and gambling in Philadelphia was the subject of the last inquiry.

Wins Mayoralty as Democrat.

Wilson gained the name of political chameleon by the rapidity with which he switched from the Democratic to the Republican party and back again. Twenty years ago he was a Democrat, then a city employé as a Republican, next Democratic city controler and in 1935 he was elected mayor on the Republican ticket. He changed his political batting again last spring when he lined up with John L. Lewis, C. I. O. president, and Senator Joseph F. Guffey in the Democratic primary contest.

After the indictments against Wilson were quashed today, the special grand jury was suspended from further activity by Judge Curtis Bok because of lack of funds. Landis Klinger, foreman of the jury, rushed to Chief Justice John W. Kephart of the Supreme court and got an order permitting the jury to continue until Dec. 31, the date originally set by the Supreme court for completion of the investigation.

In the plea for continuance today, the jury informed both judges it was getting to the point in its investigation of the alliance between officials and organized crime where it soon would be prepared to reveal payment of bribes to public officers and name names.

G. O. P. MEMBER TRIUMPHS OVER HOUSE OUSTER

Wins Over Democrat Seated in Scandal.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Representative Jenks.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Last June 9 a Republican congressman, his head held high, walked slowly from the chamber of the house of representatives. He had just been unseated by what was later termed the most brazen and shameless playing of politics in the history of congress.

The Democratic majority sat silent and apparently ashamed as Representative Arthur B. Jenks of New Hampshire on that June day left the seat he had occupied for eighteen months. In protest the entire Republican, Progressive, and Farmer-Labor minorities — together with some Democrats—marched out after him.

The unprecedented ouster took place just a week before congress adjourned. Alphonse Roy, a Democrat, who was immediately sworn in Jenks' place, served that week and collected a full two year term's salary, $20,000, plus clerk hire, for being present those seven days.

Voters Have Last Word.

Today Representative Jenks is returning to Washington, prepared to resume the seat from which he was removed. He was returned to congress by the voters of his district, who decisively repudiated the action of the house Democrats by giving Jenks a majority of 7,499 votes over Roy.

It was openly charged—and not denied at the time of Jenks' ouster—that the purpose of the coup was to collect the $20,000 salary accruing to Roy in order to use it as a Democratic campaign fund in New Hampshire.

Senator Fred H. Brown, a Democratic candidate for reëlection, was reported to have started the agitation to unseat Jenks and replace him with Roy. What seemed clever political strategy last June proved a boomerang in November, however, because Senator Brown was overwhelmingly defeated.

The Jenks-Roy contest was a sensation from the start. In the 1936 election, after a series of recounts, New Hampshire polls officials declared Jenks the winner over Roy by seventeen votes out of more than 100,000 ballots cast.

House Seats Republican.

Jenks went to congress and took his seat, but Roy appealed to the house, which has the supreme right to determine who shall be admitted to its membership. A Democratic controled committee, after many months of investigation, put the question before the chamber. In July, 1937, the house decided that Jenks had rightfully been elected. The vote was 231 to 130.

The house election committee, however, was empowered to continue its inquiry, particularly into Jenks' claim that thirty-four votes for him had disappeared from a ballot box in Newton, N. H.

There followed in Newton a hearing unique in American history. The house committee, composed of five Democrats and three Republicans, summoned all the voters of the town and questioned them.

Account for 458 Votes.

There were 458 qualified voters in the town. Four hundred and thirty-six testified under oath that they had voted. Nine persons who had died since the election were accounted for by eyewitnesses who testified that the deceased persons had voted. Six sick and infirm voters were proved to have voted by affidavits taken by a subcommittee. Two absent voters were accounted for by the testimony of other witnesses. The five other voters were out of the state and were excused from testifying.

This made a total of 458 persons known to have voted, whereas only 424 ballots were counted. Inasmuch as proof already had been submitted in the recount that the missing 34 votes were cast for the Republican candidate, Jenks' claims seemed to be wholly substantiated. Nevertheless the Democratic majority reported that Roy was entitled to the office and Jenks was unseated.

Car Thief Routs Pursuer with Gun and Flees Afoot

In escaping the thief collided with the car of Samuel Chausow, 3225 West Division street, at Fulton street and Francisco avenue. Chausow pursued the robber north to Carroll avenue. Cornered, the thief jumped out, drew a revolver, forced Chausow to drive away, and then fled on foot.

DEFENDING THE CONTINENTS.

It is to be hoped the broadening of the official concept of American defense policy from "national" to "continental" will have the practical consequence of stimulating the official interest in the problem of naval bases. This interest has been very vague except among naval and military men and it badly needs awakening, for the inadequacy of our bases is a major strategic weakness of our defenses. This weakness has been repeatedly pointed out by THE TRIBUNE and now that the President envisages our policy in terms of the whole western hemisphere we suggest that some measures be set on foot without further delay to correct it.

We have discussed this often and recently and need not elaborate on it now. But in view of the President's remarks we would call his attention to the fact that if we are to take seriously the task of defending, in coöperation with other countries of the west, the South American continent, we should lose no time in improving our very faulty facilities for operations in those waters. For the appreciation of this question we invite attention to an exposition of our strategical situation in the Caribbean sea and Gulf of Mexico contained in Maj. George Fielding Eliot's "The Ramparts We Watch," just from the press.

We cannot summarize this exposition within the space available, but we wish especially, in view of the President's remarks, to quote Maj. Eliot on the Lesser Antilles. These islands enclose the Caribbean on the east and are on that flank of the approach to the Panama canal. "The many passages among them afford numerous routes of access . . . and the farther one gets from St. Thomas [our last base eastward] the less assured becomes the control of our naval power over such access. At Trinidad, 500 miles from St. Thomas, the control of our fleet, if present, would still be operative; but the control which might be exercised by light forces would be less certain by a good deal."

We cannot discuss this situation in detail but our readers should realize that the security of the canal is involved and that this security is a capital consideration of our naval strategy. The President was asked if he envisaged the building of two fleets, one for the defense of Atlantic responsibilities and one for the Pacific. He promptly and rightly said no. But that answer assumes the security of the canal. If control of the canal were lost our fleet would not be moved, as it now can, expeditiously, from one front to the other. It might be shut off in one ocean or the other, or divided by distribution in both, with of course disastrous reduction in strength. With the canal open the fleet is available according to the conditions we must deal with. We are fortunate in being able to make use of one fleet in spite of our having fronts on two oceans separated by thousands of miles.

It is therefore essential to our security that the approaches to the canal be powerfully defended, and we ought no longer to permit any curable weakness to remain in this defense.

But there is another question raised by the President's conception of a continental policy. If we are to engage in the protection of the nations on the east coast of South America our operations will be far from the home bases. We ought to extend our front farther eastward. We ought to have bases as near as possible to the probable sphere of operations. At best, a hostile navy or combination of navies possessed of bases on or near the east coast of Africa, the Canary and Cape Verde Islands, would be 500 miles nearer to any South American port south of Cape San Roque than would be bases at Barbados and Trinidad—and we do not possess these bases.

A survey of the base situation on our Atlantic front presents a highly unsatisfactory picture of our national defense, to say nothing of any larger concept of our needs and responsibilities. We are gambling with trouble in neglecting this question and no more time should be lost. The President seems to be impressed with the need for speedily increasing our military and naval power, but this is not merely a matter of spending more money or more armament. Bases multiply ships. They are major factors in naval strength for reasons which even landlubbers will understand if they give any thought to the subject. To neglect our serious weakness without effort to correct it, while expanding our responsibilities, would be inexcusable.

ROAD EXPENDITURES.

It was announced the other day that nearly 8 million dollars had been spent this year on highway construction within a radius of 50 miles of Chicago and that as much more would be spent in the area next year.

It is unfortunate that with these huge sums available the money has not been spent where it would be of greatest benefit. The greatest congestion of automobile trafic is in the city. The greatest hazard to life from automobile accidents is in the city. And the city is the source of most of the revenues which are spent to build roads.

An elevated highway through the west side of Chicago would do more to save lives, relieve congestion, and expedite travel than any other road or road improvement project in the state. Everybody knows that. A vast amount of the available funds has been squandered for the benefit of landowners with a pull. It is time that the saving of lives and the welfare of the motorists who pay the bills receive some consideration.

DEVILS REAL AND UNREAL.

People are not only inclined to believe what they want to believe, as Cæsar noted when he double-crossed the barbarians, but they may also believe what they dread to believe. Most people would prefer not to try tc sleep in a room which they had been told was haunted if the house were an old one with a history, if it stood isolated in the woods, if the room had a loose shutter, if there were a high wind, if there were vines scratching across the window pane, and if it had a traditional ghost. A rationally minded person might go soundly to sleep, even if something scurried across the carpet. Mebbe he would. A good many people would prefer not to try it and their hesitation would not have anything to do with their reason.

For many years people have been told that Mars was an interesting planet because it might be inhabitable. They have read a great deal about the men from Mars, who have been constructed for them on theories of gravity, longevity, superior attainments, and a better knowledge of natural laws than human beings. Imagination has been nourished on tales of trips around the moon, scientific gents have penetrated far into the stratosphere, and glimpses of an unknown world have been offered by explorers who are supposed to have touched new frontiers.

Within a comparatively few years science has given people a number of usable articles they very little understand. They have learned to command forces by turning simple gadgets. They hear voices from Europe. They sit in the midst of a world crisis. They can hear the drums, and shouts, and shots of current events. They listen to Hitler exhorting and Chamberlain pacifying. They know that flyers go with unbelievable speed into incredible places. They have been led to believe that nothing is impossible.

Politically they have been impressed and beguiled by wonder workers. They have been led up to the front doors of Edens and told to knock and enter. They have been influenced by modern alchemists and astrologers, followed soothsayers and crystal gazers. They have been thoroughly shaken up. Major and minor prophets have raged all over the land. So it's probably not surprising that when an imitation of their accustomed news reporting of startling events by air came bursting in upon their Sabbath calm, telling them that a cylinder full of men from Mars had landed in New Jersey, some of them believed the thing they dreaded to believe. They had been astonished by miracles before. The very way the news came to them would have scared their fathers into fits if it had been given them in a sudden dose they were unprepared to receive.

It's an unstable world—jumpy, worried, and harassed. It has monsters in the flesh. Its devils are real. The men from Mars were hardly less credible.

HOME BUILDING REVIVAL.

The one industry which failed to participate in the abortive business upturns since 1933 was residential building construction. It was a weakness which could not be compensated for by any amount of public spending. Slackness in home building meant that the little fellow, the man who buys a lot and has an architect plan a house for him, didn't put his money back of the recoveries of 1933, 1936, and 1937. And home building has been the backbone of most of the worthwhile business revivals of the last fifty years.

More than anything else it is the about face in residential building construction which suggests that the present five month old revival in business is the McCoy. Actually the building industry turned around before the stock market did. As early as May, when every day security prices threatened to break into new low ground, and all the news from business seemed bad, residential building contracts began to increase. Each month since then has shown improvement.

The increase has recently been accelerated. In August, in the thirty-seven eastern states covered by the F. W. Dodge reports, contracts for new dwellings amounted to $99,732,000. That was the biggest August since 1929. The September figure of $99,574,000 was the biggest since 1929, and the October volume of $112,673,000 was the best for that month back to 1929, and was within 20 millions of the 1929 figure.

Residential building of 100 million dollars a month is impressive. The boom year for home building in the United States in the last cycle was 1925. In that year the monthly average was a quarter of a billion dollars a month. From that figure the decline was to a low level in 1934, when the monthly average was only 20 million dollars a month. The average for the last four months has been 100 millions.

Thus building seems to be embarked in a cycle which resembles the cycle which reached a peak a few years before 1929. If that should prove to be true business will have the strongest impetus for revival in ten years. The new building cycle is getting started just seventeen years after its predecessor got on its way. It will be more than ten years since that last cycle reached its peak. And it will be after a series of years of the smallest building activity in our lifetime. The very thought that such an eventuality is a possibility after so many years of hard times raises the spirits.

A CRESCENDO FOR THE PIANO.

[Christian Science Monitor.]

The amazing comeback of the piano industry, which has turned out four times as many pianos this year as in 1932, is attributed by the economically-minded to the pet formula of business: "Greater efficiency in production to turn out a better product plus lower prices equals expanding sales and prosperity." Good enough. But wait—

What about the campaign to reëducate the public on the piano's value as a complete musical instrument and on the pleasure and cultural importance of creating one's own music? Didn't this begin four years ago, before the new console and spinet styles appeared? And what about the 1,200 cities in the United States whose public schools offer piano lessons free or for a ridiculously low fee? Have not these had their effect?

Whatever the reasons for the piano's industrial recovery, it is in part a victory for culture over the encroachments of the mechanical in a machine age.

KNEW HIS MAN.

The poor man was effusive in his thanks to his rich friend. "This five pounds will help me out of a tight hole, and I'll send it back to you in a few weeks. By the way, what is your address?"

The rich man looked solemn. "Fairview cemetery," he replied.

"O, nonsense. That's not your address."

"No," said the rich man, "but it will be before you send this five pounds back."—Montreal Star.

RAILWAY AILMENTS; A CURE

The President has appointed an informal committee of six—three representatives of management and three of labor—to draft a legislative program for the railroads, which are all suffering from a financial headache. They are faced with diminishing operating revenues, declining net incomes, shrinkage in volume of trafic, meager return on investment, and growing deficits. Nearly one-third of them are in receivership. Over one hundred and three million dollars have been added to their pay rolls to meet the requirements of the social security and railroad retirement acts. They tried desperately to relieve the pain by a dose of aspirin in the form of a 15 per cent reduction in the wages of their employés. The federal fact finding commission denied this prescription and in effect suggested a better course to follow would be for them to make a searching diagnosis and then employ remedies which the roads themselves will be able to apply. The commission recommended this even though the course of treatment does "not promise the quick financial relief offered by a wage reduction."

* * *

Rail employés have offered, in place of the wage cut, coöperation in a 10-point program. Five of these points seem to have economic merit. Some of the other five are herb tea mixtures of doubtful worth and some are sure to be injurious rather than helpful to the patient. Experience has shown that substantial rate increases will drive the trafic to competing forms of transportation. To hobble the railroads' competitors by restrictive regulatory legislation similar to that which hampers the rail carriers is economically unsound. Restatement of the rate making rule so as to recognize the right of carriers to a fair return upon the value of their property would be nothing but an idle gesture. To give the interstate commerce commission greater power over state rates would augment the disease of the roads rather than act as a cure. The proposal for the carriers to borrow a billion dollars from the government on easy terms would afford some quick relief, but its efficacy as a cure would depend upon many factors surrounding the terms of such a loan.

* * *

A serious diagnosis of the rail troubles to be made by the President's "informal committee of six" will undoubtedly reveal that the basic causes of their acute distress are:

[a] Too much regulation;
[b] Overproduction of rail transportation;
[c] Overcapitalization on basis of a reasonable earnings expectancy;
[d] Interest obligations on the enormous debt which they probably never will be able to pay;

The development of government restrictions hampering and finally practically eliminating all individual initiative of railroad management during the past fifty years is clear to the student of transportation after a study of the decisions of the interstate commerce commission. To the power to fix maximum rates has been added the paternalistic power to fix minimum rates. The provisions of the "long-and-short-haul clause" of the act have been politically administered to the despair of the carriers.

The conditions which brought about the enactment of the interstate commerce act of 1887 are not present today. And yet the present act is being administered as if there still were danger of a monopoly of railroad transportation and as if the old theory of necessity of competition among railroads to insure the public against excessive charges were not now fictitious and absurd. Competition of other forms of transportation provides the most reasonable check to unreasonable rail rates. Elimination of reparation payments on overcharges, except on proof of damage before a court of competent jurisdiction, will save the carriers and the government millions of dollars, although it will put out of business the army of so-called "rate sharks" who stir up most of this sort of litigation.

The curse of overregulation can be eliminated only by a major operation. Part 1 of the interstate commerce act needs to be rewritten in line with the present needs of both the public and the carriers. This is probably too much to expect so long as the legislative and executive branches of the government are bent upon experiments in state socialism.

* * *

The cure for overproduction of rail transportation, overcapitalization, and debt funding difficulties also demands heroic measures. Consolidation, either voluntary or enforced, is the only solution which will allow the carriers to continue under the American system of private enterprise. The only alternative to that is government ownership. A move in the right direction was made a few days ago by two protective committees for shareholders, who proposed to merge the North Western and Milwaukee railroads on a plan that would make an annual saving estimated at more than ten million dollars and provide for reorganization on a much sounder financial basis. At the same time bondholders of the Mobile and Ohio railroad and directors of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern railroad approved a plan for the consolidation of those two competing carriers. Consolidation into regional systems to avoid ruinous railroad competition, to eliminate obsolete and needless rail facilities, to effect major economies of operation, and to bring about reorganization on a sound financial basis is the objective to be aimed at. Here is where the proposal of the employés that the government lend the carriers a billion dollars might be seriously considered. Such loans should be used as a means of bringing about sound financial reorganization, following regional consolidation of competing carriers, and should be offered only to those lines which voluntarily enter into such mergers under helpful enabling legislation.

No one who had anything to do with the railroads during the period of government operation resulting from the world war wants government ownership. It is true that the advocates of a planned economy would welcome such a revolutionary move as a means of prolonging their political lives by enrolling under the banners of their machine organizations the millions of railroad workers and their dependent families and relatives. Such a scheme, if carried out in a constitutional manner, would necessitate the purchase of the railroad properties by the government. The interstate commerce commission has determined over a period of years that there have been more than twenty-five billion dollars invested in railroad property account of class I railroads. These same railroads have a capitalization of approximately eighteen and one-half billion dollars. Even the most starry-eyed economy planner must know that to saddle the government with a debt of twenty-five or even eighteen billion dollars on top of the present national debt of thirty-eight billion dollars in order to buy the railroads' properties would stretch the country's credit much beyond the breaking point.

The employés pledged their coöperation with the carriers in seeking amendment of the revenue act to exempt railroads from the undistributed profits tax and certain state taxes. They also pledged to coöperate in insisting that the relocation of bridges resulting from the improvement of navigable waters should be done at federal expense. They further offer to help secure legislation which will cause the federal government to surrender its land grant privileges. All of these proposals are constructive. If carried out by proper legislation they will be of great help toward solving the carriers' financial problems.

With the primary causes of the carriers' illness properly doctored they should be able to secure their fair share of the country's trafic in competition with other forms of transportation. They should be willing to survive or perish on "a fair field and no favors" policy.

A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP.

SLEEP is one of the mysteries of life—a period in which we surrender consciousness while breathing and the pumping of the heart continue rhythmically. Although we know something about the forces which promote this blissful state we are not able to envision the whole design.

Why do we sleep? Because we are tired? What, then, is fatigue? Do we mean merely the loss of muscle reserve or do we include mental stupor? Many a one cannot sleep, or even rest, if exhaustion is excessive. Whereupon we come back to the theory that tissue toxins—the products of overwork—can so stimulate the higher centers of the brain that slumber cannot come.

A reasonable explanation as to why we succumb to the desire to close our eyes and blot out the events of the day is that like the tides there is a period of ebb and flow in the circulation—when the blood pressure falls just enough or the capillaries in the brain contract slightly, clamping down upon the quantity of blood delivered to that organ. While there are many objections to this theory, it has a modest physiological basis.

While the mind is a blank, except perhaps for dreams, the body is not immobile. There is more or less turning from side to side, including movements of the arms and legs. This seems to be a healthful reaction—a wise provision for the prevention of bedsores, as pressure too long applied to one area may stop circulation and destroy tissues.

Probably the greatest enemy to sleep is the "fidgets." This may be described under many other terms, such as nervous tension, fear, apprehension, worry, and excitability. Sometimes physical causes can be blamed—an itching skin, a rough, wrinkled sheet, crums in bed, pain or discomfort of any sort—an aching shoulder or a cramp in the leg. Again, the couch may be uncomfortable—the mattress too soft, too hard, or lumpy; the room may be too hot, the bed clothing too heavy. Food, while often an aid, may prove to be an irritant, and late suppers with highly seasoned dishes encourage wakefulness.

Then there are those who turn night into day which—after all—is nothing but a bad habit. They can sleep like logs after 4 or 5 a. m., waking naturally about noon with an overweening desire to drowse in the late afternoon. But when bedtime comes—even midnight—they are wide awake, unable to enfold themselves in the arms of Morpheus. Retraining is about all that is needed in these cases, perhaps aided at the outset by some mild quieting drug. Such victims have developed a firm resistance against the natural performance of the function.

Another important factor in insomnia is high blood pressure, possibly influenced by toxins which the kidneys should eliminate. For these individuals the tepid bath—not over 94 degrees Fahrenheit—will prove helpful. Much can be accomplished through a readjustment of the daily program, avoiding excitement and all demands for mental concentration with a carefully regulated diet from which an overplus of protein has been omitted. With others, a 20 to 30 minute stroll out of doors, taken leisurely, just before retiring will prove salutary. The lungs are filled with fresh air and a comfortable sense of relaxation is induced. Brisk walks are for the morning—not the evening.

Sleeping drugs should not be used regularly—that is, if increasing doses are required to produce a given effect. But insomnia can inaugurate a vicious circle. The loss of rest may increase the elements that promote wakefulness. It is far wiser to use a bromide or some other doze-producing compound than to allow jagged nerves to deepen exhaustion.

Of course, some people will never learn how to rest. They are unable to snatch even a moment during the day, which should be the rule with every housewife—at least for an hour each afternoon. Not only is the heart relieved of a sizable load but the nervous system picks up considerable reserve. If sleep comes, well and good. If not, the relaxation has accomplished its purpose. But no one in all fairness should complain about staying awake after an evening of excitement with the nervous system keyed to a high pitch.

TREATING TUBERCULOSIS.

A. D. writes: How long does it take to heal tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Tuberculosis in the early stages can be arrested by several months of bed rest followed by a rigid schedule of gradually increasing exercise. The exact period required for healing varies in each case. Cure is said to be complete if no relapse occurs within approximately one year.

TOOTH EXTRACTIONS.

A. H. T. writes: In the extraction of abscessed teeth is it advisable to take gas or a local anesthetic?

REPLY.

A local usually is satisfactory. Only one or two teeth should be removed at a time.

YEAST.

B. W. writes: Is there any difference between brewer's and ordinary yeast?

REPLY.

There is no essential difference.

A NATIVE GERMAN'S VIEWS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—As a native German I want to stress the fact that we Germans here in the United States have nothing, and do not want to have anything, to do with the present government in Germany. We reject any community with a government which permits their trained, nevertheless uncivilized and rude hordes, to govern with brutality over the majority of helpless people. Any German of character and a feeling for decency will be deeply ashamed of such goings on as of late in a formerly beautiful country.

It should be the duty of every other nation to discontinue relations with the present German government, where a so-called minister named Dr. Goebbels is not afraid to belittle the grewsome deeds publicly. Only in this way can the German people be helped to regain freedom and another chance to enjoy anew a decent and peace loving government.

HANDICAP TO A GALA AFFAIR.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—One important event that all high school seniors joyously anticipate is their senior promenade, that gala affair that marks the termination of a high school career.

But we, the students of Wells, have our senior promenades in the school gymnasium as an ordinary extracurriculum dance. This leaves us with nothing really eventful to look forward to. Other Chicago high schools enjoy the privilege of having this most important of all senior activities at some more appropriate place—a hotel or a club.

We have brought our grievances to the faculty heads and pleaded our case, but all to no avail. They obviously intend to handle us as a group of elementary students. If we had some concrete evidence on why better proms are opposed the present situation would be less tense and student coöperation would be extended to establish a new and better policy.

ABOUT ALIMONY SEEKERS.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—How about a new shuffle for the victims of gold-digging, alimony seeking wives? The courts are supposed to dispense justice, but all the average man gets in the divorce courts is a headache. Some of the stories told by these wives are masterpieces of fantastic hallucinations, but they get away with them—and how! How a judge, who is supposed to have been elected for his knowledge and ability to administer capably the many diverse situations that occur in lawsuits, can accept some of the stories that wives concoct is more than I can see. The Appellate court report was a profound understatement.

WOULD ORGANIZE OLDSTERS.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—H. S. Ayling's suggestion for the formation of an organization for those of advancing years is indeed laudable. Such a movement, which could be coupled with the so-called white collar workers, should certainly prove a big help to humanity.

I think that a "get-together" in the formation of such an organization counseled by intelligent minds and a medium such as THE TRIBUNE as its spokesman in helping to spread the movement, may ultimately prove a force that would be helpful to those who are being neglected in this great maelstrom of political changes.

Organizations seem to be the order of the day. The thought should not only interest those who are in need but primarily those who otherwise are in sympathy with the cause to help their fellow man. Who can tell when any one of us even though comfortably situated now may in the future thank God for an organization of this kind. For today what can ages of 45 and up see ahead with our present setup?

Chicago, Nov. 15.—I have been looking for praise for the wonderful act of the young man who so heroically rescued the litle lad who fell into the sewer the other day. USE AND OCCUPANCY.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought an island in a Wisconsin lake and in return received the following title to a piece of shore land: This indenture, made this 28th day of July, 1938, by and between —— and ——, his wife, hereafter referred to as the grantors, and ——, grantees. The grantors do hereby give to the said grantees, and heirs, and assigns [1] the perpetual use and occupancy of that certain tract of land, but [2] in no way encroach upon any present right of ways, said land situated and located in the county of ——, State of Wisconsin, legally described as follows: . . . Legal description follows. The above is signed by four witnesses and has notary seal.

3. Is the above title legal and does it give me absolute possession? G. H. R.

1. It is unusual to grant the use and occupancy instead of granting the land itself. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the reason for this unusual wording.

2. The meaning of this wording is not clear to us. Obviously the island itself would not encroach on any right of way. If what is meant that no right of way to the island is conveyed, this is not clearly stated.

3. It is nearly always advisable for a purchaser of real estate to employ an attorney throughout, and we suggest that you employ one now.

BUILDING EXITS.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—My friends all tell me that there is a fire law stating there should be two entrances, front and rear, if a person or family live higher than the first floor. It so happens my husband, two children, and myself live in an attic that has only a rear entrance. The house is of wood construction. The landlord could easily put in a front entrance. A. L.

Our inspector reports that it is a one story and attic frame building on a concrete block foundation. The four room attic flat has a rear stairs only and the owner has been notified to provide a front stairs from attic to grade.

Failure to comply with notice within the time specified will necessitate our proceeding according to law.

OSLO.—A 1,600 mile highway from the southern tip of Norway to the Finnish frontier in the extreme northeast is the latest item in Norway's rapid road development.

Already large sections of the road are complete, and by 1942 the whole stretch will be ready for use. It will complete continuous road connections from the farthest parts of Norway to Cape Town, South Africa, if you do not care how roundabout the route is.

Road building has developed rapidly in the last few years in Norway. When automobiles came into general use there were demands from all parts of the country for improvements. A special tax was levied on automobiles to pay for them. There now are 70,000 cars in use in Norway, and more and better roads for them are being built.

There are difficulties in the way of road development in Norway, which has an area of 124,556 square miles. Much of it is rugged and mountainous, and the coastline is one of the most broken to be found anywhere. Deep fjords and sounds cut back into the mountains, and roads must be carefully planned.

Added to that, the country is sparsely populated, with only nine persons to the square kilometer. In Finnmark, the biggest district, the average is only one person to a square kilometer.

The result is that road building not only is difficult and expensive, but there are only 70,000 cars to bear the tax burden.

In 1870 the total length of public roads in Norway was about 12,000 miles. Now it is well over 25,000 miles. Nearly all the old roads have been resurfaced and made suitable for motor trafic.

FLEEING ROBBER SUSPECT SHOT; PAL CAPTURED

Doctors' Nurse Phones for Police Aid.

One robbery suspect was shot and critically wounded and his companion was captured yesterday by police on the tenth floor of the Butler building, 162 North State street. Both men are ex-convicts.

Police were summoned after Miss Gertrude Stein, receptionist in the offices of Drs. David M. Shayne and A. E. Stamler, thought she recognized the men as the ones who held her up several months ago. A squad from the 1st district arrived and seized the men in the reception room of the office.

Have Records as Robbers.

They gave their names as Robert Kent, 39 years old, of the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 821 South Wabash avenue, and James G. Royals, 37, of 1116 East 64th street. Both have served time as robbers. A search of the tenth floor by police uncovered a pistol in a washroom. Kent and Royals denied they had put it there.

As they were being led toward an elevator, Kent broke away and dashed down a stairway. After calling to him to halt, Policeman Bernard Zeintek opened fire on Kent with a pistol. One charge struck the fugitive in the side, critically wounding him.

Kent was taken to the Bridewell hospital. During moments of consciousness he shouted that he wished he had been shot in the left side and killed.

Finger Prints Give Him Away.

Royals was taken to the detective bureau, where finger-prints disclosed he was convicted of armed robbery in 1921 and sentenced to serve from ten years to life in Joliet. He was paroled in 1931 and was discharged from parole in February of this year.

Dr. Stamler and Miss Janet Moore, a nurse, together with Miss Stein, were taken to the detective bureau to make statements. They were questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin.

Police asked why one of the reception rooms in the office suite was kept locked. They said they were told no one was admitted to this room until after being scrutinized from within. The police were informed that this room was reserved for women patients only; that men were not admitted.

It was through the glass panel in this door that Miss Stein saw Kent and Royals.

RETURN TWO HIGH SCHOOL ELOPERS FOUND IN GARY

Juvenile authorities of Berwyn last night assumed jurisdiction of a boy and a girl, each 16 years old, pupils in the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero, who eloped on Nov. 9. They were found yesterday in a Gary, Ind., hotel. They had not been married.

They are Edwina Laws, who lives with her mother and stepfather, Edward Fishman, at 2535 Cuyler avenue, and Edward Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins, 6440 West 27th place, both in Berwyn. Edwina is a freshman and Edward a junior.

Refused permission to marry, Collins said they left school, intending to be married at Crown Point. They were unable to get a license because of their youth. Collins said they then went to live in the hotel, believing that if they lived together for four days they would be legally married. The parents of the pair said last night they were willing to have a marriage performed, but that they would abide by the decision of the juvenile authorities.

FINANCE EXPERT BELIEVED SLAIN THROUGH ERROR

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Police hunted through a 500 family apartment building tonight for a man resembling John F. O'Hara, who was slain by two assassins last night when he started to enter the court leading to the building in which he lived with his widowed mother and sister.

O'Hara, 26 years old and described as an exemplary employé by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., was believed to have been a victim of mistaken identity. The killers stepped from shadows last night and fired four shots into his body. Then they ran to a car in which two companions were waiting and escaped. The killers made no attempt at robbery.

O'Hara's employers said he was an expert in examining municipal finances. They added that there was nothing about his work that might have placed his life in jeopardy. His sister, Betty, 20 years old, said he was too busy to bother about girls. He was graduated from Syracuse university five years ago.

2 BOOKIE BANDITS TO FACE MURDER TRIAL TOMORROW

Charles Lane, 30 years old, and William Wright, 24, wil go to trial tomorrow in the Criminal court before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne on murder charges resulting from the attempted robbery of a handbook at 3633 North Halsted street on Sept. 22. John Bozula, the handbook manager, Mrs. Lucille Budassi, a patron, and a third robber were shot and killed when police surprised the bandits during the robbery. Lane, an ex-convict, and Wright, will first be tried for the death of Bozula.

RAPIST FACES TRIAL FOR LIFE AS A KIDNAPER

Prosecution under the Lindbergh kidnaping law which carries a possible death penalty was started yesterday against Charles W. Greisemer, 19 years old. Greisemer, a parole violator, confessed kidnaping Mrs. Adele Schreiner, a grain broker's wife, driving her across a state line and raping her twice. He was arrested Friday in a stolen automobile after a chase by Hyde Park police.

United State's Commissioner Edwin K. Walker issued a warant charging Greisemer with kidnaping. He did so at the request of Assistant United States Attorney Martin Ward, who said the Lindbergh law provides for the death penalty in cases where bodily harm has been inflicted on a victim who has been transported across a state line. Mrs. Schreiner, who lives at the Hotel Windermere East, was taken to Gary in a car and was attacked twice on the way by her assailant.

Service of the warant will be withheld, Prosecutor Ward said, pending action against Greisemer by the state's attorney's office. INSULATION

SEE HOW LITTLE INSULATION COSTS!

Remember heat rises, and good insulation applied between the joists of your attic floor will pay for itself in fuel savings in a short time. To demonstrate how little insulation costs we have compiled these figures for an average size house.

AN ATTIC FLOOR, 25'x35' INSULATED WITH

BALSAM WOOL would cost only $40.13 material only

Balsam Wool is a blanket type of insulation—sealed against moisture. It will not sag or deteriorate and is the only insulation backed with a money back guarantee by the manufacturer. It is very easy to apply. An attic floor, 25'x35', would take 3½ rolls of ½ inch Balsam Wool and would cut your heat losses 43%.

MICA PELLETS would cost only $47.53 material only

You simply open the bag and pour the pellets between the attic floor joists for a long lasting, vermin-proof efficient insulation. An attic floor, 25'x35', would take 49 four cubic foot bags and would give you 3 inches of insulation.

MINERAL WOOL would cost only $48.95 material only

Well-made mineral wool batts, manufactured by U. S. Gypsum and Johns-Manville, fit snugly between the attic floor joists and give you another way of cutting down your fuel bills. An attic floor 25'x35' would take 55 sixteen square foot bags and would give you 4 inches of insulation.

LEADERS UPHOLD ADVERTISING AS CONSUMERS' AID

Club and Trade Executives Tell Benefits.

Clubwomen, merchants, business men, and advertising executives joined yesterday in a counter attack upon recent charges by Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, the New Deal's trust buster, that competitive advertising breeds monopoly.

Mrs. W. E. Fribley.

Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, president of the Housewives' League of Chicago and chairman of the Cook County Consumers' council, scoffed at Arnold's charges.

"All this shouting and roaring about monopoly is getting tiresome," she said. "Women who have no interest in business other than to see it give us a fair deal and bring prosperity to the country wish this fighting could be replaced by more coöperation.

Advertising Lowers Prices.

"It's a simple fact that because of competitive advertising, prices are lowered to the benefit of the consumer. In the end, we, the buyers of the goods advertised, are the beneficiaries.

"The real test is the product itself. Advertising creates a desire among rival manufacturers to better their product. Hence, we again benefit. If the product fails to live up to expectations, people will stop buying—no matter how extensive the campaign. To say that one manufacturer who advertises more widely and more often than another thus creates a monopoly is silly. They have to let us know about their products. Their advertisments are the proper media through which to do it."

Comments from Others.

Comments from others who replied to Arnold's attack are as follows:

David Mayer, president, State Street council: "Advertising of the competitive sort has been a boon to the consumer. It has kept prices down. It is an elementary rule of economics that advertising creates a legitimate demand, resulting in a lower price for commodities. It seems to me that Mr. Arnold's statement implies a subtle desire to restrain the liberty and freedom of the press."

Donald B. Douglas, vice president, Quaker Oats company: "How are people to know of the benefits of a product except through the manufacturers' advertising? Years ago, it took two hours to cook oatmeal; now it takes two minutes. We had to let the consumer know of the new improvements as they were developed. We did it through advertisments. The story of competitive advertising is a story of consumer benefit. Destroy it and you destroy the incentive for improving products."

Kenneth Barnard, president, Chicage Better Business bureau: "Competitive advertising promotes rather than prevents initiative of smaller business men. It is beyond doubt the greatest creator of business rather than a deterrent. If I understand Mr. Arnold correctly, he believes that a corporation which has enough money to advertise widely and frequently is violating anti-monopoly laws. That's silly."

Advertising Limited in Decree.

Arnold's blast against advertising was made in Washington last week in connection with a consent decree agreement in the automobile financing anti-trust suits involving the Ford, Chrysler, Commercial Credit, and Universal Credit corporations. Under the decree, Ford and Chrysler are to limit the scope of their advertising as regards their financing companies.

He used the announcement of the agreement as a means of declaring that competitive advertising — in which a manufacturer encourages sales of his own product over another—tends to foster monopoly. Such advertising was unjust, Arnold said, because larger corporations had greater appropriations to spend on extensive campaigns, thus thwarting any competition from smaller manufacturers.

Much of the discussion at Tuesday's regional conference of the central council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies will revolve around the issues provoked by Arnold's pronouncements. The conference will be held in the Medinah Athletic club and will be attended by advertising executives in th middle west.

Body of Attaturk Is Moved to Ankara for Funeral

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The body of Kemal Ataturk, "father" of modern Turkey and its first president, was taken by warship and train today to Ankara, the capital he built. Funeral services will be held there Monday.

Mohammedan prayers and verses from the Koran were recited at the request of his family over the man who fought Moslem priests and transformed Turkey into a lay republic.

Find Body of Boy Missing Nine Days in Mountains

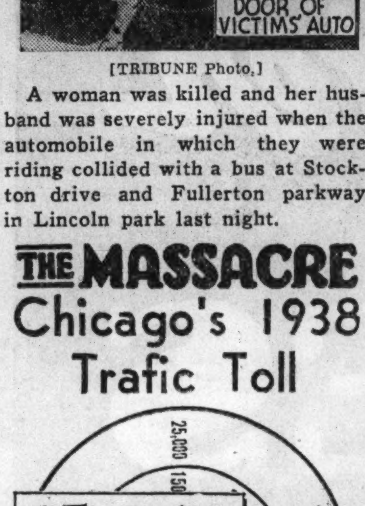
Portal, Ariz., Nov. 19.—[U. P.]—Two forest rangers today found the body of Jerry Hays, 5 years old, who had been missing for nine days in the Chiricahua mountains, where his parents had established a hunting camp. The rangers, James Wheeler and J. W. Corryell, said the boy perished from exposure and exhaustion. The body was found three miles from the hunting camp, from where he wandered a week ago Friday.

Fatal Crash in Park

DOOR OF VICTIMS' AUTO

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A woman was killed and her husband was severely injured when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a bus at Stockton drive and Fullerton parkway in Lincoln park last night.



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

BUS KNOCKS CAR 125 FEET; WOMAN DIES; MATE HURT

3 Others Dead in Day's Trafic Accidents.

A woman was killed and her husband was injured critically last night when a southbound bus of the Chicago Motor Coach company struck an automobile at Stockton drive and Fullerton avenue. Thirty passengers on the bus were shaken, but none was hurt, it was said. The car was knocked 125 feet.

Mrs. Catherine Panuska, 610½ Belden avenue, and her husband Frank, both 63 years old, were the victims. Panuska, who was driving, was taken to the Columbus Memorial hospital. Richard Tannydinardo, 2541 Jackson boulevard, the bus driver, said Panuska made a sudden west turn into Fullerton avenue and that he could not prevent the heavier vehicle striking the car.

Second Woman Killed.

Mrs. Rose Lewis, 49 years old, 5412 Magnolia avenue, was killed last night when she was struck at Ogden and Homan avenues by an automobile driven by Henry Opie, 21, of 892 North Sacramento avenue. He was held.

Rasmus Rassmusen, 46 years old, of 2458 West North avenue, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Harry Heyle, 5501 North Parkside avenue, at North and Campbell avenues. Witnesses said Rassmusen stepped or fell from a safety island. He died in St. Elizabeth hospital.

Killed by Train.

Yesterday morning William Koss, 52 years old, of 557 North Hough street, in the suburb, was killed by a Chicago & North Western train which swept down upon a crossing near Koss' home and struck his car.

Because of a village ordinance, trains do not whistle as they pass through Barrington.

Barrington residents have protested the ordinance, but a coroner's jury yesterday afternoon held that, inasmuch as flasher lights at the crossing were in operation, Koss' death was accidental.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday, 761 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 587 were killed in Chicago, where 17,949 were injured during the same period.

MOTOR CLUBS HIT POLITICAL RULE IN ROAD BUILDING

Take Stand Against U. S. Toll Highways.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The American Automobile association ended a four day convention this afternoon by adopting a sixteen plank platform for advocacy by its 750 affiliated clubs during the ensuing year. The planks are as follows:

1. Highway planning. Eliminate politics as an influence in road building programs. Let engineering surveys and sound economics dictate the programs.

2. Transcontinental toll roads. Oppose 12 billion dollar transcontinental system of toll superhighways advocated in congress.

3. Trucks. Regulate freighters for safety, including week-end restrictions, and tax them fairly for their proportionate use of public pavements.

4. Roadsides. Eliminate the blight of unsightliness along American highways. Control billboards and other wayside activities.

5. Health. Enforce health regulations of roadside catering establishments to protect motor travelers from syphilis and other common communicable diseases.

6. Border barriers. Repeal requirements in some states for visiting motorists to obtain permits as if they were in a foreign country.

7. Speed traps. Place enforcement officers and tribunals on a strictly salary basis, with no financial interest in convictions.

8. Enforcement. Support sound enforcement of trafic regulations to reduce accidents and to facilitate trafic movement. Coöperate with the American Bar association and the international association of chiefs of police in improving methods.

9. Pedestrians. Aid cities in reducing hazards for those afoot. Two-thirds of the trafic toll in cities are pedestrians.

10. Auto trade. Urge automotive industry to follow fair trade practices.

11. Federal control. Oppose federal control of drivers or private passenger car trafic.

12. Animals. Remove roving animals from the highways, especially roadside grazers in southeastern states.

13. Parking. Foster development of off-street parking facilities in central business districts.

14. Headlights. Institute frequent inspection of headlights.

15. Bicycles. Formulate safety regulations for the growing cycle trafic.

16. Signs. Prohibit illuminated or reflectorized advertising signs which interfere with effectiveness of stop-and-go signals or official trafic signs.

At previous conventions the association has advocated elevated highway construction. This year directors decided to retain previously adopted planks without repeating of them in the new platform.

Thomas P. Henry, a Detroit lumberman, was reëlected president, and Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, was reëlected first vice president.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

ANDERSON—Ture Anderson, two years today. VIOLET, CHILDREN.

CHAPLEAU—Earl Chapleau Jr. [Buster]. In loving memory, my loving son, who passed away one year ago, Nov. 17, 1937.

When evening shades are falling
And I am sitting all alone,
In my heart there is a longing
For you to come home.
We cannot say and will not say
"Buster is dead"—he's just away.
And some day dear, I too will be
In that unknown land where
Peace and comfort go hand in hand.
Sweetheart, that day will be when
You come home to take care of me
With you and Dad.
Over the hill to the promised land.
MOTHER.

MAY—Anna Elizabeth May. A tribute of sincere love. I cherish the memory of my dearly beloved mother, who passed away eight years ago today, Nov. 20, 1930.

In the graveyard, softly sleeping;
When the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one I love so dearly,

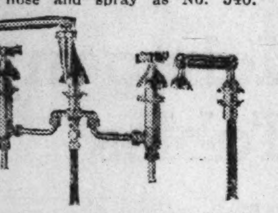
The No. 444 Swing-Spout Sink Faucet is one of the most popular on the market. It is famed for its rugged dependability. Overhead spout is high enough for filling deep vessels. All metal chromium plated.

Graceful horizontal lines distinguish the No. 641-A Swing-Spout Sink Faucet. Its low height (only 8¼ inches) makes it especially adaptable to the new low-backed sinks. Rubber hose and spray with push-button diverter. All metal chromium plated. Can also be furnished less hose and spray as No. 540.



For those popular ledge-type (backless) sinks, this No. 739-A Swing-Spout Sink Faucet with concealed hose and spray meets every requirement. Spout is high enough for filling deep vessels. THIS VOCATIONAL SCHOOL COMES THROUGH PANIC

Does No Fawning to Get Doles from Burocrats.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Robert Lawrence Cooley.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Milwaukee's Vocational school—early model for such schools in America and Europe—has come gloriously through the panic decade. It has come through with sanity and self-respect. It did not fawn on burocracy for doles, and, far from lessening its activities, it widened them.

Last night its director said:

"There are more young people in the Vocational school tonight than there are in all the dance halls, movies, and taverns of Milwaukee combined."

Attendance for the current school week, ending at 9:15 o'clock tonight, was 18,841 individuals, ranging from 14 to 25 years of age. There are 2,600 more on the waiting list.

Up to Minute Figures.

In view of those up-to-the-minute figures Milwaukee's oncoming generation is not a source of foreboding to Director Cooley. "Oh," he added, "there are plenty of individual instance that cause one deep concern, but, my grief!" [his only expletive and smacking of his New England origin] "in the ancient writings, and ever since, the younger generation seems always to have been hell-bent, and when it gets so that we older people are entirely unconcerned about it that won't be a good thing, either. We can worry, but we needn't despair. Point is about the present younger generation, that no other generation has seen such changes as this one has. The past had them, too, but they just weren't so rapid.

"During the depression this school, of course, has had to face the problem of the bewildered drifters, the unemployed, and the gropers for employment. Four or five years ago that problem was worst. It was critical before that, and it's still critical, but it was worst then. Well, we held that group of disheartened away from joining up with mobs and gangsters—and if this school had done nothing else it would have paid for itself. When I say that I speak in the terms of a budget that comes to $1,267,000 for this year and will be $1,347,000 next year. In maintaining its vocational school Milwaukee has, throughout the depression, consistently borne a greater burden than ever before, and the school grew with the needs hard times laid upon it."

School Teacher for 48 Years.

For pithy talk wherein every word is a needed word, Robert Lawrence Cooley is the most remarkable and heartening man I have encountered in forty-eight years of interviewing. For forty-six years he has been a school teacher—"schoolman" he calls himself—in Wisconsin, beginning with a country school up in the Green Bay region. The Milwaukee Vocational school, which is no mere trade school, started twenty-six years ago with a table, two chairs, no money, an unpopular law—the Wisconsin industrial education act—and with Cooley.

Today that school occupies the largest building in this city. Its floor space comes to twelve acres and its whole plant, including the land, cost 5 millions. It has 210 classrooms and laboratories, two beautiful auditoriums, one seating 2,000, the other 1,000; two gymnasiums, two cafeterias where the service is not thrown at you, but is dainty; a swimming pool, and a library of 10,000 volumes of belles lettres.

On its day-school faculty it has 300 teachers in full time employment and 400 others in its night school. The school's year is ten months. Day schol begins at 8 in the morning and ends at 4 in the afternoon, and 8,000 boys, girls, and adults come to it. Evening school is from 7 o'clock until 9:15 and there the attendance is 11,000. Some of the pupils come one day a week, some two, some three, some four, some five. Picking and choosing from nearly a hundred cultural and industrial courses, they study, among other subjects, French, German, Spanish, music, drawing, elementary and higher mathematics, engineering, and the anatomy, chemistry and bacteriology of trained nursing.

Large Volunteer Attendance.

Founded on a law which makes at least one day a week of education compulsory for every gainfully employed child of 18 years or under, this school has far outgrown all aspect of compulsion, a fact beautifully illustrated by its voluntary attendance, which is two-thirds of the total attendance.

Now, instead of trying to dazzle you with more figures about this amazing benefaction, I will withdraw from the scene and give you the whole spirit of the school by giving you—in his own words—the human Cooley.

Robert Cooley is 69 years old and looks like a ruddy, prosperous, jolly banker—if there is such a being.

And he talks thus, the pithy sentences being culled, almost at random, from notes I made during a long, vivid evening of strict attention to his words:

"All we are trying to do in this school is to civilize people—that is, to teach them to live civilly in civil life.

"You have got to build a man while you are building a plumber. It's not enough to make craftsmen. You must make men.

"What's a school? A device to get you from where you are to where you want to be. But it isn't education. A man might ride a hundred thousand miles and still not be a traveled man. So, too, he can go to school and yet never be an educated man. A boy can hitch-hike his way through school, but it doesn't count. It's not progress.

"Hitchhiking all your life on other people's energy is a bad thing.

"A schoolboy is a good deal like a clock. You can take a clock sometimes and shake it and make it go—but you haven't fixed it.

"If a boy in a fit of temper calls me a darn old fool the only thing for me to do is to sit down and ask, 'Well, how near right is that boy?'

"No matter how difficult a situation is, irritation doesn't help to solve it.

"There are a lot of things that don't matter if you just overlook 'em.

"Character is that without which nothing else matters. Hence this school's emphasis on the cultural and ethical aspects of life. For what does it get you to train a fine locksmith if he uses his skill to pick a lock instead of making one?

School Is Not Hampered.

"The supreme blessing this school has enjoyed is that it hasn't been hampered by people who demanded to see the chicken before we had any egg.

"Adequacy of view or of act is a thing you must grow to. When you climb higher you see more. There is a way to do things, and you can't do them the way they can't be done.

"If a boy has a little vanity you've got some kind of hold on him, for maybe vanity can be transmuted into pride and pride into self-respect.

"We can't afford undeveloped people in our country any more. They're a drag on us. We must have a good level of general development. We can't operate with stars only. I'd rather raise the general level an eighth of an inch than build up a few mole hills. Human junk is so expensive we must quit making it."

There, friends, you have the spirit of Cooley, and the spirit of Cooley is the spirit of the great Milwaukee Vocational school.

BANKS AND TRUST COMPANIES AID COMMUNITY FUND

Announcement was made yesterday of further pledges to the Community Fund campaign by a group of Chicago banking institutions and trust companies.

The participating companies included the Northern Trust company, $17,300; the Chicago Title and Trust company, $11,500; the Harris Trust and Savings bank, $10,500; Merchandise National Bank of Chicago and employés, $1,947; Mercantile Trust and Savings bank and employés, $1,199; Lake View Trust and Savings bank, $800, and the Mutual National Bank of Chicago and employés, $400.

The drive will close its fifth week Tuesday with approximately two-thirds of the $3,550,00 objective realized. Following that date 7,500 workers will concentrate on a final effort to reach the goal.

Seized for Passing Bad Check; Tells of Others

Richard Weyburne, 54 years old, of the Fort Dearborn hotel, was arrested yesterday in the office of the Advertising Production company, 230 East Ohio street. Zinri Van McCluggage, the manager, said Weyburne had passed a worthless $75 check and was trying to cash another one. Since his prosperous State street shoe store failed twelve years ago, Weyburne said he had cashed about $3,000 worth of fraudulent checks in an effort to meet increasing debts.

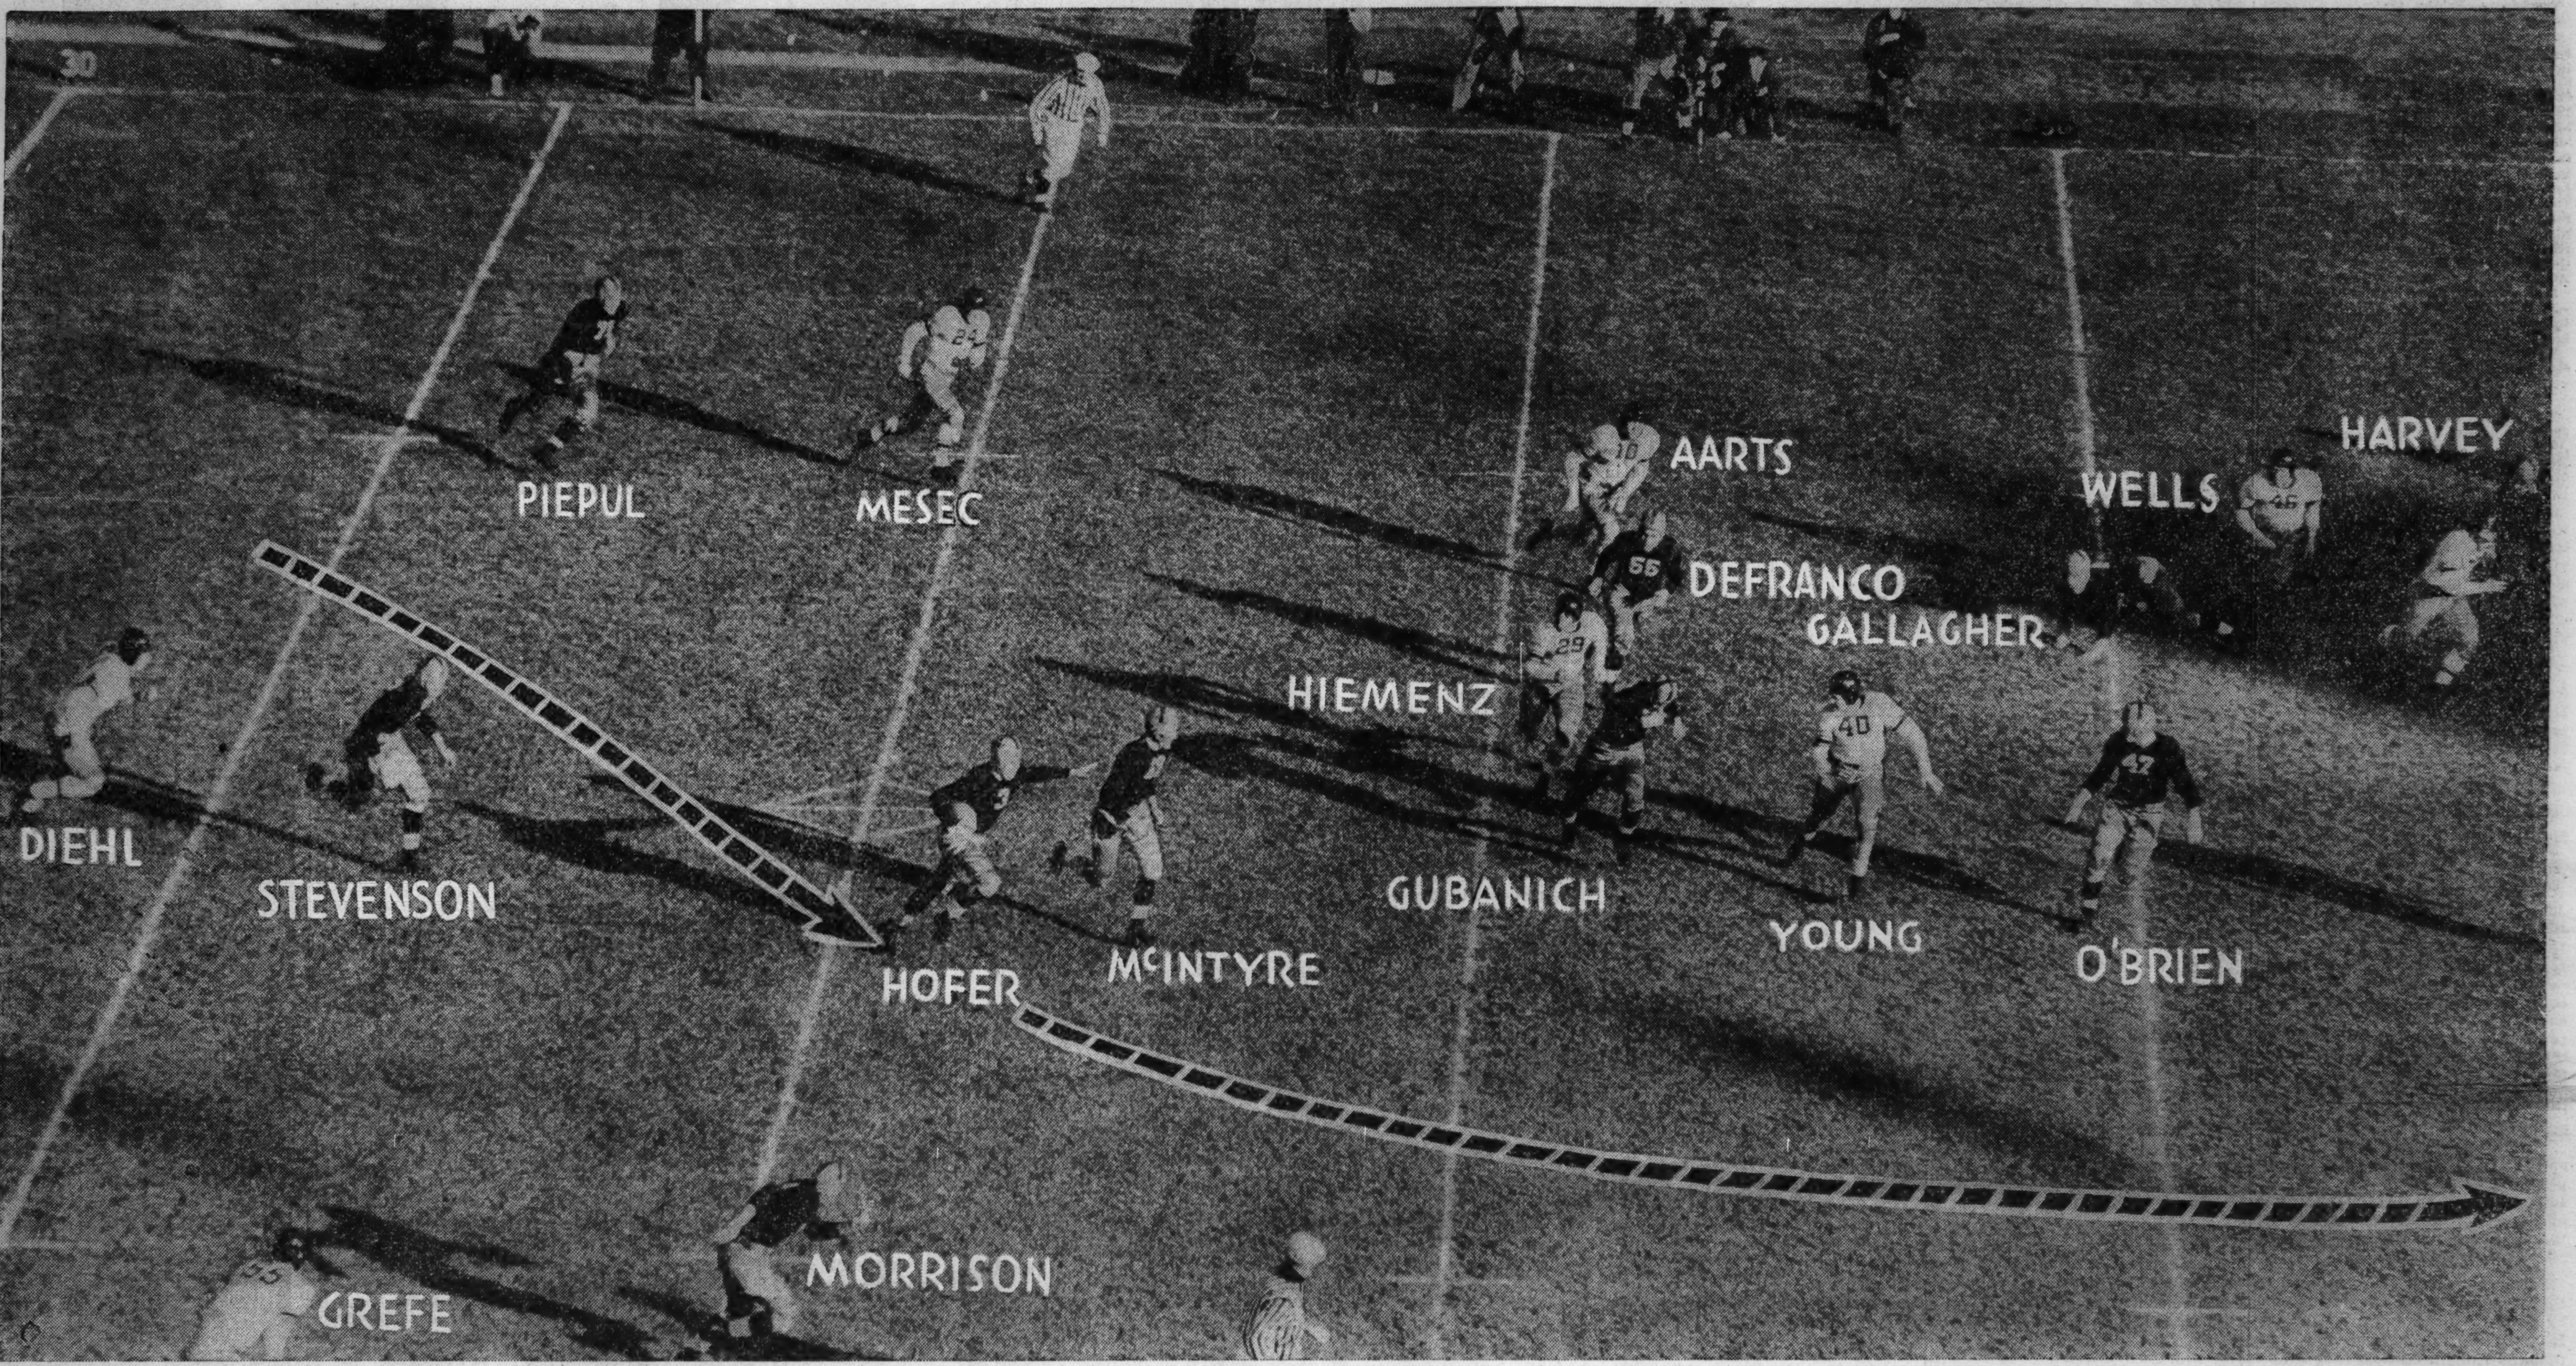
NOTRE DAME BEATS N. U., 9-7; EIGHT IN ROW

MINNESOTA WHIPS WISCONSIN; WINS TITLE

HOFER SETS OUT FOR THE GOAL LINE WITH AN IRISH ESCORT



Willard Hofer, husky Notre Dame reserve quarter back, starts his 65 yard run for touchdown with an intercepted pass in the second quarter of yesterday's game in Dyche stadium, where the Irish whipped Northwestern, 9 to 7, to remain unbeaten. Not a Northwestern man touched Hofer on his jaunt. Surrounded by interferers almost instantly, he followed an escort of teammates over to the right and on down the sidelines. This picture tells plainly why the desperate Wildcats were unable to catch him. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BADGERS WILT BEFORE GOPHER POWER, 21 TO 0

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 19.—Minnesota's mighty men of the north, suspected of anemia a couple of times during this 1938 football season, regained their strength in full today by trouncing Wisconsin, 21 to 0, on Camp Randall field. An overflow crowd of 41,000 saw the golden Gophers retain their undisputed claim to the Western conference championship, a title they have held in whole or in part for four of the last five years.

Minnesota's performance this afternoon left no doubt in the minds of even the Badger faithful. It was undoubtedly the Gophers' finest exhibition of the season and left many of their fans wondering "Where have they been all season? Why couldn't they have played like this against Northwestern and Notre Dame?"

Badgers Just Negative.

For Wisconsin the result was an unhappy one. Today's game presented the Badgers with their richest opportunity in ten years to win the championship, which would have been their first since 1912. It can be pointed out, however, that the home boys' play swung as sharply to the negative as Minnesota's work did to the positive.

On the basis of today's play, none will deny Minnesota's right to its possession of the title. The forwards who had been run over by Northwestern's line turned in a superlative job of charging, blocking, and tackling. The Gopher backs ran the touted Wisconsin aerial attack into the ground, the while executing reverse plays perfectly, seasoned with a couple of fancy lateral efforts.

Get to 6 Yard Line.

The Badgers, on the other hand, appeared actually lackadaisical in

Harvard 4th Period Drive Beats Yale, 7-0

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—In a setting of rain and mud, Yale and Harvard fought it out today before 62,000 in the Yale bowl for the fifty-seventh time. At the end Crimson flares burned through the wet twilight in a symbol of victory. The score was 7 to 0. There was no semblance of the rout Yale had feared. That Harvard score had come, the result of brilliant running and passing with a wet ball, late in the final quarter, and a minute from the end Yale was threatening deep in Harvard territory.

Harvard, the heavy favorite, for three periods was set back on its heels. Yet, at the close, it struck through the air and over the ground to earn the winning score.

Yale Fails on Field Goal.

A third down pass, started from kick formation deep in its own territory, began things for Harvard. A Yale attack had ended when Johnny Miller failed to kick a field goal with the water logged ball from the 26 yard line.

Harvard started on the 20. Two plays were set back with no gain and Frank Foley went back to kick formation. But Foley wasn't punting. Instead, he threw a long pass to his left, to Bert MacDonald, who grabbed it on the 25 and fought his way to a first down on the 40. From there Harvard went to the touchdown.

MacDonald Catches Touchdown Pass.

MacDonald and Foley between them picked up a first down at the Yale 46. Gardella picked up a few more yards and then, almost for the first time during the game, a Harvard reverse worked for long yardage. MacDonald went wide around his left end and was almost loose when Gil Humphrey shoved him out of bounds on the Yale 10 yard line. It was a run of almost thirty yards.

Foley picked up a foot or so into the line and then, out of a running play, moved to his right and cut loose with a pass over right tackle to McDonald in the end zone. Eddie Collins of Yale was there with MacDonald and the pair jumped to-

PURDUE SCORES 13 TO 6 VICTORY OVER INDIANA

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 19.—Jack Brown, Purdue junior from Indianapolis, this afternoon took Indiana's opening kickoff on his 2 yard line and ran ninety-eight yards to a touchdown, after which Lou Brock added the point. Thereafter each side added a touchdown and failed to add the point. Thus was the forty-first football game between Hoosierdom's two Big Ten rivals decided, 13 to 6, with the Boilermakers retaining the Old Oaken Bucket which they won last year, 13 to 7. Thirty-two thousand, a record for the series, saw the game.

Fumble Checks Indiana.

Indiana, set to redeem itself after a one victory season, was stunned and for a few minutes after the second kickoff, when an Indiana fumble gave Purdue the ball, it appeared there would be a rout. But Indiana intercepted a pass on its 5 yard line and from then on the battle was a brilliant standoff.

Brown's touchdown and the added point stood up through the first half. At the start of the second half Indiana started furiously, but there was a fumble after the Hoosiers had advanced twenty-three yards and Purdue recovered on Indiana's 43. Indiana drew an offside penalty, after which Brock added eighteen yards. Brown and Brock made seven yards on two plays and Brown sprinted wide for a first down on Indiana's 9. Brock then waded through a flock of defenders to make the touchdown standing up. Lou's effort to add the point was blocked.

Pass Goes for First Down.

With Clee Maddox and Ray Dumke setting the pace overland and Harold Hursh doing some swell pitching, the Hoosiers went to work for their touchdown shortly after the opening of the fourth quarter. The final

Michigan Scores Over Ohio for 1st Time in 5 Years, 18-0

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—Michigan called halt this afternoon to Ohio State's football dictatorship. After four consecutive defeats, in which span the Buckeyes had scored 114 points to none for Michigan, the Wolverines hammered and passed to an 18 to 0 conquest for a brilliant conclusion to their best campaign since the championship season of 1933. The victory was doubly gratifying since it shattered Buckeye hopes for a share of the Western conference title.

A near capacity throng of homecomers, 67,554, watched the thirty-fifth battle between these ancient rivals. And after Ohio State's first quarter attack that carried to Michigan's 20 yard line before crumbling against the Wolverines' defenses, the Buckeye partisans only could wait for an inevitable verdict.

Wolverines Have a Defense.

Michigan led, 6 to 0, at the half. But the hope that Ohio State might get a tying touchdown, might even win by virtue of a kick after touchdown even as Minnesota previously had given Michigan its only defeat of the year, vanished before the impenetrable rugged Michigan defense.

On the sixth play of the last period, Tom Harmon passed fifteen yards to Ed Frutig in the Ohio State end zone. That touchdown sealed the Buckeyes' fate, but with less than five minutes remaining, Fred Trosko, Harmon's substitute, swept around the State's right end for thirty-six yards and the final tabulation of three touchdowns to none.

Ohio State, by comparison with Michigan's alert, fast charging line, by comparison with Michigan's crashing tacklers who seldom missed in close line play and never failed in the open field, today was convicted of indifferent play. Michigan had superiority in every department except kicking.

Block and Tackle Well.

Michigan handled the ball more cleanly, as Ohio State's six fumbles to Michigan's two attest. Once again Michigan proved that there can be no

ILLINOIS ROLLS OVER HAPLESS MAROONS, 34-0

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Illinois dealt Chicago the final blow of another football season in the forty-second game of their historic series yesterday afternoon on Stagg field before 5,000. Though the Illini victory margin was 34 to 0, the Maroons took this last punch standing up.

They might have kept the score much lower were it not for the reckless eagerness which prompted them to take chances that would have made the followers of a more conservative team grow pale with apprehension.

The Maroons, however, don't seem to worry very much about the number of points their opponents run up, provided they can have the fun of scoring now and then themselves. This madcap spirit of true amateur sport prompts those fourth down passes that don't quite come off.

Ends in a Gallop.

The Maroons held the score down to 13 to 0 at the end of the third quarter, but their wild attempts to get a touchdown by any means in the last period gave Illinois the openings that turned the game into a gallop.

And so it went. One by one the Maroon seniors left the field knowing that they had closed their college football careers with only one conference victory in three years—and that one two seasons ago. They tried hard to cash in on this final chance. For instance, Solly Sherman's last run was a spectacular attempt to make the best of a bad situation. Trapped behind the line of scrimmage when attempting to pass, he then went wide around end for twenty-three yards. When knocked out of bounds he was hurt and was helped off the field once and for all.

Maroons Lead in Passing.

Capt. Lew Hamity, also playing his last game, whipped one bulletlike

Griffin Leads Fenger to Prep Title, 32 to 18

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Donald Griffin, who appeared among Fenger High school's football candidates for the first time shortly before celebrating his 15th birthday last fall, led the south siders to the first Public School league championship in their history yesterday. The brilliant 180 pound quarter back scored four touchdowns as Fenger defeated Harrison Tech, 32 to 18, in Soldiers' field in the presence of 30,000.

Griffin's sensational runs and passes gave Fenger the right to be the league's representative in Mayor Kelly's all-city title game next Saturday. Except for a few minutes in the first quarter when Harrison capitalized on a Fenger mistake, the south siders played alert football and had no difficulty getting Griffin loose for his long runs.

Gains 156 Yards.

Griffin carried the ball twenty-two times and gained 156 yards. He scored the first touchdown late in the first quarter on a six yard run. He carried the ball over again from the 6 yard line in the second quarter, and then added two more touchdowns in the final period, one on a nine yard dash and the other on a one yard plunge.

The four touchdowns brought Griffin's total to twenty-two in eight league contests. He scored sixteen times in Fenger's six south section games and twice against Lane Tech in the semi-finals last Saturday. Austin's Bill De Correvont, who scored thirty-five touchdowns in ten contests established the league record last season.

Harrison's Passing Halted.

Willie Klemchuk, Harrison's passing specialist, whose tosses had brought the Hornets seven consecutive victories, failed to display his artistry against the new champions. He pitched nine passes, but completed only three for a total gain of thirty-seven yards.

Harrison scored the first touchdown two minutes after the game started. Fenger received the opening kickoff

HOFER'S 65 YARD RUN AND FIELD GOAL SAVE IRISH

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame remain undefeated and now they can turn their eyes and thoughts to the brawny Southern California eleven—their ninth and final opponent of the season.

The Irish forged the eighth link in their victory chain yesterday in Dyche stadium when they proved their seemingly constant gridiron mastery by defeating Northwestern, 9 to 7, in a battle that was alive with uncertainties.

Wildcats Are Tough.

But it wasn't a typical Notre Dame triumph—not one of those struggles in which the Irish dominate. They had to fight back to escape the charge of being outplayed. They had to fight back to recover a lead the Wildcats snatched from their hands. And they fought back in an unusual way for Notre Dame. They had to kick for their winning points, but they got them while 48,500 looked on.

Northwestern lived up to its nickname. The Wildcats were tough and snarly. They handed the Irish a lesson in football throughout the first two periods, at the conclusion of which they were leading, 7 to 6. If the battle had ended there the count would have been appropriate. But the Irish came back with the answer in the last half and that answer was victory.

The Build-Up for Hofer's 65 Yards.

Call it more Notre Dame luck if you wish—not the outcome, but the fashion in which they registered their first six points. All of this involved one Willard Clair Hofer, a second string quarter back, who never before has had his collegiate day, although he is a senior. Hofer intercepted a Wildcat pass and behind interference, which formed rapidly, legged his way sixty-five yards to

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Two quick touchdown thrusts gave the University of Nebraska football team a 14 to 0 victory over Iowa today. It was Nebraska's second victory of the season and Iowa's sixth defeat.

While they were outgained by a wide margin by the reckless Iowa team, the Cornhuskers were capable when scoring opportunities came along. In addition, they resisted with a mighty vigor on two occasions when the Hawkeyes threatened to score.

Nebraska scored first just before the opening quarter ended, an Iowa fumble setting up the march on the Hawkeye 37. Balzs, attempting to gain over Bob Mills, Nebraska left tackle, fumbled when hit hard and Mills recovered.

It Doesn't Take Long.

Nebraska scored in three plays, Herman Rohrig, left half back, going over. To start the drive, Rohrig gained six yards over one of Iowa's vulnerable tackle spots, and then Jack Dodd ran around left end for twenty-eight yards to the Iowa 3. On the next play, Rohrig again hit tackle, this time for a touchdown.

The second Cornhusker touchdown came less than a minute before the end of the game. Desperate for victory, Iowa had sent Nile Kinnick back into the end zone to pass after the Hawkeyes had been forced to take the ball on the 1 yard line as a result of George Knight's neatly placed punt.

Kinnick, who with Frank Balazs and Floyd Dean completed fifteen passes in thirty-four attempts for Iowa, stood deep in the end zone and passed, Knight intercepting on the Iowa 24.

Nebraska Goes Again.

Dodd, on an end run, advanced to the 7 and another attempt at end by Walt Luther put the ball on the Iowa 2. George Porter, who had replaced Knight, crashed over Iowa's right tackle for the score on the next play. Bill Anderson place kicked the extra point.

Iowa tried everything in a vain attempt to win. Early in the third period, the Hawkeyes brought the 11,000 fans to their feet with a march in which they passed their way from the 50 yard line to Nebraska's 2. The Hawkeye enthusiasm was short lived, however. Iowa tried four plays and ended up with the Cornhuskers taking the ball on their 20.

Three passes placed the ball on the 2. On the first play Balazs fumbled with Russell Busk recovering for Iowa on the 5. Balazs then tried a pass, but it fell incomplete in the end zone. On third down Balazs gained a yard, but Kinnick's fourth down pass fell incomplete in the end zone.

That was the first Iowa threat. The second also was accomplished by passing. With Balazs and Kinnick doing the throwing. Iowa advanced to the Nebraska 4, only to lose the ball on downs. Brilliant defensive play by Kinnick was all that saved Iowa from a worse defeat. On two different occasions he found his way through several Nebraska blockers to bring down the fast Cornhusker backs just as it seemed they were bound for the goal.

MISSOURI DEALS 26 TO 0 DEFEAT TO ST. LOUIS U.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19. — (AP) — Bouncing back after last week's defeat by Oklahoma, the University of Missouri Tigers slammed against St. Louis university today with a touchdown in each quarter for a 26 to 0 victory.

Paul Christman, Missouri's star, was almost overshadowed by Jim Starmer and Bill Amelung. Christman and Starmer both made touchdowns, and Amelung two.

The Tigers drove across the first touchdown in sixteen plays, six minutes from the kickoff. Christman took the ball the final foot.

In the second period Amelung took a punt, faked a lateral and then sped 54 yards to the Billikins' 9. On the third line smash the 165 pound back went over.

Christman intercepted a St. Louis pass in the third quarter and lateraled to Port Robb, who went to St. Louis, 27. A pass, Christman to Les Pieper, gained twenty-two yards, and Starmer plunged over.

In the fourth quarter the Tigers squelched a Billikin threat resulting from Amelung's fumble on the Missouri 13, then Amelung went wild. Starting on the St. Louis 42, he passed twice and carried the ball six times for the final score. Pieper place kicked the extra points.

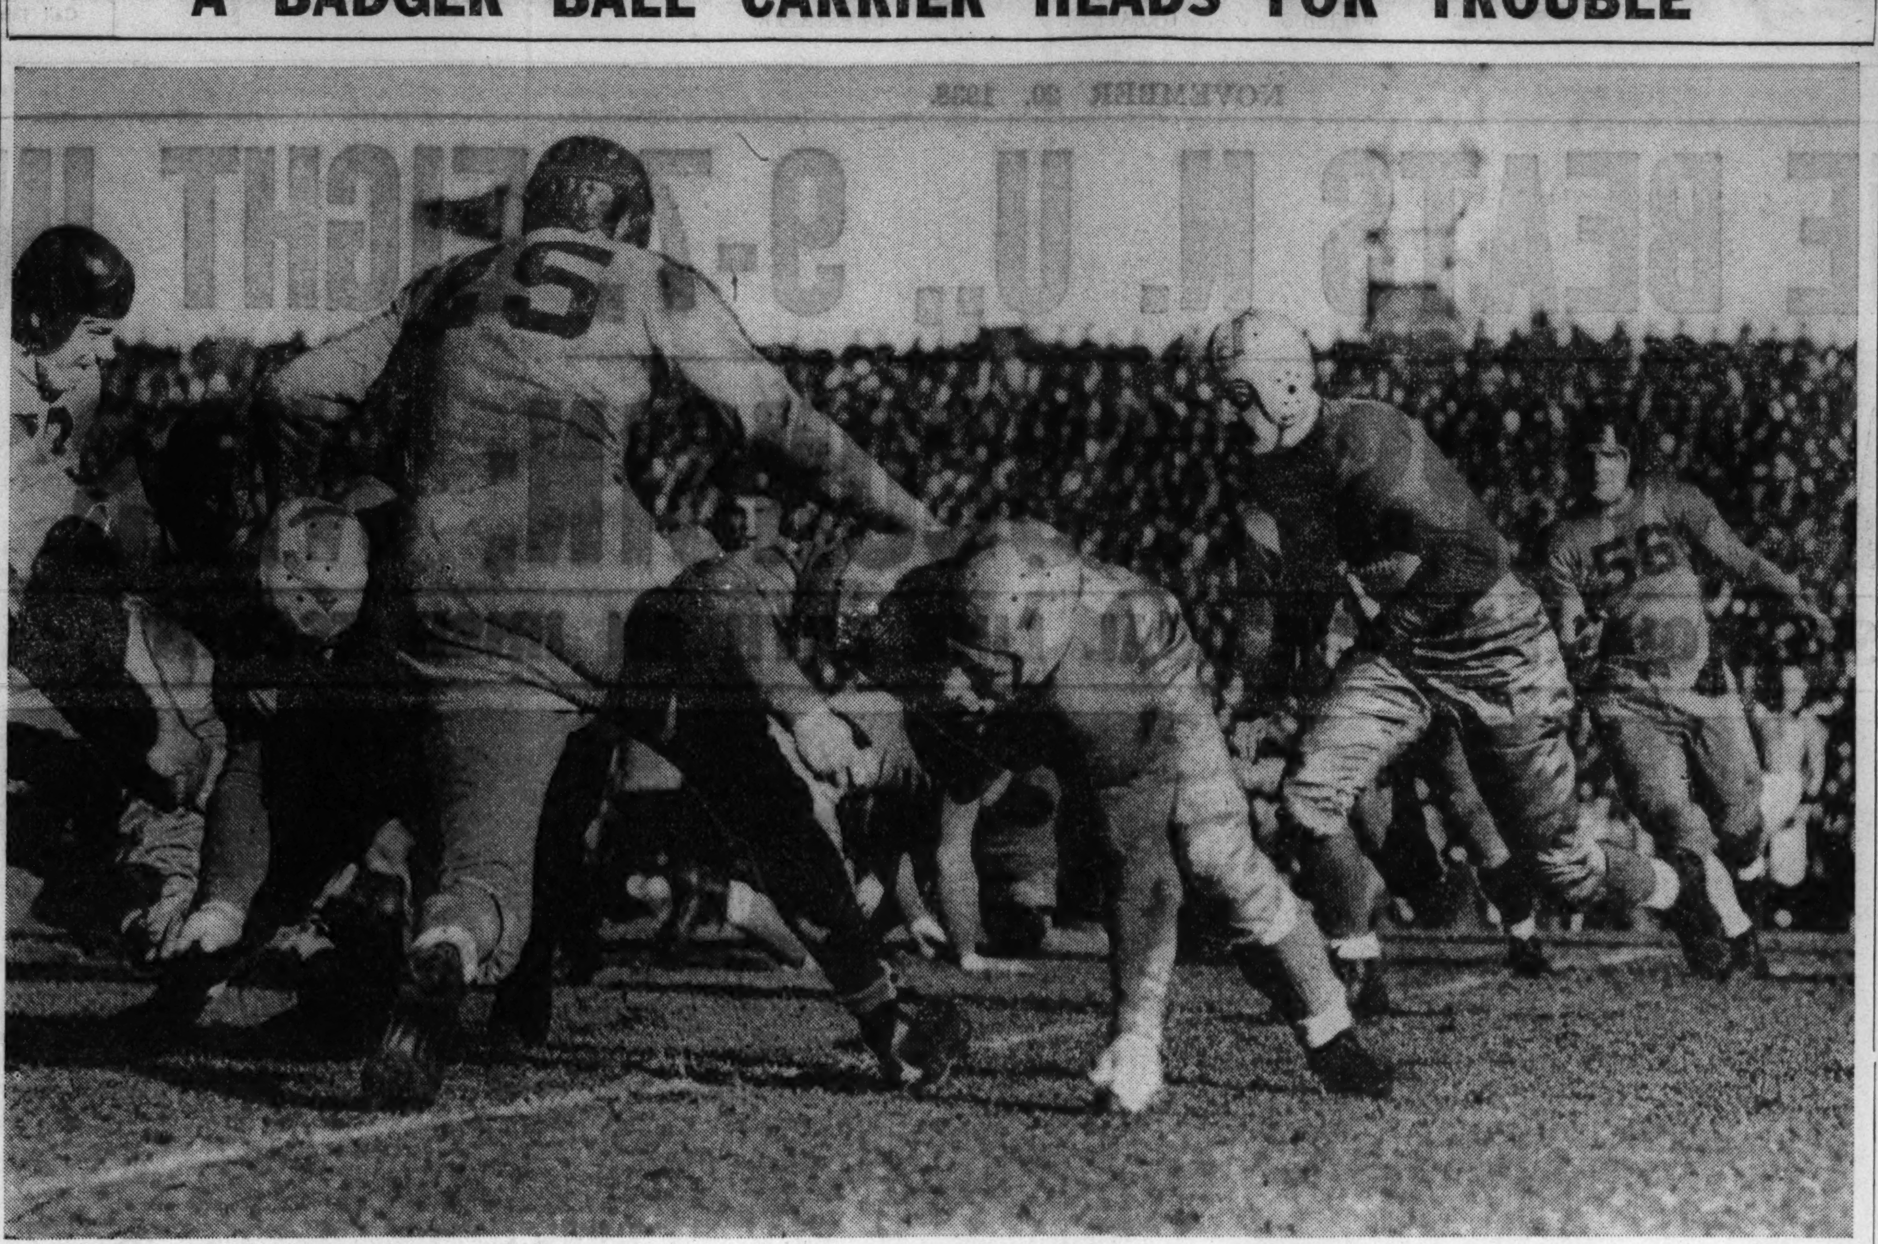
A BADGER BALL CARRIER HEADS FOR TROUBLE



Roy Bellin, Wisconsin half back, starts off Minnesota's tackle in the first quarter at Madison, Wis., but John Mariucci, Minnesota end, No. 56, catches him from behind. The play gained only two yards. Minnesota power began to tell later in the game and the Gophers smashed on to a 21 to 0 triumph to win the Western conference title. No. 25 is George Nash of Minnesota. A crowd of 41,000 saw the contest.

Minnesota Pushes Wisconsin Around; Wins Big Ten Title

their deportment, particularly during the first half. Their best offensive maneuver consisted of a trip to the Minnesota 6 yard line after Minnesota was assessed a clipping penalty and then forced to punt into a strong wind.

Minnesota collected its first touchdown on a twenty-seven yard romp inside left tackle by Larry Buhler in the first quarter. Buhler, who apparently was on the way to playing the greatest game of his career, was injured early in the third period and had to be assisted from the field.

The Gophers scored twice more in the fourth quarter. George Franck climaxed a sixty-five yard march by cutting through left tackle for thirteen yards and a touchdown and in the final three minutes of play Marty Christiansen drove through center for the final score.

Wisconsin Lacks Something.

It didn't take long for the Gophers to acquaint the Badger public with the fact that Wisconsin was not quite the team it was at other opening kickoffs this season. The most loyal home fans had to admit that their boys were lacking in something, call it fire, or the old pepper, or what you will.

In the first quarter the Gophers smashed to a first down on Wisconsin's 5 yard line, but on fourth down Buhler was stopped on the 1 yard line and Minnesota was penalized for roughness.

The two teams went into a punting argument during the second quarter, in which Minnesota, with the stiff south breeze back of it, had all the advantage. With less than three minutes to play Gage punted into the wind after a holding penalty had set Wisconsin back to its 8 yard line. The ball was downed on the Badger 27 yard line. On the first play Buhler smashed inside his left tackle and scored a touchdown. Bell then booted the extra point. The score was made with two minutes and ten seconds of the half remaining.

Punt to 1 Yard Line.

Minnesota kicked off over the goal line at the start of the second half, but was charged with unnecessary roughness and the ball was awarded to Wisconsin on its own 49 yard line. Three plays collected eight yards and Bellin's punt into the wind was downed by Brodhagen on the Gopher 1 yard line.

Schmitz then returned Faust's punt thirteen yards to Minnesota's 32 yard line. Whatever might have come of this opportunity was squelched by Moore when he dropped Bellin for an eight yard loss. On the next play, Schmitz's pass was smacked down on a grand stop by Franck at the 2 yard line, where Lorenz and Bellin were waiting to receive it. Bellin then punted over the Gopher goal line.

In the middle of the third quarter Wisconsin made its best march of the game to that point. After Gavre had caught a Minnesota punt and brought it to his 18 yard line, Schmitz got a yard and Weiss four On the next play Schmitz dropped back and passed eighteen yards to Weiss, who cut to his right and ran to the Minnesota 47 yard line. Weiss then was the chief ingredient in a first down culminating at the Gopher 34 yard line. The Gophers finally took the ball on downs on their own 30 yard line, two Badger passes being incomplete.

The outset of the fourth quarter found the Gophers on their own 46 yard line. Five plays thereafter they had added another seven points to their score. Christiansen started it with a lateral to Paffrath, who carried the ball to Wisconsin's 40 yard line. On a reverse Paffrath romped to the Badger 28 before he was pushed out of bounds. Faust then tossed a lateral to Franck, who made it first down on Wisconsin's 13 yard stripe. Christiansen was stopped at center, but on the next play Franck dashed through his left tackle for the touchdown. Faust added the extra point.

A clipping penalty by Minnesota after a Wisconsin punt set the ball back to the Gophers' 2 yard line, wherefrom Faust's punt rolled out of bounds on the Gopher 25 yard line. Bellin passed to Wegner for four yards, and then tossed to Schmitz, who struggled up to the Minnesota 13. A pass by Schmitz was incomplete, but Bellin went around his own end for seven yards. Another Schmitz fling was intercepted by Faust on the Minnesota 2 yard line. He returned it to his own 33 yard mark before being run out of bounds.

Complete the Rout.

With less than three minutes to play, Faust intercepted another Badger pass on his own 35 yard line. From there the Gophers began their final touchdown parade. Included in it was a first down smash at center by Christiansen and a tremendous pass from Van Every to Nash, good at the Wisconsin 12 yard line. Faust got four yards and then Christiansen dashed through a huge opening at center for the touchdown. Bell came in to place kick the point.

De Paul Loses to Centenary Eleven, 48 to 0

Shreveport, La., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A completely outclassed De Paul university football team lost to Centenary college today, 48 to 0, in an intersectional game played before a crowd of 6,000.

The Demons, failing to get up offensive steam any time during the game, were the victims of the severest beating Centenary ever has administered to an opponent.

De Paul Gets Worst of Everything.

De Paul got the worst of everything, including the penalties, and was across the 50 yard line only twice. A forward pass from Ed Norris to Clem Naughton put De Paul on Centenary's 48 in the second period and Malinowicz's 38 yard run back of a kickoff in the fourth sent the Demons just past midfield.

Centenary opened a touchdown drive from the De Paul 48 yard line in the first period and from there on it was a question of the size of the score. Centenary scored a second touchdown in the second period and another in the third and turned the game into a rout with four in the fourth. Weenie Bynum's fifty-six yard run for a score after intercepting a De Paul pass was the high point of this fourth quarter onslaught.

Fail to Gain on Ground.

De Paul had a net of zero on the ground with sixteen yards gained and the same number lost. Centenary's net gain on the ground was 213 yards and it picked up 107 through the air. De Paul tried twenty-four passes and completed seven for fifty yards. Lineup:

CLEVELAND BUYS JOHNNY BROACA FROM THE YANKS

Broaca, former Yale university hurler, won thirty-nine games for the Yankees in three seasons before he quit in 1937, complaining he was hampered by strained back muscles. He recently was reinstated by Commissioner K. M. Landis.

OKLAHOMA BEATS IOWA STATE, 10-0; CAPTURES TITLE

Sooners Are Undefeated and Untied.

Ames, Ia., Nov. 19.—[U. P.]—The University of Oklahoma today defeated Iowa State college, 10 to 0, to win the Big Six football championship and remain in the select list of the nation's untied and undefeated teams.

The Sooners' 1938 record embraces eight straight victories and their victims include Rice, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Tulsa, Kansas State and Missouri. The weather was perfect and 21,500 fans turned out, the biggest crowd in Iowa State history.

Complete Eight Passes.

Most of the game was played in Iowa State territory. Because of this Everett Kischer, star quarter back, was unable to throw his customary number of passes. But even with the handicap, he completed eight out of thirteen for a net gain of seventy-eight yards.

Oklahoma pushed over a touchdown in the first period and added a field goal in the third period.

A fumble halted an Oklahoma goal line march when the game was only a few minutes old, but the Sooners got their break when Heileman threw a wild lateral which John Shirk, Oklahoma end, recovered on Iowa State's 36.

Seymour Goes Over.

McCullough passed to Bill Jennings, a substitute back, who raced to Iowa State's 2 yard line behind perfect blocking. Seymour hit right tackle for a touchdown. Boudreau place kicked the extra point.

A sixteen yard punt return by Seymour started Oklahoma on the way to its second score. With the ball on State's 44, McCullough drove through the line for nine yards and then passed to Earl Crowder, who caught the ball on the 30 and ran to the 13 before he was stopped. Three plays lost a yard. Then, standing on the 21 yard line, left of the goal posts, McCullough place kicked perfectly for three points.

KANSAS STATE WINS, 41-14.

Manhattan, Kas., Nov. 19. — (AP) — Kansas State scored two touchdowns in each of the first three periods to trounce Washburn, 41 to 14, before 6,000 fans today.

Elmer Hackney, Kansas State full back, crossed the goal line twice in the first period; Melvin Seeyle, quarter back, plunged over and later passed to Langvardt, substitute end, for touchdowns in the second; Munzer, substitute end, caught a fifty-five yard pass from Elmer Nieman, southpaw half back, and Art Kirk, substitute full back, cracked the line for touchdowns in the third quarter.

Emmot, quarter back, passed to Cables, in the second period, and Brady intercepted a Kansas State pass and lateraled to Schroeder who raced seventy yards for a touchdown in the fourth to account for the Washburn scoring.

Brooklyn College Drops Home Games; No Crowds

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The football squad of Brooklyn college today concluded they weren't appreciated on their own campus and decided to schedule no home games for 1939. The decision was announced by Coach Louis Oshins. Less than 100 tickets were sold to each of their four home games, and only about 200 were on hand at today's season finale against Susquehanna.

ARMY DEFEATS PRINCETON, 19-7, IN RAIN AND MUD

Cadets Recover Blocked Punt for Score.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Army won its first victory in nine games with Princeton today, overpowering the Tigers in pouring rain and mud, 19 to 7.

A drenched crowd of 43,000 saw West Point establish its superiority as the teams resumed relations after a thirty year interlude. In the final period the sky became so black that the field was almost obliterated.

Pass Scores for Princeton.

The conditions militated against Princeton in the reduction of the threat of Dave Allerdice's passing arm, although the Tiger scored its only touchdown on a nine yard pass from Allerdice to Capt. Tom Mountain.

Princeton stalled the opening Army assault that carried to the 5 yard line, but only momentarily. Mountain, standing in the end zone, tried to punt, but the instant the ball left his toe John Samuel was in on him to block the kick. Jack Little, who had come into the game after the first scrimmage to relieve injured Tom Davis, outraced a swarm of Tigers and fell on the ball for a touchdown.

Army Scores Again.

Army's second touchdown came immediately after Princeton had tied the score early in the second quarter on Allerdice's pass to Mountain, following a thirty yard run by the Tiger captain on a Statue of Liberty play. On the ensuing kickoff Capt. Jim Schwenk ran the ball back to his 46. After three rushes that netted only seven yards and Wilson's punt, the ball was brought back and Princeton was penalized for running into the kicker.

Taking the ball on a first down on the Tigers' 43, the Cadets scored in two plays. Wilson passed to Samuel for a gain of forty-one yards, and on the next play Wilson went over from the 2 yard line. Lineups:

FORDHAM WINS, 13 TO 0.

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Fordham maintained its perfect record against southern teams today by defeating South Carolina, 13 to 0, in the mud and mire of a dismal day at the Polo grounds.

Overpowered by a stalwart Fordham line, the Gamecocks had only three scoring opportunities, two of which were balked by penalties and the other by the slippery going.

The Rams scored in the first and third periods, the first time on a brilliant bit of running by Dominic Principe, full back, and again in the third period on a blocked kick recovered by Co-Captain Mike Kochel in the visitors end zone.

It was in the late stages of the opening period that Principe, aided by great blocking on the part of his teammates, found a wide hole in the left side of the South Carolina line and ran sixty-four yards for the first touchdown a Ram back has scored since the Pittsburgh game three weeks ago.

Fordham's second touchdown came early in the third period when Clary attempted a quick kick from his own 12. Kochel broke through, piled one of the Gamecock's linemen into the path of the ball, and then recovered the ball in the end zone after Clary had made an ineffectual attempt to retrieve it on the 3 yard line.

BUCKNELL WINS, 16 TO 0.

Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—An eighteen yard run by Marty Quick in the first period and a three yard line buck by Bill Jones in the last quarter gave Bucknell a 16 to 0 victory over George Washington today in an intersectional game played in rain and mud. Bucknell also scored a safety in the first period when Merka was downed behind his own goal line. The weather held the crowd to 2,000.

MANHATTAN WINS, 13-0.

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Manhattan took advantage of two breaks in the second half today to turn back West Virginia, 13 to 0. Joe Migdal scored both touchdowns, intercepting a pass on the Mountaineer seven for one and plunging a yard off tackle for the other. In both cases West Virginia had been penalized to its 1 yard line. Rain made playing conditions miserable.

LAFAYETTE WHIPS LEHIGH.

Easton, Pa., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Lafayette turned back Lehigh on the muddy turf of Fisher field this afternoon, 6 to 0.

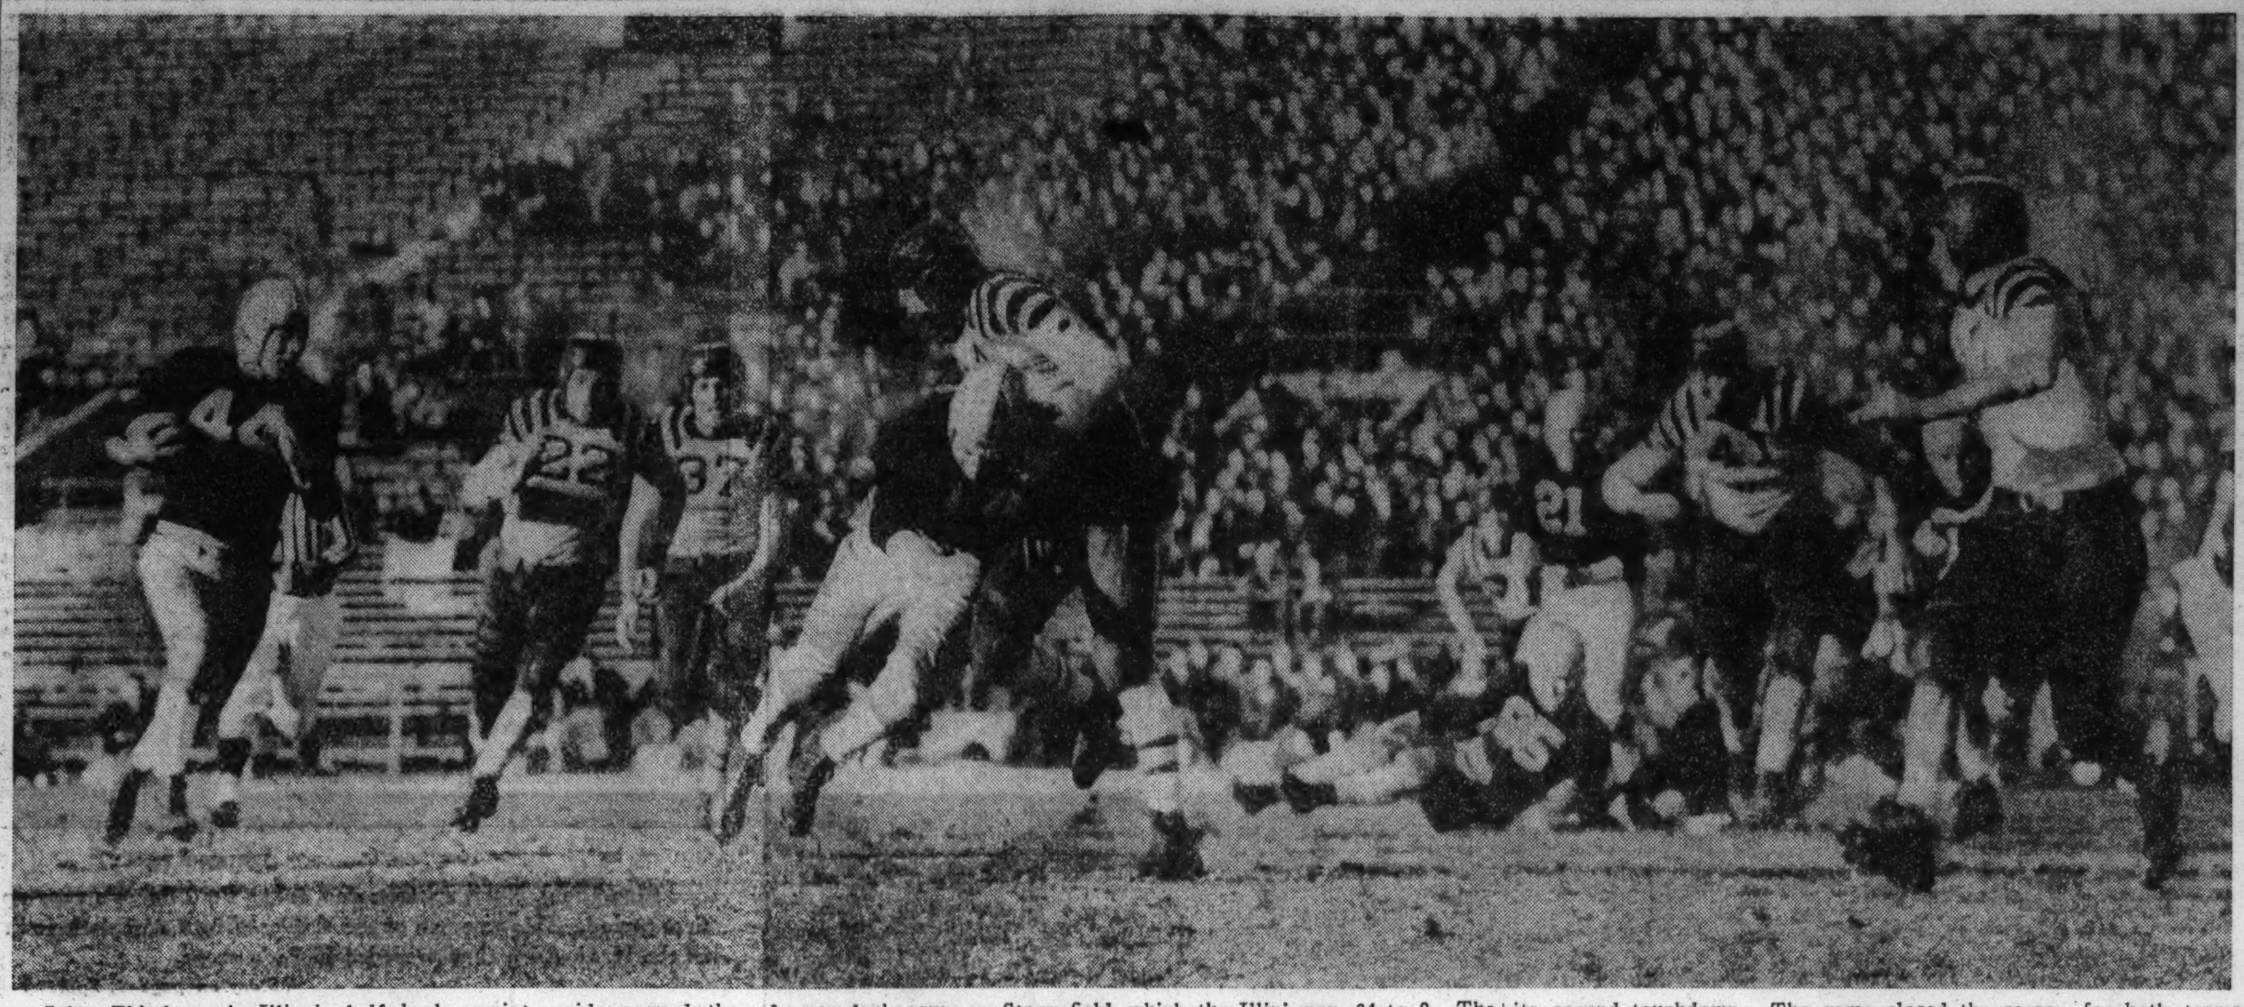
The game's lone score came midway in the opening period and for the remainder of the contest Lehigh tried desperately to even matters as 14,000 braved the rain watching the mud-caked players wage a defensive duel.

Sixty seconds after he had replaced Leo Zochowski at right half in the Leopards' back field Sammy Moyer, sophomore star, dashed thirty-two yards on a reverse play to cross the Lehigh line unmolested.

Wheaton Soccer Team Loses to Slippery Rock

Slippery Rock, Pa., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Wheaton college's soccer team lost its first game of the season today to Slippery Rock Teachers, 4 to 3. The game was played in mud.

THISTLEWOOD KEEPS ILLINI OFFENSE MOVING



John Thistlewood, Illinois half back, sprints wide around the Maroons' flank for four yards on the last play in the first quarter of yesterday's game on Stagg field, which the Illini won, 34 to 0. The play carried to Chicago's 16 yard line. Five plays later Illinois scored its second touchdown. The game closed the season for both teams. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

T. C. U.'S ATTACK IN OPENING HALF ROUTS RICE, 29-7

Houston, Tex., Nov. 19.—[U. P.]—Texas Christians' unbeaten and untied football team, striking through the air and over the ground with stunning force, crushed Rice institute, 29 to 7, today for its ninth victory of the season.

A crowd of 28,000, the largest ever to see a football game in Houston, watched Texas Christian, led by the dynamic little passer, Davey O'Brien, completely shatter Rice hopes by scoring four touchdowns in the first half. The Horned Frogs picked up their final two points on a safety seconds before the game ended.

Rice Is Outclassed.

The crippled Rice team, defender of the southwest conference title, never had a chance. Even when the Owls scored on a fifty-five yard forward pass in the second period to cut T. C. U.'s lead to 14 to 7, no one in the stadium thought they would win.

Four minutes after the opening whistle, the Christians had their first touchdown. Eight plays carried the ball fifty-six yards for the score.

The second period was a spectacular scoring affair with T. C. U. getting three touchdowns and Rice one. T. C. U.'s second march carried sixty-three yards and was accomplished in eleven plays. The touchdown came when O'Brien, surrounded by Rice tacklers on the 38 yard line, drifted a high pass into the end zone, where Art Clerk outjumped two defenders to get it.

Rice Scores on Pass.

The thousands of Rice backers got their only chance to cheer a few minues later when Doug Sullivan, the best of the Rice backs, faded to his own 35 yard line and whipped a pass to E. Y. Steakley, who took it on the T. C. U. 25 yard line and outran his pursuers.

Texas Christian came back with a sixty-eight yard power drive for a score, O'Brien going over from the 1 yard line and added another seven points a short time later as O'Brien's long pass was batted into the hands of Durward Horner, T. C. U. end by a Rice back and Horner stepped over.

O'Brien, with a better passing record than Sammy Baugh, threw eighteen passes and completed eleven. Lineups:

S. M. U., 21; BAYLOR, 6.

Waco, Tex., Nov. 19.—[U. P.]—Southern Methodist university broke a jinx and maintained its perfect southwest conference football record today by defeating Baylor university, 21 to 6, before 12,000. It was the first time that a S. M. U. team had beaten Baylor in Waco.

The outcome set up one of the year's most important battles when Southern Methodist meets Texas Christian, one of the few undefeated, untied teams of the nation, in Dallas next Saturday.

The Methodists made one of their touchdowns today on a pass, Johnny Clevent firing a forty yard shot to Collins, who was waiting behind the goal line. They made their other two touchdowns on plunges. Ray Mallouf got one and Wally Bearden the other.

The Baylor touchdown was made on a pass from Billy Patterson to Bivins, who snared it back of the goal line.

Michigan Scores Over Ohio for First Time in 5 Years, 18-0

substitute for blocking and tackling. And as Michigan was easily the faster team it is no surprise that the final decision was overwhelming.

Paul Kromer and Tom Harmon, Michigan's sophomores who have carried the burden of the Wolverines' offense this season, met all expectations. Michigan's fear before arriving shortly after noon today had been that the gridiron would be soft and muddy, a handicap to these ball carriers. But despite the rain, the field had been well protected and was in excellent condition. The chill northwest wind also stiffened the sod as the game progressed and Michigan's aggressive linemen capitalized on their superior charge as they had been expected to do.

Heikkinen Stands Out.

In that Michigan line today none was better than Ralph Heikkinen, guard, or Archie Kodros, center. With Vincent Valek, at right defensive end, these boys linked together a charge that invariably permitted the backs to gain. Heikkinen also excelled in getting down field on Kromer's punts and repeatedly he brought down Jim Strausbaugh, Ohio State's most feared back.

Strausbaugh opened the first drive of the game with a twenty-four yard sweep around Michigan's left end. It was followed two plays later by a thirty-one yard run inside Michigan's right tackle by Frank Zadworney, who placed the ball on the Wolverines' 20. This comprised Ohio State's only threat for Jim Langhurst, full back, failed to gain, Mike Kabealo recovered Zadworney's fumble for a four yard loss, a pass was incomplete, and then, trying to hit the sidelines with a short kick. Kabealo kicked for a touchback.

Ohio State's razzle-dazzle ball handling rebounded to give Michigan its first touchdown opportunity. Langhurst carried on first down from his own 20 yard line in the second period and his lateral to Strausbaugh was short. The ball rolled along the ground and was captured on Ohio State's 16 yard line by Wally Hook, Michigan full back. From here the Wolverines scored in seven plans.

First Scoring Drive.

Kromer raced outside of Alex Schoenbaum for five yards. Hook smashed over Charles Gales and Carl Kaplanoff on the other side of the Ohio State line for four yards. Hook followed with another smash at the same guard and tackle for a first down on the Buckeye 6 yard line.

Harmon picked up a yard outside of Kaplanoff and Hook repeated for three yards. Kromer was tackled by Kabealo and Joe Aleskus [substitute for Schoenbaum] within inches of the goal line. Then, on fourth down, Harmon ripped through four defenders—Gales, Kabealo, Wendell Lohr and Langhurst—for the touchdown. John Brennan, Michigan guard, attempted the placement and the ball shot to the right of the post.

On the first exchange of kicks in the third quarter Kromer returned nineteen yards to Ohio State's 46 yard line. Hook, Kromer, and Harmon drove to the Buckeyes' 14, but here Ohio held and took the ball on its 11 when Kromer's fourth down pass was knocked down by Center Charlie Maag.

Penned in against their goal the Buckeyes lost nine yards on two plays. Maag's bad pass from center cost three yards and then Kabealo, running to his right from kick formation, was thrown on his own 2 yard line by Heikkinen. On third down, Maag's low pass from center was picked off the ground by Kabealo who kicked over Kromer's head against the wind and then Lohr dropped Kromer on Michigan's 21, a gain of seventy-seven yards from the scrimmage line.

Kabealo's effort stalled Michigan for the remainder of the period. Just before the end of the quarter Harmon stepped in front of a pass by Jim Sexton and returned eleven yards to Ohio State's 41. The interception signaled Michigan's second touchdown march.

On the last play of the quarter Kromer was stopped without gain. Opening the final quarter, Harmon shot a pass to Ed Frutig, who had replaced John Nicholson at left end, and Frutig, cutting across in front of Don Scott, defensive half back, was finally pulled down on the Buckeye 19 yard line. Howard Mehaffey, who now was Michigan's full back, ripped through guard for fourteen yards. Then Harmon piled over defensive right tackle to the goal line but Michigan was offside on the play and was set back to its 10 yard line. It still was first down.

Harmon's first pass was incomplete. Kromer then fumbled and was chased back to Ohio's 15 with the recovery. On third down, Harmon threw to Frutig, who had raced into the end zone behind Scott and Sexton, for the touchdown. Harmon's placement attemp, with Kromer holding missed.

Another pass interception in the final minutes by Louis Levine, Michigan's third quarter back, gave the Wolverines the ball on the Ohio 46. The dispirited Buckeyes collapsed before the attack of Norm Purucker and Trosko who had just reported. Purucker gained eight yards around Ohio State's left end. Trosko then swept around the other flank, stiff armed one opponent and raced down the west side to the goal escorted by two blue clad teammates.

Purucker kicked short for the point.

TUBBS INTIMATES TO IOWA TEAM HE WON'T RETURN

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Three University of Iowa football players said tonight that Coach Irl Tubbs "intimated very strongly" in his pregame talk today he would not return as the varsity coach next fall.

The players, two juniors and one senior who performed in Iowa's 14 to 0 loss to Nebraska, said Tubbs, who came here two years ago from Miami, Fla., university, told them he would "take fond memories of the 1938 team" when he left Iowa.

WESLEYAN CAN'T HOLD LEAD; TIED BY NORMAL, 7-7

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—After sixty minutes of hard play Illinois Normal and Illinois Wesleyan, rivals for fifty-one years, finished in a 7 to 7 tie today. The same teams will meet here Thanksgiving day in a benefit for Bloomington's new $150,000 municipal stadium.

Normal was twice stopped within the 15 yard line in the first half. The first time passes and line plays moved the ball down to the 1 yard strip. Back field in motion brought a five yard penalty and Wesleyan then held for downs and took the ball on its 6. Later passes by Gleason carried to the 12, where the Titans again held.

Fumble Brings Score.

On the first play after the kickoff in the third period Covill fumbled and Verne Kammerer, Wesleyan tackle, recovered on the Normal 16. Bob Morrow drove to the 8 and Bob Lenahan plunged to the 5. Morrow went to the 1, then drove over left guard for the Wesleyan touchdown. Capt. Dick Folk kicked the point.

Normal started its touchdown drive from the Wesleyan 46 in the final quarter. Gleason threw to Swede Luft for a nineteen yard gain, and another pass to Kavanagh gave Normal a first down on the Titan 11. Gleason's third successive pass was taken by Kavanagh in the end zone for the touchdown. Myron Heintzman kicked the point after touchdown. Lineups:

CHARLESTON WINS, 19-7.

Charleston, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Charleston Teachers romped to a 19 to 7 victory over Rose Poly here today for their fifth victory of the season. Paul Henry, Charleston half back, crashed through tackle to race thirty yards for a touchdown early in the second quarter. One fourteen yard touchdown sprint and another sixty-eight yard touchdown dash by Raymond Suddarth in the third quarter pushed Charleston ahead, 19 to 0. Mervin Baker drop-kicked the extra point following Charleston's second touchdown.

WHEATON LOSES, 13-0.

Maroons Close 2d Year Without Big 10 Victory; Illini Win, 34-0

pass after another to its mark during the last half when the Maroons were making a last splurge. But the touchdown that would have eased the sting of defeat eluded the Maroons to the end.

As would be expected, the Maroons' running game was thoroughly ineffective. They made only thirty-one yards on the ground but added 114 on passes for a total of 145 yards from scrimmage. Illinois made 285 by rushing and thirty-two by passing for a total of 317 yards. The Illini advantage on first downs was 16 to 8. Karl Nohl did some of the best punting the Maroons have shown all season. He got off three consecutive kicks that traveled fifty yards from the line of scrimmage.

Though the Illinois score was held down for the first three quarters, the visitors dominated the game from start to finish and never gave any indication that they were in danger. The starting backfield composed of Mel Brewer, Cliff Peterson, Merlyn Burris and George Rettinger, functioned effectively while the linemen opened up tremendous gaps in the Maroon forward wall.

Score in First Quarter.

The first touchdown came in the first quarter. Illinois had been stopped on the two yard line and the Maroons had punted out to Burris, who took the ball on the 36 yard line and ran it back six yards. Burris hit the line for five and Brewer for fourteen yards. When Brewer repeated for eight, the play was recalled and Illinois penalized fifteen yards for illegal use of hands. Petersen then passed to Rettinger who was knocked out of bounds on the one yard line. Rettinger hit center for the touchdown.

A few minutes later Lundberg of Illinois recovered Davenport's fumble on the Chicago 20 yard line and the Illini drove to another touchdown as the second quarter began. Elting and Thistlewood hammered to the four yard line on four plays. Then Thistlewood lost seven yards on a fumble. On the next play Bennett went off tackle for a touchdown. Ehni kicked goal, making it 13 to 0. There the score remained until the rout began in the last period.

Game Becomes Rout.

The first of these touchdowns came after an eighty-two yard march in which Thistlewood, Rettinger and Ehni did most of the heavy work. Burris eventually went over from the two yard line on fourth down and Ehni kicked goal.

The fourth touchdown followed Rettinger's interception of Hamity's pass. The Illinois fullback caught the ball on the Maroon 39 yard line and ran to the 3, then Thistlewood reached the goal on a dash around end.

A few minutes later another of Hamity's passes was intercepted by McMillin on the Maroon 27 yard line. Plunges by Bennett, Purvis and Elting advanced the ball to the 10. Then Purvis passed to Govedare, who lateraled to Bennett. The latter went on to score the fifth Illinois touchdown. Elting's placement brought the final score to 34 to 0.

GRINNELL WINS OVER COLORADO COLLEGE, 21 TO 7

Grinnell, Ia., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Grinnell college closed its football season today—and its last season in the Missouri Valley conference—with a 21 to 7 triumph over Colorado college. It was the first contest between the two colleges.

After a scoreless first quarter, Homann, 180 pound senior full back, led the Pioneers on a touchdown drive from midfield, his seven yard pass to Walters scoring. High kicked the extra point.

An interception in the same quarter set up Grinnell's second touchdown drive, Homann's pass to Walters after a seventy yard drive again counting. Shelton failed to kick the point.

Trainor plunged over from the 6 inch line for Colorado's score in the third, and also kicked the point. Homann scored for Grinnell in the same period with a six yard plunge. High's placekick was wide.

DUKE MAINTAINS PERFECT RECORD IN 7 TO 0 VICTORY

But North Carolina State Proves Tough.

Durham, N. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Duke's Blue Devils—the nation's only major undefeated, untied and unscored-on college football team—kept its record clean today with a 7 to 0 triumph over North Carolina State. The victory gave Duke the Southern conference title.

The scoring punch was packed into eight plays late in the first half. The advance covered forty-six yards. Eric Tipton made thirty-three of those yards and tossed a pass to Jap Davis which was good for the other thirteen. Tipton scored on a two yard sweep off his left tackle. Tony Ruffa was rushed in and he added the point from placement.

AUBURN BEATS GEORGIA.

Columbus, Ga., Nov. 19.—(AP)—In the cold, dismal setting of Memorial stadium, Auburn and Georgia produced heartwarming football for a shivering crowd of 12,000 today but Auburn finally won, 23 to 14.

Georgia drove quickly to a pair of touchdowns in the first period and a half time lead of 14 to 13, but Auburn's speedy team scored ten points in the third period for the victory.

Tackle Bill Nichols blocked a punt in the third period and Malvern Morgan recovered on the George 46. Auburn went on to score with Spec Kelly sprinting the last eight yards. Russell kicked the extra point. Capt. Russell kicked a field goal from the 13 in the third period.

TULANE WINS, 38 TO 0.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Tulane ran up 31 points on Sewanee in the first half today and then coasted on through the final two quarters to an easy 38 to 0 victory. Sewanee had only eight men in reserve and the time of the last two periods was shortened to twelve minutes each.

FLORIDA, GEORGIA TECH TIE.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Florida fought a favored Georgia Tech football team to a 0 to 0 tie today. The much beaten Alligators weren't able to churn the sticky mud with any serious offensive threats, but they showed 5,000 fans some old fashioned, back to the wall defensive courage.

SOUTHWESTERN WINS.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A blocked punt gave Southwestern a 7 to 3 victory over Mississippi State today. Bill Little, Lynx end, threw himself in front of Sonny Bruce's kick in the second period and then grabbed the ball as it bounced over the goal line. A few plays earlier Bruce had given the Mississippians a three point lead with a field goal from the 16.

L. S. U. WINS, 32 TO 0.

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Louisiana State swarmed over Southwestern Louisiana institute today, 32 to 0. L. S. U. scored two touchdowns in the first period, one in the second, and two more in the fourth. The L. S. U. first eleven played only in the first period.

DICKINSON RATES MINNESOTA FIRST, PURDUE, N. U. 2D

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The Big Ten conference championship this year was won by Minnesota based on the Dickinson rating system, which is the same as the traditional percentage standings, it was announced tonight by Frank G. Dickinson, assistant professor of economics at the University of Illinois, author of the system.

Although Northwestern won only two games as compared with Purdue's three victories, Northwestern was not held to a tie by a second division team as was Purdue, said Prof. Dickinson. Accordingly Northwestern is tied with Purdue for second place in the Dickinson ratings. His ratings are as follows:

		Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Points.
1.	Minnesota	4	1	0	26.25
2.	Purdue	3	1	1	22.00

OTHER GAMES TODAY.
Green Bay at New York.
Bears at Brooklyn.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The National Football league race, already noteworthy for new attendance records, moves on to its competitive climax today. Three games involving four western and two eastern division members may definitly decide the title hopes of two teams and provide a preview of the championship playoff.

Green Bay meets the Giants in New York in the day's leading contest. This marks the first time this season that division leaders have met. It assumes additional importance because the Packers and Giants in all probability will be the contestants in the title game of Dec. 11 in which the National league's representative in next year's TRIBUNE All-Star game will be selected.

Cardinals Host to Lions.

Detroit, which meets the Cardinals in Wrigley field at 1:30 o'clock, and Brooklyn, host to the Bears down east, will be making last ditch stands to remain mathematical possibilities in the race. Of the two, Brooklyn faces the happier outlook. Detroit will be eliminated from the western division fight, regardless of its success against the Cardinals if Green Bay defeats the Giants. The Packers need only today's game, their last regularly scheduled contest, to clinch a place in the playoff.

Free from any championship worries, the Bears and Cardinals are concerned only with salvaging a measure of satisfaction from disappointing seasons by spoiling some one else's chances. The Cardinals have lost eight of nine starts. The Bears have done a trifle better, taking five out of nine, but the net result is essentially the same. They must wait another year to begin title talk.

Western Teams Favorites.

In the two eastern games, western teams are the favorites. The Bears moving along under momentum built up too late, have too much power for Brooklyn. The Packers, with Cecil Isbell, Don Hutson, and Clark Hinkle plus their eagerness to get the western division race over as quickly as possible, may be counted upon to go the limit against a good Giant team that has not yet met a club as versatile as the Packers.

Detroit fortified with a long string of victories over the Cardinals and with the realization that only victory will preserve its title chance has an advantage over the Cardinals. The only question in Detroit's case is whether this is one of its days to be good. When the Lions are good, they are tremendous.

Cardinals Count on Rookies.

Rookies will be called upon again to carry the brunt of the Cardinals' attack. Dwight Sloan and Jack Robbins, the Arkansas passing experts, will alternate at left half back, from which the Cardinals launch their running as well as their aerial offensive. Frank Patrick, the former Pitt full back from East Chicago, who was voted a starting place on THE TRIBUNE's All-Star team last summer, will do the heavy blocking from the quarter back position. Another rookie who will see action in the back field is Sam Agee, the Vanderbilt full back, who has given promise of developing into one of the league's leading line smashers. Agee will replace Buddy Parker, a former Lion, who has been having one of his best years.

The Cardinals' chief worry will be up front, however, for it is in the line where they must reach the heights if they are to triumph over the Lions' superb running attack. Bill Shepherd, the league's leading ground gainer; Vernon Huffman, and Lloyd Cardwell battered the huge Bear line into helplessness three weeks ago.

CANADIENS SIGN GOALIE BOURQUE TO RELIEVE CUDE

MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Manager Cecil Hart of the Montreal Canadiens announced today that Goalie Claude Bourque, a Montreal amateur, had been signed to replace Wilfie Cude in the nets of the wobbling National Hocky league team.

The 23 year old Bourque had been engaged primarily to fill in while Cude takes a "leave of absence" for two or three weeks on doctors' orders, but Hart said that if he makes good he will be kept in the Canadien organization next season.

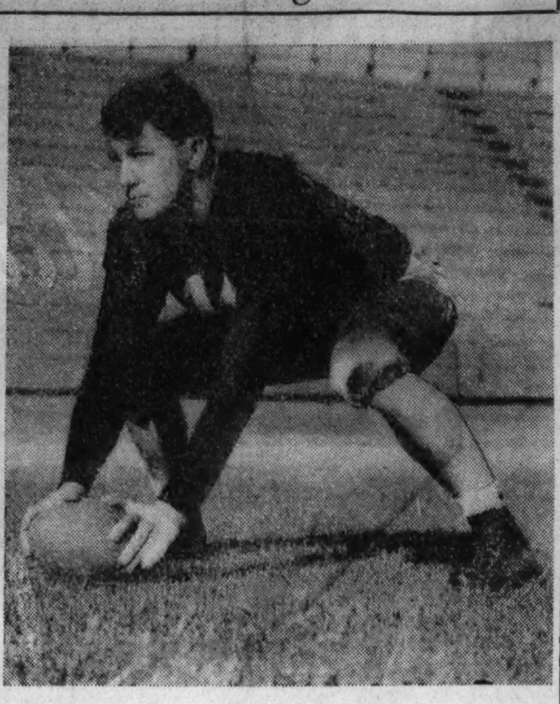
They're Right in Center of Things

The Cardinals return to Wrigley field this afternoon for their third home game of the year. They meet the formidable Detroit Lions, who still have western title hopes. The Lions' lineup includes such players as Alex Wojciechowicz, center, former Fordham star.



The return of Phil Dougherty to center today after being out with injuries has cheered the Cardinals, who are much in need of victory. Dougherty, former Santa Clara star, weighs only 185 pounds, but can stop burlier foes. He's an expert at blocking opponents' kicks.

HONEY CLOUD got away very fast and assumed command at once. He was rated along in front, saved ground and held on gamely to make it a dead heat with CONQUER. The latter was kept out in the best going, closed fast and just got up to finish in a dead heat. CLODION was running very fast at the finish. HIGH VELOCITY had no mishap. ROOM SERVICE was outrun.

Aron, Burke Are Ready for Return Bout

Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight, and Jackie Burke of Ogden, Utah, are satisfied with their condition for their return bout of ten rounds in Marigold Gardens tomorrow. In their previous meeting in the same arena Sept. 12 Aron won a split decision, Referee Johnny Behr and Judge William Battye voting for Milt while the other judge, Edward Klein, scored for Burke. On that occasion Aron weighed 147 pounds to Jackie's 145.

Co-Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun have arranged four supporting matches. A five round heavyweight encounter will involve Alex Kettles of South Bend and Selman Martin of the south side. Don Swenson, St. Paul junior welterweight, meets Tito Taylor, also of the south side, and Battling Monroe, Detroit light heavyweight, faces Emil Campagna of the west side. Billy Gardner and Mickey Sullivan, 142 pound rivals from Sioux City, Ia., appear in an additional contest of four rounds.

Other shows will be presented in Park Casino Wednesday and White City Friday. Sammy Musco, Omaha featherweight, has been substituted for Pablo Dano against Willie Joyce in a ten round event in the Casino. Principals in a ten round co-feature are Frankie [Kid] Covelli and Leone Efrati. Carl Vinciquerra, Omaha heavyweight, and Johnny Nelson of Syracuse, N. Y., will clash in the eight round headliner in White City.

Two wrestling programs are on the week's schedule. Jim McMillen opposes Ignacio Martinez in the windup bout in White City tomorrow. Two engagements will top Wednesday's card in Rainbo Fronton.

HAWK FANS ARE SET TO WELCOME HORNER TONIGHT

Razz Awaits Leaf Hero of Playoff Series.

Games Tonight

Montreal Canadiens at New York Rangers.
Toronto Maple Leafs at Chicago Black Hawks.
Detroit Red Wings at Boston Bruins.

It will be Red Horner night tonight in the big red hall on West Madison street. More than 16,000 hocky fans, full of memories of the final playoff series last spring, will be present in Chicago stadium at the Toronto-Chicago match. The capacity assemblage is expected to give Horner of the Maple Leafs the biggest razz any professional athlete ever received in Chicago, excepting only the razz they gave the same gent last spring in the Stanley cup battles.

Horner is reported to be in much the same sullen mood as he was last year before he fainted in the Stadium as the result of a swish Doc Romnes took at his Adam's apple. When the Hawks were in Toronto Nov. 5, Manager Bill Stewart called Red a name and the Leafs' big bad man loosed a tirade that even shocked Mr. Stewart. At least, Bill says he was shocked at the coarse character of Horner's verbiage.

There'll Be no Riot.

No special effort is being made to halt the hooting serenade which the fans plan for Horner. However, there is no intent to incite to riot and every precaution is to be taken to prevent any sort of demonstration other than vocal, it is promised. The hoodlums who throw missiles heavier than paper and playing cards warmed up for the first time Thursday night. The management tonight will be on the lookout for this ilk and tossers may find themselves tossed in turn.

Romnes has been the hero of the Hawks'-Horner feud, but so far this season has done nothing to re-terrify Horner. In case readers have forgotten the details of why Horner fainted at the swish of Romnes' stick, it may be advisable to go back to the second game of the final playoff series, the only one won by Toronto. In this 5 to 1 Leaf conquest Horner's cowardly slashing broke Romnes' nose in three places, wounded Louis Trudell five stitches worth, gave Roger Jenkins a cut on the eye mended with four stitches and finished up by giving Alex Levinsky a two stitch cut.

Threatens to Cut His Head Off.

Looking out from behind his thrice fractured schnozz the ordinarily peaceful Romnes [he won the Lady Byng trophy for gentleness in 1935-'36, the same year Horner set the bad man record with 167 minutes in the penalty box] Doc spoke thus to Horner: "When you come to Chicago I'm going to cut your head off the first time the puck drops on the ice."

Horner is reported to have shuddered a bit at the threat, but probably didn't think mild Doc's anger would last so long. It is history, however, that Romnes went right after Horner at the start of the first game in Chicago. His stick work was bad, for he missed Horner. Nevertheless Horner swooned, plunking to the ice emphatically.

It had been said that Horner probably would have rather gone to the hospital than have remained to face the screams of "Fainting Bertha" and chants of an even more insulting nature.

There'll Be Hymns for Smythe.

It is probable that razzberry chorus will sing a few hymns for the Leafs' manager, Connie [Sport] Smythe, but the ovation will contain none of the bitterness likely to go with the Horner salutes. After all, Connie is a nice little man and anything extra legal he might have done in connection with the Hawk goalie dilemma last spring can be laughed off as overeagerness to win. There never had been any proof that Connie personally paid for that ale that English Alfie Moore inhaled before the Leafs presented him to the Hawks as the goalie they wanted used against them. And one can't say there was anything about Alfie's miracle performance to breed lasting resentment.

But fie on the personality stuff. After all there's to be a hocky contest, and it should be a classy one, with first place in the National Hocky league at stake.

Though the Hawks beat the Leafs in Toronto, 2 to 0, on Nov. 5, they realize they are to have a hot job on their hands tonight.

Bill Lenzen of Monarchs Rolls Season High of 773

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

The Classic league is considered the strongest bowling organization in Chicago. So it was fitting that a member of this high powered league should capture the honor of rolling the highest series of the competitive season.

A week ago Bill Kotil, competing in the Bruck Major league on the south side, helped himself to a 770 series. That, thought Bill Lenzen of the Monarch team, was an affront to the Classic league. All Mr. Lenzen, sometimes known as Jake, did was to beat that total with games of 277, 228, and 268. This adds up to 773, but three pins are a lot sometimes, Lenzen's Monarch teammates aver.

Tonight Lenzen and all the rest of the Classic league sharpshooters will be in action in the Sunday division on the Lake View Recreation alleys. Schlitz will oppose Ambrosia, the Thompson Restaurants will face the Pabsts, the Baby Ruths will take on the leading Power House Candies, and the Monarchs will try to better their third place standing at the expense of the Pragers. Bill Flesch and Ad Carlson are leading the Sunday division individuals with 203 averages.

North End League.

At the rate the Joseph L. Gills are going in the North End Traveling league, they stand a good chance of setting a new high average mark for the season. As a result of their recent 3,312 total, the Gills boosted their average to 1,030 for 33 games, which is four points over the record set by the Goldammer Milfords while winning the title in 1935. Besides leading the league, the Gills hold the high series with that 3,312, their 1,174 is high game, Wally Freitag's 740 in the best individual effort and, of course Billy Hargadon's 300 is also tops.

This is only Hargadon's third season in the league, but he already has two perfect games, the other being rolled on Feb. 8, 1937. This feat never has been equaled in the league, which has been in existence since 1917.

On South Side Alleys.

De Young Fuel maintained its lead in the Stevenson Major league and now has a standing of 28 won and 8 lost. This is three games better than Eden Insurance and Svendsen Decorators. The Budweisers are fourth at 24 won and 12 lost and the Bill Rands have climbed to fifth with 21 and 15. . . . The Strachan Coals, with 21 won and 9 lost, top the South End Traveling league. The Bill Rands, Southwest Recreation, and Ambrosia Nectar are next in line with 18 and 12. Tocwish of the Dudeck Coals leads the individuals with 199. . . . The Phil Smidts were the hottest of the Bruck Major league teams with their 3,156 series. The leading individuals were: Bill Harper, 659; Art Hennig, 659; Wally Barman, 658; Fred Moll, 647; Roy Wagner, 642; Leo Rollick, 639, and Marion Kruzich, 636.

On North Side Alleys.

Joe Heinreich cashed in on games of 223, 257, and 229 for a 709 series that was the best of the week in the Gold Coast Major league. This count, together with Pete Petersen's 631, helped the Triangle Shirts to win two out of three from the Art William Jewelers. Herb Freitag collected 653 for the Williams five and boosted his league leading average to 208. After starting with a game of 1,132 the Joseph L. Gills dropped a pair to the National Premiums in what was regarded as an upset. Pat's Tap Room swept the series with Irving Pal Tavern and drew up within one game of their third place opponents in the Samuelson Major league. The Wallace Coals grabbed a pair from the Michelobs and stayed one game in front of the Samuelson Kids when the latter lost the third game to Father and Son Shoes. High individuals were: Bjorn Petersen, 669; Alex Sandquist, 642; Fred Wermich, 622; Kurt Kleindienst, 614; and Chick Schroeder, 600.

Windy City Major League.

The Whitecaps regained the lead in the Windy City Major league by sweeping to three victories over the Pickwick Cameras, but they had to take a back seat as far as heavy scoring was concerned. Quality Wet Wash, while rolling the league's high season game of 1,127, lost one to the Vogel Brothers and dropped into a second place tie with the Blazek Tailors, who beat the McKesson Old Crows three times. Second high series of 3,122 and second high game of 1,117 went to G. and W. Five Star, but that team lost a pair to the Budweisers, who totaled 3,117. Trausch of the Furman Funerals, who took a pair from the Burlington Zephyrs, topped the individuals with 697.

About the Women.

The Women's City tournament, which will start Jan. 7, has been awarded to Marzano's Palace of Pleasure, 3315 63d street. Last year 230 teams competed, but a larger entry is expected as membership in the Chicago Women's Bowling association has increased. . . . The Budweiser Girls shot 2855, including the season's high single game of 1039, in the Congress league. Celia Grob, of the Budweisers totaled 605 with high game of 224. Top series were bowled by Kate Campbell, 593; Henrietta Wilman, 578; Betty Ramsey, 577; Kathryn Conen, 576; Emily Stylo, 524; Frieda Tanner, 573; Bee Hochstadter, 567; Lee Leipe, 567; Dorothy Burmeister, 563; Emma Munzel, 560; Ida Hasner, 560, and Bea Freelicher, 556. . . . In the Bruck Major league, Bee Hochstadter had games of 211—195—198, for 604. Other leaders: Min Fox, 566; Margaret Luchsinger, 544; Emma Freitag, 536; Pearl Ammon, 526; Catherine Coyle, 525; Nettie Kolb, 523; Amy Johnson, 518; Agnes Pitelka, 517; Tyna Underhill, 504; Mary Gordon, 517; Marie Schoeppen, 506; Ethel Kelly, 506; Freida Tanner, 503, and Sara Evans, 501.

Georgia Hannon collected a 611 series in the Stevenson Mixed league. Ethel Kelly hit 588; Anne Dubsky, 525; Syble Mulcahy, 517; Josephine Merkner, 511, and Myrtle Aronsen, 509. . . . Ethel Kelly had another good series when she rolled 572 in the Stevenson Handicap league. Florence Waterman was next with 556.

Here and There.

At the end of the first round, Bennett's Arcade and Murray's Idle Hour lead the Greater Chicago Traveling league. Each has 18 won and 9 lost. H. Jouron was high individual, with a 203 average. . . . Ad Carlson of the Pabsts, who never has missed a season, has a grand average of 209 in the Classic league. He has fifteen perfect games to his credit. He and the Pabsts will go to Omaha next Friday for the Midwest tournament. . . . All who bowl perfect games in leagues or tournaments will be awarded 16 karat gold medals until June 30, 1939, the Hiram Walker company announces. . . . A two day doubles handicap meet will wind up today in the Garden Recreation.

Bess Ehrhardt Heads Stadium Skating Show

The seventh annual international ice carnival which opens in the Stadium Tuesday night and continues through Sunday with matinée and evening performances will be one of the most elaborate presentations of the theater on ice ever produced, according to Stadium officials. Hold Your Fire if the Rabbit Is Slow on Feet

BY BOB BECKER.

For more than a week Illinois hunters have been having fun hunting rabbits. The cottontails make snappy targets for a hunter. They offer real entertainment [especially when hunted with a dog], and thousands like to eat them. So it's a bit of tough luck that a hunter has to worry about tularemia or rabbit fever, although many shooters never give it a thought.

Some sportsmen hunt and handle rabbits as they please and the idea of contracting tularemia apparently never worries them. On the other hand, our mail indicates that many shooters are worried about the possibility of contracting rabbit fever. Some ask about cures. Others want to know is cold weather and snow make it safe to hunt rabbits.

Although we like to hunt rabbits every fall and winter, and expect to continue these hunts, we are not going to take any chances of picking up tularemia. Furthermore, there is no need to contract the disease, for infections may be avoided by proper handling of rabbit carcasses. Contrary to the common belief that you are most likely to get tularemia by eating an infected rabbit, most cases are caused by handling an infected animal. If one picks up an infected rabbit, skins it, and then dresses it for cooking, tularemia may be transmitted from the animal to the human through this contact. That's why rubber gloves are advised if you want to be sure of protection from the disease through your hands.

We have kept in touch with the Illinois tularemia situation for years through reports from the Illinois department of public health. Some time ago the department [in one of its bulletins] said: "While case reports in Illinois are not numerous, ranging from 100 to 150 a year, it is probable that tularemia is more widely prevalent than the records indicate. Hunters, meat market employés, and housewives who dress rabbits are more frequently the victims of tularemia than any other group."

The department adds this cheerful statement: "The risk of tularemia is not great enough substantially to discourage rabbit shooting. It is wise, however, to take reasonable precaution against the disease."

One of the wisest precautions is not to pick up the "lazy rabbit" that you shoot—the ones that don't run! They may be infected. And don't dress a rabbit caught by a dog—that one is likely to be sick. The third precaution is to put on rubber gloves when you clean a rabbit.

Marquette Is Defeated by Arizona, 20-12

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The University of Arizona spoiled Marquette university's invasion of the southwest tonight with a 20 to 12 victory over the Hilltoppers. A homecoming crowd of 10,000 saw the game.

Walter Nielsen, 220 pound Arizona full back, led a ninety-one yard scoring drive in the first quarter and figured in the forward-lateral play that enabled Bronko Smilanich, left half, to go over.

Nielsen went across for another touchdown from the 2 yard line in the second period, and set up Smilanich's long throw to Half Back Johnny Black for the third Arizona touchdown in the third quarter. Capt. George Ahee, guard, kicked two extra points.

OHIO UNIVERSITY BEATS MARSHALL FOR TITLE SHARE

Athens, O., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Ohio university gained at least a share of the Buckeye conference title today by a brilliant 14 to 7 victory over Marshall college.

The passes of Johnny Montgomery, diminutive Bobcat quarter back, and the line smashing of Len Janiak, husky Ohio full back, were highlights of the contest.

The Bobcats scored first in the opening period on Janiak's smash from the 1 yard line, and again in the third period on Montgomery's ten yard pass to Jim Snyder, who went over from the 3 yard marker with three tacklers clinging to him.

Marshall made its only score early in the fourth period when Elkins drove over from the 1 yard line.

SYRACUSE BEATS COLUMBIA, 13-12, ON TWO DRIVES

Puts 92 of Its 98 Yards Into Touchdown Marches.

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Columbia's luck again was bad today, along with the weather, and the Lions were beaten by Syracuse, 13 to 12, on Baker field.

The Orange was inside the Columbia 40 yard line only twice during the afternoon and both ventures resulted in touchdowns. The opportunists from upstate went thirty-eight yards in three plays for the first touchdown and fifty-four yards in four plays for the other. These two drives accounted for ninety-two of the ninety-eight yards that Syracuse made in the rain and the mire of as dismal a football day as this campaign has produced.

Columbia had no trouble making yardage, and matched the Orange's two touchdowns, but failure to kick either point cost a tie or victory. Syracuse led, 6 to 0, in the first period on a touchdown by Zimdahl, and when tied at 6-all in the second quarter, came back to a 13 to 6 advantage on another touchdown by Zimdahl and successful kick for the point by Bruett. Columbia's final points were scored by Stanyzk. Lineups:

PITT, 26; PENN STATE, 0.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Pitt's hard driving Panthers bowled over a dazed Penn State football aggregation, 26 to 0, today with Dick Cassiano, lone junior in the back field, racing for three touchdowns.

Fourteen thousand chilled fans, pelted by a hard rain in the game's opening minutes, saw the Panthers completely outplay the Lions in the first and third periods and then let the reserves do the work.

Biggie Goldberg, spark-plug in the Panther's back field, who has been out with a pulled tendon since the first five minutes of the game two weeks ago which Pitt lost to Carnegie Tech, polished up for next week's clash with Duke by galloping back the second half kickoff fifty-three yards.

That set the stage for a Cassiano touchdown thrust, an off-tackle play from the Penn State 19 yard line. On the next kickoff, Lloyd Ickes fumbled and Goldberg recovered for Pitt on the Lion 33. On the second play Cassiano swept around end to another touchdown from the 28.

Cassiano scored his first tally late in the opening period, after another fumble by Ickes. He skirted the end for twenty-six yards, then sixteen for the score. Bobby Thurbon, Cassiano's sophomore understudy from Erie, Pa., scored the fourth touchdown in the final period, crashing through tackle from the Lion 9.

and after two line plays had gained only a yard, Griffin dropped back and punted from the 30 yard line. The ball was touched by several Fenger players, but they forgot to down it. After a few seconds Bill Gawron, Harrison's 190 pound tackle, remembered what he had read in the football rule book, picked up the ball and ran 43 yards for a touchdown.

It's 13 to 6 at Half.

Griffin, with the aid of Anthony Zilius, 18 year old full back, tied the score ten minutes later. Griffin started the drive from his own 49 yard line. He picked up fifteen yards and Zilius added five. Griffin fired a twenty-three yard pass to Tom Howes, Fenger's 170 pound end, who was stopped on the 6 yard line. Griffin then went around left end for the score.

The second Fenger touchdown march began on the south siders' 39 yard line. Griffin appeared on the way to the Harrison goal line after gaining ten yards, but he was stopped by Klemchuk. The speedy quarter back picked up five more yards and then tossed a seventeen yard pass to John Cappozzo. He shot another five yard pass to Dick Dudzik and then Zilius went to the 6 yard line. Griffin dashed around his left end again for the score, which gave Fenger a 13 to 6 lead at the half.

Ed Jankaus, Harrison's hard plunging half back, went to work shortly after the third period started. He returned Griffin's punt thirty-three yards to the Harrison 43. Klemchuk carried the ball three times and brought it to the Fenger 26. Jankaus made it first down on the Fenger 13 and Klemchuk went to the 6 yard line on a play through center. It required four plays for Jankaus to score, the final effort being a one yard plunge through right guard and the Hornets still trailed, 13 to 12, when Klemchuk's pass to Harold Evanshank failed.

Griffin Races 69 Yards.

Late in the third quarter Zilius increased Fenger's lead by scoring from the 1 yard line, ending a drive which included a sixty-nine yard run by Griffin. Griffin had received Evanshank's punt on the 6 yard line and finally was stopped on the Harrison 25. Zilius made two runs of fifteen and seven yards and then went across the goal line over right guard.

Two passes set up Harrison's last touchdown. Klemchuk tossed the ball twenty-three yards to Evanshank and fired another for eight yards to Jankaus to put Harrison on Fenger's 14. Leonard Ciesla made four yards in two plays. Klemchuk picked up six yards and then a lateral, Harry Wilk to Jankaus, brought the ball to the 1 yard line. Jankaus plunged over for the touchdown.

It's Griffin Again.

Griffin paved the way for another Fenger touchdown in the fourth quarter by running forty-two yards to Harrison's 8, finally being brought down by Wilk. Griffin then broke loose again, but was held a foot from the goal line. Zilius tried to make the score, but he was stopped. Griffin accomplished the trick, however, on the next play between right end and right tackle.

Henry Stevenson, Fenger's substitute half back, and Griffin assured Fenger of the league championship several minutes later. Stevenson recovered Klemchuk's fumble on the Harrison 30. He then carried the ball for an eight yard gain and Zilius added another eight. Harrison was penalized five yards and Griffin scored Fenger's last touchdown on end run.

Fenger and Harrison each made ten first downs. The champions' total yardage was 227 against 160 for the Hornets. Fenger made good on four out of eight passes. The south siders' successful passes gave them fifty-six yards.

Fenwick Meets Mount Carmel for Title Today

Fenwick High school's undefeated and untied football team and Mount Carmel this afternoon will make their final attempts to reach Mayor Kelly's all-city game against the public school champion next Saturday. The two sectional finalists will meet in Soldiers' field to decide the Catholic league championship. Each eleven is confident it will return to the lake front arena next week to participate in the charity contest.

Mount Carmel boasted a perfect record until last Sunday when it was tied by De La Salle in its last south section game. However, the team had clinched the division title a week earlier and, in addition, two of its regulars were on the sidelines with injuries.

Winning the league championship and appearing in the charity game will be no new experience for both Fenwick and Mount Carmel. The south siders won the league title in 1931 and 1933, while Fenwick clicked in 1936 and then tied Austin, 19 to 19, in Mayor Kelly's contest.

Mount Carmel's starting backfield will include John Andretich, 160 pound full back; John McCalluf, 150 pound left half; Robert Quinn, 160 pound right half, and Wesley Miller, quarter back. Fenwick's backfield will be composed of Johnny Barrett Jr., full back; George Elder, left half; Jack Bailey, quarter back, and Robert Maloney, right half.

Mount Carmel's two appearances in the all-city game were against Harrison Tech. It lost to the Public School league champion in 1931, but triumphed, 6 to 0, two years later. Mount Carmel last season lost only one contest, but finished in second place in the south division behind Leo, which lost to Austin, 26 to 0, in Mayor Kelly's game.

FORT SHERIDAN POLOISTS BEAT EVANSTON, 11-9

With Capt. D. H. Galloway scoring seven goals, two of them on penalty shots, Fort Sheridan beat the Evanston Polo club, 11 to 9, last night in the opening round of the Metropolitan Indoor Polo league in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

The Fort Sheridan trio of Capt. Galloway, Capt. C. B. Hutchinson and Capt. W. A. Holbrook Jr., maintained its lead throughout with the exception of once in the third period when a goal by Hobart [Cowboy] Reed evened the score at 6-all.

Three of Capt. Galloway's goals were made in the final period and stemmed an Evanston rally led by Bobby Nichoalds, who made his Chicago debut by turning in a pretty exhibition of horsemanship and clean, long hitting.

The Rangers defeated the Ranchers, 10 to 9, in the preliminary game. Lineups:

Michigan State Outgained, but Beats Temple

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Michigan State closed its football season this afternoon with a 10 to 0 victory over Temple university.

In the first period the Spartans took possession of the ball on Temple's 31 yard line after an exchange of kicks. Usif Haney and Ed Pearce advanced the ball to the 7 yard line from where Pearce swept wide around left end for the only touchdown. Les Bruckner added the extra point.

Temple March Halted.

Temple, which had been stopped on the 11 yard line in the first period, opened the second half by taking the kickoff and advancing seventy-seven yards to State's 3 yard line, where the easterners were turned back.

A poor bunt by John Kovacevich gave State the ball on Temple's 47 yard line as the third period ended and John Pingel started a State attack under way. Three passes by Pingel, together with George Kovacich's line plunging, moved the ball to the Temple 7 yard line. After two plays, Bruckner booted a field goal from the 14 yard line.

Temple Leads in Yardage.

Pingel completed five out of eight passes and punted ten times for an average of forty-nine yards. Temple rolled up thirteen first downs to five for the Spartans and piled up 276 yards to 156 for State. Lineups:

SWARTHMORE'S ELEVEN BEATS EARLHAM, 15-0

Swarthmore, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Swarthmore's triple threat half back, Ed Jakle, led Swarthmore to a 15 to 0 victory over Earlham today in a game played in a driving rainstorm and heavy fog.

The visitors from Indiana staved off several Garnet scoring threats in the first half but yielded a safety when Henry McCone blocked Ortwein's punt and Wright fell on the ball behind the goal line.

In the third period a twenty-five yard forward pass, Jakle to Weltmer, scored Swarthmore's first touchdown. Weltmer caught the ball on the 10 and ran the rest of the way. Later Larry Wolfe ran a punt back to Earlham's 11. The Garnet went to the two from where Jakle went around end.

A homecoming crowd of 10,000 saw Detroit take a 13 to 0 lead in the early stages, then trail 14 to 13 late in the third period, and finally turn on an attack that produced four touchdowns in the closing twenty minutes.

CALIFORNIA WINS FROM STANFORD ON A PASS, 6 TO 0

Berkeley, Cal., Nov. 19.—[U. P.]—The University of California cashed in on its only scoring opportunity to defeat surprisingly strong Stanford, 6 to 0, before 81,000 today.

The touchdown came on a forward pass, thrown by Left Half Back Vic Bottari to Left End Reggie Reginato.

Bottari pitched from the 21 yard line and Reginato, crossing from the left, caught the ball on the 5. Although surrounded by Stanford men he pivoted and ran into the end zone without any one touching him. Bottari's attempted drop kick for the extra point bounced off Tackle Stan Arderson's chest.

Score After Reovering Fumble.

The score came after forty-eight minutes of play and it followed the only break the well played game offered to either team. Stanford had just stood off a sixty yard California advance, the only Golden Bear drive of the day, and had taken the ball on its 20. Freddie Ledeboer, right half back, pierced the California line and fumbled. Half Back Louie Smith of California recovered on the Stanford 27. Three plays later California scored, assuring the Bears of at least a tie for first place in the Pacific Coast conference.

Stanford threatened to score four times, twice getting inside the California 5 yard line and twice missing placement goals from inside the 40 yard mark. The lineups:

OREGON, 3; WASHINGTON, 0.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 19.—[U. P.]—James Nicholson, senior half back, stopped Washington's brief comeback today with a field goal to bring Oregon a 3 to 0 victory and its first triumph over the Huskies in three years. Washington's offense, which crushed Southern California last week, failed to click before 20,000 fans.

The Huskies never threatened after a brief drive in the first period. Two penalties halted an Oregon drive on the Washington 13 in the third quarter and Washington quenched another threat in the fourth by holding for downs on its 6.

NEW TRIER GETS 19 TO 0 BEATING IN WHITE PLAINS

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—White Plains High school defeated New Trier of Winnetka, Ill., 19 to 0, today in a game played in a downpour. Sal Di Yeso scored all three touchdowns.

His first score came on a seventy-three yard run in the opening period. It came on the first play after New Trier had grounded a pass in the White Plains end zone to lose the ball on downs.

Carrying the ball five straight times, Di Yeso sliced and bucked his way across from the 19 yard line for the second score, finally going through center from the 1 foot mark.

Notre Dame Beats N. U., 9-7, for Eighth Straight Victory

Notre Dame's touchdown in the second quarter.

The setup before Hofer put on his big hustle for the Purple goal was Sophomore Paul Soper's fair catch on the Irish 47 yard line of Harry Stevenson's punt. The Wildcats tried a running play without success, so Soper let fly a pass.

It didn't nestle into the arms of the intended receiver. Hofer did the catching. A bit dazed by surprise, he wandered along a few yards toward the west side line and was welcomed suddenly by a row of blockers which to him looked as formidable as a machine gun crew. They were. They legged it down the field Indian fashion, Hofer between them and the side lines. Finally he got in front and there was only Soper between him and the few remaining yards to the goal. Hofer lunged across just as the man who had thrown the pass made a futile grab.

Hofer Again, Three Points.

The touchdown isn't the complete Hofer story of the day. Because he's a second string man and Notre Dame was trailing, 7 to 6, he wasn't among the actors when the third period opened. The Irish, however, found themselves stopped when the enemy goal was within reach, so Hofer was called back and his boot from placement changed a possible 7 to 6 Wildcat victory into a definite 9 to 7 decision for the Irish.

Northwestern scored soon after Hofer had performed his touchdown heroics. The Wildcats started from their 49 and didn't let up until George McGurn had crossed the goal from 2½ yards out. Nick Conteas kicked the extra point.

The class of the Wildcats through the first three quarters is shown easily. Five times they had the Irish backed on to hot ground. In one of these five—in the first quarter—the Cats evinced a willingness to settle for three points, but Conteas' toe failed him. Thus the Purple had their first half fling. They couldn't come back against the Irish running attack which Bob Saggau and Louis Zontini carried up to the point where Hofer's toe did the rest.

Wildcats Throw 13 Passes.

In the first half the Wildcats accumulated nine first downs by rushing against four for Notre Dame. At the end of the engagement there were fourteen first downs for the Purple and a dozen for the Irish. The Wildcats collected the extra two by clicking on passes. In yards from rushing, principally because of Bernie Jefferson and Soper, Northwestern collected 228 yards against 198. The net yardage was 290 for Northwestern and 220 for Notre Dame. Northwestern threw thirteen passes and completed four. Notre Dame connected once in four attempts.

The Wildcats revealed unexpected power on offense as soon as the battle started. The Purple took Longhi's kickoff on their 35, whereupon Jefferson and Hahnenstein tore through for a first down on Northwestern's 48. McGurn plunged for three yards. Jefferson weaved through for another first down on Notre Dame's 42. In three more assaults, McGurn, Hahnenstein and Jefferson went as far as the 34, where Jefferson punted out of bounds on the Irish 10.

Irish Punt in a Hurry.

The Irish lost no time punting away from their territory, Hahnenstein taking Saggau's kick on the Purple 36. After Northwestern had profited by a five yard penalty, Jefferson put on a one man show which drove Notre Dame back on to dangerous ground. The colored flash sailed into a hole at Notre Dame's right tackle, twisted around long enough to elude a flock of Irish, and then proceeded down the east side of the field, finally being brought down by McGoldrick on Notre Dame's 25. The Purple attack faltered and on fourth down Conteas attempted a placement from the 30, but the kick was partly blocked and dropped into the end zone.

After the Purple placement had failed, the Irish had their first chance to show a flash of offensive strength. On the first play Saggau sprinted off tackle for fourteen yards to his 34. Zontini and Thesing shot through for two yards each. Daly held another Zontini thrust to one yard. The Irish had to punt and when the Purple punted back Notre Dame opened another drive which carried them to a first down in midfield. Saggau unfurled a long pass but Hahnenstein batted it down. Saggau hit tackle for two yards and then launched another pass but the Irish hopes were shattered when Haman intercepted the ball and carted it back to Northwestern's 36.

New Players Take Over.

The second quarter opened with new teams in action and the Purple on the offensive on their 38. On the first play of the quarter Northwestern was penalized five yards for being offside but Soper came back with a sweep around left end for a first down on the Irish 33. Two yards by Mesec, a pass, Soper to Diehl, and a tackle sprint by Soper gave the Purple a first down on the Notre Dame 10. Soper passed to Mesec for a yard but end runs by Soper and Mesec failed, the Irish getting possession of the ball on their 9.

It wasn't long before Hofer flashed across the chalk lines on his touchdown sprint. Stevenson punted to Soper, who made a fair catch on the Irish 47. Soper tried to advance afoot, but failed because Kerr nailed him. He then resorted to a pass. This was the pass that Hofer plucked out of the air on his 35 and carried across the Purple goal for the first six points of the game. Morrison's toe made a bid for the extra point but the kick traveled wide.

N. U.'s Turn Now.

The Purple started to function immediately after the ensuing kickoff. The Wildcats surged up to the Notre Dame 28. They were stopped, but not for long. Jefferson punted out of bounds on the Irish 9. On third down Saggau punted to Hahnenstein on Northwestern's 49. The Wildcat touchdown march began at this point. On a reverse Jefferson picked up a yard. On a spinner Hahnenstein tore through a hole in the middle of the wall to the Irish 34.

The next move by the Purple was a pass Jefferson sailed into Hahnenstein's hands. It was worth eleven yards. The Wildcats took time out to discuss the situation. The upshot of the huddle was Hahnenstein's dash through left guard for eight yards. McGurn, on a reverse, ran Notre Dame's right end and a sigh of relief came from the Notre Dame adherents when he was halted two and one-half yards from the Irish goal. The relief was momentary. On the next play McGurn dove over right guard for a touchdown and Conteas kicked the point that lifted the Wildcats into the lead by 7 to 6.

Notre Dame's offense developed into a menace for the Wildcats as soon as the Irish got their hands on the ball in the third period. The Purple couldn't gain after receiving the kickoff and Jefferson punted out of bounds on the Notre Dame 32. The Irish charged up to the Purple 45 before pulling a quick kick which Saggau's aim sent bouncing out of bounds on the Purple 4. Jefferson kicked back immediately from his end zone, but the ball went out of bounds on his 39. The Irish then came through with the assault that fastened down their season's eighth victory.

Saggau Gets Revenge.

Notre Dame's first charge meant nothing. Saggau was stopped at the line of scrimmage. Saggau retaliated for being flagged down in that fashion. He faded back toward his right, seemingly searching for a pass receiver. Suddenly he decided to run and scampered around Northwestern's left end for a first down on the Purple 25. Zontini dove through for three yards and repeated for four more. Saggau tried an end run but gained nothing. Sitko, after threatening to pass, turned on the power and went up the side of the field for another first down on the 10, where Conteas knocked him out of bounds.

The Wildcat defense suddenly braced. Conteas and Aarts checked Zontini after a one yard dive through the line. Zontini attempted to pass but he was rushed by Daly and the ball bounced along the ground, far from any receivers. Thesing tried to plunge but failed to gain. This was where Hofer was hustled back into the game to test his toe. With Saggau holding the ball on the 17, Hofer kicked the decisive three point goal. The Irish saw to it that the slim lead wasn't threatened during the remainder of the fight.

quarter opened with Maddox gaining ten yards through the line to his 41 to keep alive a drive that had opened on the Indiana 20 late in the third quarter. Dumke made six and then four for first down on Purdue's 49 yard line.

Hursh passed to John Janzaruk for first down on the 37, and Dumke found a hole at center for four yards. Hursh passed to Eddie Rucinski to the 27 and Dumke hit tackle for first down on the 20. Hursh's pass was wide, then a lateral from Dumke to Maddox lost five yards. The same play to the other side picked up four yards, after which Hursh passed to Janzaruk for first down on the 7. Then Dumke went wide around left end for a touchdown. Joe Tofil's attempted conversion failed.

Brock Gains Most Ground.

Brown's sprint became all the more grievious to Indiana after the statistics were pondered, for Indiana had an edge in many of the numbers. The Hoosiers had fourteen first downs to ten for Purdue. Purdue made 154 yards from rushing to 146 for Indiana, but Indiana completed eight of eighteen forward passes for gains of seventy-eight yards, while Purdue completed only two for thirteen yards. Indiana, however, also led in fumbling, with four, all of which were recovered by Purdue. Purdue fumbled once and recovered.

Brock was the big ground gainer of the day with a total of eighty-six yards in twenty-two attempts. Brown was runnerup with sixty-one yards in addition to his ninety-eight yard return of the opening kickoff.

Tie for Second in Big Ten.

Dumke led the Hoosier overland boys with fifty-eight yards, with Ed Herbert a close second with fifty-two. Ed Clasen was third with twenty yards in four tries. The blocking was accurate and fierce from the outset, with Co-Capt. Joe Mihal of Purdue standing out in this department. The blocking on Brown's long run was so thorough that he went the last thirty-seven yards without one Indiana lad in even perfunctory pursuit.

The outcome gave Purdue, which lost only one game, 7 to 0, to Minnesota, a second place tie with Michigan in the final Big Ten standings.

PREDICT LOWER STEEL OUTPUT FOR THIS WEEK

Setback to Be First Since Early in October.

The anticipated setback in steel ingot production rates will materialize this week, according to preliminary mill schedules announced yesterday in several steel making districts. Chicago operations will be 3 points under last week's schedule at 57.4 per cent of capacity. Pittsburgh mills and those in the Youngstown area also will operate at a lower rate.

This will be the first week to week reduction in operating rates since early in October. The weekly increases have continued with few interruptions since the first week of July. However, observers of the steel industry have been predicting a leveling off of the rate for several weeks.

Trend Still Problematical.

Whether this week's reduction signals the end of the upward trend or is merely a temporary lull is problematical. Most of the recent steel buying has been in the lighter sheets and strip which do not require so much steel. Production has been outrunning consumption for several months as mills built up backlogs of material.

Buying by the construction and building industries and for shipbuilding has not developed as rapidly as expected, although the steel industry still expects considerable business from these sources later.

The Pittsburgh district will begin producing steel ingots tomorrow at 48 per cent of theoretical capacity, according to Dow, Jones & Co. This compares with a beginning rate of 49 per cent last Monday.

Output Increased Last Week.

Production in the Pittsburgh district was increased during last week, however, to an estimated 51 per cent of capacity, a new peak for the district for more than thirteen months.

Youngstown mills will begin operations this week at 61 per cent of capacity, off 2 points from last week's rate. Production will jump 7 points to 75 per cent of capacity in the Birmingham, Ala., district. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company will light another open harth furnace, bringing the district's total to 16 active furnaces.

Air Lines Report Increase in Their Passenger Trafic

Air lines in the United States flew 51,350,752 revenue passenger miles in October, Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America, reported yesterday. This was an increase of 3.78 per cent compared with September and a gain of 20.97 per cent over October, 1937. Gorrell said more business men are traveling by plane since the current trade upturn began.

Alloys.

Modern industrial development has led to a great increase in the number of alloys in common use. It is estimated that there are now more than 8,000 standard alloys produced.

Alloys are produced by combining two or more metals, usually by melting them together. The combination of different metals may be made to increase specific chemical or mechanical properties or to create properties not possessed by any of the constituents.

Steel is an alloy of iron and carbon. Copper and zinc are alloyed to make brass. Nickel silver is a combination of copper, nickel, and zinc, and bronze is an alloy of copper, zinc, and tin.

Robert C. Stanley, president of the International Nickel company, producer of 85 per cent of the world's nickel, says that the possibilities of producing new alloys are almost limitless. Special properties may be attained by varying the percentages of the constituent metals used in various alloys. Nickel is now used, Stanley points out, in 2,300 of the 8,000 standard alloys now in use.

Tomorrow: More about alloys.

WHEAT AND CORN PRICES DECLINE ON LIQUIDATION

December Contracts Sold by Holders.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the December delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .63	$ .64	$ .92⅞
Corn	.46¾	.47¾	.54⅞
Oats	.25¾	.25¾	.30⅝
Rye	.41⅝	.42⅛	.71
Soy beans	.72¾	.73½	.93

Liquidation by holders of December wheat and corn contracts featured trading on the Chicago Board of Trade. Support was not aggressive and closing trades were at the bottom. Wheat futures were ⅞ to 1 cent lower, and corn declined ½ to 1 cent a bushel.

Nov. 30 will be the first day for giving notice of intention to deliver cash grain on December contracts. Holders of futures who do not desire to pay for cash grain are expected to sell freely before that date. At the opening yesterday there were uncompleted contracts for 37,237,000 bushels of December wheat and 18,321,000 bushels of December corn.

Estimate Wheat Deliveries.

Yesterday's downturn was accelerated by trade reports indicating 3,000,000 bushels or more cash wheat would be delivered early next month.

The Anglo-American trade treaty, which was signed Nov. 17, is regarded by brokers as having ceased, temporarily at least, to be a factor in shaping the trend of grain prices. No export business in either cash grain or provisions was confirmed yesterday. It was intimated, however, that Mexico had purchased 750,000 bushels of wheat from brokers acting for the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation.

Harvesting of the new Argentine wheat crop is reported to be making rapid progress in provinces which have about 50 per cent of the total acreage in that country.

Wheat Lower in Liverpool.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ½ to ¾ cent lower on the old style and ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel lower on the new style contract. The latter represents wheat which arrives at English ports after Jan. 1 and can be imported free of duty. It was officially confirmed that the removal of the English duty of 6 cents a bushel will apply to all imported wheat.

December corn went to a discount of 3¾ cents a bushel yesterday as compared with the May future. This is the widest difference of the season. Reports indicating large deliveries of cash grain on December contracts accelerated the decline.

CHICAGO STOCKS ARE FIRMER, BUT LOSE FOR WEEK

Trading dried up yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange, leaving most issues with losses for the week. THE TRIBUNE average of twenty stocks closed at 11.52, off 0.76 from the preceding Saturday's close.

Yesterday's turnover was only 9,000 shares, compared with 23,000 on the preceding Saturday. Several favorites, however, reduced their losses of earlier in the week. Marshall Field and Zenith Radio gained ¾ point each. Chicago corporation common finished ⅛ higher and the preferred moved up ¼. On the downgrade were Elgin National Watch, losing 1½, and Dodge Manufacturing, which dipped ¾ point.

The week's sales totaled 155,000 shares, against 176,000 in the preceding week, and 208,000 in the corresponding 1937 week. Of the 207 stocks traded, 129 declined, forty-four advanced, and thirty-five closed lower.

COTTON

Mill buying in the early trading in American cotton markets yesterday was not sufficient to offset easiness in Liverpool and hedging sales. Closing trades were unchanged to .04 cent a pound lower.

Liverpool cotton firms in commenting on the Anglo-American trade treaty said the advantages appeared to be more of a political than of a commercial nature.

Spot cotton closed .03 to .05 cent lower with New Orleans, 8.65 cents and Galveston and Houston at 8.55 cents per pound. Futures prices follow in cents per pound:

INDUSTRY STEPS AHEAD OF 1937 FOR FIRST TIME

Several Lines Most Active This Year.

Averages of industrial and business activity last week rose above 1937 levels for the first time in any week this year. The long awaited pronouncement "better than a year ago" came as steel output, electric power production, and residential building achieved new peaks for the year or longer.

Meanwhile the flow of goods and dollars across the nation's retail counters quickened. In the factories scattered pay restorations, bonuses, and pay roll expansions added a note of cheer.

So rapidly has business risen in the last few months that some observers are warning of a setback early in 1939, or at least a "leveling off" in production.

Predicts Temporary Setback.

One federal economist predicted a slump in the first quarter of next year. He said buying power cannot support a continuation of the present production rate. However, he forecast a resumption of the upward trend in the second 1939 quarter.

Another word of caution came from the economic policy commission of the American Bankers' association. Its annual report said the current upturn "clearly appears to mark the beginning of a new business cycle" but added that there was no certainty as to how long the recovery trend will continue. On the whole, however, the commission took an optimistic view.

The report was received at the annual meeting of the bankers' association in Houston, Tex. At the convention speakers condemned wasteful spending by politicians, warned of a trend toward dictatorship, and urged that depositors and insurance policy holders be mustered for a campaign for federal economy and debt reduction.

Index at New 1938 High.

The Associated Press composite index of industrial activity for the week moved up to a new 1938 high at 89.3 per cent of the 1929-'30 average. A week earlier it was at 86.5 per cent and a year ago 83.9 per cent. The index, with its seasonally adjusted components, compared as follows:

	Latest week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.
Composite index	*89.3	†86.5	83.9
Automobile prod.	74.5	†65.0	83.2
Steel mill act.	*84.0	81.8	48.9
Cotton mfg acct.	111.6	107.1	97.1
Electric pow prod.	*114.9	114.8	115.5
Residential bldg.	*87.6	87.0	53.9
Total carloadings	66.3	66.3	71.5

*New 1938 high. †Revised.

Steel mills during the week operated at an average of 62.6 per cent of capacity. This was a gain of 1.6 points compared with the preceding week and was the highest rate since early October, 1937. One independent steel company was reported running at capacity.

Prices of scrap steel were boosted, reflecting the better conditions in the industry. The magazine Iron Age predicted the present high operating rates will continue to the end of 1938.

Power Output Increases.

The amount of electric power generated in the week ended Nov. 12 was 0.1 per cent more than in the preceding week and 1.5 per cent more than in the corresponding 1937 week.

Automobile production was 96,735 cars and trucks, compared with 86,300 a week earlier and 85,757 a year ago. Large orders were reported to have been received at the Chicago and New York automobile shows.

Department store sales in the week ended Nov. 12 made a better showing, compared with a year ago, than they did in the preceding week. The volume was only 1 per cent less than a year ago. In the preceding week it was 8 per cent less.

Bank clearings showed a large gain over the preceding week, which, however, was affected by the election holiday. The total was 2.8 per cent less than a year ago. Chicago banks reported increased commercial loans, but New York banks showed a decline. Reserve member banks continued to pile up more idle funds.

Cotton Mills More Active.

Cotton mills increased production. The amount of freight hauled by the railroads was 5.4 per cent less than in the preceding week, but this was a seasonal decline.

The commerce department had this to say of conditions in its latest study of thirty-seven cities:

"Despite the Armistice day holiday, business activity continued its advance on a broad front. Retail trade repeated its gradual improvement of the preceding week. Only five cities reported definite decreases in retail business from the preceding week, and the great majority of the

Sows Do More to Aid Farmer Than U.S. Plans

The farm sow, the target of several AAA production curtailment programs since the Roosevelt administration took office in 1933, is coming to the rescue of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in his struggle with the grain surplus problem. Farmers who have relied on the sow, despite various government mandates, point out that the sow and its offspring are doing more toward bettering conditions in the corn belt than government loans.

Hogs at current prices are paying a much better price for the grain they receive in their ration than the government will give for the grain or lend on it. Late last week farmers who marketed hogs said they got slightly more than 70 cents a bushel for the corn they had fed. This was after deducting cost of other feeds and expenses of marketing the hogs.

Hogs Not Choosy About Corn.

The local grain elevator in many communities pays only 30 cents a bushel for corn. The government will loan 57 cents on corn that comes up to AAA specifications, then only to coöperators in the government program. The sow and its offspring have no specifications on corn quality or ownership. They eat it all and pay a good price, approximately 20 to 25 per cent over the government loan rate and well over 100 per cent above the market value as grain.

It was estimated at the Chicago stockyards yesterday that corn now being marketed as pork is returning farmers $75,000,000 more monthly than they could get for the grain from an elevator, and about $25,000,000 more than they could get if they sealed it on government loans. Much of the grain being converted into pork is of low quality. The government will not make loans on such grain.

About 57 Million Hogs.

There are now approximately 57,000,000 sows and their offspring on farms, including the fall crop and what has not been marketed of the spring farrowing. They are eating about 200,000,000 bushels of feed, mostly corn, a month.

The current corn-hog price ratio is probably the most favorable on record for this season of the year. Late last week it took 16.1 bushels of No. 3 yellow corn on the Chicago market to equal the average price of 100 pounds of hogs. A year ago the ratio was 14.7. Two years ago it was 8.8.

Production of pork is definitly on the upgrade, but with general business conditions improving, and more people getting back to work in many industries, there is little danger of any immediate serious overproduction of pork in this country.

Record of Hog Slaughtering.

It is believed that slaughtering of hogs under federal inspection for the crop year, Oct. 1, 1938, to Sept. 30, 1939, will be between 38 and 39 million head. The average for the last five years, including several of the smallest crops on record, stands at 37,375,000. The five year average, 1928-'32, inclusive, before the mandatory destruction of sows and pigs in 1933, was 46,500,000.

Slaughtering of hogs in Chicago last week rose to the highest volume in ten months. Receipts increased to 125,600 head, compared with 104,667 for the preceding week. Prices declined slightly, the six day average at $7.65 showing a loss of 5 cents. This price was only 10 cents above the lowest weekly average since October, 1934. Most young hogs closed off 5 to 10 cents for the week. Sows, however, finished 10 to 15 cents higher.

Slaughter Lambs Advance.

A sharp advance featured the market for slaughter lambs last week. Prices rose 25 to 50 cents to the highest levels of the season.

Cattle markets followed an irregular course last week, some kinds finishing sharply higher and others lower. The week's steer average at $9.95, off 25 cents, was lowest since the week ended July 2. Steers closed steady to 50 cents higher. Best weighty stock showed most improvement, but cheaper grades were little changed. Hefers sold steady to 25 cents lower. Cows were off 25 cents. Calves slumped 50 cents.

GEORGE PEEK, FORMER ROOSEVELT ADVISER, ASSAILS TRADE PACTS

Moline, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The new trade treaties with England and Canada today were termed "economic disarmament by the United States." George N. Peek, former head of the Agricultural Adjustment administration and former special adviser to President Roosevelt on foreign trade, made the statement in an interview here.

George N. Peek.

Peek declared the Anglo-American agreements encourage imports and mean greater dependency on foreign nations by the United States. "In general these treaties are economic disarmament at a time when we are talking of national defense and armament," he asserted.

He said the administration's blanket formula of reducing tarifs on farm products floods the United States with imports from countries where production costs are low.

Illegal, Says Congressman.

Sheridan, Wyo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Congressman-Elect Frank O. Horton declared today that the United States' reciprocal trade treaties with Canada and the United Kingdom were unconstitutional. Horton, a Republican, said the treaties should be approved by a two-thirds majority of the senate. He said the way the treaties were negotiated placed Wyoming's interest at "the mercy of one man, Sceretary of State Hull, the greatest free trade exponent in the United States."

New Veneer of Wood Used in Auto Doors

A new kind of wood veneer for automobile door paneling was introduced on a Cadillac 60 special at the automobile show yesterday. This was the first time that it had been exhibited publicly.

The new product, invented by J. H. Smith, Chicago veneer specialist, was made by combining a thin wood veneer with quarter inch hair felt. The wood used is English gray harewood.

Unusual Properties Claimed.

The resulting veneer is said to have the pliability, insulation, and sound deadening qualities of hair felt, but to have the appearance of ordinary wood surface. It can be "bent" to conform to the curves of the car door, and is cleaned and polished like furniture.

Its makers say that it can be made by mass production methods required for the automobile industry. The veneer is used for quarter paneling on doors.

Works with Auto Engineers.

Smith has been working on the veneer for several years, and has worked in collaboration with automotive engineering departments for two years. However, the product was not ready for public showing until yesterday.

Victor C. P. Dreiske, Cadillac sales manager, said the veneer is being shown to test the public's reaction, which will determine whether it is used in production.

Smith was a British army aviator during the world war, but came to Chicago in 1926. Since that time, he has been working with veneer adaptations.

STOCKS RALLY; SELLING WAVE COMES TO END

Most Gains Small; Trading Sluggish.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—Stocks moved sluggishly higher today as the heavy liquidation of recent sessions came to an end. Few stocks, however, were able to get out of a fractional range and price changes lacked significance.

Traders displayed little enthusiasm for either side of the market. At times the ticker tape barely moved and the total volume of trading, 437,080 shares, was far below that of last week's short session.

As measured by the Dow-Jones averages, the industrial section of the list labored ahead 0.45 of a point, the rails were up 0.14, and the utilities did practically nothing. A total of 617 issues changed hands. Of these 244 advanced, 188 declined, and 185 were unchanged.

Aggressive Buying Lacking.

In the two hours of trading no sign appeared anywhere of aggressive buying. Observers noted, however, that the pressure to which the list had been subject all week was absent.

Traders could find little in the day's budget of business news to lend encouragement. United States Steel advanced a fraction in early dealings, gave it up subsequently, and then came back to better its previous final level by half a point. Bethlehem, on the other hand, lost a small fraction.

Chrysler was one of the few issues able to show a gain of more than a point at the close. Favorable reports from the auto shows received credit for the rise of 1¼ points. General Motors trailed with a gain of less than a point.

Utility Shares Are Quiet.

Utility shares were quiet throughout and price changes in the section were negligible.

Here and there comparatively good progress was made. United States Rubber was up a point at one time and finished with a substantial fractional gain. Montgomery Ward was bid up a large fraction in the mail orders. Sears-Roebuck was steady and fractionally higher.

Aviations moved slightly higher. The same could be said of department store stocks. Gains in the carrier section were limited to less than a point.

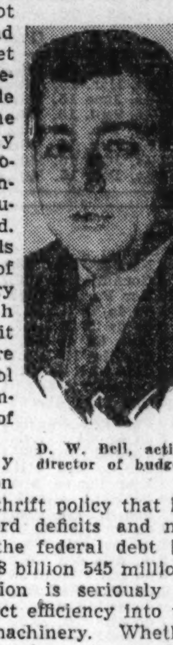
Westinghouse and General Electric incurred minor losses. Copper shares improved moderately.

United States Gypsum, Eastman Kodak, Purity Baking, United Fruit, and Chrysler rose a point or more.

Tangle of Federal Burocracy Calls for New Budget Machine

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—The burocracy of the Roosevelt administration has got so far out of hand that the budget bureau needs revision. Reliable reports in the capital today were that a program of reorganization of the bureau is planned. The program calls for expansion of the budgetary machinery with the hope that it may provide more efficient control over the expensive activities of fellow bureaus.



D. W. Bell, acting director of budget.

Frightened by public reaction against a spendthrift policy that has resulted in record deficits and new high marks in the federal debt [today it reached 38 billion 545 million], the administration is seriously attempting to inject efficiency into the governmental machinery. Whether it will be able to do so in the face of pressure by special interests that have been favored for 5½ years remains to be seen.

Record Deficit Expected.

The treasury statement released today showed that the deficit for the current fiscal year to Thursday amounted to 1 billion, 270 million, or nearly twice that of the corresponding period of last year. A record deficit of close to 5 billion dollars for the current fiscal year is expected.

To keep a closer check on mounting expenditures it is proposed that the budget bureau be reorganized and expanded under a plan developed by Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director.

Bell has introduced two innovations in the bureau. The first calls for establishment of an investigating division, or a field force which would study how the taxpayers' money is being spent. The other provides for establishment of a management research section which will be charged with making a constant study of the activities and methods of business of various government departments. This division could recommend regrouping of the various government services where efficiency could be increased and the total cost reduced.

Calls for Four Branches.

It is understood that the plan calls for eventual division of the bureau into four branches—the estimate, fiscal, coördinating, and investigation divisions. The estimate division has already been organized into five subdivisions, each of which contains personnel assigned to study estimates of appropriations for specific departments and agencies.

The fiscal division will be charged with preparing the budget and studying the budgets of foreign governments and states for possible changes in the present procedure. The coördinating division would serve in cases in which one department recommends a change in another department.

Board to Study Policy.

Results of the studies by the investigating force would be at the disposal of the new four man economic study board appointed yesterday by President Roosevelt. Bell is a member of this board which will recommend economic policy to the President from time to time.

The board is composed of heads of the treasury, the federal reserve board, the budget bureau, and the advisory committee on national resources. This is a departure from past practice of the administration when outsiders dictated policy.

STATE TO CHANGE WAY OF LEVYING AUTO SALES TAX

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—(AP)—S. L. Nudelman, state finance director, announced today that on and after Dec. 1 the state will revise its rule on assessing the 3 per cent sales tax on the list price of new automobiles.

Under the new ruling the sales tax will be computed on the actual cash paid plus the "fair trade in value" of the old car. When used cars are sold the tax will be computed on the sales in the same manner as on new merchandise.

Nudelman said the revision follows a Cook county Circuit court decision. The court held the full list price of new automobiles could not be taxed where dealers allowed purchasers more than the actual value of their old cars. Heretofore the list price of cars has been the basis of computing the sales tax.

SILVER PROBLEM BOBS UP AGAIN, AND IT'S TOUGH

Administration Plan May Be Upset.

The nation's silver policy, long a source of embarrassment to the federal administration, shortly will come up again for official consideration. By Jan. 1 Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. must decide what price will be paid for domestically-mined silver next year. In addition the treasury official will fix the price for foreign silver because the United States is the only large scale buyer of the metal in the world.

Recent election results which will bring a changed complexion to congress may upset current planning in regard to silver, it was pointed out yesterday.

Monetary authorities are unanimous in the opinion that the silver program is a dismal failure. The subsidies being ladled out under the silver act are drawing renewed criticism from Republicans and conservative Democrats.

Price Range Indicates Failure.

The extent of the failure of the program is illustrated by the wide margin existing between the price silver is bringing in the world market and the American statutory price. One of the objectives of the act was to raise the world price to the statutory figure of $1.29 an ounce. Silver is now quoted in the world market at 43 cents.

Others are denouncing a reported new agreement between the federal government and Mexico through which that country would resume selling silver to the United States. Mexico, they say, will then use American dollars to pay for expropriated oil lands and other investments.

Would Cut Silver Price.

Secretary Morgenthau has indicated by his recently renewed attacks on the principle of subsidies at least a wish to cut the silver price again as he did a year ago. He further hinted at the importance of the election returns in connection with the silver program when the New York Chamber of Commerce several weeks ago urged him to abandon buying the metal. His reply was to the effect that the group should appeal to congress. "I am only doing what congress ordered," he said.

The government started buying silver in 1933 as part of its plan to boost farm prices and to increase employment in the mining states of the west. Its policy has resulted, however, in the storing up of vast supplies which now stand idle, the building of additional vaults at a cost of nearly a

Borrowing Satisfaction

AUTOMOBILE LOANS
It is ever so convenient and not at all costly to borrow on your automobile or to finance the purchase of a new or used car through this bank. We ask for Fire and Theft insurance only; collision coverage for the owner's further protection is recommended. We will carry the premiums on Fire, Theft, and $50 Deductible Collision insurance in all loan or purchase transactions without finance charge, and any insurance written is placed with your own insurance man.

COLLATERAL LOANS
For the investor who wants to hold on to his securities—who wishes to buy more—to refinance or refund—or who wants money for any other good reason. We extend long-time terms on our short term renewable collateral loan plan.

COLLATERAL ACCEPTANCES
The stock of sound corporations without ready market may be used as collateral when supported by an accepted repurchase agreement of an interested party of responsibility.

ONE-COMAKER LOANS
The "all season-all reason," most popular of all personal loan plans. This one-comaker plan makes bank credit available to practically every citizen of this great community, for there are no "rule of thumb" requirements. Character and income (salary, wages, or commission), is the yardstick of consideration—rather than ownership of property, securities, or other forms of wealth.

FAMILY UNIT LOANS
A practical, everyday application of the one-comaker idea. Where several members of the family have separate incomes, one member becomes the maker and another acts as comaker. This arrangement extends to a combination with distant relatives as well as to the immediate members of the family.

F.H.A. (Title I) LOANS
For the alteration, repair, remodeling, or improvement of homes and other property. This type of modernization loan as sponsored by an agency of the United States Government is in many ways patterned after the way we have lent money for over two decades.

SELF-SECURED LOANS
A limited type of loan—$300 to $1,000—solely on the borrower's signature. It is of practical convenience for executives (senior or junior), professional men, and others who are in qualified borrowing circumstances. This loan is Self-Secured—the borrower gives his promise to pay—his word is his bond.

It is always pleasant to get money quickly—readily—when there is a good use for borrowed funds. But complete satisfaction in borrowing depends largely upon choosing a loan plan in the first place that is properly suited to the borrower's individual circumstances.

We lend readily—quickly—and our popular loan plans offer broad flexibility and suitability to meet the requirements of each individual.

In all types of loans the customer knows at the beginning the exact total charge for the amount he wants—and gets. There is no accruing monthly interest, delinquency charges, or other irritating extras during the term for which the transaction is set up. And likewise arrangement for repayment is definite and orderly—and conforms to the borrower's personal convenience.

How to get a loan? Come in—write in—phone in. Our loan department is open every weekday from 9 till 5—except on Saturday when the gates close at 1 P.M.

CHEMICAL MAKER ARRANGES LOAN OF FIVE MILLIONS

Proceeds Will Finance Factory Expansion.

The Monsanto Chemical company of St. Louis, Mo., has arranged for the sale of $5,000,000 of preferred stock, it was learned yesterday. Wall street banks have agreed to underwrite the issue. A registration statement covering 50,000 shares of no par value cumulative $4.50 preferred stock has been filed with the Securities and Exchange commission.

The funds will be used to finance improvements, including development of a new plant designed to reduce danger of explosion. Monsanto has spent more than $11,000,000 in the last two years on factory expansion. It has plants in several states.

Arranges 40 Million Loan.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber company announced it had made arrangements with insurance companies to finance a $40,000,000 issue of twenty year first mortgage and collateral 3½ per cent bonds. Goodyear called for redemption on Dec. 30 its outstanding 5 per cent first mortgage bonds, due in 1957, in the amount of $52,400,000. The call price will be $102.

United Securities Company of Missouri has registered four issues of investment certificates totaling $16,000,000. The company is a Kansas City investment trust.

Considers Stock Issue.

Beneficial Industrial Loan corporation is considering offering a new preferred stock to provide funds for retiring 215,413 shares of series A $3.50 cumulative preferred. This stock is redeemable at $52.50 a share, and its redemption will require more than $11,000,000. Beneficial Industrial Loan is a Delaware corporation.

Railway Express Agency, Inc., has filed an application with the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $18,000,000 of serial notes. The funds would be used to retire a similar amount of 5 per cent bonds, series A. The notes will bear a lower interest rate than the bonds that are to be retired.

PRICES OF BONDS MOVE NARROWLY; TREND IS MIXED

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The bond market kept within a narrow trading range today with the trend mixed in all groups except foreign dollar issues, which were depressed by further losses in the German loans.

United States government loans barely moved. Only nine of the thirty-one issues appeared on the tape. Closing prices ranged from a loss of 5/32 of a point for treasury 3⅜s of 1956 to a gain of 4/32 for the 2⅞s of 1960.

Total turnover of $2,866,250 par value, was the smallest for a two hour session since Sept. 3. Last Saturday it was $5,414,000.

Domestic loans ending fractions to a point higher included Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, Illinois Central 4¾s, Bethlehem Steel 4¼s, and Armour of Delaware 4s. On the losing end in a similar range were such issues as Studebaker 6s, Western Union 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s, American Telephone 3¼s, and Columbia Gas and Electric 5s.

Employes' Credit Unions—1.

What is an employés' credit union? How should it be regarded as an investment? Several inquiries on credit unions have reached Investors' Guide in recent weeks. Most of the persons asking about them appear to have a very vague idea of just what these organizations are.

The first legal recognition of the credit union in this country was in 1909 when the state of Massachusetts adopted a law providing for chartering them. A Boston philanthropist was active in their development. The movement spread gradually to other states and received its greatest boost when congress adopted a law in 1934 providing federal charters for credit unions.

Since passage of the law granting federal charters to credit unions they have increased rapidly both in numbers and memberships. More than a million persons are now members of such organizations.

Any group employed by the same company can get a federal charter. Nearly all states also now have enabling laws to charter the credit union. The organization obtains its capital through subscriptions for shares by the members. It can also borrow up to a certain percentage of its capital. Loans may be made only to members "for provident or productive purposes or urgent needs." Interest charges on loans are restricted in those with federal charters and in many with state charters to 1 per cent a month on the unpaid balance of the loan.

Dividends may be paid to members out of net earnings after 20 per cent of such net earnings and all fines have been set aside in a reserve for bad loans. This reserve must be kept intact and liquid and cannot be distributed except in case of liquidation.

Experience of the unions thus far has shown average losses on bad loans of much less than 1 per cent. The losses have been held to extraordinarily low levels in many of them through insurance against loss on any loans through the death or discharge of members from work and through the fact that the credit committee in charge of making loans can become personally acquainted with each member's financial position and avoid overextension of credit.

This discussion of employés' credit unions will be continued next Sunday with an attempt to evaluate their advantages and disadvantages as investment possibilities.

SILVER PROBLEM BOBS UP AGAIN, AND IT'S TOUGH

Administration Planning May Be Upset.

billion dollars to the taxpayers, and the derangement of the internal economy of such silver money nations as China.

Meanwhile the only beneficiaries of the government's policy have been the American silver producers, who received subsidies amounting to about 60 million dollars, and speculators, who have received 800 million dollars for foreign silver sold to the treasury.

Although congress authorized the treasury to write up the value of the silver it bought to the coining value of $1.29 an ounce, the treasury currently is paying 64.64 cents an ounce for domestic silver and 43 cents an ounce for foreign metal. Last year 77.57 cents was paid for domestic and 45 cents for foreign. The treasury has no direct use for silver, except for relatively small amounts in minting coins. Only enough silver certificates have been issued to pay for the metal.

Because the United States is not on the silver standard, a silver reserve is of no more use in the monetary system than a reserve of copper, wheat, or of any other commodity.

Stock Is 2½ Billion Ounces.

Since 1933 the treasury has acquired 1,760,379,300 ounces of silver, including 113,032,900 ounces of old domestic silver, 235,713,400 ounces of newly mined domestic silver, and 1,411,633,000 ounces of foreign silver. This brought the treasury's total holdings to about 2,500,000,000 ounces. It caused the building of additional vaults at West Point, N. Y., to hold some of it.

Buying of silver was started under a congressional order to the treasury to acquire a dollar's worth of silver for each three dollars of gold it owned. This goal has never been reached. Gold poured into this country at an unprecedented rate. Last week the treasury's gold supply exceeded 14 billion dollars. Silver totaled about $3,225,000,000, based on the $1.29 an ounce valuation. Thus the treasury is about $1,470,000,000 short of the goal set by the act.

When the silver buying program was started other important silver nations agreed to help boost prices by limiting sales or by buying surpluses. After the United States found itself carrying almost the whole burden of the "London silver agreement" the plan was permitted to lapse without renewal.

China Forced to Gold.

China, the only important nation with a silver monetary base, found that higher external prices due to the agreement drew too much silver out of the country. It abandoned its silver standard and turned to gold. Since then China has shipped much silver to the United States to buy gold, airplanes, and other goods.

Mexico and Canada have also used silver as a means of obtaining dollars to pay for goods they customarily buy in this country. Mexico formerly received definite commitments on the amount of silver it could ship to the United States each month. This arrangement was canceled last spring after Mexico's expropriation of American oil properties and adoption of discriminatory tarifs. Loss of the agreement, however, has not seriously affected Mexican shipments because the treasury buys all the silver offered in this country.

This complicated, but highly informative map, prepared by the Chicago Regional Planning association, shows 1938 highway construction in single letters and 1939 construction in double letters. The key identifies the letters. From a perusal a motorist may learn the main benefits he is receiving from expenditure of $15,800,000 of tax money.

WISCONSIN AND INDIANA PLAN ROAD PROGRAMS

BY HAL FOUST.

Indiana and Wisconsin highway departments, ending their 1938 construction seasons, have expansive programs for additional road betterments in 1939. The highways and byways of these two states are as familiar to Chicago motorists as are the pavements of their own state.

Indiana is emphasizing its modernization work. The Hoosiers have the burden of the heavy motor trafic between Chicago and the populous east and between Chicago and Michigan's resorts.

"The commission," said T. A. Dicus, chairman of the Indiana highway commission, "expects to have approximately $10,000,000 available for 1939 construction.

Will Pave U. S. 30.

"Included definitly in the 1939 program is the paving of U. S. 30 in Porter county where the commission is extending the dual lane section of U. S. 30 east from its present terminus at the Lake-Porter county line to a point southeast of Valparaiso. Grading and the building of structures is being done this year with the pavement to be laid in 1939. This will result in twenty-two and a half miles of dual lane highways serving trafic in and out of Chicago through the highly industrialized Calumet area.

"In 1938 the program of the state highway commission of Indiana included the completion of an additional twelve miles of dual lane pavement on U. S. 40, west of Indianapolis, making twenty miles of this type of construction between Indianapolis and Terre Haute.

"Six miles of dual lane pavement is being completed on U. S. 24, from Fort Wayne southwest toward Huntington. Nine miles of dual lane highway has been completed, east from the Indianapolis city limits. Construction and improvement work has been completed or is nearing completion on more than fourteen hundred miles of state highways.

Michigan City-South Bend.

"As a preliminary step in the development of the 1939 program, a number of surveys have been made to ascertain the most favorable routes and form a basis for cost estimates. One of these has been between Michigan City and South Bend where a dual lane highway is being considered on U. S. 20 between Michigan City and Rolling Prairie, and on Indiana 2 between Rolling Prairie and South Bend.

"Another proposal is the building of several miles of dual lane pavement on U. S. 52, between Lebanon and Lafayette, which carries the major volume of trafic between Indianapolis and Chicago. U. S. 52 has already been widened between Indianapolis and Lebanon."

Madison, Wis., reported that $9,976,437 was spent during the 1938 construction season, a large part of the total going for grading and drainage in preparation for 1939 paving. The grading and draining of 284.42 miles of highway cost $3,378,498 while $2,553,317 was spend for bridges and culverts. Eighty-nine miles of concrete was laid at a cost of $2,453,001.

Grade, Surface U. S. 18.

Among the major Wisconsin projects completed was the grading and surfacing of U. S. highway 18 between Madison and Prairie du Chien. This highway will eventually extend due west across the state from Milwaukee to the Mississippi river.

Surfacing of nineteen miles of state trunk 42 from Manitowoc to the Sheboygan county line completed the surfacing of the lake shore highway from Green Bay to Chicago. A belt line was completed on U. S. 41 around Appleton to speed trafic on the main route from Chicago and Milwaukee to Escanaba by avoiding the heavily populated Fox river cities.

Twenty miles of new pavement was laid in Ashland county on state trunk 13. This leaves only eighteen miles to complete the hard surfacing of a cross state highway from Beloit to Ashland.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

ATTENTION, HIGHWAY OFFICIALS.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Last winter the finish of my new car was ruined by the splash of salt used to melt ice on the pavements. I'm getting a new car in a few weeks. Can't our engineers use something to melt ice that will not take the paint off automobiles?

[MRS.] P. S. T.

TURN SIGNALS.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—At the automobile show yesterday I was glad to see that one car manufacturer has awakened to the need for mechanical signals for drivers to use in indicating their intention to turn right or left. In weather as cold as it is today, it's not pleasant nor handy to lower a window to use an arm signal.

I looked among the accessory displays at the show for some of the mechanical signals that might be attached to other makes of cars as extra equipment. I could find only one type of signal on display at the show, and I'm not sure that it is the type that I want for my 1938 automobile. HAROLD H. JENSSEN.

ELEVATED HIGHWAYS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Why not a referendum election on the construction of elevated highways as a question of public policy? I haven't heard or read any objections to such construction except from those who would prefer that gasoline tax money be spent for a real estate development project. However, since there isn't any construction under way, our state, county, and city officials must be deaf to a public demand. Maybe a referendum election would make them hear the demands of motorists for pavements above the dangers and delays of surface streets.

ED B.

RECKLESS COPPER.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Slow down! Slow down! These words are echoed day in and day out in the Chicago trafic court. Yet the men who are the ones who enforce the speed laws seem to be the very ones who think that they are exempt from them.

One day last month I was driving north on Wood street at 5:15 p. m. Coming to Chicago avenue I stopped. There was an eastbound street car discharging passengers and I started to cross while it was standing still. Just as I was in front of the street car an automobile, driven by a policeman in uniform, traveling at about 45 m. p. h., passed the street car on the left side. I jammed on my brakes and barely avoided a collision. The officer's car careened dangerously and just missed striking a woman with a baby in her arms. It was a private auto, not a police car.

BOB CHESLER.

NEWS AND VIEWS

M. M. Gilman, vice president and general manager of Packard, said that accelerated buying of automobiles is definitly indicated by retail delivery reports for the first ten days of November. In that period more deliveries were made than in any other first ten days of the month during the year. They exceeded the total for the first ten days of April, usually one of the best selling months of the year, by 332 cars.

G. I. Smith, regional manager of the Great Lakes district of Chevrolet, was host to more than 800 dealers and company executives, some of whom had traveled more than 1,000 miles to see Chicago's show. Twelve retail salesmen finished their sales competition in a regional "spell down" in which 3,000 salesmen took part. The winners were J. M. Hull of Champaign, Ill., who was awarded a car, and Charles Brookins, who got $100. Brookins is a former University of Iowa hurdler.

342,000 VISIT AUTO SHOW IN 8 DAYS; RECORD

Chicago's 39th annual automobile show closed last night with an attendance estimated at 342,000 in its eight days. This was a new record, surpassing the former peak of 316,000 set last year.

Yesterday's crowd was 35,000, one of the largest of the eight days, due to the holiday for school children. Attendance also was heavy throughout the evening. As a finale the entire cast of the stage show paraded into the colonial garden and joined with many in the crowd in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Sponsors of Show Introduced.

S. L. Davis, chairman of the executive show committee, and H. T. Hollingshead, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, which sponsored the show, were introduced to the crowd just before the doors closed.

With show week over, the large number of automobile company officials and factory officials here to watch how the show was going began to leave for Detroit. One result of the Chicago show was to send company executives back to Detroit with plans to step up production.

The Chicago show is looked upon as the "big selling show" of the nation, surpassing the New York show in that respect. It is rated as one of the best barometers for judging the public's buying interest. Although the automobile companies do not look for 1939 to be a record breaker in car sales, they do expect a substantial increase in sales over 1938.

Trade-in Car a Problem.

F. H. Yarnell, chairman of the show's used car committee, stated the dual advantage of creating sales for 500 used cars and of giving greater prestige to the reconditioned car. The car taken in trade is one of the great problems of the automobile industry, and executives of the factories are using every means at their disposal in helping to solve it.

Hollingshead estimated that the total number of units sold as a result of the show was 10,300 valued at between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000. The total included 7,500 new cars, 1,000 used cars, 1,500 trucks and 300 trailer coaches.

Factories Are Lauded.

Chairman Davis of the show committee issued a statement lauding the factories for their part in making the show a success.

"Without the factories and dealers," he said, "we could never put on an automobile show. They furnished the exhibits, including those in the display space, along with the featured attractions in the Hall of Science."

Davis said that several thousand sales will be closed later with visitors to the show after further inspection in dealer showrooms.

PLAN BLOSSOM HIGHWAYS ALONG THE FOX RIVER

The east and the west river roads along the Fox river through Elgin, St. Charles, and Aurora, will be made blossom highways next year if plans of civic leaders in towns nearby are carried out.

The projects calls for the planting of wild crab apple trees, hawthorne, and other flowering shrubs along these two roads, massing them to make beauty spots along the drives each spring.

The trees and shrubs will be set out in group arrangements to achieve the most beautiful effect, rather than be planted in a continuous line. It is planned that private funds will bear the original expense, and that the state will maintain the plants in the future.

TVA IS ASSAILED FOR ACTIVITIES IN FERTILIZER FIELD

Charges Encroachment on Private Companies.

Rep. Thomas Jenkins.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., Ohio] accused the Tennessee Valley authority today of attempting to compete with the private commercial fertilizer industry and encroaching on the work of the federal department of agriculture.

Jenkins, member of the congressional committee investigating the government's Tennessee valley development, made these charges after Dean Thomas P. Cooper of Kentucky university had lauded agricultural coöperation of TVA with land grant colleges in seven southern states.

Declares Farmers Benefited.

Cooper told the committee that TVA's development of triple superphosphate production through an electric blast furnace process had benefited farmers throughout the United States.

Jenkins disputed this by questions and asserted that agricultural functions of TVA should be handled by the agriculture department, and fertilizer production and distribution should be left in the hands of the present private industry.

The congressman asked Cooper whether he thought "big rich states like Illinois will set up their own fertilizer plants to give fertilizer to farmers, or the private commercial industry will use TVA methods?" Cooper refused to forecast fertilizer developments.

Tells of TVA Coöperation.

Cooper said TVA had distributed more than fifty thousand tons of fertilizer for agricultural experiments, and detailed the TVA coöperation with agricultural colleges.

Francis Biddle, committee counsel, informed the committee that the TVA phosphate extraction process made possible development of large phosphate supplies in many western states. Representative Jenkins contended that the chief beneficiaries of TVA fertilizer experiments were farmers in the Tennessee valley area.

Earlier Biddle disclosed the committee had declined an offer from Wendell Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, to open his personal income tax returns and bank accounts to committee inspection. Willkie made the offer after President Roosevelt signed an executive order this week authorizing the committee to inspect all income tax returns of individuals and corporations in its investigations.

JAPANESE PUT CURB ON PROFITS AND DIVIDENDS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Nov. 19.—The finance and war ministries have decided to invoke article II. of the national mobilization law, which authorizes the government to limit dividends and profits of all Japanese businesses.

The decision was reached after a heated dispute between the two ministries. The finance ministry feared it would greatly disturb business conditions. The home ministry supported the proposal. A compromise provided companies earning more than 10 per cent will not be permitted to increase dividends but will not at present be forced to curtail them.

RUBBER, COPPER AND HIDES LEAD DROP IN STAPLES

Futures Move Unevenly as Week Ends.

Rubber, copper, and hides led a slump in commodity futures last week. Contracts yesterday moved unevenly, with changes small. Net losses for the week were shown by cocoa, coffee, silk, wool tops, lead, tin, and zinc.

Although rubber contracts strengthened a little yesterday to close with gains of 0.05 to 0.13 cent a pound, they were off 0.85 to 0.95 cent a pound for the week. In the cash market, smoked ribbed rubber sheets dipped 0.94 to 16.06 cents.

The weakness in rubber was chiefly accounted for by prospects of increased rubber supplies, as a result of the international rubber regulation committee's action on Tuesday. The committee boosted producers' export quotas 5 points to 50 per cent of basic quotas for the first three months of 1939.

Rubber Stocks Above Year Ago.

With rubber stocks now higher than they were a year ago, the coming heavier shipments will require further increases in manufacturers' demand, in order to steady prices, traders said.

Copper contracts, easing 0.02 to 0.06 cent a pound yesterday, lost about ½ cent for the week. The downturn reflected a steady drop in the price of export copper, which sold yesterday at 10.77½ cents compared with 11.27 cents on the preceding Saturday. Buying abroad has been slackening for several weeks. Demand is not expected to show much pickup until stocks which were accumulated as reserves during the recent war scare have been worked down.

Another depressing factor for copper is that production restrictions have been removed by the international committee.

Hides Regain Part of Loss.

Hides futures reduced losses for the week to 0.75 cent a pound with gains yesterday of 0.05 to 0.17 cent. Cocoa futures closed down 0.24 to 0.28 cent, compared with prices a week earlier.

Losing 0.14 to 0.19 cent a pound for the week were Rio coffee contracts, which closed unchanged yesterday. Santos coffee, up 0.03 cent yesterday, was 0.15 to 0.20 cent a pound lower for the week.

Although wool tops were unchanged for the week at 85 cents a pound in the cash market, futures quotations sagged 1.5 to 2.5 cents a pound. Prices yesterday were down 0.60 to 0.70 cent. Final prices for silk contracts showed losses of 4 cents a pound for the week. Sugar prices were virtually unchanged.

The Dow-Jones index of eleven commodity futures closed at 48.25, off 0.16 for the day and 0.93 for the week [1924-'26 average equals 100].

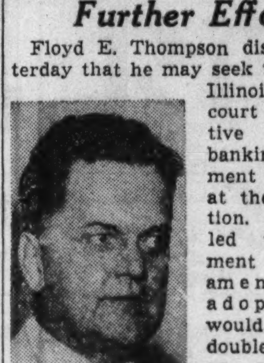
BANK LIABILITY FIGHT MAY GO TO HIGH COURT

Thompson Considering Further Effort.



Floyd E. Thompson.

Floyd E. Thompson disclosed yesterday that he may seek to have the Illinois Supreme court rule effective the state banking amendment voted on at the last election. Thompson led the movement for the amendment's adoption. It would remove double liability on stockholders of state banks.

The proposal was considered defeated because it did not receive a majority of the total votes cast at the election, although it did get a majority of the votes cast on the proposal itself.

Question of "Majority."

Thompson's appeal to the court would be based on the contention that only a majority of votes on the proposition was necessary for amendment. A Supreme court decision more than twenty years ago, however, interpreted the constitution to mean that a majority of all votes cast at an election is needed to carry an amendment. Thompson would ask for a reconsideration.

The constitution, in providing for voting on the amendment at a general election, says that a majority is necessary to carry an amendment. Thompson said this may be interpreted to refer only to the voting on the amendment, rather than the general election of candidates. He is a former chief justice of the State Supreme court.

Provides Another Change.

The amendment also provided that future amendments to state banking laws should not require public referendum at the polls, but should take two-thirds majority approval of both houses of the state legislature.

The amendment cannot be resubmitted to the voters until 1942, because the constitution provides that an amendment proposal, if defeated, cannot be placed on the next election ballot, which will be 1940.

GERMAN FOURTH LOAN OF YEAR TO BE $600,000,000

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The German government announced today the issuance of its fourth loan this year in the form of treasury bills amounting to 1,500,000,000 marks [$600,000,000] at 4½ per cent interest, redeemable at par from Nov. 1, 1953, to 1958.

The reichsbank was to offer the bills to the public at 98¾ per cent from Nov. 28 to Jan. 9, 1939.

The reason for this fourth loan, following less than two months after the third of 1938 was raised, was attributed officially to need "to meet liquidity in the money market."

INDUSTRY STEPS AHEAD OF 1937 FOR FIRST TIME

Several Lines Reach New Peaks for Year.

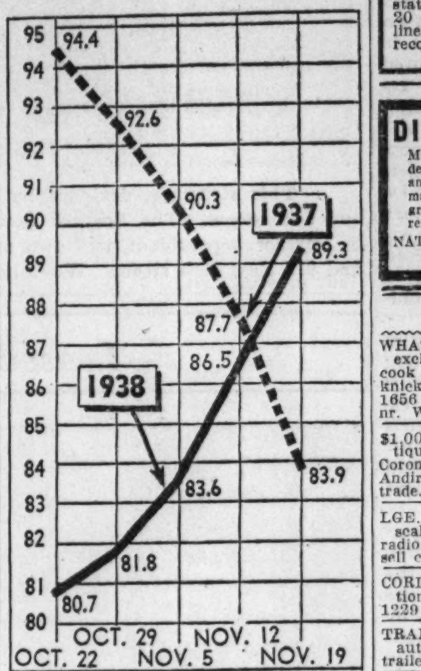
thirty-seven registered increases over last year's comparative. Where decreases were revealed, narrowing margins of losses were indicated."

Bonuses of 5 to 10 per cent of annual wages and restoration of 10 to 15 per cent pay cuts were announced billion dollars to the taxpayers, and Wednesday for a total of about 17,000 workers. On Tuesday the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company announced that its regular bonus plan payment for November would be 3 per cent, benefiting all workers. On the same day the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, North Chicago, Ill., restored 10 per cent salary cuts to its 87 workers.



The chart traces the course of industrial activity in the last four weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, and shows the corresponding 1937 activity (1929-'30 average equals 100).

The General Motors corporation announced two plans to stabilize its workers' wages. One plan, for workers of five years or more of service, will assure workers at least 60 per cent of standard weekly wages every week in the year.

Other Provisions of Plan.

Employés with less service will be guaranteed at least 40 per cent of a standard week's pay, but this plan restricts the guarantee to a total of seventy-two hours. This means that those under the 40 per cent plan cannot owe the company more than seventy-two hours of work at any one time.

One of the week's most important developments affecting industry was the signing by the United States of trade treaties with Canada and Great Britain. The reciprocal agreements affect about one-third of the United States' foreign trade. All three signatories made tarif concessions on various commodities. The effects of the pacts remained uncertain, the terms being criticized in some quarters and praised in others.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace ordered that the acreage of major farm crops be cut to a total of 275 million acres in 1939, compared with 365 million acres seeded this year.

There were no large new offerings on corporation securities during the week, but a $40,000,000 issue of bonds of the Dominion of Canada was marketed.

SMALL BUSINESS MEN URGE LABOR LAW REVISIONS

Amendments to the Wagner labor relations act are being urged by the Chicago unit of the National Small Business Men's association, Donald P. Blake, vice president, announced yesterday. He said that Chicago members are joining in the association's nation-wide movement for revisions by circulating petitions among business men, their customers, and employés.

The petition, addressed to congress, asks for four changes:

1. Revision of the National Labor Relations board to provide impartial hearings for all parties, and that employers as well as employés be able to initiate proceedings before the board.

2. Protection of employés and employers and their families in all labor situations against coercion or intimidation from any source.

3. Full review of all evidence of the NLRB by appeal to the federal courts.

4. Limitation of the NLRB to judicial functions, so that it will not act as prosecutor, judge, and jury.

A LOW-PRICED BARGAIN STOCK

Careful investigation indicates that some stocks will later sell at substantially higher prices. Some of the biggest profits, however, will be made by those investors who pick up lower-priced issues which are really undervalued and not merely cheap.

But such issues are hard to find. We have located one which appears especially attractive. The company has greatly improved prospects. Business is expected to expand sharply; earnings should do likewise. The technical position is strong and the stock points higher. Still it now sells for around $8 a share. It is not a "cat or dog"—it is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

One of Largest Home Construction Programs in History of Chicago Is Started

INITIAL PHASE OF PLAN CALLS FOR 500 HOMES

Francis Lewis Is Sponsor; Covers 366 Acres.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Francis J. Lewis.
[Moffett Photo.]

One of the largest home building programs in the history of Chicago has been started in the South Chicago area. It is sponsored by the retired manufacturer and philanthropist, Francis J. Lewis, and covers 366 acres, with sixteen miles of street frontage.

The initial program calls for 500 homes, although eventually it is expected the 2,200 lots owned by Lewis will be improved with residences. Two and a half years will be required to complete the first five hundred units, it was said.

Acquired Land Thirteen Years Ago.

Thirteen years ago Lewis acquired the 366 acre tract bounded on the north by East 108th street, on the west by Avenue O, on the south by East 114th street, and on the east by the Illinois-Indiana state line. The southeast section of the property fronts on two sides of a forest preserve.

Since that time Lewis has invested $4,000,000 in improvements, it was said. He paved all the streets, put in all improvements, planted trees and maintained the property year by year. Trees were trimmed and care taken of the property.

Recently he decided the time was ripe for further improving his big holdings. Plans were drawn by Herbert W. Grugel, 10 North Clark street, and work has been started on the initial group of ten homes in the vicinity of 108th and 109th streets and Avenue F.

Two Types in First Group.

The first ten units under construction are of two types. There are six bungalows of four and five rooms, and four two story houses of five rooms. The selling prices range from $5,950 [including $1,200 lot] to $7,400. They will be financed with Federal Housing administration insured mortgages.

The houses will stand on lots 35 by 125, all of which are being landscaped with trees and shrubs it was said.

The houses have solid brick walls, full basements, and will be heated by warm air coal burning furnaces. Some of them will be ready about Dec. 20. Work will be started on a second group of ten within two weeks.

It is planned to have part of the area now zoned for single family homes rezoned for apartments. At present there are ten flat buildings containing from six to twelve suites on one section of the Lewis property.

In Business for 45 Years.

Lewis was active in the tar products business for forty-five years. He sold the F. J. Lewis Manufacturing company, of which he was president, to the International Combustion Engineering corporation several years ago. Since he retired from active business he has devoted himself to civic and philanthropic activities.

He established the Lewis Memorial Maternity hospital in the former Lakota hotel at Michigan and 30th. He built the Lewis Holy Name School of Aeronautics at Lockport for the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago. He also built a $100,000 chapel at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium in memory of deceased members of his family.

In 1936 Lewis was named a director of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank by the board of governors of the federal reserve system.

West Side Flat Building Is Purchased for $25,000

Rudolph and Catherine Kral bought the six apartment building at 5436-38 North Christiana avenue from John T. and Florence Dieter for a reported $25,000. John J. Kern, Inc., represented all parties.

At the Realty Boards

The Chicago Real Estate board will hold its annual past presidents' turkey dinner next Tuesday noon in the board rooms. Twenty-three former executives have been invited as guests of honor.

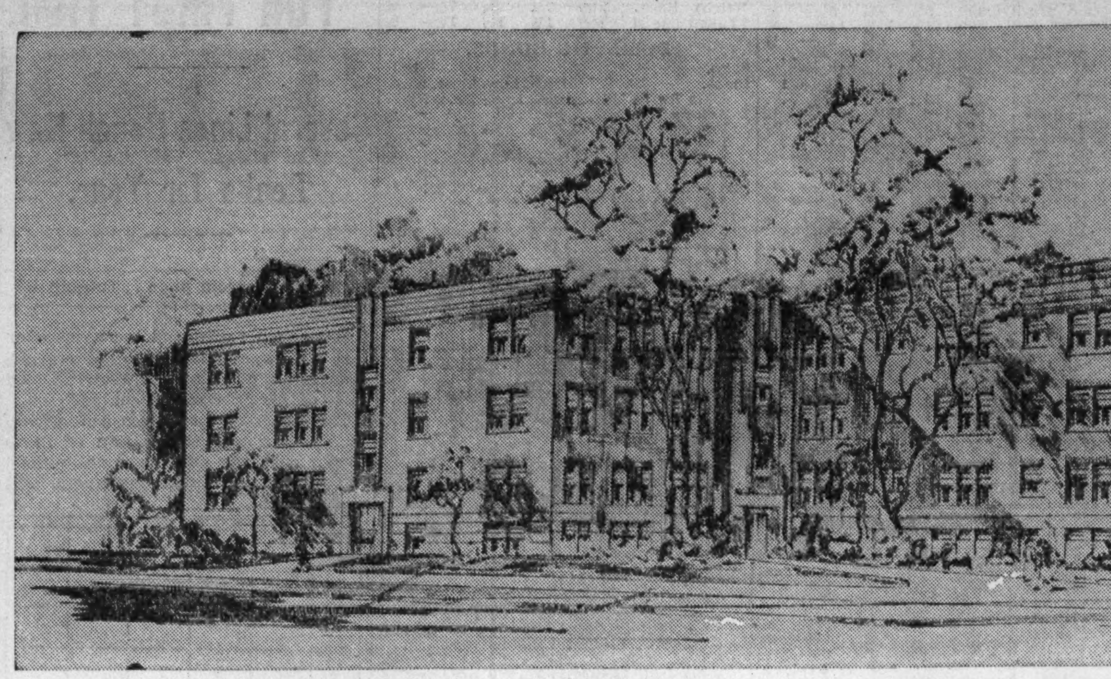
Arthur Kruggel, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, will act as host to the past presidents, to the incoming president, Paul C. Loeber, and to the following past presidents of the Cook County Real Estate board, which was merged with the Chicago board in 1933: Richard W. Wolfe, Robert E. L. Brooks, William H. Loehde, A. L. Riemenschneider, Albert J. Brockman, Earl George Gubbins, and Samuel E. Erickson.

According to Paul D. Angell, chairman of the house and program committee, the entertainment will include a magician, two dancers and an orchestra.

◆

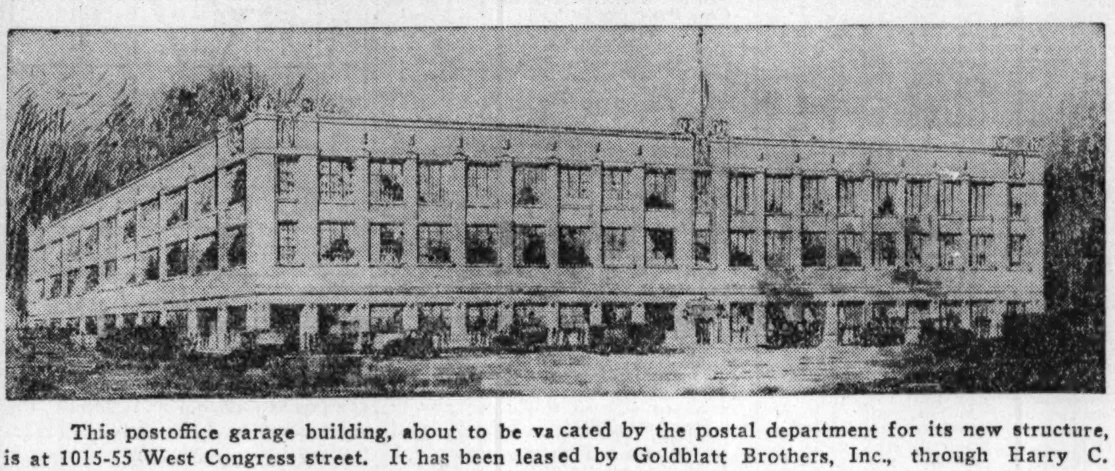
Fifteen former presidents of the Oak Park Real Estate board will be guests of honor at the annual past presidents' dinner next Tuesday evening at the First Baptist church house, Grove avenue and Ontario street. Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will speak on slum conditions in American cities. There will be a program of entertainment, according to T. A. Sumner, program chairman, and Miss Maude Jaques, chairman of the Past Presidents' day committee. Walter R. James, president, will preside.

Work to Start Within Ten Days on $600,000 Apartment Project



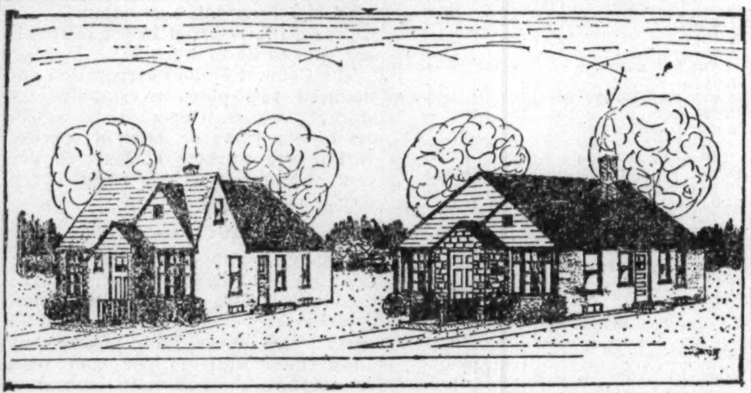
This structure, designed by Architect Jacob Lewis, is one of six separate buildings containing twenty flats each. They have three, four, and five rooms. The Fortner Construction corporation has the general contract. The Federal Building and Land corporation, of which Carl F. Fortner is president, will own them. They will be built at 8555, 8600, and 8601 Ingleside avenue, 8555 Maryland avenue, 8601 Drexel avenue, and 935 East 85th street. Work is scheduled to start within the next ten days. The sketch was made by Sidney Farber.

Leased by Goldblatt Brothers, Inc.



This postoffice garage building, about to be vacated by the postal department for its new structure, is at 1015-55 West Congress street. It has been leased by Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., through Harry C. Straus of Straus & Co. It will replace four garages in different parts of the city now used by the department store firm.

Units in Steel Belt Building Program



These homes are two units in a proposed 500 unit residential program sponsored by Francis J. Lewis, retired manufacturer and philanthropist, on 366 acres he owns in South Chicago. Plans were drawn by Herbert W. Grugel, 10 North Clark street. Details of this project are given in an adjoining column.

Lewis Development

M. J. BOYLE BUYS 142 ACRE FARM IN LAKE COUNTY

Malcolm J. Boyle, contractor, yesterday purchased a 142 acre farm in Fremont township, Lake county, between Ivanhoe and Wauconda. The property is crossed by state route 164 east and west and by the old Telegraph road north and south. The sellers were the heirs of August H. Meyer, a resident of Lake county for many years.

Boyle now has a country estate of approximately 400 acres. A few years ago he bought a large tract of land to the west of the Meyer farm from the Dobner heirs for his home. He remodeled the buildings and is making other improvements, including an artificial lake.

David H. Williams of Wauconda was broker for both parties in yesterday's transaction. Benjamin H. Miller, Libertyville attorney, represented the sellers, and Sherman M. Booth of Chicago the buyer.

Sell Former Koester Home in Sauganash for $30,000

Otto Zinke sold the English type residence at 5888 Forest Glen avenue to A. Seifert for a reported $30,000. It was built and originally occupied by George F. Koester. The house occupies a 182½ by 125 foot lot and has eight rooms and three baths. There is a three car garage and summer house. Burke & Lynn were brokers.

Woman Purchases Building at 664 North Clark Street

Rose Silverbrand bought the three story building at 664-666 North Clark street, containing two stores and a thirty-two room hotel, from the Northern Trust company, trustees. The Coffman Realty company was broker.

STEVENS HOTEL FLATS PAY OVER MILLION DOLLARS

Otto K. Eitel, managing director of the Stevens hotel, yesterday reported that the apartment section had returned $1,001,025 to the Stevens Hotel corporation from April 1, 1935, to Nov. 1, 1938. Room rentals amounted to $811,954 and $187,071 were received from use of hotel facilities, which tenants charged to their accounts.

In addition, Eitel estimated that approximately $250,000 had been spent within the hotel by apartment tenants in cash for which there is no accurate means of check. Including this sum, the total amount received to date by the corporation from the four floors of permanent residential apartments was approximately $1,250,000.

Revenue from the 450 apartment tenants has increased each year, according to Sudler & Co., rental agents. For the first year the revenue was $140,990. The second year was $286,317. The third was $359,986. For the first seven months of the present fiscal year it was $211,433, which is at a higher ratio than the preceding year.

A new club room for permanent tenants has just been completed on the seventeenth floor from plans by Holabird & Root.

PLAN USE OF NEW FHA RULING IN LOMBARD GROUP

Thirty or forty homes will be built in the north part of Lombard under section 210 of the national housing act, according to Lombard Terrace Homes, Inc. This new Federal Housing administration ruling permits erection of a group of homes as one unit. The accumulated rental surplus over and above the minimum carrying cost of the FHA mortgage applies toward the down payment until the home buyer's equity entitles him to a deed and to the usual form of individual FHA first mortgage.

This large scale housing plan is an addition to the existing Lombard Terrace Homes program. During the last two years twenty-six homes have been built and are now owner-occupied. Six additional sample homes are under construction, two of them nearly completed and ready for inspection.

This development is west of Main street and south of North avenue, in Lombard. Lombard Terrace Homes, Inc., has combined under one director its sales organization with that of Assets Service corporation, managers of the North View subdivision adjoining Lombard Terrace on the east.

Goldblatt's Leases Post Office Garage

Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., yesterday leased 150,000 square feet in the three story postoffice garage building at 1015-55 West Congress street. The company will use this property to replace its present four garages in various parts of the city. This will centralize the delivery system, an official of the company said, and leave more space in the various stores for selling.

The garage building was built eleven years ago under government supervision and specifications for use as a postoffice garage.

On or about Dec. 1 the postoffice motor equipment will be moved to the new postoffice garage at Harrison, Canal, and Clinton streets. At the same time Goldblatt Brothers will take possession of the present postoffice garage.

The building just leased fronts 382 feet on the south side of Congress street, with a depth of 148 feet. It is of reinforced concrete fireproof construction and has ramps to the upper floors.

Goldblatt's will use all of the 150,000 square feet of space, which includes all of the second and third floors, and all but 25,000 square feet on the first floor.

Harry C. Straus of Straus & Co., 120 South La Salle street, was the only broker in the transaction. The owner of the building, the Chicago Post Office Service Building corporation, was represented by James Darrow and Jacob Kulp. Bernard Brown was attorney for Goldblatt Bros.

NEW PARKING CHAIN ENTERS CHICAGO AREA

The first of a contemplated chain of parking lots by an organization new to the Chicago area is planned for the northeast corner of Chicago avenue and Howard street, Evanston. Edward Daugherty of Evanston yesterday leased 28,000 square feet at this location from the Edward Hines Lumber company for a term of years at an undisclosed rental. The property is across from the Norshore theater. Frank C. Wells of L. J. Sheridan & Co. was broker for all parties.

Negotiate $60,000 Loan on Clark-Howard Building

A $60,000 first mortgage at 4 per cent interest, secured by the six story building at the southwest corner of Clark and Howard streets, has been underwritten by the Greenebaum Investment company. The loan will be used to complete the reorganization of the property, it was said. The borrower is the Howard-Clark Building Liquidation trust.

Begin Building Six Apartment Houses Soon

Construction is scheduled to start within the next few days on six apartment buildings on the south side to cost a reported $600,000. They will be built at 8555, 8600, and 8601 Ingleside avenue, 8555 Maryland avenue, 8601 Drexel avenue, and 935 East 85th street. Jacob Lewis is the architect.

Last month it was announced that the Federal Housing administration had approved a $375,000 insured mortgage covering the six units. The Federal Building and Land corporation, of which Carl F. Fortner is president, is owner of the project and will manage and rent the properties. The Fortner Construction company, 2441 South Michigan avenue, of which Fortner also is president, has the general contract.

Will Occupy Corner Sites.

Each of the six units will be three stories high and contain three five room suites, three 4s, four 3½ room flats, and ten 3s. Construction will be of brick with Bedford stone trim.

Each building will occupy a corner lot and only about 40 per cent of the land will be used by the structure. The large garden areas both front and rear will be landscaped.

Play Space Provided.

Back stairways will be architecturally treated so that the rear elevation will be attractive, according to Architect Lewis. Space for children's recreation and for automobile parking will be provided, he said.

Completion is scheduled for March 15, 1939. Rentals will average $15 per room per month, it was said.

Realty Miscellany

John T. Redmond.
[Blank-Stoller Photo]

John T. Redmond yesterday resigned as renting manager of the 120 South La Salle street and 33 North La Salle street buildings. These properties are owned by La Salle Street Buildings, Inc., of which E. C. Kohlsaat is president.

Redmond has been a prominent figure in downtown property management since 1916. Among the properties he managed in former years were the Fort Dearborn Bank building, National Republic Bank building, and the Women's temple.

He is a past president of the Building Managers' Association of Chicago, in which capacity he served for five years. He also has been treasurer of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers.

◆

The Standard Federal Savings and Loan association of Chicago has moved from 2324 South Leavitt street to larger quarters at 4192 Archer avenue. According to Justin Mackiewich, president of the 30 year old association, the two story building at the new location was purchased recently from the First National Bank of Chicago, trustee, for $75,000. It formerly was occupied by the Midland National bank.

SOUTH JEFFERSON STREET LEASE.

The Type & Press of Illinois leased from the Beardslee Chandelier Manufacturing company space at 216 South Jefferson street for five years through Winston & Co.

SLUM CLEARANCE PLAN APPROVED BY LOAN OFFICIAL

Morton Bodfish Urges Early Trial.

Morton Bodfish.

Morton Bodfish, executive vice president of the United States Building and Loan league, yesterday expressed approval of the "public service building corporation" plan for slum reclamation. He suggested that it be tried out as soon as possible by competent builders. Bodfish criticized government housing procedure in his annual report at the 46th annual convention of the league at the Palmer house during the week.

"The public service building corporation is one of the most constructive suggestions so far advanced for mobilizing private enterprise and funds to do a job in the public interest," he said yesterday. "It should have an early trial in the hands of practical men.

Favors Corporation Plan.

"One way to come nearer a realization of the line of demarcation between the field where government must act and the field of private enterprise is to have development of good housing by private enterprise at low prices. This, I believe, can be accomplished by using the public service building corporation idea."

The public service building corporation plan was first outlined in the Graphic section of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE on Aug. 14, 1938. It calls for state legislation that would permit the creation of public service building corporations empowered to obtain property through condemnation. The corporations would be under supervision of a state regulatory body and would operate in designated slum areas.

Would Use Private Funds.

These corporations would be organized with private funds as public utility companies are organized. They would then buy large tracts of land in the depreciated areas surrounding the loop and improve them.

The plan was advanced by a group of real estate men including J. Soule Warterfield, vice president of Starrett Brothers and former president of the Chicago Real Estate board; Arthur Kruggel, president, and Paul Angell, vice president of the realty board.

Criticism of federal housing by Bodfish at the buildings and loan convention was directed against government activity without preliminary study of conditions.

Careful Surveys Lacking.

"There has been little attempt to approach local problems through the careful survey of all housing, particularly of the slum areas, the needs of the people, their capacity to pay, the effect of new housing on existing properties, or other key factors in the housing problem," Bodfish said.

"It is futile to recall now that the building and loan interests, at the time the United States housing act was under consideration in congress, repeatedly urged an amendment to the legislation. This amendment would have made mandatory the assembling of all pertinent facts on the local situation, as well as adequate local laws dealing with unsafe and insanitary structures, demolition, zoning and planning, before any federal subsidy was granted."

West Side Real Estate Board Names '39 Slate

Fred B. Huebenthal.

Fred B. Huebenthal of Woelke & Huebenthal heads the only ticket in the field for the West Side Real Estate board election to be held on Monday noon, Nov. 28, at the Graemere hotel. Other officers nominated were: Mrs. Cora Wright of W. H. Wright & Co., first vice president; James J. Curtis of James J. Curtis & Co., second vice president; Thomas J. Connery of M. J. Connery & Sons Realty company, treasurer, and Ray E. Diffenderffer of John F. Diffenderffer & Sons, secretary.

For members of the board of directors to serve for three years the committee nominated Joseph R. Dorfman, James W. McNichols, Frank J. Sorrentino, Leslie B. Levin, and Frederich C. Rausch.

"Because in years past nomination has been equivalent to election, indorsement of the entire slate by the board at its next meeting is virtually assured," said President Joseph R. Dorfman.

The nominee for the presidency has real estate offices at 127 North Kedzie avenue. He is now first vice president of the West Side Real Estate board.

THANKSGIVING RITES UNITE CHURCHES

PICTURES TAKE PUPILS BEYOND CLASS CONFINES

Movies and Slides Aid in Teaching.

BY DR. WILLIAM JOHNSON.
[Superintendent of Public Schools.]

Today the world is brought into the classroom to be closely inspected and studied by the Chicago public high school students. Both sound and silent films bring our young students face to face with reality. They look through telescopes at the stars, and through microscopes at those minute organisms which cannot be seen with the naked eye.

The visual education department of the board of education supplies every public school in Chicago with films and lantern slides for a more comprehensive study of history, geography, science, music, art, or literature.

Speech and print are sometimes inadequate to explain such subjects as electrostatics, light waves, or the solar system. The use of long shots, close-ups, slow motion, and unusual angles makes it possible for students to watch processes or movement which textbooks or class laboratories cannot provide. The films are carefully prepared under the supervision of professors at leading universities throughout the country, including Yale and Chicago universities.

Aid in Physiology.

Moving arrows are often employed in these films to focus attention upon some specific detail. The explanation of the circulation of the blood stream and the action of the heart, for instance, can be more fully explained in a fifteen minute sound film than by several chapters in a textbook. There is no finer medium for teaching music appreciation than the sound film. It provides close-up pictures of the instruments as they are played and simultaneously gives the pitch and tone of each one.

For history, geography, and the natural sciences, the motion pictures have the advantage of creating a sense of reality. Nature's work which has taken centuries to accomplish can be illustrated so that the students watch canyons deepen, deltas form, and mountains change, by the action of water. The motion picture is also capable of demonstrating the activity of organisms too small to be seen except by means of some magnifying device. They are photographed through a microscope and projected on the screen.

In addition to this wealth of film material, one and one-quarter million colored stereoptican slides have been made available by the board of education for use in the classrooms. These lantern slides provide for detailed, deliberate study. Practically every subject in the curriculum is listed in the catalog of slides available at the central library of the visual education department.

100,000 Reels of Movies.

More than 50,000 sets of colored stereoptican slides and more than 100,000 reels of educational motion pictures are circulated from the central library of the visual education department to all Chicago public schools each year. Every elementary school is equipped with stereoptican lanterns and 95 per cent of the elementary schools also have silent 16 mm. motion picture projectors. The high schools enjoy the use of both silent and sound motion use. Teachers order the material they desire for the entire semester. The films and slides are distributed weekly to all public schools by trucks.

Hundreds of new films and slides are added each year to the visual education library under the direction of Paul G. Edwards. Every effort is made to keep the material up to date by providing films or slides of what is new in the industrial, scientific, and social world. During the last five years the circulation of slides and films throughout the schools has increased more than 400 per cent. During the same period the cost of operation has been reduced and now averages approximately 10 cents per pupil enrolled in the public school system.

CEREMONY TODAY MARKS OPENING OF 76TH STREET

21 Local Organizations Taking Part.

Ald. H. E. Perry.

In celebration of the opening of 76th street from Racine to Ashland avenues, a parade and ribbon cutting ceremony will be conducted this afternoon by the West Auburn Community Civic council, composed of 21 local organizations. Ald. Harry E. Perry [18th] will be master of ceremonies.

Seven years ago the West Auburn Community Civic council petitioned the city council and the Chicago Motor club to bring about the opening of 76th street [State Aid Route 169] with the aid of the state gas tax. In the last few years, the street has been remodeled to conform to state highway regulations, but ceased at Racine avenue due to lack of funds for the purchase of a strip of ground through a golf course.

Land Is Purchased.

At the urging of the civic council, officers and directors, Alderman Perry recently brought about, through State Senator John M. Lee, the purchase of the land. The paving was done by the Cook county highway department without cost to the local taxpayers. The campaign will continue to open the street to Western avenue.

Among the speakers at the ceremony this afternoon will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas Egan, pastor of St. Sabina church, and the Rev. Herbert Brodt, pastor of the Evangelical Church of Peace.

Coöperating with the West Auburn Community Civic council in the line of march will be LeRoy McCullough post of the American Legion, Auburn post, No. 1596, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; O'Donnell Eddy post of the Legion, St. Sabina's school band, Southtown American Legion Softball league.

Others in Parade.

Sons and Daughters of the American Legion, North Auburn Improvement association, 79th street and Ashland Avenue Business Men's association, Auburn Park Lions' club, Englefield Improvement association, Auburn Park Business Men's association, Auburn Park Swedish Methodist Episcopal church, St. Sabina church, and the Evangelical Church of Peace.

The committee on arrangements is made up of officers and directors of the civic council, Henry W. Bonnema, president; Edward R. North, vice president; John F. McKee, president of the North Auburn Highlands Improvement association; Columbus Des Chateles, past commander of LeRoy McCullough post, and William Swain, past commander of Auburn post.

St. David's Church Opens Thanksgiving Bazar Today

St. David's church, 3200 Emerald avenue, will open its annual Thanksgiving bazar today to continue until Wednesday. Dancing will be held each evening and a hard times party Wednesday evening will close the festivities. The Rev. Joseph McNamee is pastor.

Park Dance.

A pre-Thanksgiving dance, beginning at 8 o'clock, will be held tomorrow night in Hardin Square park fieldhouse, Joseph F. Novak, park supervisor of recreation, has announced.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About People You May Know

ROBERT I. COLLINS, 6323 Champlain avenue, 78 years old, whose looks and ability bespeak a man at least twenty-five years younger, last week laid claim to a national title—the first red cap in the country to retire on a pension. For thirty-two years he toted suitcases and assisted people on trains, and for twenty years of those, in addition, as captain of the red caps, he told the others how it was done. He retired Dec. 1, 1932, after his thirty-two years of service at the 12th street station of the Illinois Central railroad. He's extremely proud of his home town, Dubuque, Ia., and this week he's going to stay on a train for a time instead of hopping on and off as he makes his first trip home in thirteen years. His father, who came through Harpers Ferry the day John Brown was hanged, became the first Negro blacksmith in Iowa after his migration from Virginia. The king of the red caps came to Chicago in 1892 and joined the Illinois Central in 1900. He has been a member of the Appomatox club for thirty-five years, and his wife, who died last January, was one of the founders of the Phyllis Wheatley home. He seems to have established a railroad tradition in the family for his son-in-law is a "private car man" for the I. C., and his son has worked in the dining car of the North Western railroad for twenty-five years. He has another daughter, a teacher, and five grandchildren.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS J. FINN, 9156 Pleasant avenue, celebrated their golden wedding last week with a reception and an anniversary high mass, sung by Mr. Finn's brother, who performed the wedding ceremony fifty years ago as a newly-ordained priest. He is now pastor of St. Mark's Roman Catholic church, 1048 North Campbell avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Finn were married in Richmond, Ind., and have lived on the southwest side for forty years. They have one daughter, Mrs. Marie F. Comfort; a son, Frank X., and two grandchildren, Donald and Marilyn Finn. All live in Beverly Hills.

Our Towner, Mrs. Edmund O'Keefe, was installed as the regent of Columbanus circle, No. 195, Daughters of Isabella, during the joint ceremonies for the city last week in the Palmer house. She succeeds Mrs. Joseph Burgin.

Even the cold snap can't nip the golf bug. Looking ahead to those balmy spring days and those 70's and 80's already acquired by the prognosticators, Walter F. Lovell, 210 East 79th street, new president of Builders Tee club, announced last week that the season will start April 14. Members of the club, limited to 250 and to only those connected with the building business and supply houses, will play each Tuesday at various golf courses on the south side. Other officers elected at the recent meeting are E. E. McKean, 607 West 66th street, first vice president; Clarence Olson, 7550 South Halsted street, second vice president; Roy J. Hooker, 7345 South Rockwell street, treasurer, and Dennis F. McDonald, 6304 Cottage Grove avenue, secretary.

For twelve years James M. McNamara, 1513 East Marquette road, has been a potent influence in the South Side Associated Courts, Catholic Order of Foresters, an organization of sixty-six branches with a membership of 8,000. And the thirteenth year won't break his record, for he was chosen secretary again at the recent election. As the retiring president he was presented a wrist watch. Previously he had served as secretary for ten years.

MESSIAH CHURCH OPENS 30TH YEAR JUBILEE SUNDAY

Lutherans Trace Start to Youth Meeting.

The Rev. Clarence Wittenstrom.

History is based on accomplishment, not time. Realizing this truth, members of the Messiah Lutheran church, 64th street and Wolcott avenue, will conduct two weeks festivities in observance of the 30th anniversary of the congregation beginning next Sunday.

During its three decades the church has grown from a store to an $85,000 house of worship and from twenty-nine to 700 members. It was started when a group of children met one April day back in 1908 in a store at 1710 West 63d street for Sunday school. Gradually some of the parents became interested and in December of that year twenty-nine adults met to form a church. Eight of the charter members are still living.

First Chapel in 1911.

The first permanent chapel was erected at Marquette road and Hermitage avenue in 1911. This building served the congregation until 1916 when the present large church was built at 64th street and Wolcott avenue. It was recently redecorated for the anniversary program.

Special speakers at the jubilee will be the former pastors, Dr. D. A. Lofgren and the Rev. Gottfred Olson, and also Dr. P. O. Bersell, president of the Augustana Lutheran synod. The Rev. Clarence F. Wittenstrom, present pastor, will head the anniversary committee.

Next Sunday evening the celebration will begin with a concert by the Messiah choir. The cantata, "Rejoice, Beloved Christians," by Buxtehulde, will be the main part of the program. A harvest festival will be sponsored by the Martha society Tuesday evening, Nov. 29, under the chairmanship of Mrs. F. B. Johnson. Special music will be provided by the chapel choir of the Calvary Lutheran church.

Plan Historical Service.

Historical night will be Dec. 1, directed by Charles Wenstrom. "The Growth of God's Kingdom" will be the subject of the guest speaker, Dr. Lofgren. On Sunday, Dec. 4, the pastor will broadcast a service over station WEDC at 8:15 o'clock in the morning. The Rev. Mr. Olson will preach the 10:30 o'clock worship and reunion service.

The confirmand reunion will be held Sunday afternoon, Dec. 4, with the Rev. Mr. Olson officiating. Social hour and supper will begin at 6 o'clock in the evening. Swedish vespers will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening. Fellowship night will be Tuesday, Dec. 6, conducted by the Messiah brotherhood. Fred B. Johnson will preside and Albert Renstrom will be the main speaker. Greetings will be extendd by all church organizations and anniversary motion pictures will be shown by F. B. Johnson.

The 30th anniversary banquet is scheduled for Saturday evening, Dec. 10, in the Country Club hotel, 6930 South Shore drive. Mr. Johnson will be master of ceremonies and music will be furnished by the North Park trio.

Final Day's Festivity.

APPROVE PLAN FOR FAST AUTO ROAD SO. WEST

Many Groups Enlist in Campaign.

BY HAL FOUST.

The construction of an express highway southwest from the loop is urged in petitions being circulated by civic and local improvement groups on the southwest side and in southwestern suburbs. They call for coporative effort by city, county, and state.

The proposed superhighway would be elevated in Cermak road from the outer drive to Blue Island avenue and thence to the old Illinois and Michigan canal bed at Western avenue. Ramps would feed into the heart of the loop in State street and to the western end of the central business district, including the postoffice in Canal street.

Southwest from Western avenue the superhighway would be depressed, consisting of a twenty-two foot pavement for one-way trafic on each side on the obsolete waterway. This design would continue to Willow Springs road. Existing bridges would be modified to provide grade separation at main north and south thoroughfares.

Suburbs Provided For.

At Pershing road [39th street] there would be an important grade separation to connect with a superhighway west to serve Cicero, Berwyn, Riverside, Brookfield, La Grange, Western Springs, Hinsdale, Clarendon Hills, Westmont, and Downers Grove.

At Cicero avenue would be another important grade separation. It would connect with a stub of elevated highway leading south to the Chicago airport. Chicago Motor club engineers calculate that the superhighway would reduce the driving time between the airport and the loop by 20 minutes.

Also at Cicero avenue the depressed roadway would connect with a superhighway west in 55th street as suggested by the Chicago Regional Planning association and by the Du Page county highway department.

Four Lanes Planned.

This 55th street superhighway would have four lanes of pavement at grade with a center parkway and with grade separations at important intersections. It would pass to the south of Naperville to connect with Ogden avenue.

Ogden avenue trafic from west of Naperville would use it to bypass suburbs and for an easy entrance into Chicago over the depressed highway and its elevated connections with the central business district.

"Existing gasoline taxes are adequate to finance the construction," said Roy Healy, chairman of the motor club's south area council,

Have Indorsed Project.

The south area council is an affiliation of 78 civic and local improvement groups. Members who have indorsed the project include:

William B. Gibson, South Chicago Chamber of Commerce; Herman Ordas, Morgan Park Improvement association; Joseph Fienberg, South Side Business Men's association; William H. Doyle, Grand Crossing Improvement association; J. G. Strader, 55th Street Business Men's association; Mrs. C. C. Lively, South Side Federation of Improvement Associations.

O. C. Bruhlman, conservation council; Clarence J. Bohling, East Side Chamber of Commerce; Severn Golkowski, South Chicago Y. M. C. A.; Harry Pon, North Roseland Improvement association; L. O. Stansbury, South End Reporter; Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th]; Ald. William A. Rowan [10th]; William J. Venning, South End Chamber of Commerce; Oscar E. Anderson, Gresham Business Men's association.

Carl G. Buck, South Deering Improvement associaton; John Geringer, Washington Heights Improvement association; Lawrence Heyworth, South Shore Protective association; Sidney Goldstein, Chesterfield Commercial club, and Dr. H. J. Urbanowicz, Central Council of Polish Organizations of South Chicago.

Approved in Joliet.

Southwest from Willow Spring roads the superhighway would leave the I. & M. canal bed and follow Archer avenue. Archer avenue [Ill. 4A] would be modernized at grade to Joliet, where it would connect with U. S. 66, the main route between St. Louis and Chicago.

A few weeks ago a meeting in Joliet indorsed the project as heretofore described from the loop to Joliet. There was not a dissenting vote. Those in attendance included·

Warren L. Wood, state representative; Glenn Fletcher, Will county superintendent of roads, Joliet; Thomas M. Filas, Illinois state safety commission, Cicero; Walker P. Sanders, La Grange village president; Senator Richard J. Barr, Joliet; Glenn E. Miller, Civic and Commerce association of Lockport; J. MacKeever, president of Gerlack-Barklow, Joliet; C. J. Kellem, manager, Association of Commerce; Ben Frankel, secretary, Cicero Chamber of Commerce.

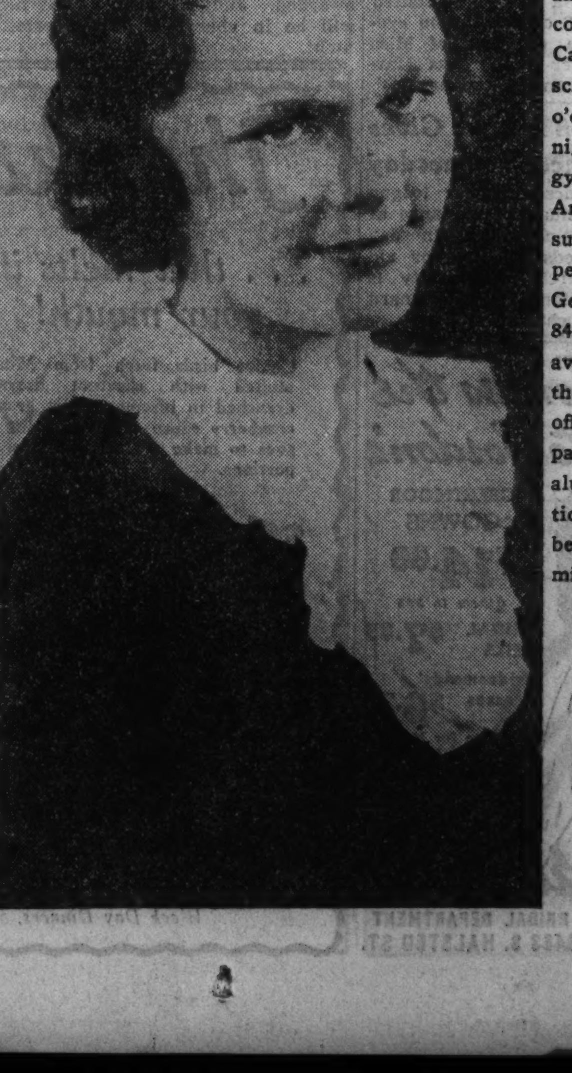
John Zolokar, Cicero Chamber of Commerce; Thomas J. Stob, president, Berwyn-Cicero real estate board, Cicero; B. I. Greenlee, La Grange; W. N. Carter, director, Association of Commerce, Joliet; C. Kapstain, Cicero; Dr. E. J. Drenning, president, Rotary club of Joliet; J. M. Joyce, Joliet; Joseph F. Kral, Cicero; Eugene Griffin, Herald-News, Joliet, and W. E. Fay, president, Champion Machinery company, Joliet.

In the Social News

Combining beauty with talent, Miss Jayne Tyrell, 6835 Clyde avenue, will play the role of Kaye Hamilton in the Barnum Junior Players' production of "Stage Door," Dec. 1, in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building, 410 South Michigan avenue. She is a student in the Chicago School of Expression and Dramatic Arts, sponsor of the players.

[Oppman Photo.]

Approach of Thanksgiving brings more than thoughts of turkey to Miss Georgia Kelly, 7805 Crandon avenue. As president of the St. Xavier Academy Glee club, which will present its annual dance Thanksgiving eve in the Knickerbocker hotel, she has charge of arrangements.



Old grads will meet at the annual homecoming of the Calumet High school at 8 o'clock Friday night in the gymnasium. And much of the success will depend upon Miss Geraldine Prince, 8412 Blackstone avenue, editor of the Alumni Crier, official newspaper of the alumni association, and a member of the committee in charge.

35 Groups Take Part in Six Programs.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Food and drink and prayer have been the sustenance and hope of every nation. This trilogy is expressed in the American Thanksgiving which dawns in homage and lengthens against glowing harths and heaping harvest boards. Thursday the people of the United States, still in the spirit of the pilgrims' progress, will kneel in worship and feast in peace, having bridged centuries of peace and war, wealth and depression.

Men, women, and children on the southwest side will be part of this American scene. They will assemble in churches to offer thanks and will gather in private homes for family feasts.

Thirty-five churches will unite in six different services Wednesday and Thursday for the 13th annual Thanksgiving observation under the sponsorship of the Church Y. M. C. A. cooperation program and the Englewood Ministers' association.

Leaders in Plans.

These worships have been arranged by a committee composed of the Rev. Lester E. Sprenger, president of the association; the Rev. J. F. Le Clere of the Englewood United Presbyterian church, the Rev. L. F. Hoover of the Christ Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. R. M. Furnish of the Auburn Park Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. Henry M. Ostermeier of the Garfield United Presbyterian church, the Rev. Clinton Cox of the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, the Rev. Earl Hildebrand of the Chicago Lawn Presbyterian church and J. F. McFarland, executive secretary of the Englewood Y. M. C. A.

Three of the services will be conducted at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. Seven congregations will attend the worship at the Englewood United Presbyterian, 521 West 65th street, where the Rev. Bryon L. Reynolds will preach the sermon and the Rev. Mr. Le Clere will act as master of ceremonies. The churches participating will be the Covenant Baptist, the Englewood Baptist, the Englewood Christian, the North Congregational, the Englewood United Presbyterian, the People's Liberal, and the Englewood First Methodist Episcopal church.

At Garfield Presbyterian.

The Rev. J. W. George will deliver the address at another Wednesday evening service in the Garfield Boulevard United Presbyterian church, 55th and Throop streets. The Rev. Mr. Ostermeier will be in charge. Among the congregations represented will be the Garfield Boulevard Methodist Episcopal, the Julia Gay Memorial Methodist, the Green Street Congregational, the Bethlehem Presbyterian, and the Garfield Boulevard United Presbyterian.

The third Wednesday service will be held in the Thomas Memorial Congregational church, 64th place and Homan avenue, with the Rev. Ernest Armstrong as speaker and the Rev. Mr. Hildebrand as chairman. Churches participating are the Grace Evangelical, the Thomas Memorial Congregational, the Chicago Lawn Presbyterian, the Chicago Lawn Methodist Episcopal, the Elsdon Methodist Episcopal, and the Brighton Park Presbyterian.

Seven Others Unite.

At 10 o'clock Thursday morning the Rev. Mr. Hoover will direct a worship in the Grace Lutheran church, 70th street and Union avenue, for the Christ Methodist Episcopal, the Emerald Avenue Presbyterian, the Salem Evangelical, the Englewood Evangelical, the Normal Park Methodist Episcopal, the Grace Lutheran, and the Englewood Salvation Army. The Rev. Lester Sprenger will deliver the address.

The Rev. Mr. Furnish will be in charge of a service at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning in the Normal Park Presbyterian church, 7103 Yale avenue. He will introduce the Rev. Clifford L. Le Duc, who will preach the sermon. Congregations present will include the Auburn Park Methodist Episcopal, the Bishop Cheney Memorial, the Normal Park Baptist, and the Normal Park Presbyterian.

At the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 64th street and Marshfield avenue, the Rev. Mr. Cox will conduct a worship service at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning. The speaker will be the Rev. W. F. Osborne. Churches in this group will be the Ashland Church of Christ, the Drexel Park Presbyterian, the Marlboro Presbyterian, the Ogden Park Methodist Episcopal, and the Troburn Methodist Episcopal.

Choirs Unite in Program.

Churches of Brighton and McKinley Park will unite for services at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the McKinley Park Methodist church, 38th street and Washtenaw avenue. Anthems will be sung by the choirs of the participating churches and Dr. J. R. Mantey of the Bethany Baptist church, professor in the Northern Theological seminary, will preach the sermon.

Congregations and their pastors represented will be the Brighton Park Presbyterian, the E. R. Armstrong; the McKinley Park Methodist, the Rev. Julian Rankin; the Mennonite Bible mission, the Rev.

DAYS OF SAILING SHIPS REVIVED BY CHICAGOANS

Schooner Made Ready for South Seas Voyage.

Edward J. Finan.

Past and present will be merged by a group of Chicagoans who plan to start within a month on a hunting and adventure cruise that will take them by easy, colorful stages into the wilds of British Guiana on the northern shore of South America.

Modern thoughts will course through the minds of the 20 men who will make the trip. They will live on up-to-the-minute diets, be in constant touch with civilization by radio, and in other ways enjoy the advantages of man's development throughout the ages.

But their chief means of transportation will be little different from that which carried Leif Ericson to the shores of America a thousand years ago. They will work by day among shrouds and belaying pins and other accoutrements of the days of great white sails. By night they will sleep to the accompaniment of booming canvas and creaking spars.

Schooner Is Readied.

The two-masted schooner Buccaneer is their craft, and she is now in the north branch of the Chicago river being readied for the first cruise worthy of her name since her keel was laid down in 1933. Edward J. Finan is her captain and Frank Sheeley her first mate.

Seventy feet at the water line the craft stretches, with an eighteen foot beam that is no bar to a good speed in fair winds but that gives precious space below decks to lengthen men's tempers on long voyages. Her twenty tons of ballast in the bilges give her the solidity to carry her stout masts that can hold a full suit of canvas against a driving gale.

Set Sail by Christmas.

She likes wind but she doesn't need it. Within her is a 150 horsepower gasoline engine that will drive her at ten knots for 600 miles even with her present fuel capacity. The engine will be used only for warping her into docks and for nosing her through narrows like those of the South American interior. The Buccaneer can be taken wherever the water is eight feet deep.

From Chicago the Buccaneer will be taken down the lakes-to-gulf waterway to New Orleans. There she will be painted and provisioned while her crew gathers. By Christmas Capt. Finan expects to be out in the gulf, headed for Havana, the first stop.

Five weeks are to be spent in the harbors of Santiago de Cuba, Haiti, Puerto Rico, and the passages of the Virgin Islands. Then the southward journey will be resumed, with a stop at Trinidad before the objective port of Georgetown, British Guiana, is reached.

Will Explore Rivers.

At Georgetown the party will engage canoes, supplies, and native guides and porters for their trip into the interior. It is planned to explore both the Essequibo and Demerara rivers and some of their tributaries, with the possibility of an overland trek into the northern highlands of Brazil.

Capt. Finan estimates that the party will spend upwards of three months in South America. The return, by a route to be chosen, will be as leisurely as the southward voyage. Plans for a second cruise to another destination will then be laid.

Legal details of the cruise are in the hands of Attorney David Raymond, 10 North Clark street, who was a chief petty officer on an American destroyer overseas during the war.

FRATERNITY YOUTHS OF WILSON COLLEGE PLAN ANNUAL DANCE

Howard Davis.

Climaxing a four week initiation of its pledges, the Nu Sigma Kappa fraternity of Woodrow Wilson Junior college will hold its third annual dance Wednesday evening in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel. Special guests will be Arthur De Bofsky, Joseph Hockstadter, and Don Ravitz, who will be received into the fraternity today in the home of Abe Horowitz, 7807 Burnham avenue. The committee in charge of the dance will be composed of Mr. Horowitz, Howard Davis, Martin Kaplan, Robert Tatarsky, and Leonard Mayer.

Sings in Flossmoor

Miss Agatha Lewis, young soprano of both the Chicago Civic and City Opera companies, will present a benefit concert Friday evening in the newly erected auditorium of the Flossmoor school. Proceeds will be used to buy equipment for the school.

TWO CHURCHES OBSERVE GOLDEN YEAR THIS WEEK

Festivals in Englewood and Normal Park.

A hundred years of worship will be commemorated this week on the southwest side by two churches that are observing their golden anniversaries.

The Englewood Mission Covenant church, 59th and Carpenter streets, began its jubilee program last Thursday and will continue until next Sunday. It was founded in October, 1888, by early Englewood pioneers of Swedish birth and today has a membership of more than 500 with a Sunday school attendance of 700. During the fifty years of its existence it has been served by five pastors, the present officiating clergyman being the Rev. Herbert E. Palmquist.

Musical by Choir.

Former pastors as well as speakers within the Covenant denomination will participate in the festivities. The church choir will present a special anniversary program Thanksgiving day under the direction of Oscar W. Green.

"The House on the Sand," a drama by the youth of the congregation, will open the golden jubilee program of the Normal Park Methodist church this evening in the church auditorium, 71st street and Union avenue. Tuesday evening Dr. Frederick Shannon of the Central church will be guest speaker. The Eventide Singers under the direction of Ralph Forsyth will furnish the music.

The actual birthday of the founding of the church and the election of the charter board of trustees will be Wednesday. A choral candlelight communion will be conducted at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Lester Sprenger, pastor.

Will Receive Fifty Members.

The celebration will be climaxed next Sunday. The morning sermon will be preached by Dr. Hugh Atchison of Dubuque, Ia., who was the first full time pastor appointed to the Normal Park Methodist church. Dr. Atchison has recently retired from a thirty-eight year pastorate in Dubuque, the longest in the history of Methodism. Fifty new members will be received into the fellowship of the church by the Rev. Mr. Sprenger.

A sacred cantata will be presented by the choir at 8 o'clock in the evening under the direction of Miss Irene Cox Banger with Miss Margaret Edson Conant at the organ.

Bess Isaacson League Gives Dinner-Dance Wednesday

The Bess Isaacson Junior league will hold its annual dinner-dance at the Royal Frolics café on Wednesday evening. Proceeds will go for aid in cancer research. The party is under the direction of Mrs. Bernard Gottstein, social chairman.

Aids Charity

Miss Mary Behen, 7915 Perry avenue, a member of the employes' council for Wieboldt's company, 63d and Green streets, will be on the committee of arrangements for the annual Christmas charity dance of the organization Saturday evening in Carpenters' hall, 6414 Halsted street.

McDermott [14th] and Judge John J. Sullivan tomorrow evening in Hamilton park fieldhouse, 72d street and Normal boulevard. The banquet marks the windup of the sixth year of play in the largest community league in Chicago.

Ald. McDermott and Judge Sullivan are co-sponsors of the league, which comprises fifty-two teams representing various sections of the ward.

Sixty jackets will be presented to sectional leaders of the minor league as well as in the major. Individual medals and trophies also will be awarded. Judge Joseph B. Hermes will be in charge of the entertainment.

HAL'S CITY BRED PIGS BRING HOME THE SHOW BACON

Morgan Park Youth Has Back Yard Farm.

Beverly Hills, home of the famed Vanderpoel Art gallery, of a well known symphony orchestra and of cultural clubs, this week will seek international fame with three fat hogs. Aristocrats also in their own line, the pigs will be the only animals raised within the city limits which will be entered next Saturday in the International Live Stock show at the Amphitheater of the stockyards.

Their owner, also an astounding product of the neighborhood, is a 16 year old husky boy who prefers pigs to parties and denims to dates. He is Hal White, 1700 West 99th street, a junior at Morgan Park High school.

One Pig Starts Farm.

Now head of the White Berk farm [White for his name, Berk for his Berkshire hogs and farm for his uncle's back yard at 9836 Vanderpoel avenue], Hal began his stock raising career at the age of 11. The inspiration was a tiny, squealing pig given to him by his uncle, William Jarvis, who is now his "groom." It was a small start. Since then, however, his farm has been the nursery for 400 chickens, 50 ducks and geese, two goats, a cow, wild fighting fowl from South America and 20 pigs. Although the grunts, cackles, bleats and general clatter have been that of any other barnyard, the White Berk farm has insisted upon one distinction, pure breds and pedigrees.

There now are 50 white Orpington chickens in his hen house, three of which won first, second, and third prizes this season at the Will County fair. "Orringtons," says the eager young stock raiser, his big hand shoved deep into the side pockets of unpressed denim trousers and one muddy farm shoe crossing the other, "have won more blue ribbons than any other breed of fowl. That's why I raise 'em. They're the best."

"What about Berkshire hogs?"

Berkshires—They're Swell.

The question is the match to the fuse of this would-be country, city boy's enthusiasm. "Now take Berkshires," he begins with the strident conviction of the typical farmer, and then sums them up like any other boy with a hobby, "they're swell." Last year Hal won third highest auction price for his Berkshire at the International Live Stock show. "But Bully Boy didn't compare with my boars for this show," he explains.

Christened "Pawnee's Pride" [in tribute to his swineherder and classmate, Jim "Pawnee" Barber], "White Berk Johnny," and "Chicago's Pride," Hal's hogs are entered in the open class of the show. Pets of the pen, they are the finest he could buy from a well known breeder in Williamsville. Since last February, Hal has made four trips down to Williamsville keeping a master's eye on the market. During the summer he tours the nearby states visiting one fair after another. He has never vacationed on a farm.

Throwback to Pilgrims.

Hal comes by his farming instincts long distance. There hasn't been a farmer in the White family since Samuel White came over on the Mayflower and became a country gentleman in Haverhill, Mass., by necessity. A throwback from his Pilgrim forefather, Hal intends to become a stock raiser "out on a farm in Iowa or Illinois" after he graduates from agricultural college.

Perhaps several of his Morgan Park High school friends will follow in his footsteps, for he has gathered quite a cult about him who wear farm shoes to school, help Hal feed his stock, go trapping with him in the early hours before classes out in the slough at Palos park, and who ride about with him in his red-fendered, white Ford that has "White Berk Farm" emblazoned on the side.

Hal and his friends speak well for the American youth of today who is supplanting the drug store cowboy of yesteryear.

Lens and Shutter Members Hold Ninth Annual Salon

The ninth annual salon of the Lens and Shutter club will open tomorrow evening to continue until Nov. 28 in Hamilton park fieldhouse, 72 street and Normal boulevard. More than 100 pictures will be on exhibit and prizes will be awarded tomorrow evening by R. V. Pierce, supervisor of special events for the Chicago Park district. Charles Lindsay is president of the club.

Southwest Superhighway

Civic and local improvement groups from Chicago to Joliet are behind a campaign for an express highway southwest from the loop. City, county, and state officials are being pressed to lend their support to the plan. The proposed superhighway would be elevated in Cermak road from the outer drive to Blue Island avenue and thence to the old Illinois and Michigan canal bed at Western avenue. From that point the route would be depressed to Willow Springs road. Various grade separations are provided.

S. WEST DISTRICT SCOUTS AWAIT ANNUAL FEAST

Hold Banquet Thursday in Hamilton Park.

The beginning of the banquet season will bring to Boy Scouts of the southwest side another indoor sport, eating. No greater test of friendship is there than the sharing by lads of a piece of pumpkin pie.

The southwest district of the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts will hold its annual banquet Thursday evening in Hamilton park fieldhouse, 72d street and Normal boulevard. Representatives will be present from Archer road, Bridgeport, Englewood, Ridge, Southwest Center, Tri Parks, and West End.

Harvey G. Ellerd, vice president of the Chicago council and personnel director of Armour & Co., will be the speaker of the evening. Other talks will be given by members of the council executive staf.

Will Elect Officers.

According to Carle W. Handel, district scout executive, officers will be elected to the executive committee and the board of directors. Past officers will be introduced and annual reports heard from each community and from members of the executive board.

Charles Palmquist Jr., 7933 Marshfield avenue, of Troop 654, will be guest speaker Thursday at the annual fathers' and sons' banquet conducted by Troop 680 in the Marlboro Presbyterian church, 68th street and Damen avenue. Young Palmquist was the only scout from Chicago to attend the World's Jamboree held in Holland last year.

"Vive, la Companie," one of the favorite camp songs, will open the program. Harry Griffith, scoutmaster, will be master of ceremonies, and Herbert Hoss with Elmer Parish, assistant scoutmasters, will lead community singing.

Reads Scouting Recipe.

Dan Beard's recipe for scouting will be read by Howard G. Housley, 2057 West 70th street, assistant scoutmaster and program director. Music will be furnished by Miss Prudence Straube, 2047 West 70th street, pianist, and Warren Hybl, 2317 West 71st street, accordion guitar soloist.

Mrs. Warren Hybl will be in charge of the banquet arrangements. She will be assisted by Mrs. Ernest Haack, 2023 West 69th place; Mrs. Edward Rehe, 6941 Hermitage avenue; Mrs. Walter Straube, 2012 West 68th street, and Mrs. C. H. Housley, 2057 West 70th street.

Senior Patrol Leader Edward Rehe will be property manager and Carl Erickson, troop committeeman, will be business manager.

Chicago's Organized Woman Musicians Tire of Playing Second Fiddle Roles

Today 235 Chicago women are pointing to the history of music and asking men an embarrassing question. As instrumentalists, members of the Organized Women Musicians, they want to know why all the geniuses in the music world have been men. They wonder, if music is the common language of all races and nations, why women have been so silent on the subject. They say it might be that men have refused to listen.

Miss Anita De Mars.

Particularly they have wondered why the leading symphony orchestras are composed mainly of men. And insisting that talent should be the only consideration in tryouts for these positions, they are asking admittance to the concert platform, as well as the parlors of society. Directed by their president, Miss Anita De Mars, the organization, which is a group from Chicago local No. 10 of the Federation of Musicians, is campaigning for better jobs.

Seek Musical Reputations.

Says Miss De Mars: "All we can do is create women's reputations as instrumentalists." A work committee has been appointed within the organization to contact hotel managers and symphony orchestra conductors requesting auditions. To finance this drive a benefit fund was started. Proceeds from the winter festival and dance to be held Dec. 2 in the union headquarters, 175 West Washington street, will be added to the fund.

Members working on committees are all stars in music circles. The Whitney sisters, Grace, Edna, Edith, and Noreen, are in charge of decorations. Jane Anderson, pianist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, is in charge of the program. The first flutist for the Chicago Woman's Symphony, Carolyn Solfronk, is chairman of the ways and means committee.

A pep meeting will be held by the organization Tuesday evening in the headquarters of the Woman's Symphony orchestra, room 201, Auditorium building. The members will discuss the results of the questionnaire on the subject of women's place in the music world and the meeting will serve as a "get acquainted" social.

Points to Spitalny.

The survey is not yet completed, but comments have been sent to Miss De Mars from orchestra directors about the admittance of women instrumentalists to the symphony concert platform. Frank J. Black, music director of National Broadcasting company, says this: "I do not believe any one could point to any greater success in the popular field on the air than Phil Spitalny has made with his all women's orchestra. However, I do know that there are a great many conductors who have the same feeling toward women in the orchestra as they would have in a poker game."

The organization has not been able to answer the question raised by Walter Damrosh. He wrote: "I confess that years ago I had a woman harpist in the orchestra who excited my young violinists unduly because, when we were on our long concert tours in California, she would insist on combing her black and beautiful tresses in full view, seated on her berth in the sleeping car. How would you meet such a problem?"

Fritz Reiner writes: "Ever since my conservatory days I have found women most satisfactory members of an orchestra. In Cincinnati I was first to break with tradition by employing Helen Vogel as first violinist."

"I have never seen the slightest valid objection to the presence of women in a major symphony orchestra," says Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. "I feel that any discrimination is a result of the weight of custom and precedent in this country."

The membership of the Organized Women Musicians, says Miss De Mars, is their recommendation. Marie Morrisey Keith, a director of the Woman's Symphony board, is an honorary member. Miss Lillian Poenisch, the founder of the group, is also the founder of the Woman's Symphony. Goldie Gross, vice president, is cellist with the Yar orchestra in Chicago. The secretary, Genevieve Kaleth, is first cornetist of the Woman's Symphony. About 50 per cent of the members of the Woman's Symphony orchestra are also members of the Organized Women Musicians.

Want to Earn Living.

The group was founded five years ago for the mutual benefit of women instrumentalists. Miss De Mars, who was president of the Society of Theater Organists for six years, is the director of a women's trio, the Charmers, which plays over NBC, and is a professional pianist and organist, voices the opinion of her organization. She says: "If a woman has been given talent equal to a man she should have an equal chance at earning her living by it."

Value ....

Few, indeed, are the people who can spend their money without regard to what they receive for it.

Almost every one of us necessarily must give careful consideration to all of the various factors which make up a purchase.

We don't want style alone, quality alone, or even value alone.

We want them all. If a garment is to have style that will last, it must be made of quality materials. If it is to give service in proportion to the amount of money invested it must have value.

So many, many of our customers have praised our value. The fact that we sell only the finest of nationally known quality clothing at prices which cannot be surpassed anywhere in all Chicago brings them back to us every time they need clothes.

You'll find all of our merchandise — both men's and women's — priced considerably lower than elsewhere. Yet the clothes themselves are of identical quality and the very latest in style.

Thus we say, in all sincerity, that we give greater value, together with all of those other things you want in clothes. Every one of our 100,000 regular customers will speak for us in this.

Please accept our invitation to drop in and see our store, regardless of whether or not you intend to buy. We'll be only too happy to receive you.

SOD ROOF GIVES OLD WORLD TOUCH TO COTTAGE HOME

Unusual Features Found in Wheaton House.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

When Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Babcock, 819 University place, Wheaton, decided to build, their prime requisite was a small home with rooms and furnishings considered as a unit to provide not only for definite family needs, but for genial hospitality. They wanted a plan which should afford plenty of sunlight for the living quarters, bedrooms, and conservatory, and ample opportunity for outdoor living.

The result is a delightful small home which emphasizes the union of comfort and the esthetic, a design which can transform the ordinary duties of the household into sources of real pleasure.

They owned a fine piece of wooded land, and first of all they decided on something most unusual.

New Use for Arena.

Not far away stood an old structure, which in its day had been used as a boxing "auditorium." The architect, Frederick G. Walker of Glen Ellyn, agreed with Mr. Babcock that money could be saved by use of this building. Of course, it would have to be moved to the Babcock site.

The structure itself was fundamentally sound, and the wood was well seasoned and in good condition. So the one-time boxing "auditorium" was moved bodily to the site of the present home. And while the present house can hardly be called "remodeled," since no house existed to do over, it is nevertheless an interesting example of how good wood remains so for a long time, and how money can be saved by modernization, even if you have to call in the "movers" to do it.

As the house now stands, bearing no slightest resemblance to the structure it once was, it offers many features of unusual interest.

Daisies on the Roof.

It is an all-modern little home, with exterior walls of white concrete, and a real sod roof. All last summer grass grew on this roof, and daisies and tiger lillies bloomed. On one of their travel in the Scandinavian countries Mr. and Mrs. Babcock noted with especial interest those sod roofed cottages along the hillsides of Norway and decided that when they built their own home it should have just such a roof.

A picturesque touch, certainly, and incidentally it may be mentioned that the roof construction is as sturdy as it is inviting to the eye. Regular roll roofing was first laid, and then asphalt and concrete and then more asphalt was embedded in wire to hold it. After that, four inches of good Illinois sod was laid and planted with grass and flowers.

The house now stands on a slightly rising piece of land and is surrounded by a wood rail fence painted white.

Knocker from London.

There is a massive Dutch entrance door of perky cypress, with specially designed hardware. The door knocker came from the Caledonian market in London; the Thieves' market. [As you may have guessed before this, Mr. Babcock is travel editor of THE TRIBUNE.] And for this home many interesting pieces have been gathered from far parts of the globe.

At the right of the entrance hall is a large conservatory, or sunroom. This is the only addition which was built on to the original frame structure. At present its floor is of stone and brick. The ceiling is beamed, and there is a small tree growing up from a bit of earth left uncovered at one side. Originally this entire room was built around an apple tree—but the tree died. There are heavy pine tables, comfortable blue canvas chairs, and cuckoo clocks galore.

At the left of the entrance hall is the large living room, some twenty-three feet by seventeen feet. There are two wide bays—not a part of the original boxing structure—walls of rough plaster, and beamed ceiling. The fireplace treatment is modern, and wide windows to the south let in a maximum amount of sunlight.

Bookshelf Near Bed.

There are two bedrooms. One, for the young daughter of the family, aged 5, is finished in knotty pine, with a built-in bunk. This bunk is high, and one reaches it by "pigeon hole" steps built in the side. There are small shelves for books at the head of the bed and, underneath it, conveniently placed cupboards for plaything and toys. The knotty pine has been stained an attractive gray-green shade, and altogether this is a delightful little bedroom for a little miss.

The master bedroom also is paneled in wood. White pine, in herringbone pattern, has been used. There are pale yellow Venetian blinds at the windows and a wide fir flooring.

The kitchen is smartly tailored in all linoleum, a fine shade of Chinese red on the walls, black linoleum counter tops, ivory cabinets, and deep yellow brown ceiling. The sink is of stainless steel, with overhead panel lighting.

Papered with Headlines.

Adjoining this is the dining alcove. Two of its walls are paneled in pine; the other two are covered with historical headlines from THE TRIBUNE from many years back. These have been shellacked and make "good reading." A rust red linoleum is on the floor. There are open cupboards off this alcove. Later there's to be a shutter type of door.

The bathroom is also all linoleum—even the ceiling. The fixtures are a rich sun tan, the walls a deep brown, with bands of sun tan yellow over the tub. On the floor there is a cream shade of linoleum flecked with brown. Just outside the bathroom is the linen closet. And an idea of Mrs. Babcock's: small shelves of different sizes reach from floor to ceiling for that overflow of ointments and powders and soaps from the medicine cabinet in the bathroom proper.

From the front entrance hall a door leads down to the large studio.

Paneling in Future.

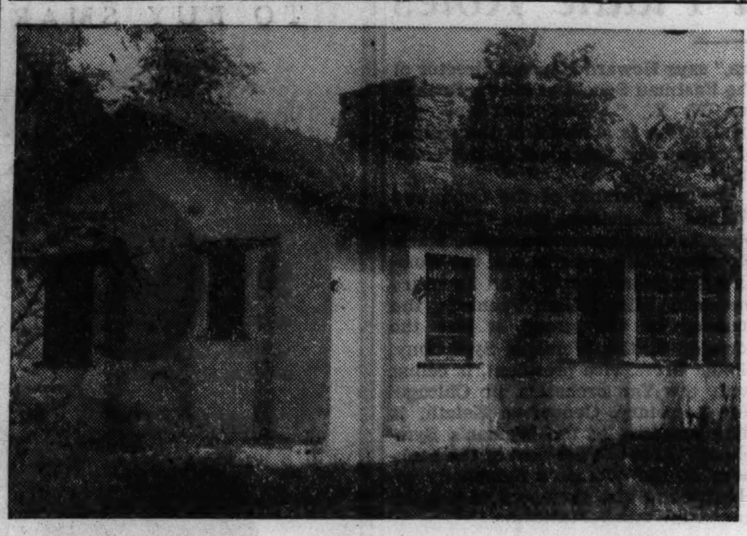
"Some day we are going to have the stairway and the entire room paneled in pine," Mrs. Babcock said. But until that time comes nothing has been left undone to make this room a retreat worth owning.

At one end there's a great five foot fireplace—the type built to heat the air and project it into the room. Logs four feet long are close by.

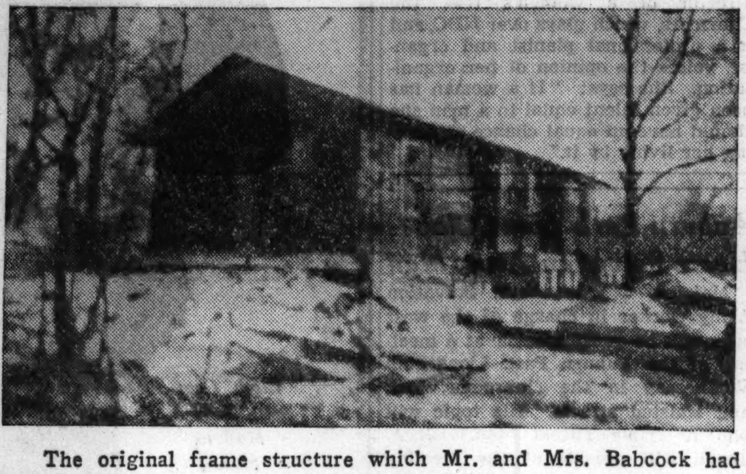
"Some day this fireplace will be all of flagstones, with high seats built out," after the fashion of many years ago.

Plans ahead which are fun to make. But in the meantime the room as it stands, with its barette—made from a stall out of an old barn—its built-in bookshelves, and its chairs, couches, and tables—all hand hewn out of white cedar logs—is a room for real use.

Former Boxing Arena



This unusual small home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Babcock, 819 University place, Wheaton, is interesting in a number of ways. It has a real sod roof where grass grew and flowers bloomed all last summer. And it was rebuilt from an old structure once used for boxing and other athletic diversions. Architect, Frederick G. Walker, Glen Ellyn.



The original frame structure which Mr. and Mrs. Babcock had moved to their own wooded site and transformed into a charming, all-modern white concrete cottage, with large conservatory and sun room at one end and studio in the basement.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Nov. 21.

Most trees up to 3 or 4 inches in diameter can be moved without a ball of earth on the roots. Trees larger than this should be balled and burlapped or moved with a frozen ball. A 5 or 6 inch tree will save 10 years or more in producing the effect desired. If you intend to buy a large tree from a nursery, get your order in at once so that the tree can be dug before the ground freezes. Also dig the hole where the tree will be planted or at least mulch the ground heavily over the spot to prevent freezing. The actual transplanting will not be done until midwinter.

Tuesday, Nov. 22.

For a beautiful lawn specimen for the average city lot there are a number of good varieties of flowering crabs or flowering cherries and hawthorns. Paul's double scarlet hawthorn is one of the best of the latter group. Kouse dogwood and Chinese dogwood both are superior to the common dogwood. For a street tree that is different use the Chinese cork tree, phellodendron amurense. It is tropical looking, with foliage similar to the tree of heaven. It is of rapid growth, resists drouth and heat, and grows in almost any kind of soil. A fine native specimen of medium size that is not well known is the Kentucky coffee tree, gymnocladus dioica.

Wednesday, Nov. 23.

Use the thornless honeylocust for a lawn tree where you do not want a dense shade. It is not susceptible to smoke and gas, which is a decided advantage. A shade plant of picturesque habit is the maidenhair tree, ginko biloba. It is upright when young, and suitable for restricted areas in the city. The rate of growth, however, is slow. It is a mistake to use trees for street planting just because they are rapid growing. Some of them are short lived, weak wooded, and not suitable for general planting. Among such are the boxelder, western catalpa, Carolina poplar, and willows.

Thursday, Nov. 24.

If you have not already done so, cut the tops off of peony plants and burn them. This will lessen the danger of peony bud blight, which may be carried over on the old foliage. Remove and burn dead iris leaves to kill any iris borer eggs that may be present. Destroy the tops of gladioli that were cut from the corms after digging to destroy any thrips that may be present. Burn the leaves and stems of phlox, larkspur, or other plants that are attacked by fungus diseases. Sanitation is an important aid in the control of both insects and diseases, because rubbish and dead vegetation provide winter harboring places for many insects and eggs, and the spores of many diseases are carried on dead leaves and stalks.

Friday, Nov. 25.

In gardens small enough to be worked by hand, thorough trenching is recommended. Instead of spading up the garden in the ordinary way, throw out a furrow or ditch one spade deep across one side of the plot. Then go over the same strip again, spading up and thoroughly breaking the lower soil, but leaving it where it was. Throw the next strip of top soil on this, and in the same way pulverize the strip of soil beneath it, and so continue to the other side of the garden. It is advisable to give the surface a dressing of manure before trenching. If you do not trench, at least spade up the garden and let it lie rough through the winter. This will improve the physical condition of the soil, kill insects, and help to control weeds.

Saturday, Nov. 26.

An important precaution against winter injury of evergreens is to soak the ground around the trees thoroughly in late autumn, just before the ground freezes. This insures the tree going into the winter with a sufficient supply of moisture. Newly planted evergreens, in locations exposed to winds or to intense sunlight, should be protected during the winter by windbreaks of burlap or evergreen boughs. Continue planting of spring blooming bulbs if not already planted. In addition to tulips, hyacinths, and narcissus, there are grape hyacinths, glory-of-the-snow, star-of-Bethlehem, and snowflake.

P.-T. A.'S REWARD PUPILS TAKING CARE OF TEETH

225 Receive Certificates Denoting Health.

Thirty-two health and summer roundup chairmen in twenty-seven schools of the southwest council, district 25, in the Illinois congress of parents and teachers, recently completed mouth hygiene projects in the annual dental examinations of school children. In twelve schools, 225 children received certificates.

The health chairmen and their committees follow up the dental tests made by the board of health doctors in the spring and award certificates in the fall to all children who corrected defects. In the last two years about 8,000 dental certificates were presented to children in various schools.

The attention of the chairmen is now being turned to other projects. Among the enterprises are the sponsorship of a Red Cross class for 150 mothers who learn the care of the sick in the home, eye, and ear examinations and weighing and measuring of school children.

Seven schools in the council have separate health and summer roundup chairmen. The health chairmen include Mrs. John Mannion, Barton school; Mrs. H. J. Fiddelke and Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Brenan; Mrs. A. G. Steenson, Clissold; Mrs. W. N. Wood, Fernwood; Mrs. D. C. Whitsell, Fort Dearborn; Mrs. Thomas Bateman, Mount Vernon; Mrs. J. J. Chicago High R.O.T.C. School News

Acrobatic Manual of Arms

CORPS LEADER THINKS R. O. T. C. FINE BUILDER

Lieut. Col. Van Clay of Fenger Tells Views.

(This is the third in a series of interviews with the cadet commanding officers of the R. O. T. C. units in the city's south side high schools.)

Stephen Van Clay.

Apparently a good little man is better than a lot of good big men in the Fenger High school R. O. T. C. unit. Lieut. Col. Stephen Van Clay, who is five feet, five inches tall, has been appointed commanding officer for two semesters and jokingly explains his success over larger cadets by the fact that "I can outrun 'em."

Stephen, besides being small, is only 16 years old, but he has a lot of ideas about the value of prep school military training.

"It teaches leadership and discipline, the most important things in the R. O.," he says. "It builds a fellow up with marching and calisthenics and I think it improves a fellow's appearance 100 per cent by its emphasis on cleanliness and neatness."

As a career law appeals to him most and he intends to enroll either at the University of Illinois or Northwestern university next year. At Fenger he has won two R. O. T. C. medals, one from THE TRIBUNE, and he is a member of the senior Hi-Y, the Phorex honor society, the Boys' Athletic association, and the Gavel club.

In sports he played third base on Roseland squadron, No. 49, Sons of the American Legion baseball team which won the city and county championship last summer. As to his leisure time, he expressed a weakness for brunettes and for movies with modern settings.

Fenger's increasing success during the last three years in the R. O. T. C. he attributes to the coming of the new instructor, Sergt. William P. Robinson.

"There's no horsing around with him," Van Clay said.

—Hyde Park—

Sergt. William J. Brewer, military instructor at Hyde Park High school, last week promoted Maj. Burton Brown, commanding officer, to lieutenant colonel. He also elevated William Karn, adjutant, to the rank of major. The new military patrol, under the leadership of Capt. Don Dedrick, was commended for its excellent work thus far this semester.

—Calumet—

Newly elected leaders of the commissioned officers' club at Calumet High school are Capt. Harry W. Kester, president; Lieut. Col. George P. Santos, vice president; First Lieutenant Robert Killackey, secretary, and First Lieutenant Joseph Hafsten, treasurer.

PLIGHT OF NAZI VICTIMS STIRS CHURCH ACTION

Two Movements Started for Assistance.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Homer J. Buckley.

Leadership of Christian church and Jewish synagogue was quickly mobilized last week for the defense and aid of both Christian and Jewish victims of the present Nazi situation. The city's attention has been called to two separate but related movements. One, headed by Homer J. Buckley looks to direct aid to Christian refugees, both Catholic and Protestant.

The other, sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches and the National Conference of Jews and Christians, seeks the massed prayers of the synagogue and church in intercession for human targets of Nazi activities. Mr. Buckley, as Chicago head of the American committee for Christian German refugees, stated that 100,000 letters to American pastors are now in the mails.

Appeal for Finances.

This letter, Mr. Buckley states, was inspired by the greatly increasing pressure of new Christian refugees from the Sudetenland and Austria. The letter is a direct appeal for financial aid. It was explained that the Chicago committee, now only partly formed, probably will call a great massmeeting in a few days with an internationally famous personage the speaker.

The partially formed Chicago committee includes the following persons: The Rev. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, Charles E. Bradley, the Rev. Dr. Duncan H. Browne, Alfred C. Buehler, Charles V. Clark, J. S. Dallman, Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, Michael F. Girton, Charles B. Goodspeed, Dr. Ernest G. Guthrie, Judge J. J. Gutknecht, Edward R. Hills, Dr. Theodore C. Hume, John A. Lapp, Judge John P. McGoorty, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Paul A. Schlipp, Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf, the Rev. Dr. Armin G. Weng, Bishop George Craig Stewart, Otto Shulz, Walter Dill Scott, Orville J. Taylor, and Walter P. Paepcke.

K. A. M. Temple Service.

Extensive preparations for today's services of intercession have been made in many churches and synagogues. At K. A. M. temple, 50th street and Drexel boulevard, a service devoted to the theme, "Religion Speaks," will feature three noted speakers. Dean William F. Clarke, of DePaul university, will speak on "A Catholic View of the German Tragedy."

Prof. Wilhelm Pauck, professor of Christian theology at the University of Chicago, will speak on "A Protestant's Challenge to Barbarism," and Rabbi Joshua Loth Liebman, of K. A. M. temple, will deliver a Jewish tribute to American Christianity.

NEW SOUTH SIDE SEWER PROJECT GIVEN APPROVAL

$302,904 Allowed Also for Outfall Line.

Approval of a new south side sewer project and of a supplemental appropriation for another was announced last week by H. K. Seltzer, Chicago WPA director.

The new undertaking is known as the Hoxie avenue sewer project. This will start at the Trumbull Park federal housing site and will run east in 107th street to Hoxie avenue, thence north to the existing sewer line in 103d street, which is to be cleaned and repaired as part of the project.

Will Spend $250,000.

Some 688 WPA workers are to be transferred from other projects to the new one. The undertaking was sponsored by the board of local improvements after studies showed that the present facilities are inadequate and in need of repair. The federal appropriation for the task is more than $250,000.

The supplemental appropriation approved, amounting to $302,904, is that for completion of the new outfall sewer that will replace the open ditch that carries Mount Greenwood sewage to the Calumet Sag channel. This is expected to provide four months' employment for 850 men.

Runs Through Alsip.

Starting at 116th place and Central Park avenue, the new sewer runs through Worth township and the village of Alsip to the Sag channel. It will eventually be linked with the Calumet treatment plant of the sanitary district.

When completed, the new sewer will abolish the nuisance caused by the old open ditch, with resulting improvement to health and enhancement of property values, it was pointed out.

FUNNY TO HEAR, ALLEN SHOW IS FUNNIER TO SEE

Jester Saves Best Stuff for Studio Crowd.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

When television comes the Fred Allen show ought to be even more fun for listeners. A good show aurally, it is still better visually. It is funny from the moment you enter the big 1,200 seat studio until Fred has finished off with the last autograph seeker.

Before the show goes on early arrivers get laughs out of watching the page boys struggling to keep the reserved seats unoccupied. A little section is kept open for Fred and Portland' relatives and friends and for a few others favored by NBC.

New Yorkers put up a strong fight to get into those seats. But NBC attendants, sturdy fellows, fight back. They don't manage to save all the seats they intended to. But they do succeed in keeping clear a few for Portland's mother and sister, Lastone. Papa Hoffa, you remember, named his daughters for the cities in which they were born, and the final one he called Last One. She changed it to Lastone. The family pronounces it "lastun."

Portland Gives Attention.

Portland, sitting on the stage before Fred makes his appearance, definitly maintains the attitude of the most interested spectator. And throughout the performance she hangs on every word Fred utters. And her laughter appears to be the most spontaneous.

A minute or two before air time Harry Von Zell warms up the audience with a few jokes. Then he spies Fred sitting below in the audience, invites him to come up and address the audience.

Fred saves his wittiest cracks for the studio audience. Perhaps he has to. Many of them NBC's blue pencil department might otherwise scratch. The network bosses do not like jokes about Toscanini. So Allen puts the maestro at the head of his list for joke material.

"You will notice," he explained the night we saw his show, "that all the page boys are in stocking feet tonight. Toscanini opens here next Saturday and all the boys with a squeak in their shoes higher than E flat have had to turn them in to have them tuned.'

Says What He Pleases.

The sharpest blue pencil in Radio City cannot eliminate all of Allen's salty cracks because he doesn't set them down on paper. Even a continuity labeled "last revision" will not go on the air as it is written. When Fred gets to the microphone he will say what pops into his head at the moment. Or perhaps it is what he intended to say all the time.

That must have been the case the other evening when he interviewed an NBC studio guide. He asked the chap what the various colored uniforms the page boys wear signify. One type of braid indicates television guides, another the lads who conduct studio tours, and so on, the youth explained.

"And the vice presidents, I suppose, wear mess jackets,' Fred interrupted, "to indicate the state their minds are in!"

When Fred presents his weekly guests whom he calls "people you never expected to meet" they also meet a person they never expected to meet—Fred Allen. For Fred at the microphone is a different fellow than he was in rehersal. During rehersal he is meek enough but on the air he can't resist being a bad boy. His kidding invariably gets him a long way from the text.

Relies on Uncle Jim.

And that is where Uncle Jim Harkins, Allen's assistant of many years, comes in. As Allen ad libs and the guest flounders hopelessly through the pages of the script wondering how they will get back into it, Uncle Jim stands beside them giving help and counsel. He puts his finger on the script at the point he deems best to reënter it. And if the guest becomes flustered Allen ad libs further to ease the situation.

Fred has his uncomfortable moments, too. An inveterate tobacco chewer, his pained expressions are believed to be due to the fact that NBC will permit him no receptacle to get relief from his cud. When there is a break in the program for music Fred sometimes sneaks out back behind a screen. And he looks happier when he comes back.

In every broadcast there are bound to be dull moments for the studio audience. Fred does his best to brighten these.

For instance, when Von Zell interrupts the program so that station announcements may be made across the country, Allen steps to the front of the platform and informs the studio audience, "This is the point where we ask Hitler whether we can go on with the program."

A Hard Worker.

Fred probably works harder on his show than any other of radio's major comedians. With the exception of Friday, which is his day off, and on Sunday morning when he and Portland go to church, he spends almost the entire week working on Town Hall scripts, his associates say. The Allens seldom go out or entertain. They live in a two room apartment in a modest hotel near Radio City.

GIGLI AND ITURBI HEADLINERS ON CONCERT TONIGHT

Feuermann, Noted Cellist, on Magic Key.

Beniamino Gigli, noted Italian tenor, will be heard on the Sunday Evening hour over WBBM at 8 o'clock tonight. The symphony orchestra and the 26 voice chorus will be under the direction of José Iturbi.

Gigli's selections will be the aria, "Che Gelida Manina," from Puccini's "La Bohême"; Leoncavallo's "Mattinata"; Cardillo's "Core 'ngrato"; "Celeste Aïda," from Verdi's "Aïda," and De Crecenzo's "Quann'a femmena vo'."

The orchestral presentions will be the Overture to Wagner's "Rienzi"; the Intermezzo from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," and Liszt's "Les Preludes."

Emanuel Feuermann, Austrian cellist, and Margaret Speaks, brilliant young American radio and concert soprano, will head the Magic Key guest roster at 1:00 p. m. over WENR and NBC.

Also to be featured on the full hour broadcast are the Songsmiths Quartet, Clifton Fadiman as master of ceremonies, and the Magic Key orchestra conducted by Dr. Frank Black. A special guest artist will be Minnie Dupree, a veteran dramatic artist currently scoring a great success in the motion picture, 'The Young in Heart." Miss Dupree will be heard in an original radio sketch entitled "Grandma's in the Parlor."

Feuermann, hailed as one of the greatest cellists of our time, made his debut when only 11 years old with the Vienna Symphony orchestra under Felix Weingartner. He made his first New York appearance four years ago. Feuermann will play his $30,000 Stradivarius cello during his appearance.

SIEGFRIED IDYLL TO BE PLAYED BY PHILHARMONIC

The "Siegfried Idyll," which Wagner wrote as a birthday tribute to his wife Cosima and in honor of their son Siegfried, will be played in its original form for small orchestra when John Barbirolli directs the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra in a program of the German master's works over WBBM Columbia from 2 to 4 p. m.

Barbirolli will match Wagner's instrumentation exactly with a reduced orchestra consisting of flute, oboe, two clarinets, bassoon, two horns, trumpet, two each of first violins, second violins, and violas, one cello, and double bass.

The balance of the program, to be played by the full orchestra, consists of the "Rienzi" overture, "Venusberg" music from "Tannhauser," prelude and finale from "Tristan und Isolde," "Ride of the Valkyries" from "Die Walkuere," and four excerpts from "Die Meistersinger."

Irene Rich's Drama.

"Prelude to Love," a drama of romance and domestic conflict, will be Irene Rich's dramatic vehicle at 8:45 p. m. over WENR-NBS. Miss Rich will play the rôle of Maryls Creele, a young matron who finds romance in Paris.

Round Table to Discuss Subject of Isolation

"Can America Live Alone and Like It?" a threshing out of the nation's traditional isolationist stand, will be the topic for discussion when three prominent educators get together in the Radio City studios of NBC to put the University of Chicago Round Table on the air at 11:30 a. m. today over WMAQ-NBC. Scheduled for the three way discussion of opinion on the question are Walter Laves, political science lecturer at the University of Chicago; Alvin H. Hansen, professor of political economy at Harvard university, and George Soule, an editor of the New Republic.

GARBER IS CHEF OF 'COOK BOOK' ON W-G-N-MUTUAL

The Blackhawk's "Musical Cook Book," with genial Jan Garber as chef in charge, will be aired from 11:30 to 12:30 o'clock tomorrow night over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

An audience participation show for both café guests and radio listeners, the "Musical Cook Book" promises to take its place with other broadcast features inaugurated at the Blackhawk—the Midnight Flyers, Kay Kyser's College of Musical Knowledge, and Bob Crosby's Candid Camera club.

Besides a good time, as they try to match rhythm with recipes, Blackhawk guests will have a chance to win cash prizes as they play "Musical Cook Book." Jess Kirkpatrick will be master of ceremonies.

ANNA MAY WONG, FAY WRAY TO BE HEARD TONIGHT

Anna May Wong, Chinese-American actress, and Fay Wray, star of stage and screen, will be guests of Don Ameche at 7 p. m. over WMAQ-NBC. Miss Wray will co-star with Ameche in a dramatic sketch, and Miss Wong will be heard with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy.

Nelson Eddy's solos will be Moussourgsky's "Child's Evening Prayer"; Gershwin's "Song of the Flame"; "The Lord Chancellor's Nightmare," from the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Iolanthe," and the spiritual, "Deep River"

ELSON, DIZ DEAN TEAM FOR SHOW AT LOOP THEATER

Baseball fans and theater-goers will get some inside slants on the colorful and stormy career of Dizzy Dean when the Cub pitcher appears at the Palace theater for a week's show with Bob Elson, W-G-N baseball commentator, beginning Nov. 25. Elson, who has broadcast big league games and world series for W-G-N for ten years, and the Great Diz have worked up a show covering baseball. The interview is expected to reveal hitherto unknown facts concerning the life of Dean.

John Frederick Author of 'Until the Gun.'

A drama of the gridiron, "Until the Gun," will be presented on "Curtain Time" over W-G-N and the Mutual system, from 9:00 to 9:30 p. m. Friday. The play, to be broadcast from the audience studio, was written by John Frederick, and will be directed by Blair Walliser.

"Until the Gun" tells the story of a two-fold battle in which Ted Kindred, played by Dan Sutter, fights to win a football game, while his father is fighting for his life on the sick bed. Vivian Fridell will play the part of Ted's sweetheart, who tries to persuate him to forego the game to visit his father.

A happy group of young people from the Wheeling Steel family, the Croatian Tambouritza Orchestra, will be presented on the "Musical Steelmakers" special Thanksgiving program over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 4:00 to 4:30 p. m. today. The tambouritza is the national instrument of Croatia. Listeners will hear the group play the native march, "Buducnost."

"Kaffee Klatsch," W-G-N's new afternoon show, aired from 2:15 to 2:30 p. m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, is now conducted by Harold Isbel, who has replaced Eddie Cavanaugh.

Isbel, who has appeared on many popular radio interviews and man-on-the-street shows, meets with gatherings of women's clubs and church groups in a special radio studio built in the offices of the sponsor of Kaffee Klatsch Time.

People's Rally to Repeat Question on Presidency

The question "Do you favor a constitutional amendment limiting the presidency of the United States to two terms of office?" will be repeated on the W-G-N-Mutual network's series The People's Rally from 2:30 to 3 p. m. today. Because this is one of the most controversial and vital questions ever placed before a radio audience, the producers of this series believe that it would only be fair to hold a forum on it for two consecutive weeks.

TURKEY THEME TO DOMINATE STOKES' SHOW

Melodies from the Sky, under Harold Stokes' direction, will provide a Thanksgiving prelude from 9:30 to 10:15 Wednesday evening over W-G-N and the Mutual network, with music dedicated to the glories of autumn and the turkey.

Edna O'Dell, Gunther Decker, and the W-G-N chorus will be featured in the vocal portion of the program.

Miss O'Dell will sing "Thanks a Million" and will join the chorus and orchestra in "Shine on, Harvest Moon" and "When the Leaves Bid the Trees Good-Bye."

Gunther Decker will join the chorus for another autumnal air "Sing a Song of Harvest." The chorus will sing "Thanksgiving," "Down to Uncle Bill's," and "Bubbling Over."

ANTI-CLIMAX? PROBABLY -- CERTAINLY IT WAS A TERRIBLE DISAPPOINTMENT TO THE MORBID ONES WHEN DEAR MR. GUDGE WAS NOT DISCOVERED RECLINING AT THE BOTTOM OF THE OLD WELL - ONLY A SEALED METAL CAN FULL OF PAPERS WAS FOUND THERE --- BUT WHAT PAPERS!
HERE IT IS, PRINTED IN FULL IN THE PAPER - "I, URIAH GUDGE, OF MY OWN FREE WILL, CONFESS THAT I PLANNED AND DIRECTED THE MURDER OF CAPTAIN CALEB ALDEN ---"
IT'S ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE - NOT TO ME -
NO - I NEVER TRUSTED THAT MAN -
HE GOES ON TO CONFESS HOW HE THEN GOT HOLD OF NEARLY ALL OF CAPTAIN ALDEN'S PROPERTY --- HE EVEN TELLS HOW HE HAD HIS MEN KILL THREE OF JACK'S TRUCK DRIVERS - TCH! TCH! TCH! WHAT A BEAST!
TO THINK THAT HE GOT AWAY -
BUT WHY DID HE WRITE THAT CONFESSION?
IT'S ALL VERY ODD -
HIS CONSCIENCE FORCED HIM TO DO SO, I'M SURE - I ALWAYS SAY CONSCIENCE WILL PUNISH THE WICKED -
HM-M - I WONDER - HOW TRUE -
DEAR ABIGAIL ALDEN -
OH, I FEEL SO HAPPY FOR HER -
WHY, ABIGAIL OWNS HALF THIS TOWN NOW -
MY! MY! ALL THAT PROPERTY DEEDED TO HER — EVERYTHING MR. GUDGE HAD IN THIS WORLD -
SHE MUST HAVE BEEN SO LONELY -
WE MUST SEE THAT SHE GETS OUT MORE -
OH, WE MUST GO AND SEE HER -
WE WILL CALL AT ONCE -
WEALTH CAN NOT HEAL A LONELY HEART -
OH, HOW RIGHT YOU ARE --- I'LL LET HER HEAD MY NEW CHARITY -
JUSTICE AT LAST, AFTER THIRTY YEARS -- I DREAMED AGAIN LAST NIGHT OF MY CALEB - HE SEEMED SO GAY AND HAPPY - THAT SLY TWINKLE, AS IF HE KNEW A SECRET JOKE -
SHANGHAI - I WONDER WHERE HE IS - OH, IF ONLY HE COULD HAVE WAITED TO KNOW HOW THINGS HAVE WORKED OUT -
HM-M - I DUNNO FOR SURE, OF COURSE, BUT OLD SHANGHAI WAS PRETTY SMART - MAYBE WHAT'S HAPPENED WOULDN'T S'PRISE HIM SO MUCH -
TO THINK HOW PEOPLE ACCUSED SHANGHAI! BUT WHAT COULD HAVE BECOME OF URIAH GUDGE? CONSCIENCE? HM-M -- IT COULD EXPLAIN THAT CONFESSION -- EVEN HIS GIVING BACK ALL THE PROPERTY HE STOLE, I SUPPOSE ---
SURE - HIS CONSCIENCE GOT HIM -
BUT KNOWING HIM, I FIND IT HARD TO CREDIT IT TO HIS CONSCIENCE ALONE - I TRY TO BE A GOOD WOMAN --- BUT I HATE TO THINK OF URIAH GUDGE GOING HIS WAY, UNPUNISHED -
WELL, HE LOST ALL HIS DOUGH - THAT'D BE PRETTY HARD ON A GUY LIKE GUDGE -
NO! I'M VINDICTIVE, I KNOW --- BUT URIAH GUDGE DESERVED A FAR WORSE FATE THAN THAT, FOR ALL THE BEASTLY SINS HE COMMITTED -
WHAT WAS IT JUDGE SILAS BUTTON SAID? -- HE'D PREFER TO LET HIS MIND DWELL ON TH' HAPPY CULMINATION - I'M FOR THAT, TOO -
HAROLD GRAY 11-20-38
OH, LOOKIE! COMPANY - NEIGHBORS COMIN' TO SEE YOU -
YES - NEIGHBORS - SOME THAT I'VE SEEN ONLY AT A DISTANCE FOR YEARS - OH, WELL, POOR SOULS, FEW LOVE A PAUPER --- GET THE TEA THINGS, ANNIE --- I'LL GO TO THE DOOR -

HM-M -- YOU MUST BE GOOD --- I'LL TRY ONE OF YOUR DOUGHNUTS - SO YOU WERE IN TH' WAR, EH?
YES - I WAS WOUNDED THREE TIMES -

★ RECONCILIATION
MARY, I SAVED THE WISHBONE. LET'S MAKE A WISH
OH, HORACE ...DARLING
★ ★ NEXT DAY ★ ★
AUNT JENNY, TELL ME HOW YOU MADE THAT MARVELOUS PIE. HORACE LOVED IT... AN' WHEN WE'RE MARRIED...
YOU DO ALL YOUR BAKIN' AND FRYIN' THE Spry WAY, MARY! THERE'S NOTHIN' LIKE GOOD Spry COOKING FOR KEEPING A HUSBAND HAPPY

Try Aunt Jenny's TWO NEW THANKSGIVING RECIPES—delicious and EASY made the Spry way

TURKEY CROQUETTES

Crisp, golden, deliciously seasoned

4 tablespoons Spry
5 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 cup milk or turkey gravy
2 cups cooked turkey, finely chopped
1 tablespoon pimiento, chopped
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped
1 teaspoon onion, minced
½ cup sifted bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten with 1 tablespoon water

Melt Spry in top of double boiler. Add flour, salt, pepper and paprika and blend. Add milk and cook over hot water until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add turkey, pimiento, parsley and onion and blend well.

Spread mixture in shallow pan and chill until stiff. Cut into rounds with 2½-inch biscuit cutter. (So much easier than shaping by hand.) Roll in crumbs, then in beaten egg, then again in crumbs. Fry in deep hot Spry (375° F.) until brown. (See what a crispy, delicate crust pure, ALL-vegetable Spry gives!) Drain on absorbent paper. Serves 6.

(All measurements in this recipe are level)

A NEW Thanksgiving pie—and what a pie! Pretty as a picture with a tangy, tart flavor that makes it just the thing to top off a hearty dinner. And oh, that tender, flaky Spry crust! There won't be a crumb left on anyone's plate.

Use up your left-over turkey the way Aunt Jenny suggests—in crispy, delicate croquettes, seasoned to the king's taste, fried to golden-brown deliciousness the Spry way. So digestible, too, a child can eat them. Save these recipes, try them both and a Spry cake, too. See how light and velvety, how quickly and easily it's mixed. Cooking experts for 281 home-making schools say, "Spry's so marvelously creamy it mixes like magic!" Try Spry.

In 6-lb., 3-lb., 1-lb. cans

Spry

The new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening

TRIPLE-CREAMED!

LACY TOP CRANBERRY-APPLE PIE

2½ cups cranberries, chopped
1½ cups apples, chopped
1½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
3 tablespoons water
1 recipe Spry Pie Crust

Combine cranberries, apples, sugar, tapioca and water. Let stand while rolling pastry.

Roll ½ of dough and line a 9-inch pie plate. Roll remaining half of dough and cut in narrow strips about ⅜-inch wide. Fill pie shell with fruit mixture. Place pastry strips on top, crisscrossing them to make an attractive lacy top. Moisten edge of pie, place strip of dough around rim, and press together with fork. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 30 to 40 minutes.

SPRY PIE CRUST

2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup Spry
5 tablespoons water (about)

Sift flour and salt together. Add ½ of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as meal. Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of navy bean. (Notice how creamy and easy to blend Spry is!) Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed.

HUMM - THE WATER RUNS INTO THE BOWL ALL RIGHT.
CERTAINLY, SILLY. THE TROUBLE IS IT WON'T RUN OUT.
HUMM - IN THAT CASE I SHOULD SAY THAT THE DRAIN PIPE IS STOPPED UP - AND ANYONE WITH A BRAIN AND A MONKEY WRENCH SHOULD KNOW TO TAKE THIS OFF AND UNSTOP IT.
NOW, MY DEAR, IF YOU WILL KINDLY HOLD THIS FOR ME. THAT'S IT - FIRMLY.

WELL, TURN AROUND AND TAKE A LOOK AT MAMIE AND HAVE A GOOD LAUGH FOR YOURSELF.

UNCLE DAN
THERE WAS REAL FIREWORKS WHEN THE SCHOOL BOARD MET!
THE NERVE OF THAT TEACHER! TELLING ME TO KEEP MY TOMMY AWAY FROM KINDERGARTEN! SHE WON'T LOOK SO SMART WHEN I GET HER UP BEFORE THE SCHOOL BOARD TODAY!
SCHOOL BOARD MEETS TODAY
BUT, GENTLEMEN, IT WAS MY DUTY TO HAVE TOMMY KEPT AT HOME! A CHILD THAT HAS COLDS ALL THE TIME JUST CAN'T BE ALLOWED NEAR OTHER CHILDREN!
NONSENSE! OLD SUSIE SMITHERS NEVER TALKED LIKE THAT WHEN SHE WAS TEACHING!
THIS IS THE KIND OF DISPUTE THAT'S MORE OFTEN RILED UP THAN SETTLED BY A SO-CALLED DECISION. WE'D BEST ADJOURN TILL I HAVE A TRY AT SMOOTHING THE TROUBLED WATERS.
I DON'T SUPPOSE BEING UPSET ABOUT TOMMY COULD HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH HOW MAD YOU GOT AT THAT NEW TEACHER?
OH, UNCLE DAN! I HAVE BEEN WORRIED ABOUT TOMMY'S COLDS. BUT THAT'S NO REASON FOR SOME UPPITY SCHOOL TEACHER....
TOWN HALL
WELL, NOW, LET'S TACKLE TOMMY'S PROBLEM FIRST. HAVE YOU BEEN DOING WHAT DOCTORS ADVISE TO HELP BUILD RESISTANCE AGAINST COLDS? GIVING HIM COD LIVER OIL....IF HIS DIET IS DEFICIENT IN VITAMINS A AND D?
I TRIED IT...BUT IT SEEMED TO UPSET HIS DIGESTION.
THEN YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT THE FORM OF COD LIVER OIL THAT'S MORE EASILY DIGESTED?
WHAT KIND IS THAT?
SCOTT'S EMULSION! SELECTED COD LIVER OIL EMULSIFIED! LABORATORY TESTS SHOW IT'S MORE THAN FOUR TIMES EASIER TO DIGEST THAN PLAIN COD LIVER OIL... AND IT'S PLEASANT-TASTING TO BOOT!
SOUNDS GRAND!.. I'LL GET SOME FOR TOMMY TOMORROW!
HMMMM. THE SCHOOL BOARD'S STILL WAITING TO SETTLE THAT BIG DISAGREEMENT YOU TWO HAD!
GRACIOUS! SCOTT'S EMULSION SETTLED THAT! TOMMY MUST HAVE BEEN LOW IN VITAMINS A AND D BECAUSE SINCE TAKING SCOTT'S EMULSION TOMMY HASN'T HAD A COLD FOR AGES!
EVERYONE OUGHT TO KNOW THAT SCOTT'S EMULSION IS FOUR TIMES EASIER TO DIGEST THAN PLAIN COD LIVER OIL. PLEASANT-TASTING, TOO!
GROWN-UP OR YOUNGSTER! IF YOU'RE SHY OF COD LIVER OIL VITAMINS A AND D, SCOTT'S EMULSION WILL HELP YOU BUILD RESISTANCE AGAINST COLDS!

By CHESTER GOULD
NEVERTHELESS, MARRO, I BELIEVE OUR ONLY POSSIBILITY OF ESCAPE FROM THE POLICE IS TO LOSE OURSELVES IN WORKADAY LIFE. I'M GOING TO GET A JOB.
BUT WHAT CAN YOU DO?
IN THE OLD COUNTRY I WAS A BAKER AND I HAVEN'T FORGOTTEN MY TRADE! I'M GOING TO GET A JOB BAKING TILL THE TRAIL HAS GROWN COLD – THEN WE'LL LEAVE THE COUNTRY.
BUT MRS. TRUEHEART, CAN'T YOU GO TO THE HOSPITAL WITH MISS TESS AND ME TO SEE TRACY?
I'D LOVE TO, JUNIOR, BUT I'M SHORT HANDED HERE IN THE STORE. YOU KNOW MY BAKER QUIT DAY BEFORE YESTERDAY, AND I RAN AN AD IN THE PAPER FOR A NEW ONE.
MOTHER'S EXPECTING SEVERAL APPLICANTS TO CALL THIS AFTERNOON, AND SHE WANTS TO BE HERE TO INTERVIEW THEM.
OH, I SEE.
BUT, DOC, THIS IS A TERRIBLE SHOCK. WE UNDERSTOOD THE INJURY TO HIS EYES WAS OF MINOR IMPORTANCE AND THAT HE WOULD SOON BE ALL RIGHT.
HIS EYE INJURY IS THE LEAST OF OUR WORRIES! THAT POISON GAS CAUSED DAMAGE THAT GOES MUCH DEEPER THAN THAT.
WHAT DO YOU MEAN?
SH..SH!
HOW IS HE? WHAT'S THAT INTERNE DOING?
ER – HE'S JUST USING A LITTLE OXYGEN – SORT OF CLEARING HIS BREATHING.
GAD, CHIEF, IT'S BAD! DOC TOLD ME THE POISON GAS WAS CAUSING A SLOW PARTIAL PARALYSIS OF THE LUNGS.
WHAT?
LEAVE IT HERE FOR THE TIME BEING – UNTIL EVERYTHING'S READY.
GEE, WHAT DO YOU CALL THAT, MISTER?
OH, THAT? THAT'S AN IRON LUNG!

STREAKY
by
LOY BYRNES
STREAKY HAS ESCAPED FROM TWO OF JIM JOLLY'S GANG AND IS ON HIS WAY TO GIVE TESTIMONY AT THE SWINDLERS' TRIAL—TO PROVE HIS OWN INNOCENCE IN THE MIDVILLE GOLD MINE CASE, AND SEND MR. JOLLY UP THE RIVER FOR A LONG, LONG STRETCH
WHERE'S THAT SWINDLERS' TRIAL GOING ON?
THAT'S UPSTAIRS IN CRIMINAL TERM, PART FIVE
GOSH, HERE IT IS—IF ONLY I'M NOT TOO LATE
HEY—WAIT A MINUTE, YOU—THERE'S NO MORE ROOM INSIDE
THE CRIMINAL COURTS PRESS-ROOM, WHILE THE TRIAL OF JIM JOLLY, THE SWINDLER, IS IN PROGRESS
...IT BEGINS TO LOOK, AS THE TRIAL GOES INTO THE FOURTH DAY, THAT UNLESS THE PROSECUTION CAN PRODUCE STREAKY, THEIR MISSING WITNESS, THE CASE AGAINST JIM JOLLY WILL COLLAPSE, AND...
GIVE ME RE-WRITE
..THE DEFENSE CONTENDS THAT IT WAS STREAKY WHO ACTUALLY SOLD STOCK IN THE PHONEY MIDVILLE GOLD MINE...
BUT I'M STREAKY, I TELL YOU—I'M WANTED IN THERE. MY TESTIMONY—
AND YOU'RE THE FIFTH OR SIXTH "STREAKY" THAT TRIED TO GET IN HERE TODAY—NOW YOU SCRAM, YOUNG FELLER, BEFORE I HAVE YA' THROWN OUT—NOW GIT!!
YOU, GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY, HAVE HEARD THE EVIDENCE. IF THERE EXISTS IN YOUR MINDS A REASONABLE DOUBT AS TO THE PRISONER'S GUILT AS CHARGED—YOU MUST FIND HIM NOT GUILTY...
WAIT—STOP, I TELL YOU—I HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY...

I SIGNED A PAPER FER A FELLER ONE TIME—IT COST ME OVER A THOUSAND DOLLARS—
HA! HA! THIS WON'T COST YOU A DIME, UTAH—NOT A RED CENT—IT'S ONLY A PETITION—
OH—SO IT'S A PETITION, EH? A PETITION FER WHAT?
IT'S FOR A NEW ROAD TO RUN PAST HERE AND RIGHT INTO TOWN—
A ROAD, EH? AND IT WON'T COST ME A DIME? HOW YOU FIGGER THAT OUT, MISTER? ROADS GINNERALLY COST A HEAP—
OH, THE COST WILL BE PAID FROM TAXES—
WA-A-AL, MISTER—LIKE AS NOT IT AIN'T OCCURRED TO YOU, BUT WE HEREABOUTS PAYS THEM THERE TAXES, OR OUR SHARE OF 'EM—
ER—WELL—OF COURSE—BUT A COMMUNITY NEEDS ROADS—WA-A-AL, YES AND NO—SOME DOES AND SOME DON'T—I'M FER PROGRESS, AND WILLIN' TO TOTE MY SHARE O' TH' LOAD FER WHATEVER WE REALLY ORTER HAVE—
BUT, MY DEAR SIR—YOU MUST ADMIT THAT, IN THIS CASE, A GOOD ROAD IS ALMOST A NECESSITY—

IT'S AS EASY AS A-B-C TO GET A REALLY GOOD CUP OF TEA

A. Always use bubbling boiling water and pour it on the TEA.

B. Use 1 teaspoonful per cup, plus one for the pot.

C. Steep to any strength you prefer. (Most people who use cream or milk choose a 5-minute brew.)

As BURNHAM'S Trained Others Now Making $50 a Week in Beauty Culture

—Burnham's Will Train You

There's money—BIG MONEY—in Beauty Culture if you're trained right and are started right. For instance, within a hundred yards of Burnham's there's a graduate whom we trained in 1936 who now earns over $50.00 a week regularly. And we can name you many others doing as well.

To Make the Most Money Out of Beauty Culture.

—You should get into a smart shop where the established operators frequently make $50.00 a week and up. Burnham's is in a position to help you. For months we have been unable to supply demand for our graduates. With such a large number of shops to choose from, we place our graduates in the choicer spots. That means more money from the start, greater prestige, faster progress.

Investigate the Exclusive Advantage Causing More Students to Enroll AT BURNHAM'S Than Any Other.

You owe it to your future to learn about the Burnham methods of training—the result of 67 years of knowing how to teach. Of how you're trained under ACTUAL BEAUTY SHOP CONDITIONS on living models under supervision of experts. Of how you not only become a skilled all around operator, but also an artistic Hair-Stylist. Of how you're drilled in the psychology of pleasing, selling customers. The reputation of our graduates for always being superbly trained and always profitable for the shop is why Burnham trained operators are in such demand, why we can place our graduates to such splendid advantage.

Only $5 Enrolls You
Complete Beauty Outfit Given if You Act Now.

Every future student who mails coupon below or who phones or visits school is eligible for splendid beauty kit without extra cost. Don't let lack of money hold you back. If you are in earnest, you can practically write your own terms. Mail coupon below, phone, or visit the school any weekday or any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday evening. Night and day classes.

"I'll Admit I'm a Crank!"

"Jim thinks I'm fussy, but my home means everything to me. I want it decorated and furnished according to my ideas. That's just what they've done for me in our lovely suite at the Seneca. It's the ideal permanent residence—has everything, even G. E. electric kitchen. We live luxuriously at moderate rental—only 5 minutes from Jim's office. Take my advice, if you are particular, and come to the Seneca. Lee Perry, the managing director, will show you just the home you're looking for."

If You Are Unable to Pull Up a Chair to Your Mother's Thanksgiving Table.

If you are to be in Chicago for a week or a month or more and for that reason cannot return home for Thanksgiving, do the next best thing.

Take a completely furnished kitchenette apartment at the Bryn Mawr or the Coronado and prepare your own turkey dinner.

Only last week one of the largest organizations of its kind in the world recommended that its auditors and their wives use the Bryn Mawr and the Coronado whenever business brought them to Chicago for a week, a month or more.

Obviously there were many reasons why these two were selected from the hundreds of apartment hotels in Chicago. If you are in Minnesota, North Dakota, Kansas, Ohio, Michigan, or any other state, and plan to come to Chicago in the near future, write for our booklet and rates.

Three kinds of fast transportation almost at your door—bus, L, street car.

We also rent on short term lease basis—6 months and one year.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Bluejays Avoid Traps.

November 19, 1938.

TWO more juncos this week found their way into the song bird traps on the Tribune's Du Page county farm. The birds were banded and then released. The friendly juncos, regular winter visitors to Chicagoland, found the food mixture of cracked corn and wheat, and sunflower seeds around the small wire cages, followed this food line and eventually were trapped.

When we went to the spot where the traps are located we found not only the juncos, but a pair of bluejays that were enjoying the free food around the wire enclosures. These birds were pretty smart. They were picking up all the grain just outside the traps, but they wouldn't walk inside.

Next time we bait the traps we're going to distribute the food mixture less generously so the hungry bluejays will have to go into one of the traps if they really want a full meal. In as much as these birds do not migrate it's quite likely one or more of them will be caught in a trap now that they know where to come for grain.

This week we stayed on the farm one afternoon until sundown in the hope that we could hear a screech owl. These cute little owls sometimes start their calling around sundown. [Last week we heard one near a Lake county pheasant marsh around 4:30 in the afternoon.]

In spite of the fact that we didn't hear the screech owl's tremulous call on the experimental farm, we are certain that there are several pair in the woods. Although not as interesting in habit as the little burrowing owl found in the west and also in Florida, nor as attractive as the short eared or marsh owl which lives in grassy lowlands in Chicagoland, the screech owl is an intriguing little bird that helps the farmer by catching many field mice in the winter.

Get Ready for Thanksgiving.

With only a few days left until Thanksgiving, the farm women are busy planning their menus for the big dinner. One of the women told us she was planning on having either a turkey or a goose stuffed with a well spiced sausage dressing. In addition to a roast bird the farm menu calls for mashed potatoes and brown gravy, cranberry sauce, vegetable salad, and pickled beets from the basement shelves.

For dessert there'll be a steamed pudding made with mincemeat and suet, with caramel sauce for added flavor.

To see the farm at this season of the year is to realize that autumn with all its former color, wild fruits, and migrating birds already has passed and that winter now is king as far as the landscape and wild life in the woods are concerned.

Winter Is at Hand.

Most of the trees and shrubs are bare of leaves . . . masses of dead brown weed stalks stand in the fence corners and close to the ponds . . . turkeys in the barnyard show a marked preference for the sunny spots . . . a little ice is visible around the edges of the ponds . . . not a bird voice in the woods or fields with the exception of an occasional bluejay complaining about things in general . . . rabbits occupy their snug grassy seats in the open where they can get the warmth of the waning sun on their backs . . . and winds rustle through the leaves in the woods. These and other seasonal indicators tell the hiker that the country is not only ready for the first wintry blast but as far as color and vegetation are concerned winter really is already at hand.

Willows Won't Yield.

A few willows around the ponds this week were refusing to give up their leaves and their color and thus stood out in marked contrast to the dead flower stalks, the oaks, cherry trees, and other vegetation near them. When we walked around the big pond on the farm these willows immediately caught our eye, for some of them still have many yellow leaves on their branches.

It's a soft, faded yellow, subdued when compared to the vivid tints that were on the sumacs, oaks, and wild cherry trees a few weeks ago, but now bright and attractive against the dead lifeless browns of the woods and fields.

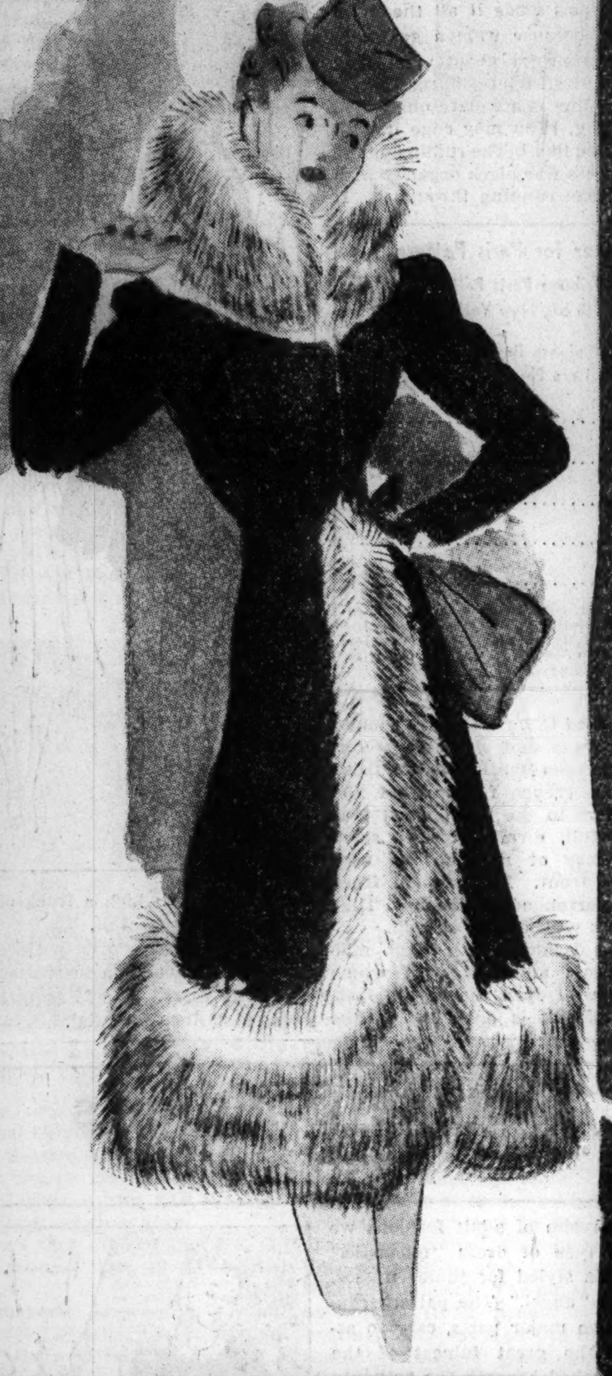
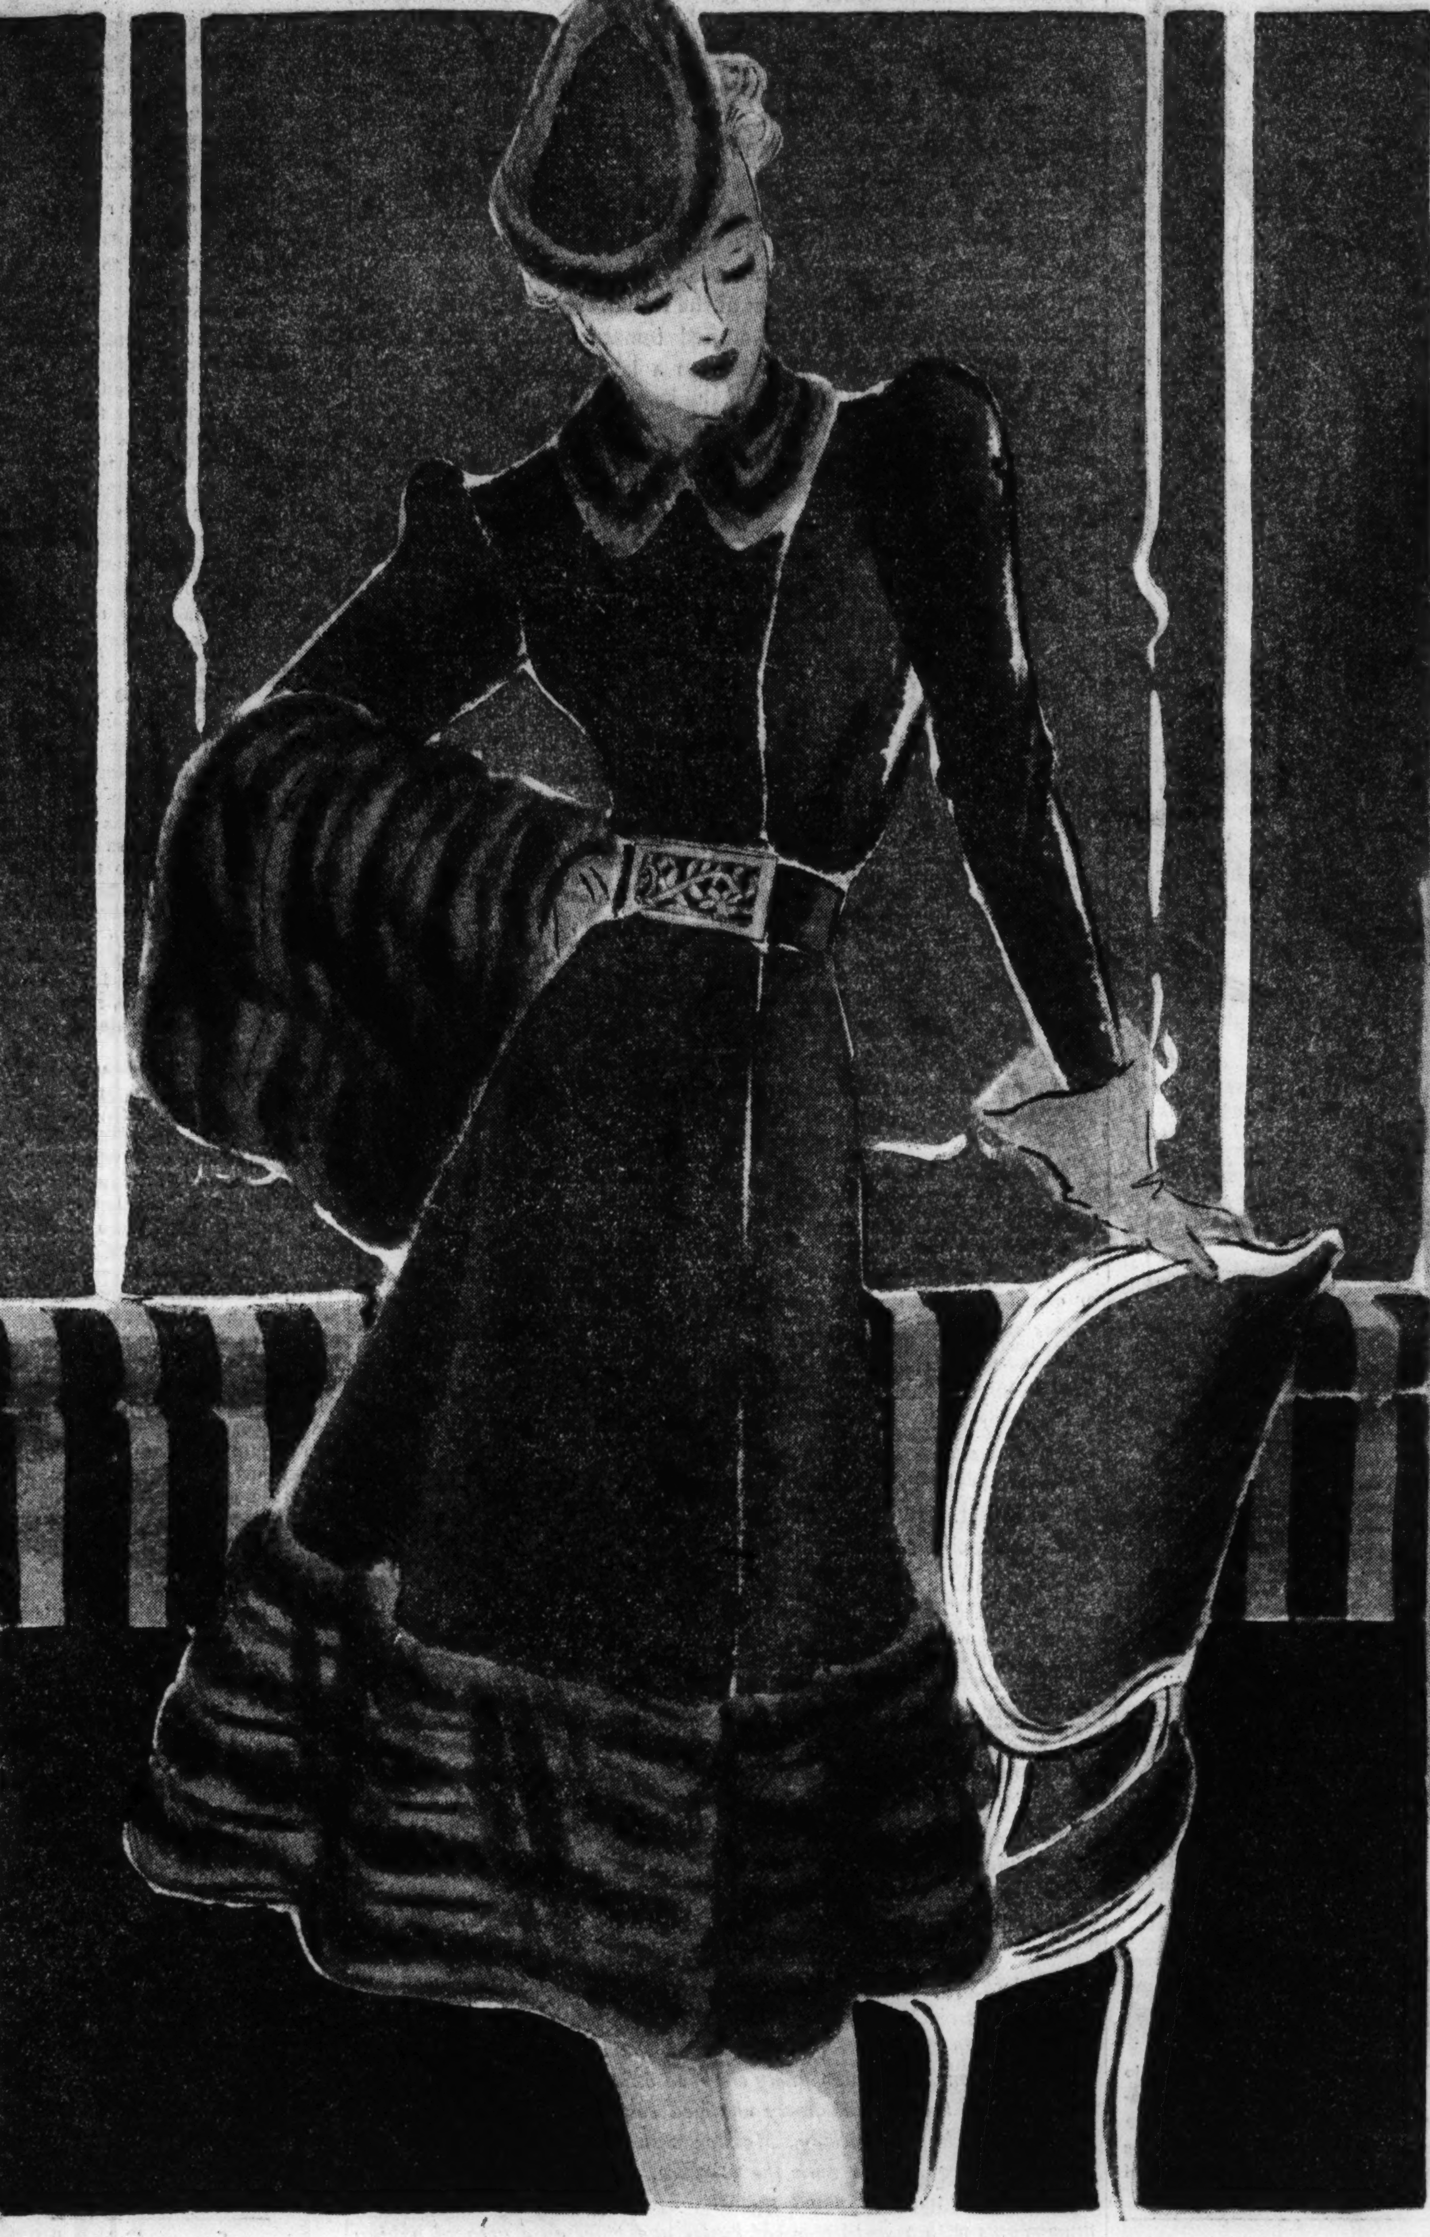
NOVEMBER 20 1938.

Below: Sensationally dramatic, this coat uses natural toned lynx for accent. Nipped-in waist accentuates flare of the skirt. Bands and collar are of fur.





Below: Another heart breaker, this time of dull fabric lavishly contrasted with frosted silver fox, which forms bands down the front and accents the pockets. A velvet ascot is muffled in at the neckline and may be alternated.

Above: Nothing equals the swank of an all-black coat. You wear it with color, with daytime or dress-parade frocks, and with special chic with velvet costumes. Complete with muff and hat, this winter all-purpose outfit is ready for the most gala occasions. A tiny stand-up collar and deep bands of the fur comprise the luxury trim of this particular find. Another coat designed for velvet or brocade dresses, as well as high-colored wools for street or daytime wear. All-purpose coats go fast. They're styled by understanding American designers for the life of the average shopper. They boast plenty of good detail and faultless workmanship. A winter coat this season is distinguished by flexibility. Fabrics are soft without losing any heating units, warm wind-breakers without stiff bulk.

Fur-Trimmed Winter Coats Combine Warmth for Cold Days with Smooth Streamlining

By RHEA SEEGER

A PERFECT winter coat isn't so difficult to find—that is, if you shop early while the collections are complete. The entire month of November is turned over to the serious business of getting fashion-wise shoppers equipped with winter coats that are not only cozily warm for the coldest day but miracles of smooth streamlining. And while black coats still take most of the shopping money, there is any number of other color schemes available if you just do not "see" black.

All-purpose coats go fast. They're styled by understanding American designers for the life of the average shopper. They're slim, and they fit with distinction, boasting plenty of good detail and faultless workmanship. A winter coat this season is distinguished by flexibility. Fabrics are soft without losing any heating units, warm wind-breakers without stiff bulk.

Straight-line models are as plentiful. So are nipped-in-at-the-waist numbers. Skirts are flared with discretion. Nothing is overaccented except fine craftsmanship and superlatively good fabrics and fur. Prices are featured during November, so the moderately priced beauties are just as high fashion, just as distinctive as the luxuriously fur-festooned models.

Black holds top position in the shopping records. An all-black coat still is the handsomest as well as the most practical selection for any amount of money. However, the black coats trimmed with brown fur are running the all-blacks a good race. In two short seasons brown-fur-trimmed black winter coats have staged a fashion interest seldom duplicated. Those brown-accented models go with everything.

Black coats trimmed with contrasting light furs, such as beige fox and blue or silver fox, are outstandingly beautiful, besides being incomparably flattering to all. Youthful streamlines mark all the present showings. When the skirts are flared the flare is under good control. Exaggeration no longer is either smart or available. Much new interest is noticeable in the clever fur trim on tops of coats. Bibs, tuxedo collars that end at the waistline, bands, appliquéd shaped effects of the fur, and similar treatment make the newest models and give them that expertly designed effect usually found on the former luxury type coats.

Very young-looking coats have small boyish collars of fur, sometimes unusual fur buttons, and small fur cuffs. Reefer coats with lapels of fur are also high fashion as well as young-appearing. Straight-line coats are grand buys for all-purpose wear, for these are the coats that slide over suits, dresses, and other costumes of all fabrics with the greatest of ease and swank. Sleeves are well designed, with the greatest degree of comfort, warmth, and ease of sliding over dress sleeves, no matter how complicated of cut and design. Linings are for the greater part of good slippery satins and silks in harmonizing colors.

Belted coats provide a way of alternating colors. Metal belts, suede belts in one or more colors, even the belt buckles can be changed. With the fur-trimmed coats offered during November, all tagged with especially interesting prices, is a large and exciting showing of unusual muffs, hats, and sometimes gloves. The same fur of the coat of your choice can be matched as a trim for your hats. Silver fox, cross fox, blue fox, and all the flatter furs promise a wide selection. Muffs are obtainable in all sizes from tiny little rolls to huge cartwheels or pillow muffs. Pompons or cuffs are used for fur accents on the gloves.

Sleeves fashioned of fur make some of the most dramatic new winter finds, with the frosty silver fox used for the most spectacular successes. Mink sleeves or half sleeves, gleaming satiny black caracul, and spicy brown kolinsky make others. Sheared beaver is another brown fur that has been used with some exceptionally stunning results with dull black wool. Beaver-trimmed hats and beaver muffs combine to complete a most unusual ensemble. Long panels of fur do much toward achieving a desired slenderness, down the front of the coat especially. Unlimited variety is the big fashion news of the fur-trimmed winter coats this season, together with special prices featured during the November sales.

Sketched from one outstandingly smart and high-fashion coat collection are the models on this page. All are designed for warmth and flattering fashion, stressing slim streamlines, unusual fur trim, and fine quality of fabric, fur, and workmanship Others less furred, but just as high fashion, are included among the moderately priced assortments. All are unquestionably the finds of the month.

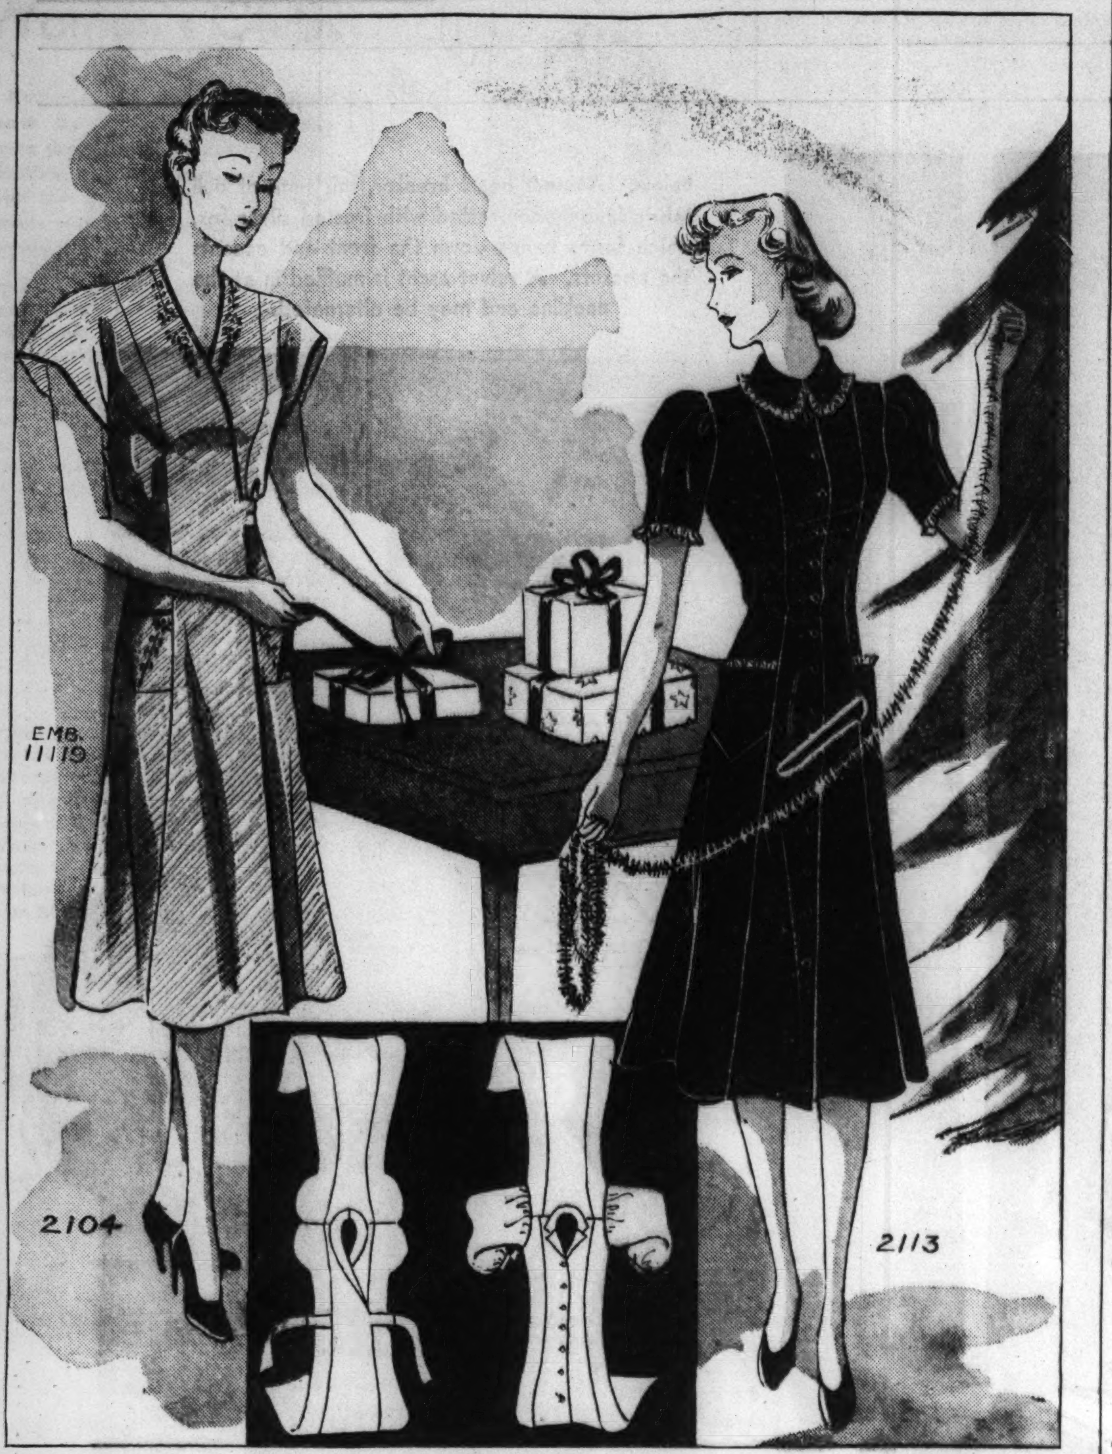
Patterns by Clotilde



By Clotilde.

We strike the purely domestic note in our pattern offerings today. Both designs feature models for wear at home, and both are youthfully smart. Brides as well as veteran homemakers will appreciate the comfort and chic provided by these patterns.

The wrap around style, No. 2104, may be worn over other dresses as well as by itself. It has a simple V neckline, kimono sleeves, and two large pockets, all of which may be trimmed as suits your fancy. Binding, rickrack braid, and lace all are possibilities, and embroidery is a note that is strictly high fashion this season. Pattern No. E-11119, available for 10 cents extra, is a particularly graceful design. Plain colors make up equally as well as prints in this model.

The other home dress is a princess style with buttons all the way down the front. The collar is a pert Peter Pan model, and the short sleeves are puffed at the shoulders. Two pockets, large ones, offer beauty as well as service on the side panels. Figured materials, especially in dark shades, are particularly suited to this pattern, which may double as a street dress if you so wish. Trim it with ruching, ruffling, or lace.

Be sure to bear in mind that dresses such as these make super Christmas gifts, and there is plenty of time still to create them for your intimates.

A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

By Sally Joy Brown.

We always have numerous pathetic appeals for radios, but as winter closes in they become more numerous. Invalids and aged persons, who will be completely confined to the house during the severe weather, dread the long dreary days of confinement and eagerly seek amusement, news and education through the medium of radio. If readers can understand how many hundreds of people are living in lonely little rooms, without friends or resources, many of them ill, some blind, others crippled, with no prospect of any release from the weary drabness of four walls and their own thoughts, I feel sure they will be happy to help provide one small instrument which will bring much happiness.

We should like to make it clear, however, that we cannot make use of radios which are in need of parts or are otherwise incomplete or out of working order. This department has no funds for repairs, and the needy people who come to us are entirely unable to afford even the smallest sums for such purposes. The age of the radio is of no importance, of course, as long as it is usable.

● ● ●

Following are a few of the appeals which have come to us recently. If you're getting a new model, won't you select one of these individuals and let him enjoy your discarded radio?

The following letter speaks for itself:

"Dear Miss Brown: I am a patient in a tuberculosis ward at the C. hospital and have been chosen by the patients of this ward to write for your help. We would like so much to have a radio. There are 24 of us here and we have no way of getting football games or any other of the many programs we would all enjoy. Some of the patients have been here for as long as two years and have never been able to enjoy any of the fine radio shows available. Most of the other wards in the hospital have radios and if we are lucky enough to obtain one, it would remain in the ward indefinitly, for all patients to enjoy.—M. G."

This hospital, which is for charity cases, is a dreary place at best, and if an instrument can be obtained it will open a new world for these invalids. D. C. current is necessary. Naturally, none of the patients is able to call, so any offer will have to be delivered.

Mrs. M. lives on the near north side. Her husband is working but his salary is very meager. She writes:

"I have been ill for the past three months and confined to bed. I am alone from the time my husband leaves in the morning until his return at night, and I wonder if you will please help me find a radio. I am so lonesome, lying flat on my back all day, unable to be out, and I do long to hear the nice stories and music on the daytime programs. We find it impossible to keep up with our regular bills for food, rent, etc., and can't possibly afford a radio. I am sure that you can understand how tiresome it is to lie all day looking at four walls and a ceiling, and I do hope you will help me."

This woman's youth makes it even more difficult for her to reconcile herself to invalidism. She lives in a direct current district.

● ● ●

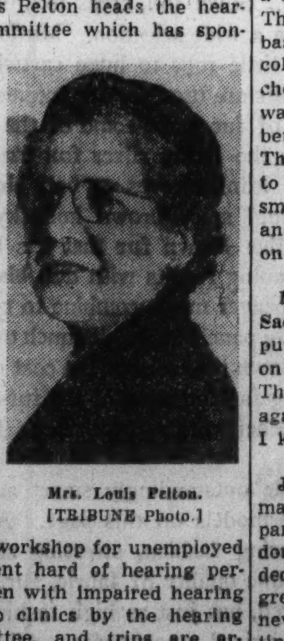
Another reader is anxious to obtain a radio equipped with ear phones for an elderly woman living in an old people's home. She is unable to use an ordinary radio, and enjoys listening to religious programs. Miss T. will be happy to call for anything offered.

Woman's Aid Is to Demonstrate Project for Deaf

How 47,000 Chicago school children have been tested for defective hearing since last May will be demonstrated for members of the Chicago Woman's Aid at 2 o'clock Friday at the clubrooms, 185 North Wabash avenue.

A "whisper" test has been given the children to determine hearing defects, and the exact amount of hearing has been measured by an audiometer. The project will be explained by Miss Marie Mattocks, principal of the Bell school; Miss Katherine Barrett, child psychologist; and Mrs. Elenor Marvel, and the tests will be demonstrated.

It was largely at the instance of the Chicago Woman's Aid that this work was undertaken in order to help children who otherwise would have been considered backward by their teachers and parents.



Mrs. Louis Pelton.

Mrs. Louis Pelton heads the hearing aids committee which has sponsored this project. Installation of group hearing devices in public schools and of hearing aids in theaters and places of worship has been furthered by the committee. The Chicago Woman's Aid has been partly responsible for opening the Victory workshop for unemployed and dependent hard of hearing persons. Children with impaired hearing are taken to clinics by the hearing aids committee, and trips are arranged for them. Whenever possible hearing devices have been distributed to the underprivileged deaf.

Recently I attended a well planned buffet supper in a small apartment, where normally only twelve at the most could be seated at the table, but at this party there were about forty guests present.

Everything went smoothly. The aperitifs were served in the large living room and when the dining room doors were opened I beheld a most gorgeous display of food. There must have been twenty or more different dishes to select from. Hot foods as well as cold. Then on a side table were a dozen or more different relishes.

There was a large baked ham, half of which was neatly carved. At the opposite end of the table was a good sized roasted turkey with a stuffing, also carved and ready for service. Several large platters contained sliced sausages of the Italian type. I counted several salads, included among them stuffed tomatoes and stuffed eggs. Home baked beans were served from a large bean pot and these made a big hit. Right alongside of the beans was a chafing dish containing piping hot miniature pork sausages. Another large chafing dish was filled with spaghetti. There was another hot food that was very popular—it was baked corned beef hash served right from the casserole. But I really think the pièce de résistance was the small meat balls served with creole sauce.

For dessert there were two large layer cakes and an assortment of small pastries. Several cheeses were served from a cheese board and they consisted of Roquefort, Swiss, Camembert and that popular Italian cheese—Bel Paese.

These many foods will give you an idea what to serve at a buffet supper. Space will not permit me to give you recipes for all the above mentioned foods, but what I have in mind is to sell you on the idea of this form of eating entertainment.

MEAT BALLS, CREOLE SAUCE.

1 pound chopped round steak
1 cup bread crums
2 tablespoons onion, finely minced
2 tablespoons parsley, finely minced
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 egg, well beaten

Put all ingredients together and mix thoroughly. Form into small balls about an inch and one-half in diameter. Dust lightly with flour and cook in frying pan until evenly browned. Use rendered beef suet for this purpose and use only enough to coat or grease the pan while the meat balls are browning. Then remove frying pan to oven and dot each meat ball with a bit of butter. Pour over hot creolé sauce and let stand in hot oven for ten or fifteen minutes. Serve.

CREOLE SAUCE.

2 cups canned tomatoes
1 medium sized onion, thinly sliced
1 green pepper, diced
½ cup mushrooms, thinly sliced
1 cup tomato soup, condensed
2 tablespoons minced cooked ham
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt
Pepper
1 tablespoon butter

Cover onion and green pepper with water and cook until tender, or about ten minutes. In the meanwhile saute the sliced fresh mushrooms in butter until soft. Then add the onions, green pepper, and mushrooms to canned tomatoes and cook together for ten minutes. Stir in thick tomato soup, add minced ham, Worcestershire, and salt and pepper to taste. Just as the sauce is removed from fire add the butter and stir until blended.

Here is the glorified version of corned beef hash that was served at the buffet. I am sure that it will become one of your favorites, too. The recipe serves six.

BAKED CORNED BEEF HASH.

4 cups ground corned beef
4 cups cold boiled potato
1 cup onion
1 cup water
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 bottle chili sauce

Put corned beef, potatoes and onion through food chopper. Mix thoroughly and moisten with cold water. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Pack in a well greased casserole or pan, having it about two inches high. Dot top with bits of butter and pour chili sauce over all. Bake in moderate oven about thirty minutes.

Now that mushrooms are plentiful we could have this treat once in a while. Quite delicious when served with roast meat or broiled steak. Good also on the buffet table but increase recipe to suit your needs.

MUSHROOM BOUCHEES.

Select the extra large mushrooms for this recipe. Wipe the caps with a damp cloth and remove the entire stem from eight large mushrooms. Chop the stems finely and cook them in two tablespoons of butter; add one tablespoon finely chopped onion, two tablespoons bread crums, three tablespoons finely chopped cooked chicekn and one teaspoon finely chopped parsley. Moisten with meat or chicken stock and fill the mushroom caps with the mixture. Cover top with fine bread crums mixed with an equal quantity of grated Swiss cheese. Dot mushrooms with a small piece of butter and place on a greased baking pan. Cook in moderate oven fifteen to twenty minutes.

CANNED CORN, SOUFFLE.

Make a cream sauce by melting two tablespoons of butter, blending in two tablespoons of flour and gradually adding one cup of rich milk. Bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly until smooth. Remove from fire and stir in one can of corn. Season with salt and white pepper and add one-quarter cup of minced pimiento. Stir in two egg yolks which have been slightly beaten; then fold in two egg whites stiffly beaten. Pour into a buttered oven casserole dish (glass or earthen) and bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes. Serve immediately.

It's a Help to Me, Says—

Mrs. George F. L., Chicago: Every November I manage to make my husband give me a day's time or so and go on an investigating tour through our house. We examine all the windows for cracks and calk any yawning space, no matter how small, between top sill and sub-sill. We take a windy day, and wherever we feel a rush of air coming in—we stop it. This saves me a lot of trips to the basement to force the furnace in cold and windy weather. We also check on all points between top of wall and underside of roof and joints between window frames and walls. This is one of the biggest "helps" to me I know, for my children are small, my husband works long hours, and most of the job of firing falls on me.

* *

Mrs. Betty O'Connell, 508 South Sacramento boulevard, Chicago: When putting on chiffon hose I always slip on an old pair of cotton gloves first. They are the best stocking-protector against catches from finger nails that I know of.

* *

Jessie T., Gary: When I was first married I was never able to fill muffin pans without getting some of the dough on the outside rim. Finally I decided to pour the batter into a well greased pitcher first, and now there's never a sign of any overflow on the tins.

* *

Mrs. Jane G. L., Milwaukee, Wis.: I keep a supply of alcohol on hand in winter and wipe my windows in freezing weather with a cloth damp with alcohol. I also use it for mirrors and windshields in winter, taking a wad of paper dampened with alcohol first, and rubbing surface to be cleaned. Then I follow this up with a dry cloth on which I've sprinkled a little scratchless cleaning powder. To polish at the last, I use a chamois skin if I have it, and if not, just crushed, soft paper.

* *

Mrs. J. H. Smith, Chicago: I learned some time ago that as a cleaner for lether upholstery, there's always the beaten white of eggs. This does the work.

* *

Hannah J., Chicago: I keep sashes, ribbons, etc., from getting all tangled up on my house dresses and children's dresses, by simply washing these garments inside out.

* *

Grace M., Chicago: I keep a supply of newly wornout socks and underwear and shirts all through the winter, and then when summer comes I send them along with the boys and girls on camping trips, and when they get soiled they can just be "thrown away." Saves on a big laundry for me when my family returns from the woods.

Slights Often Not Breach of Etiquet at All

May the hostess at a bridal shower suggest what gifts to bring? For the answer, read the booklet, "The Bridal Shower," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn and Tribune Tower Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

All these sensitive, self-conscious persons! There seem to be so many of them, and they make life so miserable for themselves by constantly imagining slights, and misunderstanding well intentioned people. Recently there seems to have been an epidemic of uninvited fiancées or fiancés, all of them feeling very wretched and being such a trouble to themselves.

Invitations to weddings or to act as an attendant at a wedding are frequently reported as causes of the hurt feelings. Doubtless there are times when the sensitive feeling is justified But, in the majority of cases, the slight is accidental, unintentional, and can be remedied.

● ● ●

A question which came to us by telephone will serve as an example. A young man was invited to attend a prospective bridegroom as his best man. The wedding was strictly private, with only members of the immediate family invited to the home to witness the ceremony. Yet this young man's fiancée was crushed and indignant to think that she was not invited to be a member of the wedding party and was not even invited to the wedding. What's more, she appeared to be placing some blame on her young man.

Now that is being very narrow minded. The bride might have stretched a point and invited the girl as a guest, but she didn't have to. And there is no reason why this young lady should expect to be the bride's attendant when she herself admits not being a very close friend but merely an acquaintance through the friendship of the two men.

Had the wedding been a public affair, with a reasonably large reception at home, the circumstances would have been altered a little. In such a case the girl should expect to be invited to be present. And if she did not get an invitation the assumption would be that it was an accidental oversight. And her fiancé would be justified in mentioning the fact to his very good friend, the bridegroom, so that the mistake might be remedied.

● ● ●

And in a situation of this kind girls should remember, too, that even though they are invited and intend to go to the wedding and the reception, they cannot expect to be escorted by the man of the hour unless it is the courtesy of being taken home. As the best man, he will be busy attending the bridegroom, fetching him to the church, taking care of his luggage, taking part in the wedding, and assisting at the reception or the wedding breakfast. Since he is a member of the wedding party his partner must necessarily be the maid of honor, whom he is obliged to escort. And his fiancée has no right to feel offended, no right to expect to sit at the bridal table, and no right to feel any twinges of jealousy when she sees her loved one paying heed to another girl.

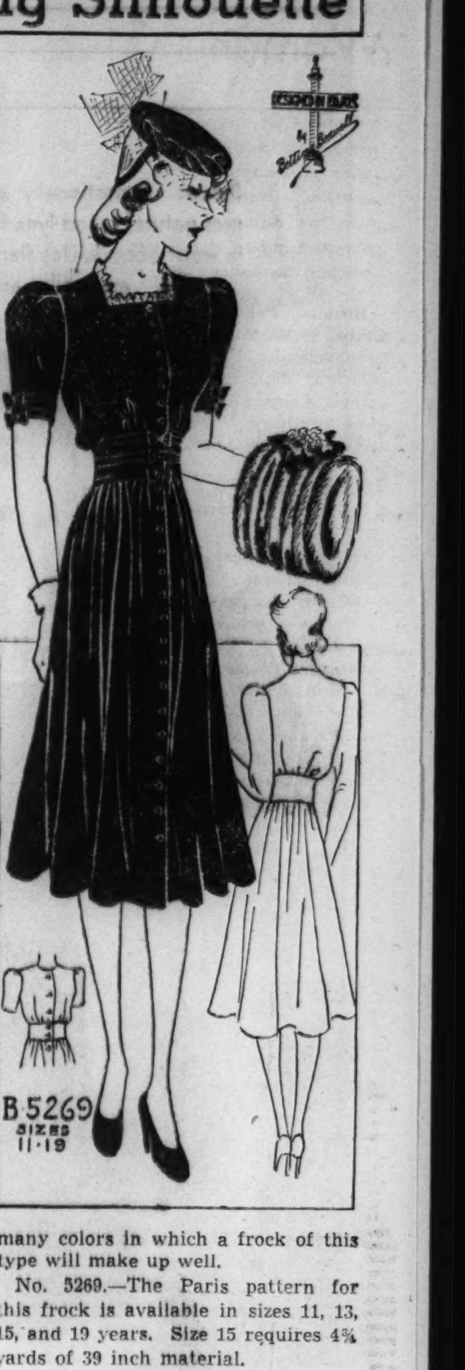
These duties are the responsibilities he contracted when he accepted the bridegroom's invitation. If he is not ready to perform them, then he never should have agreed to act as best man.

Sponge Cake.

When a sponge cake is turned upside down in the pan to cool it clings to the sides of the pan and is kept stretched in position until it cools and becomes firm. This prevents shrinking or settling.

Paris Pattern Frock Has an Intriguing Silhouette

By Bettina Bedwell.



PARIS.—[Special.]—The mid-season showings are giving an inkling of what one may expect in the way of spring fashions. According to the signs there will be plenty of intriguing silhouettes such as the one in our pattern today. The diminutive blonde who wore the original of this frock looked so demure in it that my fancy was captured. The fact that she wore it at Antoine's made it all the more important, because women generally are very particular about what they wear in that smart restaurant.

The neckline is a square one edged with ruffling. [You may edge it with anything you like.] The ruffling on the original dress was black organdy with a gold thread running through it. It was also used to form the bows found on the sleeves and waistline sector. The foundation fabric of the frock was black crêpe. Notice that the dress caters to the spool waist idea and the full, dirndl type of skirt. Buttons may or may not be used down the front. The original frock had them arranged as sketched. They were black with design of gold.

This is decidedly a perfect midseason dress and one with which you may well open the spring fashion era. Black is only one of the many colors in which a frock of this type will make up well.

No. 5269.—The Paris pattern for this frock is available in sizes 11, 13, 15, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material.

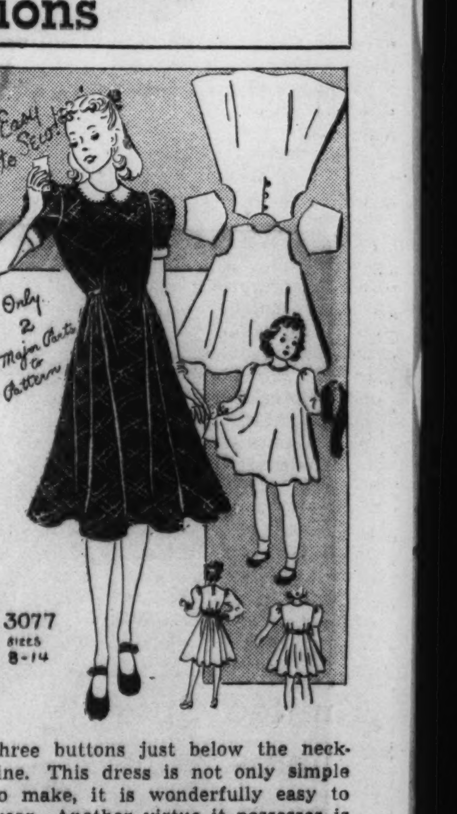
Clotilde Children's Fashions



In the realm of adult fashions we call this type of dress "monastic." When it is styled for junior misses, we call it "angel." The pattern consists of two major parts, easy to assemble. The great fulness of the skirt is pushed beneath the belt into the lines desired. The belt may be either wide or narrow, depending upon your taste. The fulness may be evenly distributed, or most of it may repose in either back or front. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulders and may be either long or short. The neckline is high and round. It may be left plain or be treated to a simple Peter Pan collar, detachable for laundering. If you wish, matching cuffs may be used on the short sleeves.

The dress fastens in the back with three buttons just below the neckline. This dress is not only simple to make, it is wonderfully easy to wear. Another virtue it possesses is that it may be made in almost any fabric, just so that it is soft enough to drape. Crisp fabrics won't do at all.

Style No. 3077 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Knitted Sports Items to Keep the Head Warm

Through the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Ready to go to bed. But before she tumbles in it's habit with every woman who values her looks, especially if she is dry-skinned, to use a rich emollient that will combat the complexion ravages of cold weather.

The melancholy days have indeed come for the women whose skins seem literally to shrivel with the cold. As a beauty specialist said not long ago, one way to calculate a woman's age is to add up her summers, but it is the winters that really count in the depressing business of looking one's age and more.

Cold winds, steam heat, hard water, and not enough fats in the diet all are factors contributing to the skin dryness that is such a widespread American ailment. The moist climate of England, their disdain of central heating, both play a part in the much touted dewiness of the English complexion. Women who live in southern countries have softer, more unwrinkled skins because they have no extremes of cold and, in nine cases out of ten, include far more oils in the diet than we do.

In America, on the contrary, we do have extremes of both heat and cold. And we dote on our steam heat. AND a great many of us are too watchful of the waistline to lap up olive oil and such!

● ● ●

But there are ways to overcome skin dryness. Adopt an oiling program. Be faithful to it summer and winter, but in the winter double the amount of creaming and the time you give to massaging. It will work if your choice of an oiling agent is a good one.

One such cream is rich in balsam oils that really do counteract dryness. It's a gooey cream with a clean fragrance, and will keep your winter-harassed complexion moist and smooth if you use it properly. This isn't a cleanser. It's night cream or lubricant, to be applied after cleansing, massaged in gently with upward strokes. On the neck [and we do hope you won't forget your neck in the oiling program] it should be worked in with downward strokes, firm ones that extend from chinline to chest. Leave this on over night, every night. Use it during the day, too, when you have the time and privacy for a brief beauty session.

● ● ●

The oils in this cream help replenish the lost natural oils that make skin supple and elastic. That taut, dry feeling will disappear. Best of all, that crinkly LOOK will disappear, too.

[For information about this night cream, telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100, or write to her in care of The Chicago Sunday Tribune.]

Eleanor Nangle, "through her looking glass," sees everything that is new in the fascinating realm of beauty aids and tells you about them daily in The Chicago Tribune.

Ambassadors' Wives Select Stately Gowns

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Next Thursday the entire United States of America will be giving thanks, according to the old custom, and having dinner with turkey and trimmings. While here in France there is no official Thanksgiving day, and no turkey et al., everywhere on my round among the dressmakers folks are doing some hearty, although unofficial, thanksgiving for escape from the horror of war.

The greatest Paris dressmakers, all of them, are thankful that their houses still are alive and kicking. Most of them have told me personally that on the black Wednesday before the Munich conference they had made full arrangements to close their doors for the duration of the war, and probably forever. Several of the most famous men designers already were mobilized and on the Maginot line. They put an extra paragraph to their personal thanksgiving proclamation.

● ● ●

Behind and above the swanky dressmaking salons many thousands of girls, lots of them helping to support families, are giving thanks that they still have jobs and pay envelopes, and that their nimble fingers are sewing fine seams, not blown up by bombs.

In the back streets of the city, where thousands of men and women work making the materials and gadgets for the big dressmakers, there is wholesale thanksgiving. One of them, a young Frenchman, a trained scientist who designs the sensational buttons, belts, and knickknacks that make newspaper headlines when styles break, was mobilized early in September. He has come back to find his small business wrecked by his absence, but he's glad he is here to rebuild it and not dead or crippled. An old man, past 70, who has an atelier of workers making embroideries to glorify gowns, told me, with unashamed tears in his eyes, how grateful he is because, in wartime, he would be useless, and in peace he still can work.

Ten Paris mannequins of various dressmaking houses, who had signed up for active war work, are back at the old stand parading feminine finery, and glad to get it to do.

Lots of older French women in the dressmaking world are like the directrice of a famous millinery house in the Rue de la Paix, who has just welcomed her demobilized son back home. She had waited for the return of her husband, who went to the front in 1914, but he never came home. Little girls who pick up the millions of pins that fall in fitting rooms all have some one who, they feel, is given back to them by peace.

The dressmaking houses are chockful of an air of relief and celebration. They're full of clients, among them many Americans who have the biggest reason of all to be thankful, a powerful, peaceful homeland, not menaced by threats of war. Smiling faces predominate, in striking contrast to the tense and tragic look of everybody during the crisis. I visited the houses then to find the salons vacant, swept clean of clients, all of whom were frantically making for some place of safety, to meet dressmakers facing ruin, to see tailors dropping their fittings and hustling off to don army uniforms, to talk to women who knew what war would mean to them and their menfolk, and the knowledge was despair.

● ● ●

I admired the courage I saw everywhere and the general thanksgiving today is something grand to witness. In truly feminine fashion women here are rushing out to buy a new dress in which to be thankful, and since you'll soon be doing some thanksgiving on your own, following the American tradition, I'm going to describe some of the clothes these women have selected for their Thanksgiving doings.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, wife of the American ambassador in London, will wear a Paquin model for informal daytime events. It is made of rough black silk crêpe, and the blouse is trimmed with narrow bands of red silk crêpe which also make a design near the bottom of the elbow sleeves.

One stately evening gown has been selected by several ambassadors' wives for a formal dinner at the American embassy. Lucien Lelong designed this model, which has a veil headdress of deep blue voile that may be worn as floating panels, since it is held by the bright velvet flower applique on the bodice of the dress.

To Relieve Bad Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Big Saving. No Cooking. So Easy.

You'll never know how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, until you try this famous recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful for real relief.

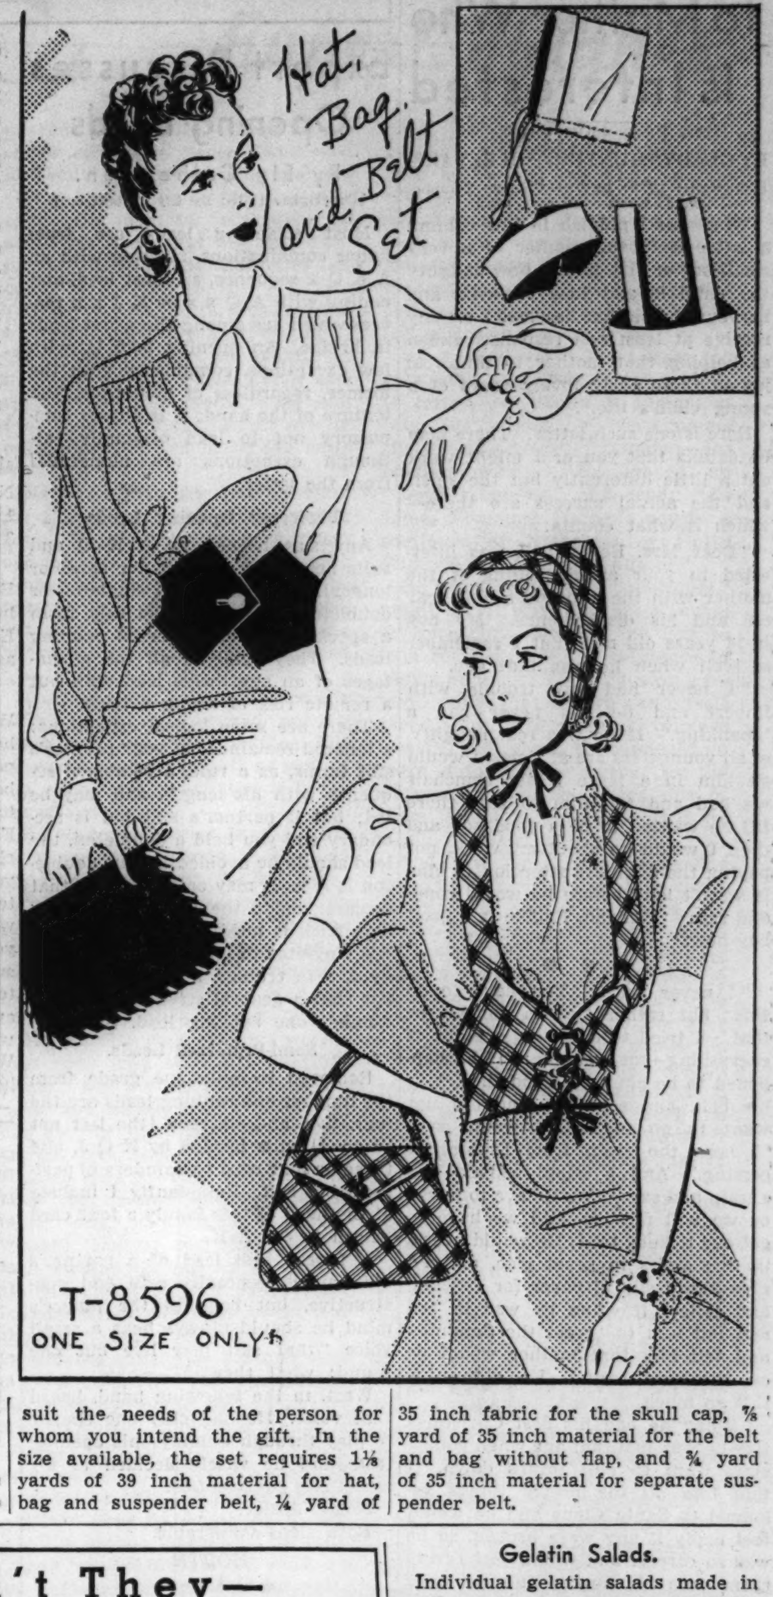
Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases difficult breathing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

PINEX for Coughs

Campus Modes by a Co-ed



By Carolyn Ramey.

Among a co-ed's problems is one widely disconnected with higher mathematics. It is the one concerning gifts. There are two angles to this. In the first place, gifts should be items which the college girl [and business girl, too] can make in her evening hours. In the second place, they shouldn't cost too much. [We know all about budgets, since we have one!] I set the noodle to working one day and thought of the many things I would like to receive at Christmas time. One of them is a set of purse, belt and hat to match, things to "dress up" my plain frocks. So I designed an ensemble I think every one will like. Its nice feature is that it will suit any one you know, and also that it may be made up with variety, using all kinds of fabrics and colors.

The bag is a flat but capacious model with zipper top closing or buttoned flap. It may or may not have a handle. The pattern shows you how to vary it. The hat is a snug little bonnet affair with tie strings under the chin. It's grand for motoring in roadsters and attending outdoor sports events. If the girl you have in mind likes to skate or ski, she'll go mad over this hat. The belt may be a "corselet" affair or it may be laced in peasant fashion and have shoulder straps.

Style No. T-8596 is desgned in one size only, which you may alter to suit the needs of the person for whom you intend the gift. In the size available, the set requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material for hat, bag and suspender belt, ¼ yard of 35 inch fabric for the skull cap, ⅞ yard of 35 inch material for the belt and bag without flap, and ¾ yard of 35 inch material for separate suspender belt.

Child Responds to Mother Who Is Interested

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Whenever I publish in this column a letter from the mother of a very small boy or girl, telling how naughty the child is and how annoyed and nervous the mother becomes I usually receive at least one response, aimed at helping that mother to find real joy in these early lovely years of a young child's life.

Here is one such letter. There may be details that you or I might work out a little differently but the spirit and the actual success are there—which is what counts:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I was interested in your article telling of the mother with the two and a half year old and his disobedience. My boy is 14 years old now, but I remember so well when he was that age.

"I never had any trouble with Robert and he has never had a 'spanking.' If he was real naughty, as all youngsters are at times, I would sit him in a large lether armchair we had and tell him to stay there till he wanted to be a good boy and then I would go about my work, not paying the slightest attention to him. It wasn't long before he would come and say: 'Muddah, Robbie is a good boy now.'

"I never said: 'You have to do this,' but rather 'let us do this or that.' I tried to make a game out of everything—for example: If he happened to be having a good time with his ball, and so forth, and did not want to go to bed, I would say: 'I hear the train from Dreamland coming.' And I would whistle like a train and say: 'We'll have to hurry or we will miss it—and we have to get our tickets, too.' He would hustle up the stairs in great glee, and I'd give him a slip of paper for a ticket, and collect it when he was in bed and tell him to 'greet the Sandman and tell him that mother would be on the next train.' He did enjoy this so much.

"When he had his first Christmas tree he was just that age when youngsters want to pull things down. I told him all the pretty things belonged to Santa Claus and he would feel badly if any were broken, so he was so careful and would just caress them with his fingers and not once did he take any off. I could take him anywhere and never felt embarrassed at things he did. He was not allowed to disturb anything but his own things at home, and did not dream of doing it anywhere else.

"If he did not want to take his afternoon nap saying he wasn't sleepy, I'd say: 'You don't have to sleep—just lie in your bed and watch mother comb her hair.' I'd put him in his bed and soon he'd be fast asleep. I know if I had said: 'Yes, come on now, you have to sleep,' there would have been tears and a fussy spell.

"I think that the best way to make a child mind is to have him obey without being conscious he is doing that very thing.

• • •

"I could go on and on telling about different things I did, but this gives a general idea of the methods I used. It kept my boy's disposition happy and sunny and I can truthfully say I never had any trouble about obedience.

"When he was 6 years old he had the whooping cough and missed eight weeks of school. I got his lessons from the teacher every day and every morning right after breakfast I would say: 'Time for school,' using a small bell. And I'd tell him to take his seat, and we would get his lesson every day, so when he went back to school he was not behind at all. He never fussed about doing it either, as he thought it quite a joke when I rank the bell and so forth.

"I know all these things take a lot of time and patience but it pays in the end. Today at 14 years of age he still expects to do as mother says—and better still he wants to do so."

• • •

From the vantage point of experience I can recommend this mother's outline for living happily and successfully with a little son or daughter. As she says, it takes time and patience—but, tell me, does the businesslike, uninterested, severe and so, unsuccessful way with little children take less time? A peek into the homes where this later method prevails, or a glance over my shoulder at the letters that come from them would convince you that it does not. A discontented or aimless or contrary or whining or disobedient child is one of the most time consuming elements any home can contain.

So, don't think of obedience as something it is morally right for your child to render. Don't expect a child to like to bathe or dress or eat or go to bed docilely just because he should. You are all tied up with these things at this time in his life. You two are companions perforce in the early years. So, do as this mother did—really enjoy your little dark eyed Joan or your red headed Timmy—use fun and tact—be a human being with them. Success will sit on your shoulder.

"How to Gain Obedience Without Punishment" is a booklet of interest to parents and nurses. It will be sent out on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Contract According to Culbertson

Expert Discusses Opening Leads

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Most attacking leads are from honor combinations, starting with an A K Q x sequence, an ideal lead, and ending with A Q x x or K J x x tenaces which are among the worst leads in bridge. An opening lead is, with few exceptions, compulsory with the former, regardless of bidding or the texture of the hand; it is almost compulsory not to lead originally [although exceptions are numerous] from the latter.

Preferred Opening Leads.

Any suit headed by A K Q and suits headed by A K [if five cards or longer], together with a singleton or doubleton of partner's bid suit, form a special class of preferred opening leads. They combine all the advantages of an aggressive lead with but a remote risk of losing a trick.

There are some logical exceptions: a tenaced remainder of your partner's suit forms, as a rule, a combined sequence with his length, and may be led; but if partner's suit bid is secondary and you hold a doubleton, the lead should be avoided if your doubleton is A x. It may easily happen that declarer holds the king and a valuable trick is needlessly lost.

A singleton of an unbid suit, backed by A x in trumps, and after partner has shown general strength, is also a number one ranking lead.

Semi-Preferred Leads.

Removed by only one grade from the number one ranking leads are the four, five, and six card [the last not so good] suits headed by K Q J, and three or four card remainders of partner's bid suit. Reluctantly I include at the head of this family a four card length to the A K.

A fourth best lead of a partner's bid suit is generally safe and constructive, but back in the player's mind he should always hear a small voice "that suit may live but one round: what then?"

West, in the following hand, heard that voice. He had only one chance to play through dummy—his opening lead—and he wisely decided to try something constructive.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q J 6
♥ A K 9 7 5
♦ 7 3
♣ K 6 5

WEST
♠ 7 5
♥ 10 6 3 2
♦ J 6 5 4
♣ Q J 10

EAST
♠ A 2
♥ J 4
♦ K Q 10 9 2
♣ A 9 7 4

SOUTH
♠ K 10 9 8 4 3
♥ Q 8
♦ A 8
♣ 8 3 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	2 diam.	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Holding four cards in his partner's bid suit, and in the face of strong bidding by North and South, West could see that there was very little future in a diamond opening. Trump tricks, of course, could not get away and the heart bid on his left, together with his own worthless length in that suit, indicated there was little hope for succor from that quarter. By the simple process of elimination, therefore, he came to the club suit as the one chance for a constructive defense, and was lucky enough to find the king on his left and the ace in his partner's hand.

Still Good Leads.

The next batch of leads are four card or longer suits headed by Q J 10 x, J 10 9 x, or K Q 10 x. Notice that I place the K Q 10 x even after the J 10 9 x. The opening from the J 10 9 x has the advantage of safety, although the opening from the K Q 10 x has the advantage of immediacy. All in all, safety is the best policy, though if the bidding calls for it, it is better to risk the loss of a trick for a quicker gain.

At this point I had better specify that the leads analyzed here assume a game contract, and no significant inferences from bidding. Leads against slam bids fall into a category of their own.

Leaving Safety Behind.

The lead from a five card suit headed by a Q J 9 x x or J 10 8 x x is still fairly safe. However, starting with the four card or longer suits headed by two card sequences, such as K Q, Q J, or J 10, the leader definitly leaves the safety zone behind.

The claims of harm done by leads from suits headed by a king are greatly exaggerated. On purely mathematical grounds if you have a choice between a K x x x and Q x x x prefer the lead from the king and not from the queen, as is usually done. Again, if you have Q 10 x x of one suit and Q x x x of the other, prefer the Q 10 suit.

The Worst Leads.

With opening leads from high tenaces the leader has reached the very dregs. To lead blindly from a suit of any length [except seven card or longer] headed by A Q, A J, or K J is gravely to risk delivering into the hands of your enemy not only the honor but the game as well.

The rule of tenace leads simply reads: do not open blindly from any tenace—try something else. And even here there are a few important exceptions. They arise in connection with the time factor, the force game, and inferential leads.

Except in the case of top sequences, such as A K Q or K Q J, blind leads from three card suits are to be avoided. And even when I get K Q J alone I eye it suspiciously as a gift from the Greeks and, if I must lead from it, prefer to open with the jack.

Taking a Look at the Dummy.

Don't look—think! Many players are afflicted with an irresistible itch to take a look at the dummy. Some, to satisfy their curiosity, even lead out aces, little realizing the heavy price they are paying in exchange. Practically all players will lead out a king from an A K combination, including even a three card suit. To study the dummy without paying a heavy price is doubtless valuable, and with four card or longer suits a lead of a king is justified. But unless the player has no other satisfactory lead or the bidding is quite freakish it is advisable not to lead from an A K 2. There is little chance of giving a ruff to partner, little chance of finding something unusual in the dummy which would make it valuable to hold the lead, and much chance of running into the opponents' side suit, losing a precious tempo and thereby a game. Take the following hand:

NORTH
♠ Q 10 6 2
♥ K
♦ Q 10 8 7 4
♣ 6 4 2

WEST
♠ 8 3
♥ 10 8 7 6
♦ A K 2
♣ Q J 10 8

EAST
♠ 7
♥ A Q J 9 5 3
♦ 9 6 3
♣ 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A K J 9 5 4
♥ 4 2
♦ J 5
♣ A K 9

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

After opening the diamond king West might just as well have thrown his hand on the table—from then on he was helpless. It is obvious that the club queen, a perfectly safe lead, would have saved the game. A lost tempo is almost as difficult to regain as lost youth.

An article by Mr. Culbertson appears in the feature section of The Tribune each weekday.

BRIDGE PROBLEM

NORTH

EAST

♣ K 7

SOUTH
♠ K 7 3
♥ K J 10
♦ A Q 7 3
♣ 10 9 4

The bidding [North-South vulnerable]:

North	East	South	West
1 club	1 heart	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opens the deuce of hearts. East plays the ace and returns the heart eight. If you could not see the East-West hands, how would you play as declarer, and why?

Answer: You should assume from West's lead of the heart deuce that he was underleading an honor of partner's suit, which, of course, could be only the heart queen. You will have to take the club finesse into East's hand, and he probably has the club king. If, at the second trick, you finesse East's heart return, attempting to win with your jack, West will win with queen and drive out your king, establishing East's heart suit. Your proper play, therefore, is to put up heart king at second trick, and then to finesse clubs. East will win, but the heart queen still in West's hand will block the entire heart suit.

Simple Linens Best for Use with Pottery

Many women who own sets of the attractive, gay colored table pottery ware in fiesta tones of bright orange, vivid blue, yellow, and green are puzzled about linens to harmonize. Of course, the main point to bear in mind is to keep these linens simple. The simpler, the better.

Place mats of plain Italian ecru linen are excellent with pottery. So are place mats of Chinese matting, now available in most large stores, and of woven raffia, and of coarse, homespun fabrics.

You can make your own place mats of striped bed ticking, or of solid color linen in a tone that contrasts with your pottery, or of white waffle weave cotton. On dark green or blue place mats edges of white rick-rack braid are most effective.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

Something new under the sun are the new and very decorative electric bulbs in which are sealed embossed replicas of flowers, animals, comic characters, and fairy tale favorites. These bulbs operate on any standard home current and when the current is applied the figures in these bulbs have a soft iridescent glow, charming for night lights or wherever a subdued light is wanted, in hallway or nursery or bedroom or den. And you can burn them some ten hours a day at a cost of some five cents a month.

There is an interesting new type of stair construction, a steel stairway, delivered in one piece to the house site, and installed in a home during its process of construction. Installation takes only a short time. Economy is obtained by merely painting the underside of the stairs. And of course the treads can be covered with oak or any type of fine wood desired.

There's no woe worse than a roof which lets in the rain and in case your shingle roof has developed leaks this fall, there is a heavy compound of asphalt and fibre which can be brushed on to stop those leaks before winter descends and a whole new roof is needed.

Turkey Is the Big Problem of Holiday Meal

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The turkey usually is a Thanksgiving cook's biggest problem. If he's a large one he usurps a large part of the refrigerator during storage, and the whole oven during roasting. If he's delivered unde-pinfeathered, there's a morning's or an afternoon's work on that job alone. In short, he's sometimes pretty much of a general nuisance, although you forget about that when he's carried to the table, a handsome show of golden brown lusciousness.

No cook has time to give the turkey her undivided attention on Thanksgiving morning, so he'd best be all ready for the oven by that time. Purchase the bird several days ahead of time, stuff him and truss him. Then store him away in the refrigerator until early on Thanksgiving morning. A large turkey takes from three to six hours to roast, so allowance must be made for that.

• • •

I know women who prefer to roast the turkey the afternoon or evening before Thanksgiving, so that only reheating is necessary next day, and oven room is left for other foods. This plan works beautifully for those who are inclined to worry about having everything ready at the hour set for dinner.

I might mention, before I go on to discuss roasting the fowl, that a good deal of kitchen time may be saved if a frozen turkey is used. There are several good brands which come to you with all of the preliminaries taken care of. As soon as the turkey has thawed, it is ready to roast. Although the frozen turkey looks shrunken and deformed when you buy him, you'll find that he swells to his own plump, firm shape as he thaws and roasts.

• • •

Allow three-quarters to one pound of turkey per person, in buying the bird. Remove all pinfeathers and wipe inside and out with a damp cloth. Do not let water run through the turkey, or through any fowl, for that matter, or you'll lose some of the flavor. Stuff with any preferred dressing, skewer and lace the opening together with small metal skewers and a cord, or use the metal clamps sold for poultry fastenings. Slip the skin of the neck back as far as possible and cut off the neck close to its base. Fold the skin to the back and skewer it or tie it. Fold the wings back under the bird. They may help to hold the neck skin in place if no skewer is used. Tie legs together with a long cord and bring the cord around the tailpiece. Cross it over the back, bring it around the upper tips of the wings, then around the lower tips, and tie it across the back.

Roasting the Turkey.

Now the turkey is ready for roasting. Place it on a rack in an open roasting pan or dripping pan. Brush the turkey with unsalted butter and place a clean cloth, saturated in more butter, over the breast. This will keep the breast from drying out and the skin from shriveling. Put the pan, with turkey in it, in a 325 degree oven and roast at this constant temperature until done. A small turkey, from six to ten pounds, will require about three hours; a medium turkey, ten to sixteen pounds, three and one-half to four and one-half hours, and a large bird, weighing from eighteen to twenty or more pounds, will take from four to six hours. Allow approximately eighteen minutes to the pound for a large turkey, longer for a smaller one.

The cloth may be removed from the breast of the turkey during the last half hour of roasting if the bird doesn't seem to be getting brown enough. But be sure the breast is well greased with butter.

• • •

Many persons express surprise when they look at this recipe for bread cube stuffing and note the large amount of butter called for. But once they've tried it, they rarely revert to another stuffing. It really is good.

BREAD CUBE STUFFING FOR TURKEY.
[Twelve to sixteen pound bird.]
1½ pound loaf of stale bread
1½ cups to 2 cups butter [¾ to 1 pound]
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
¼ cup minced onion

Remove crusts from bread and cut it into inch cubes. Cut butter into small pieces. Toss ingredients together in a large mixing bowl, stuff turkey, and roast. During roasting the juices of the turkey and the melting butter moisten the stuffing. Finely cut celery may be added to the recipe if desired, and a little sage or poultry seasoning won't be amiss.

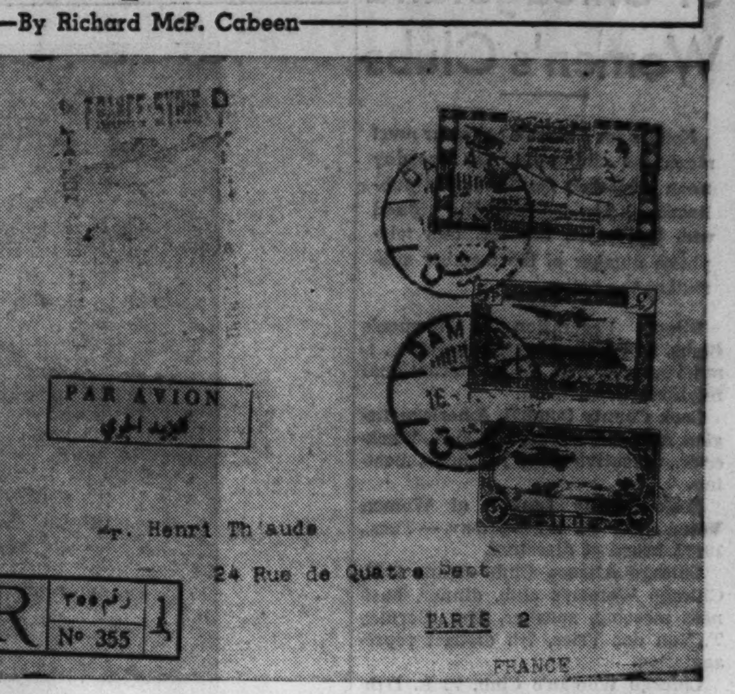
The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope to rreply.



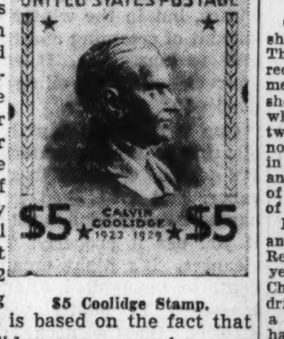
This cover, which is shown through the kindness of the Madison Stamp company of Chicago, bears a copy of the recent commemorative air mail stamp which was issued to mark the tenth anniversary of air mail service between France and Syria.

Many collectors whose first day cover activity is limited to commemorative issues are complaining that they have been forgotten by the postoffice department, for they have not had a new stamp since August, and they want to know how much longer this condition will continue. To the commemorative collector the presidential issue is less than nothing for it is a regular issue designed to supplant the series which has been in use since 1922-'23.

Many new commemorative stamps have been requested and it appears probable that a series will be issued to honor prominent Americans in the field of art, science and industry. Until quite recently only statesmen and military and naval heroes have appeared on our special stamps and there long has been a desire on the part of many for stamps which would commemorate equally deserving citizens whose contributions to the United States often were as important.

Other stamps which are practically assured for 1939 are those to advertise the world's fairs in New York and San Francisco, and three additional varieties of the Constitution Sesquicentennial series to commemorate the first meeting of congress, the inauguration of George Washington as president of the United States, and the first session of the Supreme court. The 400th anniversary of the discovery of the Mississippi river by De Soto will very likely be the occasion for an additional stamp honoring the discoverers and colonizers of this continent.

At the present date there remain only six values of the presidential series to be issued. The 21-cent Arthur, and the 22-cent Cleveland will be issued on Nov. 22; the 24-cent Harrison and the 25-cent McKinley will appear on Dec. 2, and the 30-cent Theodore Roosevelt and 50-cent Taft on Dec. 8, all from Washington, D. C.



$5 Coolidge Stamp.

Collectors are eagerly awaiting the final figures of the first day sale of the $5 Coolidge stamp which was issued on Nov. 17, and a few optimists are going so far as to wager that the number of first day covers will equal that of the $2 Harding issue. This is based on the fact that Calvin Coolidge was a popular president and also that he has not heretofore been seen on a postage stamp. It is not to be denied that individual popularity has some effect on the first day sales of these stamps and this is borne out by the fact that the first day covers of the 16-cent Lincoln stamp exceeded those of the 14-cent Franklin Pierce stamp by almost 10-000 covers.

Stamp Notes.

According to A. E. Pade, writing for Stamps magazine, Greenland has made application for membership in the Universal Postal union. This presages regular postage stamps for that Danish possession and will add one more state to those listed in the standard catalog. For many years Greenland has used stamps provided by the Royal Greenland Trading society of Denmark. These were used on cards attached to parcels going to Denmark. Parcels going beyond Denmark were remailed in that country using Danish stamps and therefore the Greenland stamps were not obtainable in international mails.

S. Newbury and Dr. Clarence Hennan, both of Chicago, were awarded the only grand prizes at the recent international exhibition in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Mr. Newbury exhibited his famous collection of "bullseyes," as the first stamps of Brazil are dubbed, while Dr. Hennan showed an equally famous collection of the stamps in use during the reign of Dom Pedro, emperor of Brazil.

On Oct. 9, Iceland issued a miniature sheet of particular interest to Americans. This sheet contains three values, a 30-ore red stamp showing the Leif Eriksen monument in Reykjavik, a 40-ore purple stamp showing a close-up of the figure of Eriksen which surmounts the monument, and between those, a 60-ore stamp showing the northern portion of the globe with Iceland in the center, western Europe at the right and Greenland and Vinland at the left, all of these being associated with the voyages of that early explorer.

Eriksen was born in Iceland in 970 A. D., and accompanied his father, Eric the Red, to Greenland as early as 986. In the year 1000, while on a voyage to carry Christianity to Greenland, Eriksen was driven off his course by storms and reached a strange coast which is now thought to have been New England. Several unsuccessful attempts were made to colonize this region which was called Vinland and it is now remembered only in the Icelandic sagas. The monument to Eriksen is the work of the American sculptor, A. Sterling Calder, and was presented by congress, in 1930, to the people of Iceland on the 1,000th anniversary of the formation of the Althing, or parliament, of that country.

The Philippine Airmail society, chapter 13, American Air Mail society, announces an exhibition of airmail stamps and airmail covers at the Plaza hotel, Manila, P. I., Feb. 17-19, 1939. The exhibition is open to all collectors and all entries will be eligible for awards except those which have been awarded prizes in a Philippine exhibition. The entries will be grouped in five classes: Philippines, United States of America, Europe, rest of the world, and aerophilatelic literature. Address all communications to Philippine Airmail exhibition, P. O. Box 716, Manila, P. I.

The East Liberty Y. M. C. A. Philatelic society, Whitfield street, East End, Pittsburgh, Pa., will issue a set of two miniature sheets in connection with its exhibition on Nov. 25-27, 1938. The sheets will picture the University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral of Learning, and will be sold at 10 cents a set, plus postage.

Ted Awakens, Happy That Ben Roat Has Not Stolen Him During the Night; Ned Is Wretched with His Cold at the Kapustases

THE STORY TO DATE

INSTALMENT VIII.

(Copyright: 1938: By Rupert Hughes.)

TED took up a pencil from Ned's orderly desk and wrote in his own hand a sentence from Ned's diary. He compared the two specimens. They had practically no points of resemblance.

He was paralyzed for a moment and in a sudden panic decided that he would have to give up his dreams of staying in this happy place. He would have to go back to Nell and Ben. He must lose no time. He would be lucky if he got to them safely and then far enough away to escape pursuit.

He caught up his hat, ran to the window over the porte cochère, and raised it. He looked back with the look of a regretful exile. He paused. He had left on Ned's desk the example of his own handwriting. He must destroy that.

As he seized it to crumple it a sudden thought struck him. He had always heard forgery spoken of as one of the fine arts and a very neat and gentlemanly way of earning a living—a little perilous but highly profitable. Nell and Ben had said that Ted had a knack for it. He had occasionally amused himself by imitating their penmanship or the writing of other people. He could even make a fairly good imitation of the famous signature of "Geo. Washington" without copying it from the newspaper where he first saw it.

He dropped to a chair and began to write as near to Ned's manner as he could. He quickly discerned Ned's little personal traits, rhythms and quirks, and was sure that he could soon acquire skill enough in imitation. But he must not be caught practicing.

To gain time and escape any danger of being called on to write, he decided to pretend that he had hurt the first two fingers of his right hand. He would tie them up in a rag so that he could not be asked to pass that test until he was ready for it. He was about to give his fingers a good convincing smash when he realized that he would then be unable to practice, so he put off the punishment.

A clock tinkled the hour somewhere and woke him to the realization of how much time he had spent in trying on his brother's personality. He must not be caught in his Boy Scout uniform and he must take that shower his "mother" had suggested.

He was whipping out of his clothes as he ran to the bathroom. He found hanging there a pair of Ned's clean pajamas and a pleasantly gaudy bathrobe, though not half so loud as the one Nell had bought for him. He ran back to the bureau and took out undershirt, shorts, socks, and shirt and returned to the bathroom. He was so happy and so confident that he sang in the cascade that he brought down about him. It was marvelous to have these things all his own. He forgot to put the bandage back on his fingers.

He did not dare linger as long as he wanted to, but dried and dressed himself as if the house were on fire and he wanted to escape in decent garb. He flung on his bathrobe and went to the coat closet for a suit. He selected the one he liked best and went into it as fast as he could. It left him aghast. It did not fit him! Much as he resembled Ned in features and form, he had been using his musculature differently all his life and there were tight places where loose should have been and vice versa.

He tried two suits before he found one that really fitted him and he had just buttoned himself into the trousers and was buttoning the cuffs of his shirt when there was a knock at the door and in walked the gracious and beautiful lady he must learn to think of as his mother—yet not his mother exactly, for he knew from the newspapers that Ned had learned of his adoption.

She came to him and took him in her arms and kissed him and there was a wet radiance in her soft eyes as she said:

"It's so good to have you home again! You'll never know how I worried; how I missed you. You'll probably never know how much I love you. I couldn't love you more if you were my own boy. And you are my own boy. Haven't I earned you by fourteen years of mothering you; haven't I, my darling?"

His heart went out to her with a rush of love at first sight. Because he thought it would please her and because it pleased him, he flung his arms around her and kissed her and said:

"Yes, mamma. I'm your own, own boy."

To his stupefaction she seemed to be hurt. He could not imagine why. He clasped her tighter, kissed her again, and said with still more ardor:

"Why did I ever leave you? How could I? I must have been crazy, mamma."

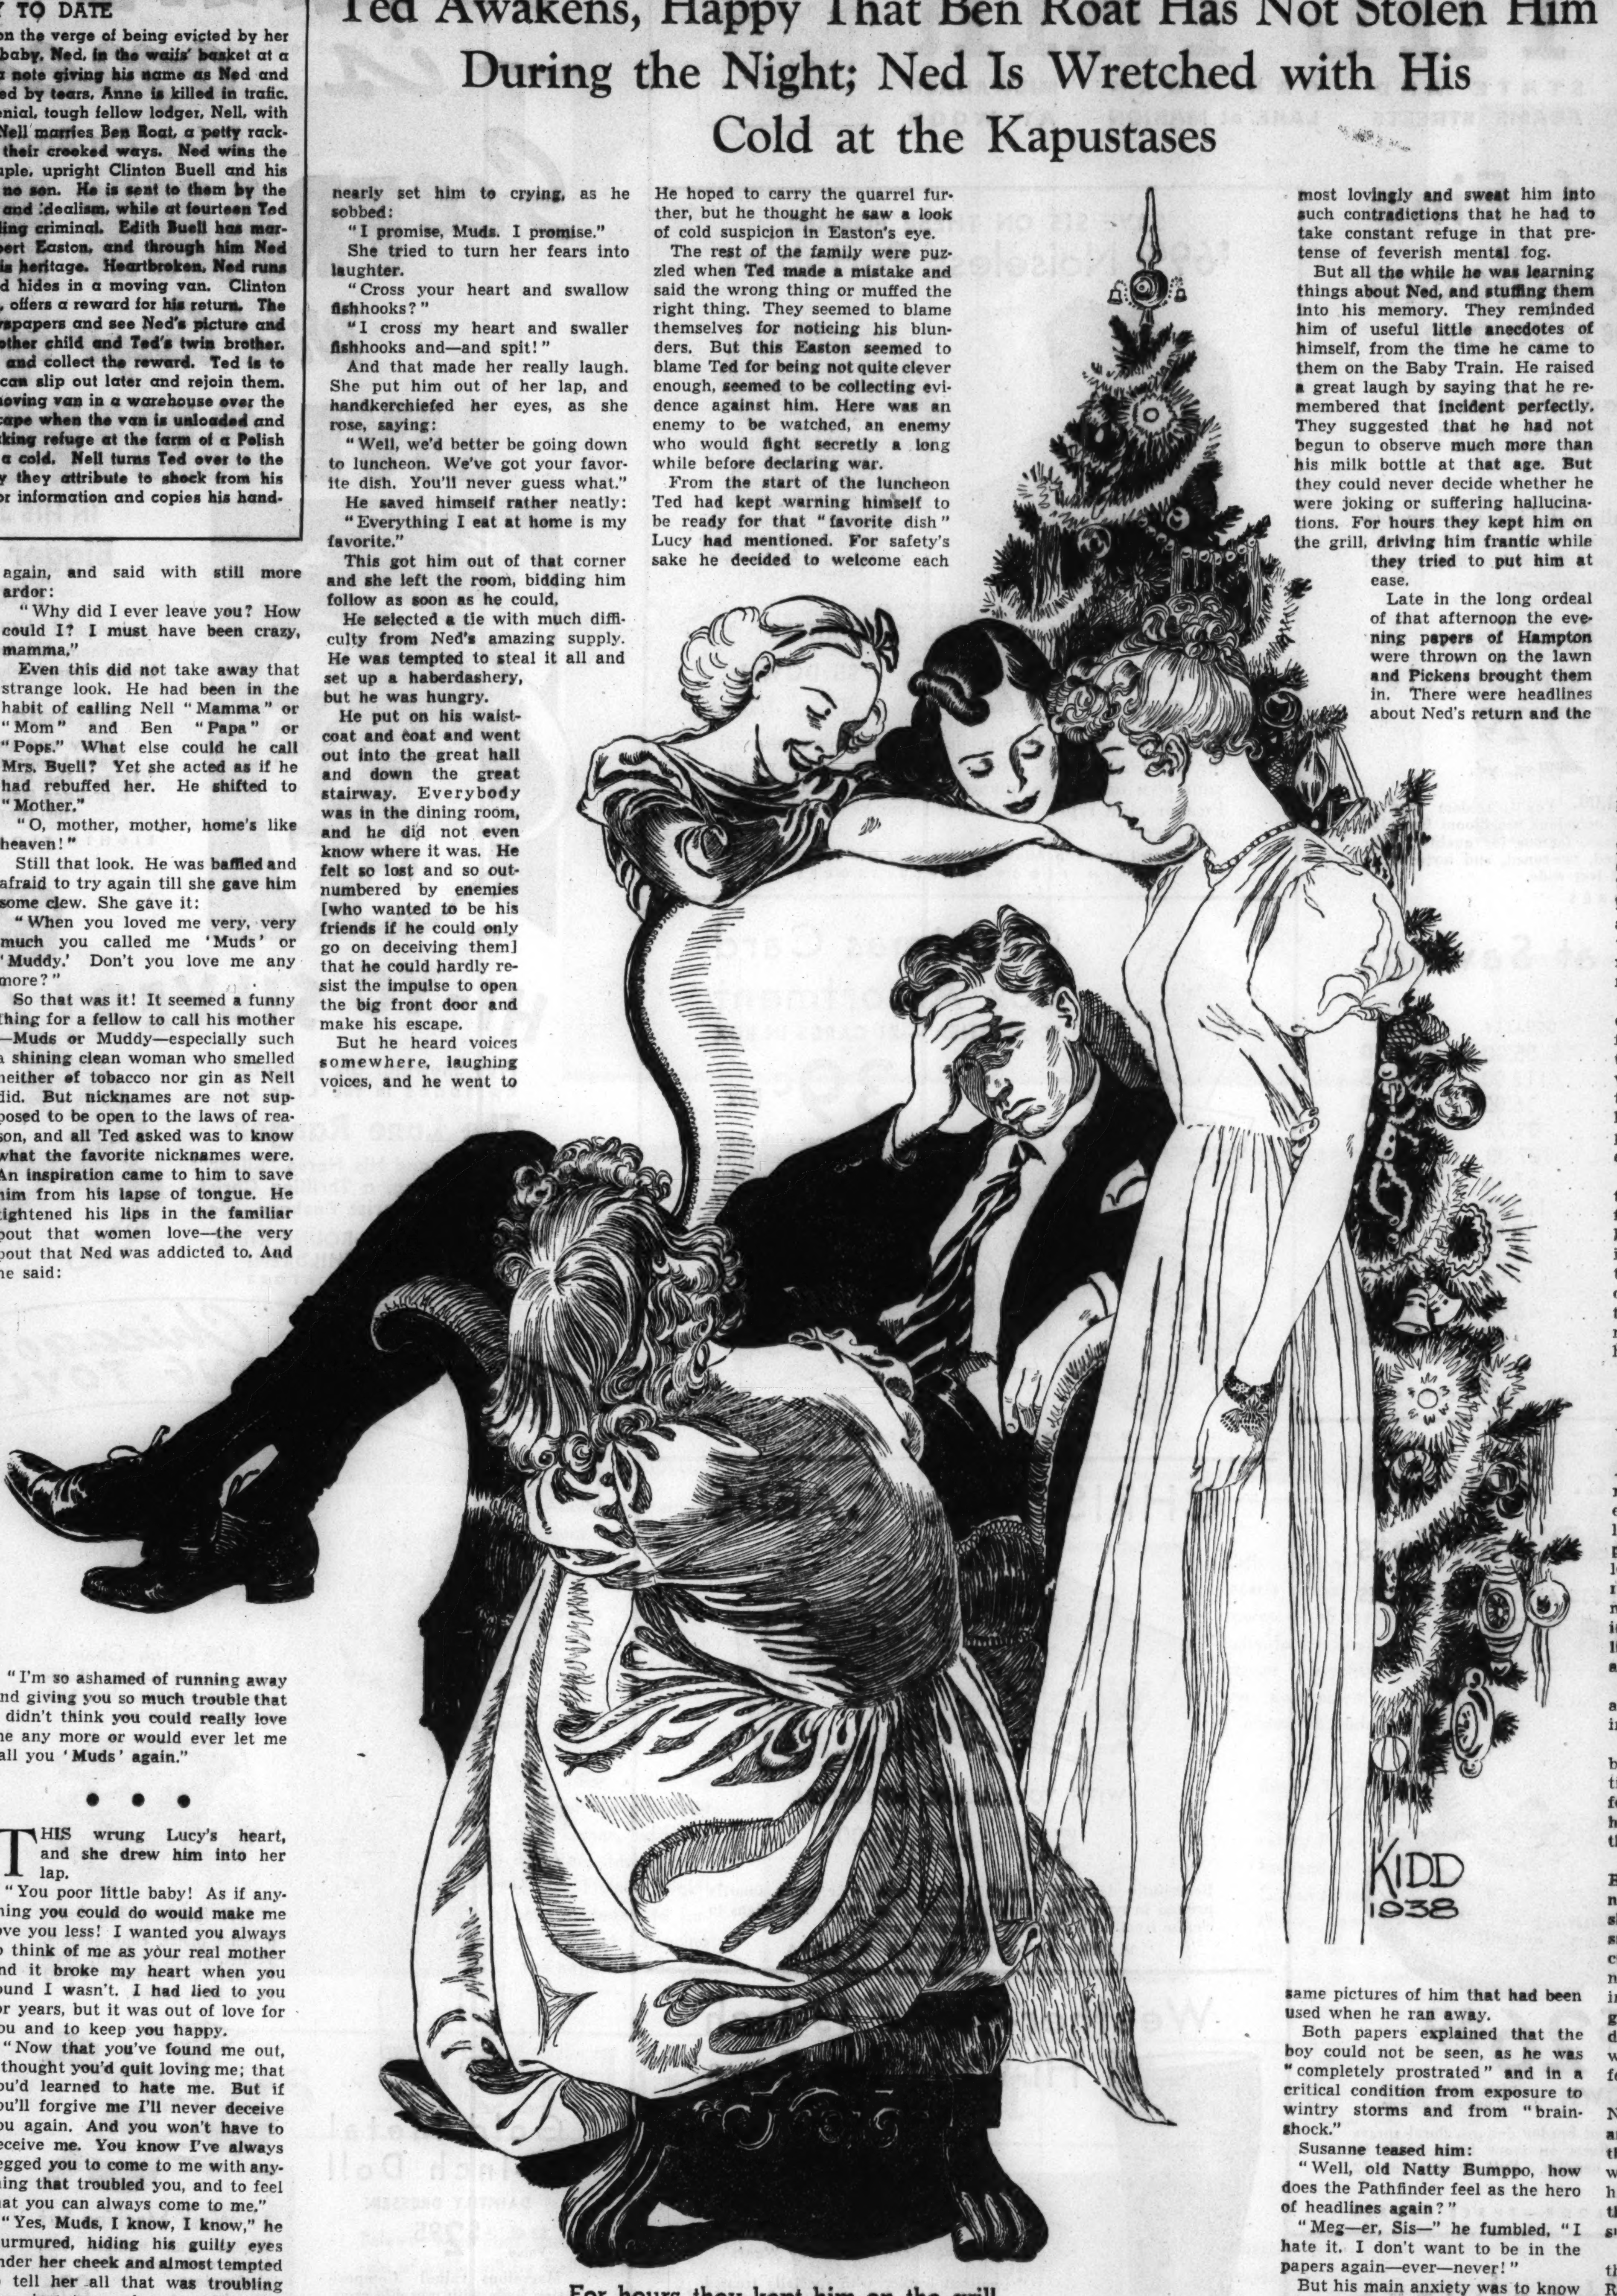
Even this did not take away that strange look. He had been in the habit of calling Nell "Mamma" or "Mom" and Ben "Papa" or "Pops." What else could he call Mrs. Buell? Yet she acted as if he had rebuffed her. He shifted to "Mother."

"O, mother, mother, home's like heaven!"

Still that look. He was baffled and afraid to try again till she gave him some clew. She gave it:

"When you loved me very, very much you called me 'Muds' or 'Muddy.' Don't you love me any more?"

So that was it! It seemed a funny thing for a fellow to call his mother—Muds or Muddy—especially such a shining clean woman who smelled neither of tobacco nor gin as Nell did. But nicknames are not supposed to be open to the laws of reason, and all Ted asked was to know what the favorite nicknames were. An inspiration came to him to save him from his lapse of tongue. He tightened his lips in the familiar pout that women love—the very pout that Ned was addicted to. And he said:



For hours they kept him on the grill.

"I'm so ashamed of running away and giving you so much trouble that I didn't think you could really love me any more or would ever let me call you 'Muds' again."

• • •

THIS wrung Lucy's heart, and she drew him into her lap.

"You poor little baby! As if anything you could do would make me love you less! I wanted you always to think of me as your real mother and it broke my heart when you found I wasn't. I had lied to you for years, but it was out of love for you and to keep you happy.

"Now that you've found me out, I thought you'd quit loving me; that you'd learned to hate me. But if you'll forgive me I'll never deceive you again. And you won't have to deceive me. You know I've always begged you to come to me with anything that troubled you, and to feel that you can always come to me."

"Yes, Muds, I know, I know," he murmured, hiding his guilty eyes under her cheek and almost tempted to tell her all that was troubling him, just to see her surprise. But he was beginning to want to protect her from any pain. She went on winning him.

"Let's not have any more secrets from each other ever, now that you've found out the only one I had. If I could find your real mother for you I'd go to the end of the world for her, but I'm afraid she's lost to you. She must have had some good reason to give you up. And you mustn't think ill of her for it. She might have had any one of a thousand excuses, all of them good. But there's no way of finding her now. You'll just have to give her up forever.

"It's cruel, but nearly all people have to lose their fathers and mothers. I lost my mother when I was about your age, and it hurt—O, how it hurt! and still hurts. When my father died I thought I'd never get over that. I never did get over it, but I've had to get along without him—or my mother—somehow. People do. They have to. So you see I know what it is to be an orphan. You and I are both orphans. We must cling together and help each other."

And now she was crying. And Ted was in a stranger world than ever. He was unutterably miserable yet unutterably happy. He clung to her, repeating:

"Muddy, Muddy, my own Muds!"

She clenched him tighter as if she fought for him:

"O, don't ever leave me again, darling. If you just have to run away take me along."

This was such a crazy thought that he luaghed a little, and that nearly set him to crying, as he sobbed:

"I promise, Muds. I promise."

She tried to turn her fears into laughter.

"Cross your heart and swallow fishhooks?"

"I cross my heart and swaller fishhooks and—and spit!"

And that made her really laugh. She put him out of her lap, and handkerchiefed her eyes, as she rose, saying:

"Well, we'd better be going down to luncheon. We've got your favorite dish. You'll never guess what."

He saved himself rather neatly:

"Everything I eat at home is my favorite."

This got him out of that corner and she left the room, bidding him follow as soon as he could.

He selected a tie with much difficulty from Ned's amazing supply. He was tempted to steal it all and set up a haberdashery, but he was hungry.

He put on his waistcoat and coat and went out into the great hall and down the great stairway. Everybody was in the dining room, and he did not even know where it was. He felt so lost and so outnumbered by enemies [who wanted to be his friends if he could only go on deceiving them] that he could hardly resist the impulse to open the big front door and make his escape.

But he heard voices somewhere, laughing voices, and he went to them and found himself in the huge dining room with the large family at the table. They hailed him in chorus as if he were a young kid. He took the only empty chair, and Lucy said:

"And now the family's a family again. That chair has been sitting there waiting for you and calling for you in such a loud voice we could hardly hear anything else."

He could tell that they were puzzled by unimaginable little things he did not do that Ned had always done, the little things he did that Ned had never done, the indescribable but unforgettable petty gestures, the way of unfolding the napkin, rearranging knives and forks and handling them. Ted's natural foppery gave him good manners, but they were not Ned's good manners. Those little touches, those damned little touches would get him yet.

He could see that the whole family was doing everything it could to put him at ease and make him happy. He was treated as a most distinguished guest. This gave him a lift that made him eager to return the compliment. He was so effusive that Gilbert Easton noticed it and said with a jarring laugh:

"A pleased customer is the best advertisment. Thanking you for past favors and hoping for a continuance of same we are yours respectfully, Buell & Co."

Ted's sharp eyes and ears caught a something of hostility in Easton's manner. He wondered what Ned had done to Easton to offend him. He hoped to carry the quarrel further, but he thought he saw a look of cold suspicion in Easton's eye.

The rest of the family were puzzled when Ted made a mistake and said the wrong thing or muffed the right thing. They seemed to blame themselves for noticing his blunders. But this Easton seemed to blame Ted for being not quite clever enough, seemed to be collecting evidence against him. Here was an enemy to be watched, an enemy who would fight secretly a long while before declaring war.

From the start of the luncheon Ted had kept warning himself to be ready for that "favorite dish" Lucy had mentioned. For safety's sake he decided to welcome each dish as an old friend. Hence he ate too much of everything so that he was stretched to bursting when the butler brought in and set before him with pomp and circumstance a vast bowl of—rice pudding!

The whole family was sharing in advance the delight he was supposed to feel. But Ted hated rice pudding. Like other very simple things, it was a rarity at the table of the rich, but Ted had had to eat it nearly every day at the reformatory, where it was always a soggy, slimy, lumpy mess. He loathed it. But he dared not push it away. He crammed it down on top of the too much he had already had. And pretended to love it. He had already found that a life of ease involves no end of hardships.

• • •

OTHERWISE the family was making his path as pleasant as possible. Susanne, who was evidently Ned's pal, proposed:

"Dad, when George has taken you to your office will you let him come back and take Ned and me for a ride around the town? I'd like to show him off to his public, and he ought to see how much the old town has grown since he left it years ago."

This struck Ted as an excellent idea. He would learn Hampton in one lesson. It was altogether unknown to him now. But his "father" Clinton said:

"I'm afraid he'd better stay indoors for a day or two. You see I told my secretary to keep the reporters out of Ned's hair. He told them that Ned was a nervous wreck and couldn't be seen for days. That was putting it on thicker than I meant, but it wouldn't do to show him around in the pink of condition."

Ted was not only disappointed but surprised to learn that the best people also lied and put on little plays.

After luncheon Clinton and Gilbert left the house. Since Ted was confined indoors, the girls and Lucy tried to keep him entertained. They were all older than he, but he had spent most of his life, outside of the reformatory, with Ben and Nell, and had taken little interest in the street games and other concerns of children of his own age. He was used to grown-up company.

Besides, there was no more chance of boredom in the presence of the Buell women than if they were vivisecting him. He had to keep on the alert every instant. The unimaginative Ben and Nell had never expected him either to linger in the house or undergo such a searching cross-examination and the Buell women were as eager as he was to prove him innocent of the thousand tiny doubts that swarmed about him. They were his counsel and it was a friendly trial. But it was a trial.

Fortunately they did not ask him where he had been during his absence. They did not ask him many questions. It was the implied interrogations that troubled him. They put him through a third degree most lovingly and sweat him into such contradictions that he had to take constant refuge in that pretense of feverish mental fog.

But all the while he was learning things about Ned, and stuffing them into his memory. They reminded him of useful little anecdotes of himself, from the time he came to them on the Baby Train. He raised a great laugh by saying that he remembered that incident perfectly. They suggested that he had not begun to observe much more than his milk bottle at that age. But they could never decide whether he were joking or suffering hallucinations. For hours they kept him on the grill, driving him frantic while they tried to put him at ease.

Late in the long ordeal of that afternoon the evening papers of Hampton were thrown on the lawn and Pickens brought them in. There were headlines about Ned's return and the same pictures of him that had been used when he ran away.

Both papers explained that the boy could not be seen, as he was "completely prostrated" and in a critical condition from exposure to wintry storms and from "brain-shock."

Susanne teased him:

"Well, old Natty Bumppo, how does the Pathfinder feel as the hero of headlines again?"

"Meg—er, Sis—" he fumbled, "I hate it. I don't want to be in the papers again—ever—never!"

But his main anxiety was to know who that namesake of his, that "Natty Bumppo," might be. The guy was plainly a member of the family—an uncle maybe. He must be prepared to recognize the guy when he appeared.

At dinner time Clinton came home with his big, warm-hearted ways and his talk of great events. But with him came Gilbert Easton to put the chill on Ted. After dinner Susanne proposed some game to divert the prodigal and make him happy.

"You love chess," said Susanne. "You know I hate it, but I'll play you if you want."

Ted had tried chess once and found it far too slow and heavy for his brand of soul. He had forgotten it gladly. He hastened now to clap his hand to his brow and sigh with a fine imitation of domestic bravery.

"If you don't mind—my head! O, my funny head!"

"Just what seems to be the matter with it?" It was Easton again, growing more aggressive. Ted had a good answer for him:

"I don't know. The only way I could know would be by my head, and that's all haywire. How can a fellow know anything when his knower is out of order?"

"Very good," said Easton, but in a tone that meant, "Just a little too good."

"Perhaps you'd rather read," said Meg. "Now that you're back, I suppose it will be unsafe once more to go into the library for fear of stepping on you as you lie on the floor with a big book under your eyes."

Ted happened to be watching Gilbert at this moment, and he noted on Gilbert's face, strangely, a flash of red, then white. Then Easton threw an angry glance Ted's way. Ted could not imagine why that reference to stepping on him should so excite the man, for, of course, he could not know that Ned had overheard Clinton's denunciation of Gilbert.

Gilbert's wife, Edith, was clinging to him mournfully and bewailing the fact that Gilbert was taking the midnight train to Chicago on a business errand that would keep him over New Year's day. Edith was inconsolable, but Ted heard the news with joy.

He would have heard with greater joy that Gilbert was never coming back. He would have been much obliged to a fortune teller who prophesied that Gilbert would be crushed in a glorious train wreck, for Gilbert was the only one in the house who suspected him, or nagged him.

That tip about being found on the library floor reading had not escaped him. He hated reading, but he would have to take it as part of the price he paid—charge it off to board and lodging.

He made an excuse to go to his room early. The strain on him had nearly worn him out. He fell asleep in his clothes and was wakened by Lucy, who came in to see that he was well covered, for Ned had a way of throwing off the blankets even on the coldest nights. Ted was wakened by Lucy's fingers untying his shoes. He managed to keep his eyes open long enough to undress himself and put on Ned's pajamas.

He was asleep before Lucy had put out the light. Her tender kiss on his face was part of his first blissful dream. But he began to have bad dreams of being caught after long pursuits over roofs, through cellars, and down trafic-mad streets. In one of his nightmares he was convicted as a forger.

Suddenly he was wide awake and deciding that the only way to keep from being caught as a forger was to be a good one. He went to the warm bathroom, put Ned's diary on the washstand and practiced his handwriting. He found manuscript paper there and threw his finished experiments into the waste basket.

Before long he was glad to see that the muscle memory of his deft fingers was already laying hold on his brother's mannerisms of writing. He was no longer afraid of that test. He felt now that if he could take care of Gilbert Easton there was nothing to keep him from making this beautiful place his home forever.

• • •

BEFORE he turned off his light again he went to his front window and looked out on the moonlit snow of the quiet street. His eye was caught by a figure under a lamp post across the street. It was probably a night watchman. Yet it looked familiar. He stared hard and recognized Ben Roat. At the same moment Ben Roat recognized him in the lighted window and made the little signal the family had long ago agreed on. It meant:

"Come on out! Make your getaway. Why have you kept me waiting so long? Hurry, hurry!"

Ted had been kept so frantically busy building himself into this beautiful home that he had completely forgotten the people who had put him there, expecting him to stay there only a few hours.

Ted motioned Ben to go away. Ben forgot discretion enough to signal violently—threateningly. Ted shook his head and left the window, snapped off the light. As he was crawling back into his bed he had a new terror. Ben was capable of coming right up to his room and dragging him out. He stole to the window and locked it—locked the other windows—and the door. At that he felt none too safe.

The next morning both Ted and Ned woke late in their strange beds and at first could not imagine where they were. Ned was so wretched with his cold and so shattered by his cough that the plain home of the Kapustases was good enough to suffer in.

But Ted reveled in luxury and in the pleasant realization that Ben Roat had not stolen him during the night. His lazy eyes studied his beautiful room and rejoiced that Clinton Buell had forbidden him to leave the house at all for a few days.

Clinton was protecting him from reporters, but to Ted the most important enemy now was his late protector Ben Roat. He knew that Ben was capable of snatching him away from any guardian and carrying him off. Ted was, after all, only a boy and easily overpowered by a man of Ben's strength.

He took a shower and dressed and went down to the dining room. The household had been long awake and Ted had his breakfast alone in state with the butler serving him as if he were a Dauphin of France, and the cook and maid coming out to talk to him and remind him of how he had run to ask if they had been with the family when he joined it as a baby on the Baby Train.

The morning paper had him still on the front page, but not in the headlines—because he had been in the headlines yesterday. Besides, there were rival claimants on public attention: Mussolini, Hitler, the President, and such like.

Still, it felt good to have a fine story about one on the front page. It puffed Ted up with pride, until he realized with a slump that the story was not about him at all. It was about his vanished brother Ned. Yet it was not about Ned, either, for Ned had not returned. The story was half Ted's and half his brother's.

Here they were bound together, like two people on a see-saw—two yet one. One yet two. It was giving him a real headache.

He remembered that his sister "Sis" had called him old "Nattibumpo" or something like that. He'd better find out what or who "Natti-bumpo" might me. He dared not ask anybody. Remembering that Ned was a great reader and a haunter of the library, Ted decided to have a look in. He entered the great room timidly and found it as full of books as a bookstore.

On a stand was a great tome big as a Bible and open in the middle. It turned out to be a dictionary. Idly Ted looked for Natti-bumpo. He found "Natty Bumppo—See Leatherstocking." He looked up "Leatherstocking," and read: "In James Fenimore Cooper's novels, a sobriquet of Nathaniel or Natty Bumppo, an American hunter."

He wondered what a "sobriquet" might be. It was probably a cousin or something. He was too lazy to look further. But the reference to James Fenimore Cooper's novels reminded him that on Ned's bookshelf there were two or three volumes wearing that name. He happened on more of the man's "works" on the library shelves. He pulled one of them out to sample it in case he might be asked any questions.

And now for the first time the poor benighted wretch fell under the spell of Cooper's Indians and Indian fighters. Perhaps he was to be envied the privilege of reading them for the first time. He was so absorbed that unconsciously he slipped from the chair to the floor and stretched out prone above the captivating pages. They had enough blood and thunder and hair raising, scalp lifting suspense to hold the young savage, and he went through the prolonged landscapes faster than the Indians ever did.

Natty Bumppo's mixture of pomposity and illiteracy did not bother Ted, the hero's ability to shoot straight, and outwit the redskins were the important thing. If Ned had earned the right to be called Natty Bumppo he must be a brother to be proud of.

Looking into the library Lucy saw Ted in the place and posture so familiar in Ned. She sighed with contentment, though she called to him with a laugh:

"At it again, old bookworm!"

Ted had a motive and a necessity that would have made him read far duller books if need be. He must hastily perfect his impersonation. Since Ned was a student and ambitious for intellectual and moral heights, Ted had to investigate the heights and imitate the climber. And there is as much contagion in scholarship and other virtues as in the illiterate vices.

But Ted had a long way to go, and he was still only an amateur actor studying a difficult rôle. It was impossible for him to be natural and nearly impossible to seem natural. His resemblances to Ned were hardly greater than the differences, and the conflict was keeping the household in a state of tormenting perplexity.

That evening after he had gone upstairs the family held a long session in the living room. They were as anxious about the beloved lad as if he were dangerously ill. Lucy was saying:

"The boy is in the pink physically, though he's lost a lot of weight. But people with mental disorders are apt to be all right physically. It's the too intelligent people who are sickly."

"No wonder I'm so frail," said Susanne the exuberant. Edith put in:

"Ned says he got a bad bump on the head from that train fall, but in most ways he's bright as anybody—brighter in some ways than he was before he went away."

"But he's under some terrific strain," said Meg. "You can tell by the way he watches us. He acts as if he were afraid of us, afraid we'd find out something. What secret crimes do you suppose he committed in his wanderings?"

"He's pretty young for crimes," said Clinton. "But as I see it, he's not nearly so much afraid we'll find out about him as anxious to find out about us. It's the queerest thing! If it weren't Ned, I'd swear he'd never been inside this house—never seen us before. All the little things we do seem to be news to him. He's certainly news to me."

"O, it's all because he had such a frightful shock," said Lucy. "He must have had a series of them. When he learned he was a foundling and had no parents—'just growed' like Topsy—that must have been a—a cataclysm in his little soul. He must have had other shocks in his wanderings. He might have fallen in with tramps—they do most frightful things."

Edith, who was not happy, meditated aloud:

"If he'd come home to us bruised and battered and full of broken bones, we'd know just what to do. But who can set a broken spirit? What poultice is there for a bruised and battered soul?"

Susanne spoke up:

"There are doctors, who go in for that sort of thing—you know—psy—psy—not psychologists, but psychy——"

"Psychiatrists?"

"That's it. Well, these psy—what you said—they take people who have internal mental injuries and inhibitions—and exhibitions, and people that life has run over, and left half paralyzed—and restore them to mental balance, restore lost memories, and perform miracles generally. How would it be to have Ned gone over by one of those?"

"It would scare him to death," Meg thought, "to treat him like a crazy person."

"Well, that's what he is," Suzanne insisted. "He's at least half out of his mind. If you take those things early they're not so bad—especially when the patient's young. We could pretend that the man was a teacher or a tutor or something."

Below: When the musical comedy, "I'd Rather Be Right," with George M. Cohan as its star, moves into the Auditorium theater tomorrow for a three weeks' engagement, the policies and experiments of the New Deal will be satirized in song, quip and dance. The girl in the center of this picture is Margaret Sande, dancing star.

Below: Another scene from "I'd Rather Be Right," these chorus girls are giving a scene from a WPA show, produced at the nominal cost of $675,000.

Above: Here are some more chorus girls, niftily caparisoned for a "Springtime in Milwaukee" number in the make-believe $675,000 Federal Theater Project production.

Right: The newest proposal of Madam Secretary Perkins (Bijou Fernandez) causes Mr. Cohan to remark, "You know, sometimes I think a woman's place is in the home."

This Week's Headliners at the Civic Opera House

Above: Lily Pons, the personable French coloratura, enters the operatic scene on Wednesday to sing in "Lucia di Lammermoor." On Saturday night she sings Rosina in "The Barber of Seville" for the first time locally.

Below: Miss Pons' associate in the tenor role of Lucia will be Galliano Masini. The latter made his highly successful debut last year in this very part.

Below: The famous tenor, Beniamino Gigli, makes his second operatic appearance of the season in Verdi's "Aida," to be given next Saturday afternoon.

Above: In Monday evening's "Lohengrin" the Ortrud will be Eleanor La Mance. The performance will introduce Kirsten Flagstad's portrayal of Elsa to Chicagoans as well as be the occasion of Edwin McArthur's conductorial debut.

'I'd Rather Be Right' Opens Tomorrow Night at Auditorium

Cohan Comes Here in Role of the President

By Cecil Smith.

Tomorrow evening in the Auditorium theater the time worn adage that art and politics do not mix will be confronted by an exceptionally potent refutation. Two of the sagest funny men in the American theater, Messrs. George Kaufman and Moss Hart, allowing their impertinent brains to focus upon the vexed issues of national politics, last year struck upon the audacious notion of lifting President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the members of his cabinet, the "nine old men" of the Supreme court, and a few minor minions in government employ, out of their usual Washington habitat and of putting them right smack on the stage—in a musical comedy, with singing and dancing and wisecracks, and a brace of chorines tossed in for good measure!

For a title they found the phrase, "I'd Rather Be Right," slyly omitting the completion everybody knows—"than President." For helpmates in putting the show together they turned to Lorenz Hart and Richard Rodgers, who as a partnership of lyric writer and tunesmith have scarcely ever been known to produce less than a smash hit.

• • •

With Sam H. Harris, the producer, rested the delicate problem of discovering an actor capable of translating the nation's President into the outward form of a musical comedy character without destroying all rime or reason, and without offending against the instinctive good taste with which the American people think of their chief executive. In George M. Cohan, probably the most deeply beloved trouper of the musical stage, Mr. Harris made the perfect choice. Here was an actor—perhaps the only one—who fulfilled all the requirements. Because his sense of humor wholly lacks the bitter acid of vituperation, yet preserves the razor edge of honesty, Mr. Cohan could afford to take and conquer a risk that might have ruined the career of some one less great hearted.

The action of the comedy all comes to pass in Central park, New York, along one of those much frequented walks leading from 59th street over toward 72d and Central Park West. By evident prearrangement with Mr. Kaufman and Mr. Hart, President Roosevelt is found strolling toward his New York home, on his way to prepare a Fourth of July speech.

He pauses to engage in conversation with a young couple, known as Peggy Jones and Phil Barker. Recognizing the President, the youngsters pour out to him their tale of woe: They want to get married, but Phil's boss cannot give him a raise in salary until the federal budget is balanced and business is permitted to improve.

Mr. Roosevelt's breast is moved to compassion, and he promises to do all he can to balance the budget immediately. Upon his passionate desire to enable Peggy and Phil to marry hinge succeeding scenes.

• • •

One by one the most discussed experiments of the administration are brought to the center of the stage, oversimplified into trenchant, if burbling, wit, and tossed into limbo with fierce gusts of satire. Throughout all the merrymaking James A. Farley and other members of the cabinet serve as Mr. Roosevelt's helpful stooges, while his most potent adversaries, the "nine old men," pop into view at the most awkward moments, to shout "No!" to almost every new proposal.

There is nothing novel or epochmaking in the mere fact of political satire set to music. "As Thousands Cheer" and "Face the Music," to name only two of the best, ran their successful courses as correctives and safety valves during other recent years of national unrest. But "I'd Rather Be Right" goes further than any of its predecessors in naming names and in leaving no possible grounds for misunderstanding.

Yet it is not only because it is specific that "I'd Rather Be Right" is a telling vehicle of satire. The people it lampoons are not made hateful; they are given credit for being sincere, if problematical and inconsistent, human beings. If there is a vindictive word anywhere in the script I have not been able to discover it.

• • •

"Whiteoaks," a dramatization of the series of "Jalna" novels by Mazo de la Roche, with special indebtedness to the volume entitled "Whiteoaks of Jalna," will open an engagement at the Selwyn theater Monday evening, Nov. 28. Ethel Barrymore plays the character of "Gran," the 101 year old matriarch of a large and stubborn family in eastern Canada. The central theme of the entire "Jalna" saga is the intrusion of an unexpected esthetic strain, in young Finch Whiteoaks, into a solid, unimaginative, loyal family whose typical interests have been horses and the products of the soil. Miss De la Roche made the dramatization herself, and chose to build the plot around the making of her will by aged Gran, whose sizable fortune is coveted by all the members of the family. The cast includes Harry Ellerbe, last seen here with Nazimova in "Ghosts" and "Hedda Gabler," in the rôle of Finch; Lenore Chippendale, Wyrley Birch, Reynolds Denniston, Robert Shayne, Allan Hale, Peter Fernandez, Audrey Ridgwell, Martha Hodge, and Joseph Roeder.

• • •

A week further in the offing is Jean Giraudoux's comedy, "Amphitryon 38," coming to the Erlanger theater under Theater Guild sponsorship Dec. 5. The leading rôles are in the hands of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. The comedy will play for two weeks, then interrupt its run for a week so that its stars may spend the week before Christmas on their Wisconsin farm, and resume its course Dec. 26 for two additional weeks. On Jan. 9 Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne [Mr. and Mrs. Lunt, if you prefer] will enter upon a two weeks' engagement in Chekhoff's "The Sea Gull," in Stark Young's modern translation.

• • •

Tommy Lewis, the remarkably talented 7 year old boy who heretofore has alternated with John Sheffield as "Pud" in that delightful comedy about death, "On Borrowed Time," has now taken over all the performances for the duration of the current Grand Opera house run. John Sheffield's health was too precarious to permit him to continue with the company. Meanwhile Tommy bears up resiliently under the requirements of his profession, and finds time to go to school to his mother, a school teacher on leave of absence from her work as instructor of dramatics in the Leonardo, N. J., high school.

• • •

The coming week is the last for "Of Mice and Men," the forthright dramatization of John Steinbeck's novel of California ranch hands, playing at the Selwyn theater. The engagement leaves pleasant memories of Claire Luce in her first part here, and of Guy Robertson as a hard hitting actor of the realistic stage, instead of a decorative musical comedy lead.

• • •

Tomorrow night's performance of "Susan and God," starring Gertrude Lawrence, at the Harris theater, will be the fiftieth of the Chicago engagement. Miss Lawrence gave forty performances in San Francisco and 289 at the Plymouth theater in New York.

• • •

The Theater Guild's production of "Dame Nature" had the misfortune not to catch on here any better than it did in New York earlier in the fall. Consequently it shut up shop at the Erlanger last night. Thus the season's first mystery was created: Why did an amusing, well written, strongly cast, beautifully mounted comedy fail where others not nearly so good—for example, "Yes, My Darling Daughter"—have succeeded with much less to recommend them?

NO DUD AS 'PUD'

The loveble "Pud" in "On Borrowed Time" is played by Tommy Lewis. This diverting comedy-fantasy, starring Dudley Digges, is at the Grand Opera house.

Play Wins Praise

Charles Morgan, dramatic critic of the London Times and author of the popular novel, "The Fountain," recently saw his first play, "The Flashing Stream," produced in London.

Godfrey Tearle, who also produced the play, and Margaret Rawling portray two mathematicians among a group of naval specialists working on an isolated island to perfect an aerial torpedo which by radio control would be guided automatically to its target.

To Commander Edward Ferrers, as played by Tearle, the single purpose and truth of life is to be found only in the exactness of mathematics, but when the outside world questions the accuracy of his basic calculations, he finds confirmation of that truth and purpose only in the love of Karen Selby, played by Miss Rawling.

The single mindedness of Ferrers' mathematical genius and the single mindedness of Karen's love in both their personal and disciplinary relationship afford Morgan opportunity to philosophize on modern adult life. In an active steadfast single mind he finds an antidote for the turmoil of today.

Others in the cast include Felix Aylmer, Marda Vanne, H. G. Stoker, Anthony Ireland, Leo Genn, and Laurier Lister.

The Daily Telegraph says the play has minor faults like sketchiness of minor characters and literariness of dialog, but the piece as a whole "makes the ordinary average of theatergoing seem like so many visits to a Punch and Judy show."

Sixth Year.

"Tobacco Road," the play by Jack Kirkland based on the Erskine Caldwell novel, seems well on the road toward immortality. It enters its sixth year on Broadway on Dec. 5.

Theatergoers Perked Up by New Music Hit

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—The spirits of the town brightened perceptibly the day after "Leave It to Me" was introduced. Just one good entertainment can do that, whether it be dramatic and serious or musical and smart, Broadway being that sensitive to gayety and ever hungry for an excuse to be joyous.

"Leave It to Me" is the musical comedy that Bella and Samuel Spewack, the "Boy Meets Girl" authors, fashioned out of an earlier failure of theirs called "Clear All Wires." It is touched with political satire in the manner of "Of Thee I Sing" and while it is less robust and less scintillant than that unforgettable opus it is the best of its type we have had in a long time.

Of course, it is helped a lot by its cast. You can, without much trouble, imagine Victor Moore, the Vice President Throttlebottom of "Of Thee I Sing," as an unwilling ambassador to Russia. Victor is a bathtub manufacturer in Topeka, Kas., and the best horseshoe pitcher of his social group. He is perfectly willing to contribute to his political party's campaign fund. He is perfectly willing to be an ambassador, if it comes to that. But he wants to stay in Topeka. And when, thanks to the maneuvering of his socially ambitious wife, he is given the soviet berth he decides there must be some one in Washington who doesn't like him.

Alonzo P. Goodhue is Victor's stage name, but his best friends call him "Stinky." That grew out of his love of hair oils. When he gets to Russia his one desire is to do something that will discredit him with the Stalinites and the administration and bring about his recall. To further this aim he is more than a willing victim for Buckley Joyce Thomas [William Gaxton], a famous newspaper correspondent who has been hired to bring about the ambassador's recall in the interest of a big newspaper owner who is looking for a job.

Now consider Mrs. Goodhue in the person of Sophie Tucker, the queen, as the saying goes, of the red-hot mammas. Ample and very blonde, Miss Tucker is playing such an ambassador's wife as you might expect her to be, and singing such songs as you might expect her to sing. They are Cole Porter songs, incidentally. She is the mother of five stunning daughters, and a little resentful that she cannot hope to compete with the Kennedys for the London assignment, because of their brood of nine children.

Sophie is also determined to take her own caviar and her own culture to Russia, just in case. She packs a huge can of caviar, warning the porters to remember that it is just eggs, and organizes a large group of servants into a tap dancing chorus. "I'm taking the steps to Russia," she sings. All Miss Tucker's songs are quite likely to be of an explanatory nature. She has another called "Most Gentlemen Don't Like Love." With which she warns her daughters that most gentlemen just like to kick love around.

• • •

Still, with all their plotting it is impossible for Gaxton to have Moore recalled. Everything they do works against them. When the ambassador kicks the Nazi representative in the stomach he gets a code message from Cordell Hull advising him to "sock him again!" When he thinks to take a shot at a Russian prince, and thereby create a crisis, he hits a Trotzkyite by mistake and becomes a national hero. Thereafter he has to stand and watch the parades in Red square for days and days, until his arches break down and he is limp from weariness.

Finally he determines to become an idealist. He offers a Goodhue plan for the recovery of international peace and good will. Let a German army march into France and take on the duties of citizenship. Let a French army do the same for Germany. Let all the countries of Europe effect a similar exchange of papas, and within a comparatively short time the warring populations will be loving each other as brothers and sisters should.

This is too much for Stalin and Goodhue is recalled in time for the finale. Moore, of course, is perfect as the timorous and wistful little fat man who is kicked around against his will and frankly attributes his success in life to the fact that his father left him a darned good business.

Gaxton is again the highly energized foil for Moore's simplicity. Tamara, she of "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" memories, has a couple of songs as a friend of Gaxton's, and a newcomer from the coast, Mary Martin, grabs the soubrette honors, singing with particular success a song called "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," accompanied by a modified strip tease that is good for a paragraph in any critic's column.

Miss Martin, they tell me, beat her way from studio to studio in Hollywood, looking for a chance to take a screen test, and no one would give her a second glance. She finally took a singing job in the Trocadero out there. The night after her Broadway hit in "Leave It to Me" there were four talent scouts for the movies waiting at the stage door to invite her, pretty please, to have a screen test made.

I have word from the Jitney players that their season is proving unusually successful this year, and they would be pleased if I were to mention the fact to you. The Jitneys may have come within your range of vision or not, depending, naturally, on where you live. They have been touring now for ten or twelve years, reviving, with Jasper Deeter's Hedgerow players, the spirit and a few of the experiences of the old time wagon shows. The Jitneys travel by truck and station wagon and expect this season to cover something like 12,000 miles of territory, playing in no less than twenty-four states. This season they are going through the south, the southwest, and the middle west.

Ethel Barrymore Colt, inheriting something of the gypsy urge from ten generations of Drews, Barrymores, and Blythes, had rather tour with the Jitneys as their leading woman and manager, than play with her mother on the tour of "White Oaks" which Ethel Barrymore expects to carry her through till early spring. There are sixteen adventuresome young players traveling with Ethel, my report reads, and they are having a grand time.

The Jitneys have grown considerably the last few years. They used to travel with a portable stage and present their plays wherever they could find a suitable lawn or college campus. Now they are booked much the same as any traveling troupe, and play indoors in theaters and occasionally in the larger auditoriums. They have a repertoire of four plays, two of them former Broadway successes, Maxwell Anderson's "Both Your Houses," the political satire that won him a Pulitzer prize, and S. N. Behrman's "End of Summer," one of the brilliant and chatty social documents which the Theater Guild played through a season with Ina Claire. They add to these a new version of "Rip Van Winkle," written by Miss Colt, and a burlesque melodrama called ". . . And for Yale."

• • •

But, even with the help of the Jitneys, and with all the increased interest I hear reported from many sections of the country, the old road can never approximate the busy and prosperous territory it was in the old days.

I have a letter from Vernon Reaver, who, before he became a showman and later a circus man with the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows, was head usher at the old Foster Opera house in Des Moines, Ia. Conrad Nagel and Raymond Hatton, now of the movies, were two of his associates.

For nearly four years in Des Moines Mr. Reaver kept a record of the attractions playing Foster's. Practically a hundred plays were booked in there between late August, 1905, and early June, 1906, and these included such stars as Richard Mansfield, Ethel Barrymore, Robert B. Mantell, May Irwin, Blanche Walsh, Walker Whiteside, Tim Murphy, Sam Bernard, Hap Ward, and Lucy Daly, Rose Melville, Francis Wilson, Andrew Mack, Dustin Farnum, Montgomery and Stone, Grace George, E. S. Willard, Viola Allen, Johnny and Emma Ray, Richard Carle, Chauncey Olcott, Henrietta Crosman, Lillian Russell, Nat Goodwin—literally too many to enumerate. In addition were dozens of plays without stars.

And this was only an average season. The year following there were as many more. The average was probably eighty-five attractions a season. And today if Des Moines plays a half dozen touring shows it probably will be something of a record.

TRIPLE THREAT MAESTRO

Enlarged Career

Cornelia Otis Skinner, known chiefly by her dramatic monologs, has spent the summer barnstorming around the theater circuit of New England and the eastern seaboard. While she has not given up her one-woman shows, she is also full of plans for an enlarged dramatic career. She won a special success at Ogunquit, Me., in the leading rôle of Edward Sheldon's "Romance." In mid-January she will begin in Los Angeles a cross country tour that will ultimately bring to Broadway the Restoration comedy, "The Beaux Stratagem," with Brian Aherne in the leading male rôle.

Speaking of Ogunquit, Lanny Ross, crooning idol of radio and movies, recently played there the Dennis King rôle in "Petticoat Fever." Before going to Maine he appeared at Tarrytown, N. Y., in Lynn Riggs' "Green Grow the Lilacs," playing and singing the cowboy rôle created for the Theator guild by Franchot Tone.

Durante Will Quit Chez for a New Musical

Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante, the only man in the show business who can strut from the cheek bones on out, has a date with an angel.

The angel is backing a new musical show called "Swing to the Left," co-starring Ethel Merman and the Schnozzle. Rehersals start soon, so Durante probably will be leaving the Chez for New York next Friday.

Present status of Chez Paree's program is that Eddie Garr, comic impersonator familiar to the Fritzel-Jacobson clientèle, will follow Durante. He is expected to bring the Frazee sisters to replace Songstress Ruth Petty. The rest of the bill is scheduled to carry over—the Varsity eight, show stopping male chorus; Lois Harper, dancer; the acrobatic and nervy Juvellys; Bob Hannon; Fred Evans' well liked "Hussies of History" production, and Lou Breese's music.

The King's Jesters have deserted California for Chicago's brisk winds again. Reopening last night at the La Salle hotel's Blue Fountain room, they brought with them their queen, Mary Milan, and the routines that scored so well at Hollywood's Clover club and San Francisco's Sir Francis Drake hotel.

Replacing Bob Crosby's Monday night candid camera shows, Jan Garber, currently reigning on the Blackhawk restaurant bandstand, will inaugurate a Musical Cook Book hour at 11:30 p. m. tomorrow. It's an audience participation show, the idea being to match rhythms and recipes. Jess Kirkpatrick will emcee the show. Prizes will be offered to patrons.

The Blackstone hotel's Balinese room, with its copper dance floor and its tropical decoration motif, is already well established as an avenue attraction these cold nights. Fitting perfectly into the setting is Betty Borden, vocalist with the Playboys. Her singing is not too much of any one style—hot cute, sweet, or torchy. She's popular with the Sunday tea dance crowd, which is a real test.

Ballroom patrons greeted another perennial favorite Friday when Little Jack Little brought his band back to the south side Trianon. The Trianon's sister ballroom to the north is bidding farewell to Dick Jurgens, for three months the Aragon maestro, and preparing to welcome Hal Kemp on Friday for a limited run.

Dick Stabile closes his seven week debut engagement at the Edgewater Beach hotel Marine dining room Dec. 2. He will be followed by Jay Mills, who promises to give the violin a renaissance as the key instrument of a modern dance band. The Marine room show continues with Homer Allen, tenor; Rennio Collins, baritone; the Six of Hearts, a vocal sextet, and the Harriet Smith dancing girls.

Novelties: The Merriel Abbott dancers' "Stop and Go" routine, a variation of the control dance. When Orrin Tucker, Empire room bandmaster, turns on the red trafic lights the girls hold whatever position they happen to be in—and hold it until Tucker flashes the green. . . . Ozzie Nelson singing his answer to ringsiders who sigh for the luxurious life of a band leader, the song being "I've Got Those 'Gee What an Easy Job You've Got, All You Do Is Wave a Stick' Blues." . . . The "Donkey Serenade" dance presented by Elizabeth Houston and Danny Harden at the Continental room of the Stevens hotel. [In fact, the entire Houston-Harden routine rates the term novelty.] . . .

Credit to Ernest Byfield and Frank Bering for four major dining and entertainment attractions in Chicago: The Pump room in the Ambassador East and the Buttery in the Ambassador West for that gold coast glitter; the Dome theater restaurant in the Hotel Sherman for breezy informality; the College Inn at the Sherman for its ability to go on year after year as a favored night spot. Currently Buddy Rogers is doing much to keep the inn's colors flying with his personable manner of singing, playing, and introducing a show that includes Mlle. Mignone, control dancer; eight Singing Marines; Tony Marks, a modern Merlin; the Boots McKenna girls; Carl Marx, Prince Omar, and Elizabeth Tilton, singer.

Vaudeville

After being dark since last spring the Oriental theater reopened Friday and will present screen and stage shows as it has in the past. The theater, said to be the second largest in the loop, secured for its gala opening stage bill Freddie Bartholomew, the young English screen star. This is his first personal appearance in Chicago, and he will act as master of ceremonies as well as do a turn of his own. Also in the stage show are the Twelve Aristocrats, dance team; Carr Brothers and Betty, comedy pantomime artists; Kirby and Duval, singing comedians; Ross, Pierre, and Sweeney, radio clowns, and Verne Buck and the Sweethearts. The Oriental's first screen attraction is "Vacation from Love," starring Florence Rice, Dennis O'Keefe, and Reginald Owen.

Bob Crosby and his Dixieland orchestra are the stellar attractions on the Chicago theater's stage this week. "Men with Wings" is the film, featuring Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland, and Louise Campbell.

At the Palace theater Milton Berle holds forth on the stage, assisted by Mabel Todd, screen comedienne; Conklin and Thomas, shag champions; the Five Jansleys, acrobats; Ralph Sanford, and others. Mary Boland, Mischa Auer, and Edward Everett Horton are to be seen in the motion picture, "Little Tough Guys in Society."

Mae Brown, a recent popular attraction at the Rialto, returns this week to that theater. Her colleagues will include June St. Clair and Louise Miller. The accompanying film is "The Man with a Hundred Faces," with Tom Walls in the title rôle.

Likes His Lines.

Thornton Wilder, substituting in the leading rôle in his own play, "Our Town," used the opportunity to replace many of the lines in his part which had been cut by the director during rehersals.

Brilliant Casts Crowd Program of City Opera Company

Week to Bring 3 Top Flight Violin Artists

By Edward Barry.

Only the greatest self-control prevents a reference in this first paragraph to King Cole and his Fiddlers Three. The fact is that exactly this number of top ranking violinists is due in Orchestra hall within the next seven days.

Fritz Kreisler offers a recital today. Yehudi Menuhin will appear with the Chicago Symphony orchestra Thursday night and Friday afternoon. Joseph Szigeti is to play under Adult Education auspices Saturday evening.

Off and on, Fritz Kreisler has been before the American public for approximately fifty years. He came here as a boy in his early 'teens to astonish the natives with his precocity. Now, a man of 63, he remains one of the most potent drawing cards in the music business.

• • •

Kreisler has had a more interesting career than almost any living musician. It has included several things besides music. There were ten years of medical and art study, during which time he fitted in his military service as well. This was during the decade 1889-'99 which separated his short career as a boy prodigy from his long career as a fully mature artist.

Another interruption of a much more lamentable nature came along in 1914 when the war swept thieves and philosophers, usurers and musicians into the dead uniformity of the trenches. Kreisler served as an officer in the Austrian army. He was wounded at Lemberg and mustered out. Soon after the coming of peace he resumed his work, and from 1919 to the present day his life has been a succession of concert tours.

Fritz Kreisler is a composer as well as a performer. Also he has done a considerable amount of transcribing and has enriched the répertoire of the violin with music not originally intended for this instrument.

His program today includes the "Devil's Trill" sonata of Tartini [so called because the devil himself is reliably reported to have suggested some of its bravura features], the great Chaconne of Bach, and a Viotti concerto. Smaller offerings are a Beethoven Romanse, a Mozart rondo, Debussy's "The Girl with the Flaxen Hair," the Rimsky-Korsakoff "Hymn to the Sun," and the Spanish Dance from De Falla's "La Vida Breve."

• • •

Yehudi Menuhin is only 21 years old. He was born in New York and spent his early childhood in San Francisco, where he began violin lessons before reaching school age. At seven he played publicly in San Francisco, at ten in New York. Then followed a period of intensive European study.

Eleven years ago next Friday—on Nov. 25, 1927—Menuhin returned to the American concert platform, making a sensational appearance with the New York Symphony orchestra in the Beethoven violin concerto [the very work he is to play here this week.] Numerous American appearances, plus European and world tours, brought him to the spring of 1936, when he retired to his California ranch for a year and a half of additional study.

Emerging from obscurity last season, he began what promises to be one of the most brilliant adult careers of our time. Besides rare musical and technical gifts, Menuhin possesses the kind of sturdy physique which makes light of the arduous life which he has chosen for himself.

• • •

Joseph Szigeti is a Hungarian. He was born in the capital city of Budapest on Sept. 5, 1892, and studied there with the distinguished Jenö Hubay. A backward child compared with Menuhin, his professional debut did not take place until he had completed thirteen years on the planet. His active and successful life has included numerous tours of Europe and the United States. He has made five appearances with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Mr. Szigeti's Saturday evening program features a Bach sonata and a Mozart concerto. Corelli, Bloch, Ravel, Bartok, Scriabin, and Strawinsky are the other composers represented.

LEADER OF LITTLE SYMPHONY

Daniel Saidenberg is the conductor of the Saidenberg Symphonietta, which opens its second season of unique programs at the Goodman theater on Tuesday night.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Izler Solomon will conduct today's Illinois Symphony orchestra concert at the Great Northern theater. He features the Chausson symphony on the purely orchestral portion of the program. To be heard as soloist in Beethoven's fourth piano concerto will be Belle Tannenbaum, Chicago pianist, who played Macdowell's first piano concerto with the orchestra two years ago. The program:

Suite from "Dardanus" .... Rameau
[Arranged by Eric DeLamarter.]
Concerto No. 4, G major, for piano and orchestra .... Beethoven
Belle Tannenbaum.
Symphony, B-flat major .... Chausson

•

Starting its second season of admirable concerts at the Goodman theater next Tuesday night the Saidenberg Symphonietta, under its leader and founder, Daniel Saidenberg, promises another distinguished program. Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson, Chicago's well known harpsichordists, will collaborate with the ensemble in performances of music by Bach and Georg Philipp Telemann, a contemporary of Bach's, supplying the harpsichord continuo for the Brandenburg concerto and the "Don Quixote" suite, and playing the solo parts in the double harpsichord concerto. Music new to Chicago by the contemporary Paul Hindemith and the late Albert Roussel, constitutes the second portion of the concert. Milton Preves will be the viola soloist in the "Funeral Music" which Hindemith wrote and performed within two days after the death of George V. of England. The order of the program is as follows:

Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 .... Bach
Suite, "Don Quixote" .... Telemann
Concerto in C major, for two harpsichords and strings .... Bach
Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson.
Five Pieces for Strings, Op. 44 .... Hindemith
[First performance in Chicago.]
Funeral Music .... Hindemith
Milton Preves.
[First performance in Chicago.]
Sinfonietta, Op. 52 .... Roussel
[First performance in Chicago.]

•

The Chicago Woman's Musical club will sponsor the concert by Jascha Heifetz, violinist, at the Civic Opera house on Dec. 4, for the benefit of its scholarship fund. This fund will be awarded to the winning contestants in their 1939 contest. Applications governing the contest may be had from Katherine Conlon Johnson, 80 East Jackson boulevard.

Lauds Ballet

Chicago, Nov. 10.

The Editor Chicago Tribune:

Sir: I would be most grateful if you would extend me the courtesy of your newspaper in allowing me to express my delight with the Catherine Littlefield ballet, now in Chicago for a season with the Chicago Opera company.

As a member of the committee of the Vic-Wells ballet, which is looked upon as the English national ballet, I am especially interested in any movement of a national character, and was sorry to miss the Littlefield ballet during its visit to England last year. However, my long wait has been amply rewarded for, instead of beholding yet another "mushroom" company, born and dead within a season or two without contributing anything to the art of ballet, I beheld a company which radiates freshness and inspiration such as has not yet been seen in any foreign company touring Europe during the last year.

The reason is surely not far to seek. Not only is this all-American company infusing into the ballet new ideas and new characteristics, but above all it is a company. Many of the corps de ballet have worked together for eight years since they were young children, all of them for not less than four years. They are a permanent family, enthusiastic and co-operative, and the company is built on a large enough scale to endure.

One need not be concerned with the fact that they are incomplete dancers, the ability is there and the musical sense is there—all that is lacking is stage experience. Nor is there cause for concern that such ballets as "Fairy Doll" and "Moment Romantique" are based on old ideas and have been better done by Russian companies—the comparison is invidious. What is really important is that Miss Littlefield is a choreographer who shows constant flashes of genius, has an eye for the pattern of the ballet, a sense of theater and a sense of humor, and that the company is being soundly built along traditional classical lines, the basis of all true ballet however modern.

Perhaps the most important requirement of any national ballet company is that it should encourage and develop contemporary talent in all fields of art. It was five years before the Vic-Wells ballet became recognized as even approaching a first class company of dancers; now, after eight years, it has become the focal point of English composers, painters, designers, and even authors, and is treasured as a national institution. In the field of production, lighting, and general harmonious effect its ballets are unrivaled by any other company. After only three years all these tendencies are already in evidence in the Catherine Littlefield ballet.

I congratulate the American public on having a company within their midst which will become of national value so long as it receives its full share of that encouragement and friendly criticism so necessary to its continued existence.

I am, sir, yours truly,

EDWARD ASTLEY.

Wide Variety of Roles to Be Filled by Stars

By Cecil Smith.

The most brilliant casts of the season thus far crowd each other aside in the schedule of the Chicago City Opera company's fourth week at the Civic Opera house. Kirsten Flagstad, Dusolina Giannini, and Lily Pons are all here, ready to confer distinction upon a wide variety of leading rôles. Charles Hackett will adorn "The Barber of Seville" with his unequaled artistry and Galliano Masini and Beniamino Gigli share top billing with him in the tenor department.

"Lohengrin" comes back to the répertoire with Mme. Flagstad singing her first Elsa here, and Edwin McArthur, her accompanist, introducing himself as a conductor. To "Lucia di Lammermoor," which she sang here a year ago, Miss Pons adds "The Barber of Seville" for the first time. Along with a performance with the Littlefield ballet Miss Giannini sings the part of the jilted Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana." Mr. Gigli has the leading male rôle in the Saturday afternoon "Aïda."

• • •

Monday at 8—Wagner's "Lohengrin," with Kirsten Flagstad, Eleanor La Mance, René Maison, George Czaplicki, John Gurney, Mark Love; Edwin McArthur [debut], conductor.

Tuesday at 8—Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," with Dusolina Giannini, Elizabeth Brown, May Barron, John Pane-Gasser, George Czaplicki; Roberto Moranzoni, conductor; followed by the Littlefield ballet.

Wednesday at 8—Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor," with Lily Pons, Louisa Hoe, Galliano Masini, Giuseppe Cavadore, Lodovico Oliviero, Carlo Morelli, Virgilio Lazzari; Moranzoni, conductor.

Thursday at 8—[Popular priced board of education performance]: Bizet's "Carmen," with Giannini, Annunciata Garrotto, Helen Margolyne, Mari Barova, Armand Tokatyan, Cavadore, Jean Fardulli, Sandro Giglio, Douglas Beattie, Harris; Littlefield ballet; Louis Hasselmans, conductor.

Friday at 8—Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," with Flagstad, Hertha Glatz, Paul Althouse, Cavadore, Czaplicki, Beattie, Harris, Reinhold Schmidt; Henry Weber, conductor.

Saturday at 2—Verdi's "Aïda," with Eva Turner, Beniamino Gigli, Eleanor La Mance, Virgilio Lazzari; Moranzoni, conductor.

• • •

For their share in the mixed opera and ballet program Tuesday evening the members of the Littlefield ballet will repeat "Viennese Waltz" [Johann Strauss] and introduce to Chicago a piece entitled "Parable in Blue" [music by Martin Gabowitz, choreography by Catherine Littlefield]. The new ballet, drawn from American life, presents three symbolic characters at a penthouse party, Fate, Fortune and Sorrow, and shows the influence of each upon the people present.

She is assisted in her concerts by Pilar Lopez and Antonio De Triana, dancers; Carlos Montoya, guitarist, and a pianist.

10,000 Seeking Ideal School for 'Pre-Medical'

Dr. Evans' guide book on the selection of a college or university, entitled "Higher Education," now in its second edition, may be purchased for 10 cents [15 cents by mail] at Chicago Tribune Public Service offices, Tribune Tower, or at 1 South Dearborn street.

By the Rev. John Evans.

No less than 13,000 boys and girls who aspire to medical careers are beginning to cast about for the right college or university in which to do their pre-medical studies. For these the Association of American Medical Colleges, 5 South Wabash avenue, has sound advice and several warnings.

What is more, this association has made studies of colleges and universities as to their success in preparing youths for arduous studies in medical schools, and has made public a list of nearly 600 colleges showing how well they succeeded in this basic preparation. A sample table of this list follows this article.

Here is some of the association's advice as outlined by Dr. Fred C. Zapfee, secretary of the association:

Take a general education in preparation for medical studies and do not overemphasize the sciences; do not neglect the humanities such as languages and literature, history, philosophy, and psychology. In order to have time for humanities, take the minimum in the sciences required for medical school admission.

Fifteen per cent of all medical school freshmen flunk out, and eight to ten per cent more fail in the sophomore, junior and senior years.

Go to a college or university approved by a regional association, such as the North Central Association of Colleges and Universities, and the Association of American Universities. Of 572 colleges last year sending students to medical schools, 464 were approved and 108 were not accredited except by their state universities. Of students from the latter 108 schools, 31.8 per cent failed outright in medical schools. Only 14 per cent of the students from approved colleges failed to survive medical school rigors.

The following table is a summary of six years of studies showing how colleges succeeded in preparing their students for the first year in medical schools. The first column shows the number of students the college named sent into freshman medical school studies. The second column shows the number which passed on to the second medical year with clear records. The last column shows the percentage of success achieved by the college.

Dowling Efforts

Philip Barry's "Here Come the Clowns," a study of vaudevillians in a partly metaphysical setting, heads the list of plays on the schedule of the producer, Eddie Dowling, for the coming season. By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Lovers of the gay and exquisite music of an earlier era find prepared for them in the wilderness of present day "swing" a bountiful table of what they hold good.

"The Great Waltz" is the table and the works of Johann Strauss the melodic viands.

This charming operetta, similar to but not identical with the stage production, purports to be a "dramatization of the spirit rather than the actual life of Strauss." And against backgrounds of old Vienna, so different from the modern city, is thrown a fascinating legend of the composer's career, seen through a lovely lace of the music which fired him and entranced his generation.

It is all done with a light touch. Even the revolution doesn't appear to have mattered much, save as it served to inspire a Strauss march. As for the barricades of the streets—what of them—except as they caused an ardent Johann and his opera singer sweetheart to take a long ride through the Vienna woods, which jaunt resulted in "Tales of the Vienna Woods."

Beautiful scenery, quaint sets, picturesque costumes, excellent photography has this picture. AND what sounded to me like modern American slang—which didn't sit so well on these ears. BUT I'm not so sure it WAS modern, having recently been properly reprimanded by an authority who proved me all wrong when I talked that way about the word "Okeh."

Fernand Gravet, on the whole, handles his rôle capably, though I thought him rather too flippant at times. But he has moments of disarming simplicity and enthusiasm, which fact balances the scales, I guess.

Militza Korjus, Viennese coloratura who makes her American screen debut as the singer who comes between Strauss and his wife, is beautiful and has a gorgeous, a thrilling voice. But there's a hardness about her, a feline something or other, that antagonizes.

Luise Rainer plays the adoring, neglected, but ever loyal Mrs. Strauss in characteristic fashion. A bit too saccharine. She hasn't really clicked since "The Good Earth." Other players are excellent.

Certainly your interest in the picture never lags. What "Alexander's Ragtime Band" did for Irving Berlin and the hotcha class "The Great Waltz" does for Johann Strauss and his addicts, and their number is legion, believe it or not.

Walt Disney's latest output, "Ferdinand and the Bull," also is very much present on the United Artists screen.

See you tomorrow.

Argentinita Will Dance at the Arts Club Tonight

By Cousin Eve

Like the good old times, an Arts club supper tonight followed by Argentinita and her Spanish ensemble in the dance. Two of her troupe are musicians, a guitarist and a pianist. Two are gypsies, a beautiful girl and a man on the order of Escudero. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Arts club president, has long wanted to have Argentinita for a soirée, but the cost of importing her was too great. Now civil war in Spain has blown her this way, so it's an ill wind that blows nobody good! There has been a tremendous rush for seats at this party.

This week has whiled away many a shining hour. Grand opera, grander than ever with the return of Masini in "Tosca," and the extraordinary Littlefield ballet. And much private entertaining, with the great glittering banquet of the English Speaking union at the Drake. This was an array of English and American cousins quite formidable. There were President Samuel M. Rinaker, Oxford graduate; Mrs. Rinaker, Lord and Lady Russell, Maj. Vincent Price, president of the Canada branch, and John W. Davis, former ambassador to England and founder of the union.

His was an ambassadorial fluency of speech; short words and mellow sentences, smooth voice, impeccably turned out. Charming man. Everybody was for him and his speech.

One didn't quite know what Lord Russell was talking about, and one wondered to oneself if he did. These brilliant chaps think they can rise and say any old thing. Major Price was most succinct and had a good reception, but the man who stole the show was Vojta Benes, a brother of the ex-president of Czechoslovakia, a white-haired, rosy-cheeked, kindly looking man. The dinner party rose en masse and shouted lustily for him, as the brother of the unlucky gentleman who tried to play poker with Herr Hitler.

Not to enumerate the hundreds of people wearing lovely clothes, there was among them Frank Salisbury, eminent British painter, with his delightful wife, guests of the Tommy Hindes. Mr. Salisbury was superbly turned out, as befits the royal artist of the court of St. James's, here from London to do another seasonal job of painting. I was sorry not to Below: Mrs. Alanson James Donald was, until Nov. 12, Miss Margot Reid. Her marriage to the son of Mrs. George Donald of New York took place at St. Chrysostom's church, with a reception following at the Casino, given by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid. Mr. and Mrs. Donald will make their home in Lake Forest when they return from their wedding trip.

Above: Mrs. Edward Byron Smith is one of Lake Forest's prettiest and most attractive young matrons, a belle of Bachelors' and Benedicts' and Assembly balls. The Assembly this year will be on Dec. 17 and the Bs' and Bs', as usual, will be on Thanksgiving eve. Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Louise Dewey.

WILL BE WED SATURADY

The marriage of Miss Mary Frances Sullivan, daughter of Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and Mrs. Sullivan of 5856 Forest Glen avenue, to Frank W. Hausmann Jr. will take place on Saturday at St. Ignatius church. Miss Sullivan attended Mundelein college. Mr. Hausmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Hausmann of 4443 North Mozart avenue, is a graduate of Loyola university.

Chicagoans to Offer Thanks in Pasadena

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL. Among the Chicagoans who will celebrate Thangsgiving in Pasadena next Thursday are Mrs. Robert H. Ripley of Winnetka and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson, who have just arrived and are again at the Huntington. Edward A. Cudahy, who has been a guest at the Huntington and at the Hotel del Coronado since his arrival here early in November, will go back to spend Thanksgiving with his children and grandchildren in Chicago, but will hasten back to finish out the winter season in the Crown City.

Mrs. Charles Morse is established again at the same hotel and she, too, took a whirl down to Coronado, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Day. Mrs. Charles Blaul is at the Vista del Arroyo once more and the Chicago attorney, Arthur D. Welton, is among the early comers at the Huntington.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. McCormick have spent a few days here before going on to spend the holidays in Phoenix. They did not reopen their Oak Knoll estate nor their recently purchased Bel Air home. Instead they went directly to the Beverly Hills hotel.

• • •

Passing through on their way to Honolulu, where they will arrive in time for Thanksgiving, were Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr. [Julia Rush Biddle Henry], who are on their honeymoon after a wedding in St. Paul's church, Philadelphia. They visited before sailing on the Lurline, with Mrs. John J. Mitchell of Montecito, a relative of the bridegroom.

Figuring in the pre-nuptial flurry which surrounded Miss Jane Courtney Hine of Long Beach, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. William J. Hine, who became the bride of Lieut. George Davis, U. S. N., last evening, was Miss Mary Jane Jacobs, daughtef of Capt. and Mrs. Randall Jacobs of Chicago. Miss Jacobs gave a cocktail party recently to which she invited thirty young people to compliment the betrothed pair.

Also listed among the hostesses for fall brides is Miss Allene Withers, who entertained a few days ago with a luncheon at the Santa Monica Del Mar club in compliment to Miss Janis Clatworthy, bride-elect of Don Piper.

But one of the biggest parties of the week was Miss Lorraine Hopkins' cocktails and dancing at the Valley Hunt Saturday from 4 until 7. Whatever the conjectures beforehand, Miss Hopkins proved her original statement that it was "just a party." She included among her 150 guests the Eugene Leslie Bruces [Gertrude Gaylord], Rufus Paine Spaldings Jr., Keith Marstons [Bebe Jane Oneal], Morris W. Mothershead, Robert C. Byrne [Barbara Boisot], William H. Wolfe, Miss Helen La Chance, Miss Gretchen Schleicher and her fiancé, Joseph Mather Jr., Miss Jane Pond and her fiancé, Edward Groenendyke, Miss Ann Cornwell, and Miss Allene Withers, all names familiar in Chicago.

Miss Hopkins is the daughter of Mrs. Curtis M. Willock of South Orange Grove avenue and of Mr. Walter Hopkins.

A bit of the flavor of old California attended a wedding which has interested towns throughout the San Gabriel valley, that of Miss Gabriela Isabel Cecelia Quiroz to Thomas Workman Temple II., yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in the old Mission San Gabriel.

The bride wore a handmade lace gown, an 80 year old heirloom in her family, and was given in marriage by her father, Gabriel Charles Quiroz of San Gabriel, long the sacristan of the mission. Her grandmother, Dona Gabriela Bojorquez de Quiroz, was for many years the mission's majordomo.

Mr. Temple is the son of Walter Paul Temple, founder of Temple City, who passed away only a few days before the wedding. The bridegroom's grandfathers Temple and Workman came to California in 1841 and streets in Los Angeles bear their names.

see him when I went in to see Betty Hoyt Swift's new portrait. But he was2 busy that day painting Emilie Hoyt Cummings, having been so successful with the portrait of her sister. Mr. Salisbury is not just a painter. He is also a sculptor and formerly was an architect. A number of portraits of men are hanging in the Anderson gallery, one of Norman Harris and a marvelous coronation picture of George VI. in golden robes, crown, and insignia. Covering one wall is the original completed sketch of the coronation procession, superbly colored, almost medieval in its quality, with sheen of metals and glow of textiles.

There's a saying that Mr. Salisbury's sister's pearls are always marine, and oriental, not ever Japanese.

Well, I've been seeing still other Britishers this week. There was Col.. Rhys Davies, D. S. O., hard bitten war veteran, once of the military intelligence service. He spoke at the Contemporary club on "Spies in War and Peace" and the turnout to hear him was formidable. Methods of Scotland Yard are always thrilling, and pre-war days in England were etched when the country was full of spies in July, 1914. Not one of them was touched until the eve of Great Brtain's war declaration when 790 German spies were rounded up. Col. Davies said that international spies were about the lowest form of life. So he was surprised in California when a lady rushed up after his lecture to say that she longed to have her son become "an international spy."

Mrs. Selim McArthur presided at an interesting luncheon later at the Fortnightly when the colonel was given a third degree on foreign politics.

A pink cheeked, dapper English chap, smart as a little tin soldier, who brought a flock of letters, was Edward Astley of the Thunderer [or London Times], in America for a year. Then he will write a book about us. I wonder will he write a story about himself that is going the rounds? Henry Field had invited Astley to his house to tea to meet Osa Johnson, charming huntress of lions and widow of Martin Johnson, noted Afrcan explorer. But unluckily there was another guest present whose name was something like the enchanting Osa's, so Astley spent the hour worshipping at the wrong shrine. He was in the right church, but seated in the wrong pew. When his error was discovered, both women had left.

Lunching with Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank one day, Mr. Astley regaled the table, which included Margaret Ayer Barnes, with that story. And also he said that the British people didn't seem to realize the American revolution as yet. "Well, they will," remarked Mrs. Barnes drily.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field sailed Tuesday at midnight for England, recalled by the death of Algernon Burnaby, Henry's stepfather, at Leamington, in the hunting country.

Weddings and more weddings! A quiet one in Paris last week was that of Stella Webber, daughter of the late Henry and Mrs. Webber of upper Astor street, and Sergei Cheremetieff. Most of us know and like the engaging Russian who has frequented American circles in Paris since the great war. A huge fellow, tres aimable.

The wedding breakfast was arranged by the Clark J. Minors, great friends of Cheremetieff, who have an apartment in Avenue Matignon at the Rond Point. Miss Webber went abroad in May with Comtesse Elsie de Pierrefeu. Both were co-heiresses of the large estate of a Boston cousin, a venerable dame, whose will, however, was contested by distant relatives. To pay the costs of this suit, Miss Webber opened a small circulating library which was highly successful. And she won ultimately her share of the fortune. A timid, gray eyed little mouse, she went but little in gay Chicago society, but is greatly enjoying her new husband's prestige.

BRIDE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. James of 7245 Euclid avenue will welcome a bride into their family on Wednesday when Miss Florence Katherine Sperl (above) is married to their son, Hal James. Miss Sperl, daughter of Mrs. Henry George Sperl of Scarsdale, N. Y., and young Mr. James will make their home in New York following a trip to the Caribbean. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

The Cheremetieffs are a very great family of old Russia, great in historical figures and formerly of enormous, almost fantastic wealth. An extraordinary romance was the marriage of Sergei's grandfather way back in the early days of the last century. He got lost while hunting in the forest one day, utterly lost. Suddenly he came upon a peasant girl, beautiful as a dream, walking in the forest. Hers was a loveliness beyond words and Cheremetieff fell in love with her.

History says that Cheremetieff married the girl and took her to Paris where he had her perfected in French. After several years in Paris, the noble Russian moved to London with his beautiful peasant wife and she learned English. The husband read aloud from the classics, and had his wife instructed in music and dancing until finally she was presentable, and he took her back to Russia. At St. Petersburg, Mme. Cheremetieff became at once the toast of the town. Her extraordinary beauty and amiability won over the brilliant court society of that day, and it all ended happily. Their descendants were extremely handsome. So much for romance! Mr. and Mme. Sergei Cheremetieff are in Rome on their wedding journey and they will live in Paris.

And so they were married, meaning Margot Reid and Alanson Donald, and the wedding was beautiful. Pink was the high note and the Casino was overflowing with gayety, guests, strains of music, dancing, and the swirling pink satin skirts of twelve lovely bridesmaids. On their young heads were tiny hats of red flowers and they carried red roses.

A long buffet stood in the center of the ballroom, and in the center of that was the wedding cake. The wedding cake was pink and topped by red roses and so pretty that one paused to think. Never before in all the weddings one had attended, here, there, and everywhere had one ever seen a pink wedding cake, and why not? The bride was beautiful, tall, slim, and dark. She had the effect of being clouded in tulle and lost in the lengths of her magnificent pearly satin train. This she gathered up to do some dancing after the long queue of guests had faded away. Strains of the Lambeth Walk music seem to start people up blithely to dance and caper a bit. Traysful of champagne were constantly passed at this reception, and an interested looker on at our social customs was young Baron Charles von Stumm of Berlin, here over the week-end staying with some charming American cousins.

The Glenn Franks were also down from Madison. Perhaps it was my imagination, but Dr. Frank had the happy, satisfied smile of the household pet that has swallowed the canary. Mrs. Bryan Reid was Margaret Brittingham, once a Madison girl, and her wedding costumes, as mother of the bride, was a short sleeved, dark red silk frock absolutely plain, with square neck. A long pink feather drooped at the back from a small flat capote.

The day before, Mrs. William F. Burrows had a reception at the Casino for her lovely young grandchild, Peggy Burrows and never did I see this delightful rendezvous look more beautiful. The flowers sent to this popular bud and her grandmother were simply prodigious. Mrs. Ford R. Carter came in as the artist to arrange the magnificent gifts that were quite overwhelming in their splendor. The black marble foyer was lined with floral baskets of the gayest. The two ladies received in a sort of grotto of tall pale ferns and orchid plants, and the consoles were laden with small hand bouquets of every color and sort.

The silvery twin pillars supporting the ballroom dome were twined in laurel, and here again bouquets were pink and red, while the green and white fountain room was lined with white plants and baskets and was like walking in a garden. The young debutante wore a simple silk frock of beige pink and various of the year's buds assisted, also her subdeb young sister, Ruth. Receiving in the ballroom were Mrs. John Pitcher, Mrs. W. F. Burrows Jr., and Miss Louisa Burrows. It is remarkable how many of one's old friends appear these days at afternoon debut parties. From Lake Forest and the whole north shore they come joyously in. And surely the gorgeous California weather we are having has to do with it.

The Orientals of the Art institute have achieved atmosphere in their haunts in those roomy caverns underneath the florid upper halls of our great picture gallery. Something of the calm and serenity of the orient flows into one's soul, wandering at will among the gorgeous works of art here collected. To reach the Oriental tea last week, one had perforce to cross the Japanese collections of screens and golden robes, gleaming with beautiful color and gold design after centures. Here and there one met up with red arrows pointing at things. They were indicating Russell Tyson's recent purchases from Egypt. In fact, Mr. Tyson seemed to have gone on a shopping binge and to have come home with many glorious things, from the eighth to the eighteenth centuries. Mr. Tyson was receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer and later made a short and entertaining speech upon the joys of collecting.

Ocupying places of high honor at this exhibit were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunham's group of three ancient Chinese porcelain figures of the Chi'ing and late Ming dynasties. These were flanked by cabinets of small porcelain monotones, also of the Dunham group, not so interesting perhaps, but precious and rare.

The Chinese figures, however, are marvelous and Bob Dunham calls the central one, who is goddess of something or other, his Mona Lisa. She has, to be sure, a subtle, cryptic, Chinese smile. Among the guests at this charming party where Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Mrs. Dan Rich, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Alice H. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Worcester, and Robert Drummond of Peking, one of three agreeable Chicago brothers who are beaux of the American set in the old Manchu capital. Mr. Drummond relates that life flows on in Peking very much as usual. "Aunt" Lucy Calhoun has recently had visiting her Mrs. Herbert Stuart Stone, sister of Chauncey McCormick, on a two year world trip. Mrs. Stone aims to be in Chicago for Thanksgiving, I hear.

Hotel and apartment reservations exceed those of any previous winter season. Most of the seasonal tourist hotels have been opened to guests. The Hotel Vinoy Park and the Soreno will open Dec. 20. The Huntington started up last Tuesday.

Peerage Now Has 27 Wives from America

By Ann Whittingham.

LONDON Mrs. Margaret Power Drum of Montana, whom the Earl of Carrick recently brought here as his bride, makes the twenty-seventh American woman now married to a British peer or to the heir of a British peerage, according to Lord Donegall, writing in the Daily Mail.

And by odd coincidence he finds that there are twenty-seven other American women who are princesses scattered over Europe.

• • •

What chiefly impresses Lord Donegall is the changed attitude of the press and the public toward these trans-Atlantic marriages, for nowadays, in marked contrast to the prewar days, there is complete indifference to the question whether Mrs. Drum is very rich, moderately well-to-do, or relatively poor. The sole interest is: "What is she like?"

That she is good looking and smart is taken for granted, as is also the fact that the marriage has a romantic rather than a plutocratic basis.

But in the old days there would have been jeering references to the "nobleman selling his title," even when the "nobleman" in question was himself very rich and under no compulsion to sell anything.

• • •

However, that trans-Atlantic "trafic in titles" did have, of course, a basis in the export of American money estimated in excess of $200,000,000. Some were loveless marriages and ended in shipwreck, although the striking thing about those early alliances between the Newport "snobbery" and the decayed fortunes of certain sections of the British peerage was that the American girls, on the whole, stuck to the fulfilment of the bargains. Divorces and separations were strangely few.

The earl of Carrick's first wife, whom he married in 1930, was Mrs. Marion C. Edwards, elder daughter of D. C. Donoghue of Philadelphia.

Pastel Tweeds.

Heavy tweed fashions the sport jacket of a new winter suit, but the colorings are soft and feminine. Blue, gray, pale yellow, and white combine in a flattering plaid. A skirt of grayish blue wool is cut circular and accessories of deeper gray-blue carry out the feminine note.

Mayor and Mrs. Edward J. Kelly and States Attorney and Mrs. Thomas J. Courtney are among the boxholders for the benefit performance of George M. Cohan's musical show, "I'd Rather Be Right," to be sponsored by the Big Sisters on Thanksgiving eve at the Auditorium theater.

Lewis, president of the Illinois Club of Catholic Women, and Mrs. Charles Segal, president of the Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations, are directing this part of the campaign. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank heads the women's division.

Two of the annual Thanksgiving teas sponsored by the Woman's board of the Presbyterian hospital will be held tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Robert H. Herbst is chairman of a tea to be given at the home of Mrs. Truman Metzel in Highland Park, and Mrs. Charles S. Reed is chairman of a tea to be sponsored by the Fourth Presbyterian church hospital group at the home of Mrs. John Drummond, 3240 Lake Shore drive.

A third tea, originally announced as taking place tomorrow, will be held Tuesday, Nov. 29, at the home of Mrs. James W. McCulloh, 4847 Kimbark avenue. Mrs. Rosetta M. Lukey will speak on "The Soul of Jade."

The American Daughters of Sweden have taken over the Civic Opera house for Jussi Bjoerling's concert at 3:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. Proceeds of this program by the distinguished Swedish singer will go to the Daughters' scholarship fund, as well as to the American Swedish Historical museum at Philadelphia, Pa. Franz Bodfors of Evanston, concert pianist, also will appear on the program with Bjoerling. Mrs. Ruth Mannow Olsson, president of the American Daughters of Sweden, is chairman of this benefit.

"Man with Mike Fright, Moons Over Manicurist" and "Toothless Mouth Munching on Tuneless Melody" are typical titles of the ten large pastels which are to be included in the Gracie Allen exhibition next week at the Artists Union gallery, 205 East Superior street. The China Aid council is sponsoring the show, and proceeds will go to the Chinese Red Cross Medical Relief commission. A tea will be held next Sunday, the opening day.

"Just wanted to paint one day, and so I painted," was Gracie Allen's own explanation of the exhibition. "Really, I was terribly surprised when I discovered the paintings were surrealistic," she added. The exhibition has been held over in New York, Philadelphia, and Washington by the interest of Gracie's followers.

Perhaps the most important event of the year for the forty-eight clubs of the First district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, is the annual philanthropic card party to be held Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 1 o'clock in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman. There will be door and table prizes, and a table of goodies. Mrs. V. Farrington Timme, district finance chairman, is handling arrangements. Mrs. George Hanly Nippert is district president.

The radio department of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will give a luncheon and card party Saturday at Goldblatt's State street store to raise money for the installation of a permanent audition system at federation headquarters, 30 West Washington street. Mrs. O. L. Strehlow, radio chairman of the 7th district, chairman of the benefit, is receiving reservations. All federation programs are to be rehersed on this system until ready for broadcasting.

Miss Ruth Coleman and Miss Virginia Oberg will be hostesses to the Martha Washington auxiliary at a card party tomorrow evening at Miss Coleman's home, 7438 Coles avenue. Proceeds will go to the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children. The club has started a birthday box, to which each member will contribute a penny for each year of her age at the meeting following her birthday.

The annual Thanksgiving frolic of Alpha Kappa Omega Phi sorority will bring together seven chapters under the auspices of the grand council Wednesday evening at the Hotel La Salle. Mrs. Dewey is chairman.

Cacao Seeds as Money.

So esteemed was cocoa at one time that in many parts of Mexico the seeds of the cacao tree were used as money, and the beverages could be afforded only by royalty.

Royalty from the Continent Loves London

LONDON Foreign royalties, when anxious to dispense with formalities, seem to love to come to London, regardless of fogs and inclement weather. They can shop, go to theaters and night clubs, reasonably free from the attentions of the "candid camera."

King Leopold of Belgium with his sister, the princess of Piedmont, has been the latest royal visitor. The king slipped back home as unobtrusively as he came, but the princess of Piedmont stayed on and enjoyed herself at several private parties given in her honor.

One of them was given at Ciro's for her by the Baroness Ravensdale and Lady Alexandra Metcalfe. These are two of her closest friends, for during the war the princess was bundled off to England where she stayed in the care of the late Marquess Curzon of Kedleston and his wife.

At Ciro's, Giovanni, the pickpocket entertainer, paid special attention to the Baroness Ravensdale's distinguished party, for he rifled them of expensive trifles with great nonchalance, although discreetly sparing royalty.

The private visits of King Carol of Rumania and of King George of Greece will furnish society much less of interest, for they will be less visible than, say, the princess of Piedmont. Indeed, it is assumed that both are here on fairly important business.

Use of Leisure to Be Topic at P.-T. A. Forum

By Betty Browning.

A subpena to the "Probate Court of Public Opinion" has been issued by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, preparatory to holding a hearing in the matter of "Youth versus Society." This hearing will be an event of the fourth annual recreation congress all day tomorrow at the Hotel Sherman. The Chicago recreation commission will bring together some 2,000 leaders of the city's principal civic and educational agencies and organizations for the conference.

"Does society train youth for wise use of leisure?" is the question to be answered at the mock trial. The Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers has summoned students from the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, colleges and high schools as witnesses for the prosecution.

• • •

Witnesses for the defense, who will testify as to improved facilities and increased coöperation in training youth for leisure, will be Lea D. Taylor, chairman of the division on education and recreation of the Council of Social Agencies; Wilton S. Clements of the board of education playgrounds, and representatives of the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Chicago Boys' clubs, the Campfire Girls, the Chicago park district, the churches, the Y. M. C. A., and the Y. W. C. A.

Typical testimony offered will be that of Ernest Knutti, Finnish vice consul, who will describe how the Finnish Community council has obtained its remarkably low rate of juvenile delinquency for Chicago's Finnish colony.

Mrs. Charles W. Balch.

Mrs. Charles W. Balch, recreation and drama chairman of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, has arranged this program as an answer to the charges brought by youth against society at a similar trial during last year's recreation congress.

The mock trial will come as a climax to group meetings, discussions, round tables, and exhibits demonstrating the status of organized recreation in Chicago.

Dr. Homer P. Rainey of Washington, D. C., director of the American Youth commission, will speak at a dinner tomorrow evening. Mayor Kelly, Dr. Arthur J. Todd of Northwestern university, and Dr. Philip L. Seman, director of the Jewish People's institute and chairman of the Chicago Recreation commission, also will speak.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of the Council of Social Agencies, is general chairman of this annual congress. August H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education of the board of education, will have charge of the daytime program, and the Rev. Michael J. O'Connell, president of De Paul university, of the dinner meeting.

Abbe Ernest Dimnet, distinguished French author and lecturer, will give one of the interesting lectures of the week before the Charles Carroll forum at 3:30 o'clock today in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. His topic will be "Has Christianity Failed?"

• • •

Finance and economics will be discussed by Dr. A. Lauren Brown, author and educator, in an illustrated talk, "The Blind Spot of Science," before the Woman's Progressive club of Chicago at luncheon Tuesday noon at the Congress hotel and again on Tuesday evening at a "finance education" dinner of the Lake Shore Business and Professional Women's club at the Hotel Sherman.

Landscape gardening will share the attention of the Woman's Progressive club at its luncheon. Mrs. Burt Stevens and Mrs. Otto C. Block are cochairmen of the program. Goodwin Samuels, 12 year old pianist, will play for the Lake Shore Business and Professional Women's club. Leading business and professional women will be guests. Dr. Vida A. Latham and Mrs. Nelle Packard will be in charge.

Another interesting lecture of the week will be that of the Rev. James Magner, professor of oratory at Quigley seminary, before the Diocesan Guild of Catholic Nurses at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Palmer house. All registered nurses, whether members of the guild or not, are invited. Miss Agnes Marner is president.

Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer, Jason F. Whitney, president of the Chicago City Opera company, and Mrs. Whitney, Rudolph Ganz, Mrs. Belle Forbes Cutter, and Rossetter Cole will be guests of the Chicago Musical Arts club at a meeting this afternoon at the Fine Arts building. A film of early musical instruments will be shown, and Miss Freda Draper, contralto, and Gilbert L. Check, bass baritone, will give a program. Mrs. Samuel V. Robuck is president.

Miss Helen McCrillus.

Delta Delta Delta will rally its members in the Chicago area at a banquet tomorrow evening in celebration of the sorority's fiftieth anniversary. The event will be held at 6:30 o'clock at the Orrington hotel in Evanston, with Miss Helen McCrillus, president of the Chicago Alliance of Tri Delta, as general chairman.

Gold candles placed in delta formation and clusters of pine cones will decorate the tables. Movies of the recent fiftieth anniversary convention at Swampscott, Mass., will be shown, and Miss Jane Dinsmore will read "The Ode to the Founders." The sorority was founded at Boston university on Thanksgiving eve in 1888.

Epsilon province of Delta Theta Tau fraternity is holding its thirteenth annual convention this weekend at the Stevens hotel. Opal Starr of South Bend, Ind., is national president, and June Parsons of Springfield, Ill., province officer. This organization maintains a school in the Kentucky mountains.

Anglo-American Wedding Pervaded by Tudor Spirit

LONDON One of the prettiest Anglo-American weddings in many a month was the one held recently in the old Henry VII.'s chapel of Westminster abbey, when the third son of Lord and Lady Stamp, the Hon. Arthur Maxwell Stamp, married Miss Janet Tyler Bryan of Beaumont, Tex., whom he met at Cambridge.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. B. Tyler Bryan of Beaumont and of Mrs. R. G. L. Morgan of Burwash Weald, Sussex. The dean of Westminster officiated, assisted by the Rev. Harry Bisseker.

The bride's white satin frock, her tulle wimple, and her underskirt of knife plaited chiffon covered with diamante dewdrops were in the Tudor tradition of the chapel itself. The Hon. Colin Stamp was best man.

An Architect Makes Good as an Artist

By Eleanor Jewett.

Two exhibitions current in local galleries this month discover new talent to us. The most stimulating discovery is that of the young architect, David Saul, by Leo Buntman, who is giving the artist a first exhibit of his water colors in the Buntman galleries, 17 North Wabash avenue. The other "new" painter is Herb Olsen, whose water colors may be seen at the O'Brien galleries, 824 Tower court.

A human interest story lies back of the David Saul show. Mr. Saul is an architect, married, with one little child. The business of architecture has fallen upon evil times and Mr. Saul is one of its numerous victims. By chance Mr. Buntman went into his studio and looked over several of his drawings. He was impressed by their meticulous detail and by a feeling that if the artist could relax a bit, work in a little broader fashion and let his imagination loose from the restraint of a drawing board, he might do something.

On the chance that here was a talent that would blossom given the right conditions, Mr. Buntman bought up everything Saul would part with, and that money carried the young architect, his wife and child to Mexico. There they are living, very cheaply, and there Mr. Saul is relaxing and painting. This first exhibit shows of what stuff his talent is. It is a brilliant show — sparkling, different, imaginative, and intelligent. From the sales of these pictures Mr. Buntman relays money to Mexico so that Mr. Saul may stay on, painting his heart out, giving us a new interpretation of that land of beauty.

In a similar way Mr. O'Brien of the O'Brien galleries was impressed with a few water colors by Herb Olsen, a young man who lives in Evanston and painted more or less for his own pleasure. Mr. O'Brien found his work attractive but on the soft side. It lacked punch and originality, though it had promise. He persuaded Mr. Olsen and his wife to go to Norway last summer, thinking a new country would do a great deal in developing a talent he felt sure was there.

Mr. Olsen went to Norway, Iceland, Sweden, and Denmark. He has brought back a sheaf of magnificent water colors, fine in drawing and thrilling in color. They are strong and sure. You feel a little bit in their presence as you do face to face with a John Whorf, that here is a man who undertakes water color as a serious job, nor contents himself with a flirtation.

It is curious how two exhibitions so different in character and tempo as are the water color shows of David Saul and Herb Olsen can both be pleasing, yet both are. Perhaps they reflect the background of the men—here Jew, there Scandinavian — the one lilting, gay, amusing [and yet well done], the other serious, quiet, conscientious, beautiful—and again, well done. There will be few who can resist the appeal of both painters. Chicago should be proud to add their names to her list of distinguished craftsmen.

Another exhibition of an unusual flavor is that at 333 North Michigan avenue. Probably most of you have passed those huge glass windows behind which sparkle and gleam the paintings contributed to the first annual show of members of the Free Lance Artists guild. These artists are commercial artists, who, as an experiment, have arranged this exhibit of fine art painting—and have made an excellent thing of it.

If they were trying to prove that working on a cash basis does not necessarily drive genius from your door, their point is made. Many of the pictures in the exhibit would be welcomed under any name.

The show is alive, colorful, diversified, and amusing. There are landscapes, figure studies, portraits, nudes—a little of nearly everything. Oil and water color are both represented.

The first prize in any medium to the beautifully executed nude, "Despair," by Ben Stahl. The first prize in water color was awarded to Dale Nichols [who is as well known in art circles as he is in commercial art circles] for his symbolic painting of a country funeral in the winter, "Death Comes to Elizabeth." The award for the best oil went to the magnificent autumn countryside, "Landscape," by Frederic Tellander, another man whose name is found year after year on many of Chicago's finest pictures.

The first award was offered by the Free Lance Artists guild, the second and third prizes by the Town and Country Arts club.

Honorable mentions were given to "Galena Depot," by Al Kortner, and "And So to Bed," by Paul Lehman.

The judges of selection and award were Charles Fabens Kelley of the Chicago Art institute; W. J. Kittredge of the Lakeside Press; Harry Engle of the Chicago galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue, and this writer.

The most impressive exhibition to have opened this month is that of recent portraits by Charles Sneed Williams at the Ackermann galleries, Fine Arts building. It is a magnificent exhibit.

An important exhibition of the work of John Taylor Arms, noted American etcher and president of the Society of American Etchers, opened last Tuesday at the Roullier galleries, 410 South Michigan avenue. The charming water colors on celluloid, from Walt Disney's "Snow White," also may be seen in this gallery, where they will be shown through the holiday season. Several more of the attractive little animal pictures have been added to the group, and it is one of the most amusing and cheerful shows in town.

A third attraction in the Roullier galleries just now is a group of drawings by Alfeo Faggi, the sculptor. These are unusually interesting. The drawing is sensitive, sound, and fine. You will enjoy the baby's head, the several exquisite nudes, and the classical portrait of a woman.

The fall exhibition of paintings by artist members of the South Side Art association opened last Sunday at the Sherry hotel.

The Chicago Woman's salon, the Findlay galleries, 424 South Michigan avenue, is extremely good this year. There are several pictures whose purpose might be questioned [notably the dubious "In the Park" of Laura Slobe], but on the whole the exhibit has character and interest. Among the best things are "Portrait," by Winifred Pleimling; "Sleeping Dog," by Florence White Williams; "From the Studio," by Averil Conwell; "Past Glories," by Nina K. Griffin; "Stamp Book," by Frances Foy; "My Day," by Peggy Palmer; "The Horse," by Harriet Krawiec, and "The Red Cushion," by Eugenie Glamen.

Landscapes of Glacier park and the redwoods of California by Pieter Van Veen, are also hung at the Findlay galleries and make a good show. Mr. Van Veen does well by the mountains. His work is powerful and sure. The impression of distance and height is well defined, and you know that here is a painter who has really worked in the surroundings he has painted—there is none of that sickly studio atmosphere about these westerns, an atmosphere that is only too easily sniffed in certain postcard tourist work.

Twelve canvases by Walter Krawiec have just been hung in the Saddle and Sirloin club at the Union stockyards, lovers of good animals and good painting take note! Krawiec is without a doubt the best man we have today painting horses and cattle. These new pictures are well worth all your attention. They depict scenes in the stockyards, packing houses, and stock show. Do not miss them.

The Northwest Art league has opened its fourth annual fall art exhibit at the Edgewater Beach hotel to continue to Dec. 1. Across from the exhibit a showing of small landscapes in oil by the late Alfred E. Juergens, noted American painter, has been arranged. This is one of the choicest shows in town; the paintings are most attractive.

Portraits by Buell Mullin, Chicago painter, are on view at the Ferargil galleries, New York, to Dec. 3. This follows Buell Mullin's one man show of portraits held at the Findlay galleries in town earlier this month.

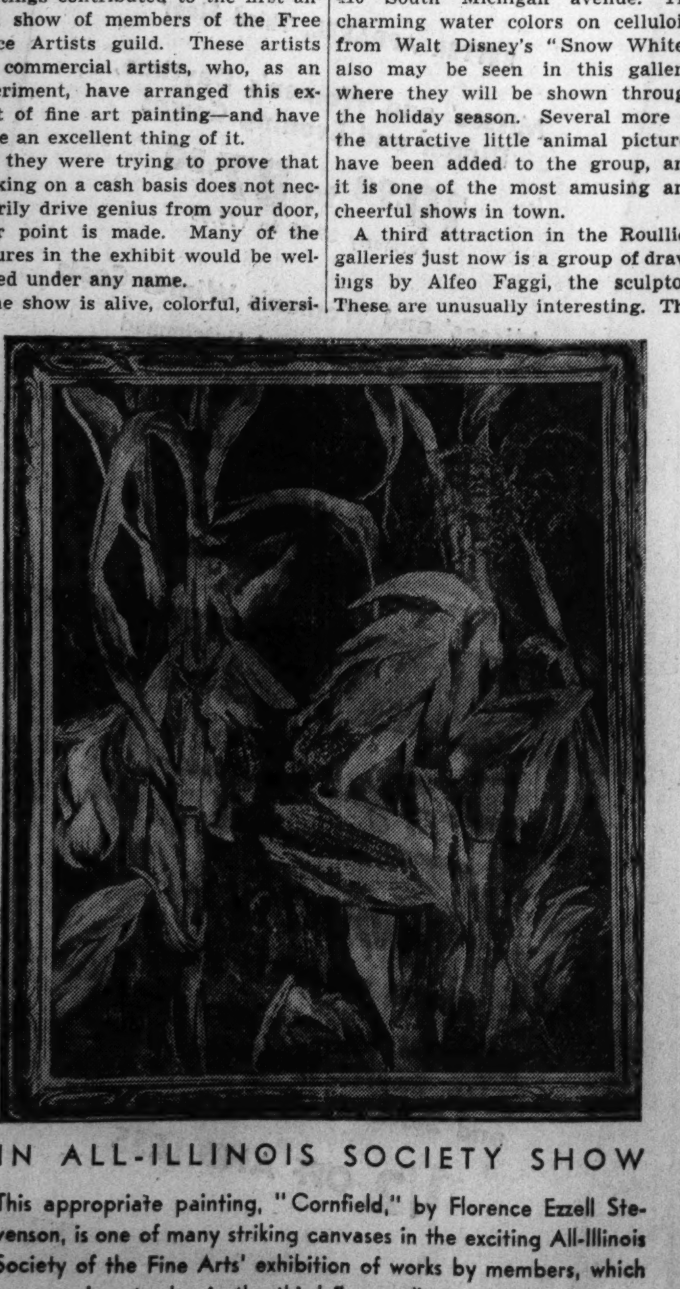
The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan prize of $75 was awarded to "Peasant Woman," by Hans Theo Richter of Dresden, Germany, in the fifth international exhibition of etching and engraving current in the print rooms of the Art institute to Jan. 9. Germany has now been remembered with prizes in two American cities this fall—Hofer won the Carnegie international first prize a month ago.



IN ALL-ILLINOIS SOCIETY SHOW

This appropriate painting, "Cornfield," by Florence Ezzell Stevenson, is one of many striking canvases in the exciting All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts' exhibition of works by members, which opened yesterday in the third floor galleries, Stevens hotel.

Florence Will Have Year Long Medici Exhibit

By May Birkhead.

FLORENCE, ITALY

To a degree difficult to appreciate in our homeland, politics dominate the thought of Europeans. Almost every move that is made is, or seems to be, inspired by the separate or joint interests of one or more of the powers. The extent to which such preoccupations narrow the lives and horizons of Europeans has to be experienced to be believed. It is natural that any means of escape from the dreariness of political topics should be welcomed. One chance seems to be afforded in the series of exhibitions that are to be opened in Italy next spring.

Milan, along with the operatic season at La Scala, is to stage a special showing of the works of Leonardo da Vinci; Venice is to play up the art of Paul Veronese, and Florence is to feature, beginning in late April, a Medici exposition which will run for a year.

• • •

We have been making some inquiries here about the program for the Medici showing. About all that can be definitly known, at the moment, is the date of inauguration. But it is evident that the resources of Florence will be brought into play for commemorating the family which was long identified with the most brilliant period of the City of Flowers, the Athens of the West, as the denizens then proudly called themselves, the place where the Renaissance started.

The statues and buildings of the Medici in Florence, to say nothing of the innumerable works of art that recall the power, achievements, and personalities of this celebrated family, during many generations, and the monuments of painting, sculpture, and architecture that they commissioned, may give some idea of how rich and varied will be the exposition devoted to them. As for the setting, every one who knows Florence—and who does not—can imagine how the famous buildings, the River Arno, and the surrounding hills will furnish a background for the pageantry that insinuates itself into even the ordinary tourist's mind when making the rounds of the palaces, squares, churches, museums, landscapes, and monuments of that city which concentrated within its borders during two centuries, such an unexampled array of genius. In this respect Florence is unique and again, too, in the preservation of its treasures.

Every one must ask himself, in the presence of these varied and rich manifestations of creative power, how it happened that Florence could produce, during several generations, such a succession of masters. Perfection of design must have been learned in the shops of the gold and silversmiths, and then been carried into the studios of the sculptors and painters. There were jealousies, to be sure, but each corporation and each studio tried to outrival the others in producing, not merely superior work, but the individual geniuses who would bring luster on the corporation, the studio and, above all, the city.

All this does not account for the amazing amount of genius in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries in Florence, but it shows how it was encouraged and developed. The story often has been told of how Verocchio, already celebrated as a sculptor, was commissioned to paint a baptism of Christ, and that he was so impressed when the figure of one of the angels, which he had confided to his young apprentice, Leonardo da Vinci, surpassed his own work, that he decided henceforth to give up painting.

No one thinks of Florence in its heyday without recalling the name of Lorenzo the Magnificent, the most dazzling of its rulers, who said of his three sons, that Pietro was mad, Giovanni wise, and Giuliano good. The wise Giovanni, who became Pope Leo X, looked out on a world divided into factions not unlike those that at present are striving for mastery in Europe. He hoped to see reason prevail, but he could not be blind to the formidable threat of ambitions which were counting on force for their triumph. The Italian city-states, in their jealousies or, rather, the jealousies of their rulers, called for aid to the great military powers of Europe, and the peninsula became the ground of battle and invasion. When Florence shows the age of the Medici, will this lesson be lost?

Well scrubbed, shiny, red radishes, golden carrots, small pumpkins, squash, turnips, and even parsley, arranged on a flat cedar wreath, make an attractive centerpiece.

When Chicago Was Young:

75 Cents a Day Stiff Price for Carpenter in Beidler's Youth

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, May 16, 1890.

Dear Julia: We have spent a pleasant evening on the west side, at the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Beidler, at Sangamon and Jackson streets. They are dear old people and we enjoyed our visit with them so much. "Visit," that old-fashioned word, seems the best expression for our evening, because Will and Mr. Beidler talked of earlier Chicago most of the time, exchanging experiences of their first years here.

Mr. Beidler came west from Bucks county, Pa., in 1842, staying in Springfield, Ill., for a time, where he worked as a carpenter and then bought an interest in a small grocery. He heard so much about the new town of Chicago that he decided to come here. But first, he sold his interest in the grocery and went back to marry the girl he had left behind. Dear old Mrs. Beidler comes from a family known in Pennsylvania for strong religious convictions. She told me many of her family are Mennonites, but I think that was not her own religious faith.

Coming west again with his bride by a long, tedious route [stage, train, and boat], Jacob Beidler finally arrived in Chicago.

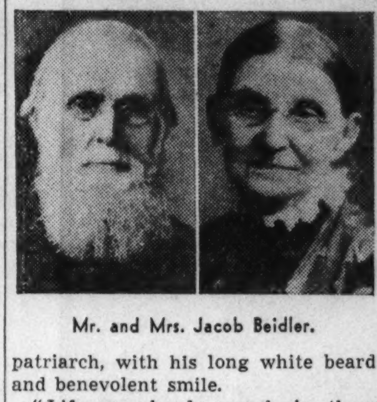
• • •

We laughed at his thrift in the matter of house rent, during the first year of his residence here. The young couple took a two story cottage in the rear of a lot facing on Clark street, the cottage facing Madison street. The rent was $100 a year. The upper floor he sublet to a tenant who paid $5 a month rent, making Jacob Beidler's rent total $40 annually.

J. M. Van Osdel, architect, was his first employer, and his wages were 75 cents a day—a ten hour day! At that time, said Mr. Beidler, carpenters furnished their own tools and kept them sharp on their own time.

"I suppose," joked Will, "that when a builder was paying a man a stiff price like 75 cents, he naturally wouldn't want to give him time to sharpen his ax."

"Pretty hard work," confessed Jacob Beidler, his hands clasped comfortably on the top of his gold headed cane, as we sat in the fine library, after dinner. His pose reminded me of the Bible text about his namesake: "By faith Jacob . . . worshipped, leaning on the top of his staf." He does remind you of an Old Testament patriarch, with his long white beard and benevolent smile.



Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Beidler.

"Life was hard enough in those days," he said, "but it acquainted me with the city and my wife and I were happy"—he looked over at dear Mrs. Beidler—"and when I learned something of the lumber business, I decided I could make a better living in that. Chicago was being built up very fast and so the lumber yard venture paid well. I went over into Michigan and bought up government timber lands at 25 cents an acre."

"How about 1857?" asked Will. That was the terrible panic year, you know. Mr. Beidler shook his head. "It was a hard time for us, as well as for many others," he said. "But we managed to keep going and I had a little ready money, which helped. That was the year I bought the old house at Morgan and Washington streets."

"When did you buy this house?" I asked. It is really a grand house, three stories and basement.

"In another panic year," said Mr. Beidler, "F. B. Gardner, who had put too much money into the Gardner house, at Michigan avenue and Jackson street, had to sell this home, and I was so situated that I could buy."

This from a man who had toiled for a pittance only a generation before! Talk about romance!

Mr. Beidler is a very generous giver to all good causes. He has done much for Lake Forest college; he helped organize the Presbyterian hospital and gave a third of the cost of the West Side Y. M. C. A.

Easterners think of Chicago as a wild, turbulent city, but the people we know best are the sort any city might be proud of—prudent, sober, generous.

And now I must say good night.

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Grandchildren of Jacob Beidler living in or near Chicago are Francis Beidler II. of Lake Forest and J. Beidler Camp of Chicago.

The Stevenson Memorial to Be Aided by Play

The Chicago Woman's Club Players will present "Don't Darken My Door," a new farce comedy by Anne Coulter Martens, on Tuesday, Nov. 29, at the club theater, 72 East 11th street. Performances will be given at 2:15 and 8:15 o'clock under C. Henry Nathan's direction.

The event is important on the club's calendar not only as entertainment, but as a benefit for the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial. Since 1893, when this haven on Prairie avenue for destitute women and children was founded with the club's aid, members have given financial assistance to the home. This is the fourth annual benefit to be given by the players.

Mrs. Harry A. Biossat, whose performance in last season's benefit production delighted audiences, will appear in the rôle of a romantic novelist. Mrs. Buel A. Hutchinson will play Rosemary, one of her constant readers, and Mr. Nathan will have the rôle of Rosemary's bachelor uncle. Phil Deninan Jr. will play Rosemary's unsuccessful beau who, with the uncle, shares a violent prejudice against the novelist. Mrs. Gerard A. Connor, James C. Woodward, Mrs. George C. Dyer, and Mrs. Fred G. Bohnen also have parts.

Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, chairman of the players, and Mrs. Harley C. Alger, chairman of the benefit, are in charge of arrangements for the production. Tickets are being sold under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Jackson, publicity chairman of the memorial.

Color Schemes Enliven Three Types of Rooms

"Beautiful Bedrooms" goes into detail in explaining ways to furnish and decorate three different types of bedrooms: The colonial, the Early American, and the modern. It is 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Claire Winslow.

So many women write to this department asking about color schemes that we're sure this matter of tints and tones is a puzzler in a large number of homes. And since color can make or break any room it does deserve your consideration.

Background schemes, this season, are playing on all the light, pastel notes. Pale gray, grayed-turquoise, grayed-green, wood-rose, dusty pink and clear, flesh pink, pinky-beige, cream-beige, soft peach, light blue-green, and delicate yellow are some of the smartest hues. You'll find them in wallpapers, and the expert painter can mix them in paints.

Because bedroom color schemes wrinkle a lot of feminine brows we've worked out several and will give them to you today. We have in mind the three types of furnishings that are most popular at the present time: Swedish modern [or just plain modern], 18th century English [or colonial], and early American [and this background can be used also for French provincial furniture].

• • •

In developing the colors for draperies, curtains, rugs, upholsteries, and bedspreads we were guided by the wallpapers we had chosen. Once you've hit on the right paper it is simple to work out an entire color scheme.

If you paint the walls, then let your drapery fabric be your guide.

We'll take the rooms in order, starting with the Swedish modern:

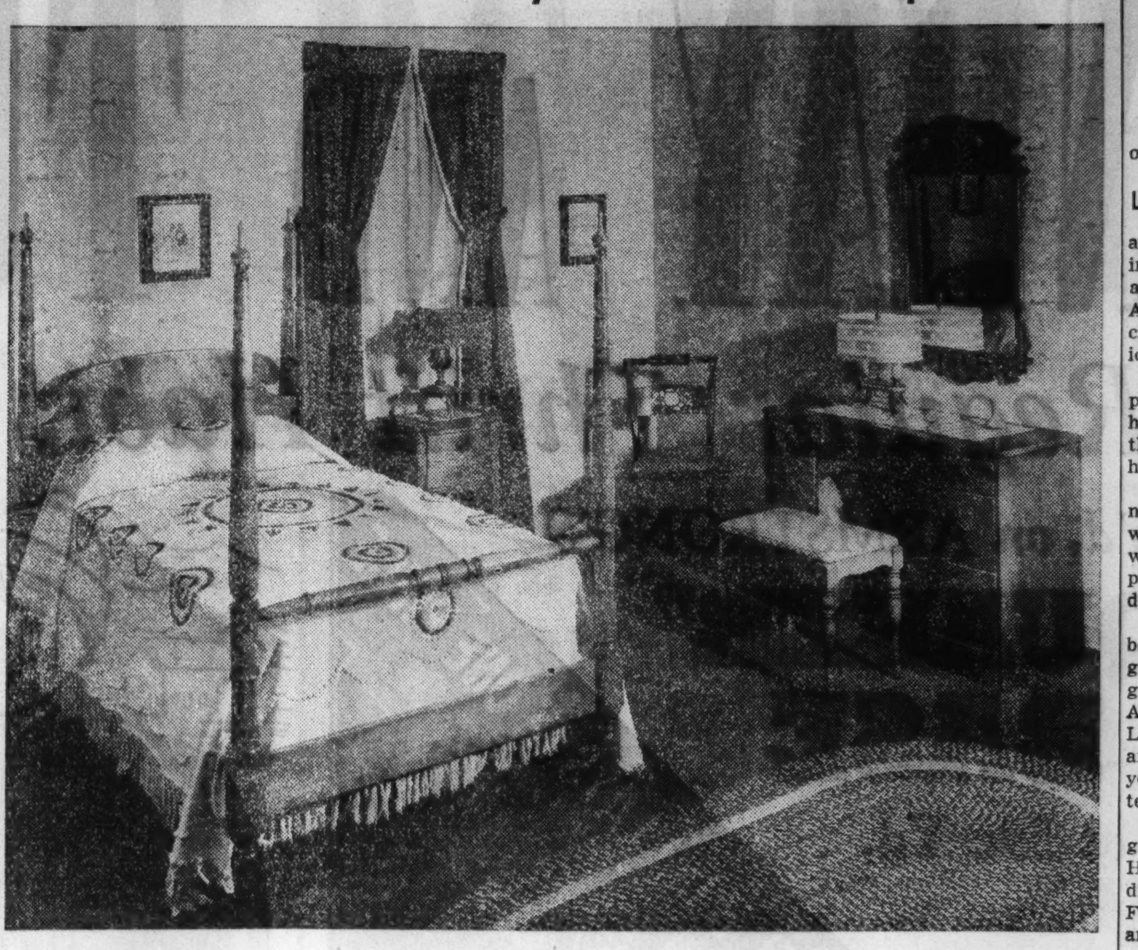
Swedish modern bedroom: Walls, papered in a new, colorfast and water resistant paper, the design of which shows large, fantastic flowers in white and pale pink with light blue-green leaves on a background of beige. This paper is named "Palm Springs." Rug, a room size, "carved" wool in deep beige. Draperies, off-white dull rayon-damask, floor length. Curtains, flesh pink celanese voile, sill length. Bedspreads of the drapery fabric. Furniture, bleached mahogany. Chaise longue upholstered in blue-green hammered satin. Accessories, flesh pink and white.

• • •

Eighteenth century English [or colonial] bedroom: Walls, papered in a design called "Mythology," showing block prints of characters from the Greek myths in dull rose and off-white on a Wedgwood blue ground. Between the rectangular blocks are wreaths of fruit done in beige and off-white. Wall to wall carpeting in textured gray. Draperies, dull rose satin damask with swag valances of the same. Curtains, off-white chiffonese. Bedspreads of Wedgwood blue slipper satin. Furniture, Chippendale [with chair-back beds], in dark mahogany. Dressing table bench done in dull rose stripes on blue. Accessories, gold and white.

Early American bedroom: Walls, papered in a striped pattern on soft, grayed-turquoise blue ground, the stripes being ones of a narrow line of pink and a broad one of white with pink in the center. The design is called "Marquee" and is color-fast and washable. Wall to wall carpeting in pearl gray pebbly texture, and several beautiful hand-hooked scatter rugs in variegated soft tones. Draperies, English floral chintz on a white ground, tied back with wide pink bands. Curtains, sheer white cotton voile, sill length. Bedspreads, plain pink quilted chintz with ruffled sides of the drapery floral chintz. Furniture, as shown in the photograph today, of maple in a lovely, interesting honey-beige tone called "Salem." Note the charming little Hitchcock chair in the corner of the room, and the slender grace of the four poster bed. The little acorns a-top the posts can be removed to accommodate a canopy.

Bedroom in Early American Maple



This furniture copies the lovely, honey-beige tone of maple antiques. It is made by a New England firm that has been in business over a hundred years. Living and dining room groupings are also available in this furniture, which is called "Salem."

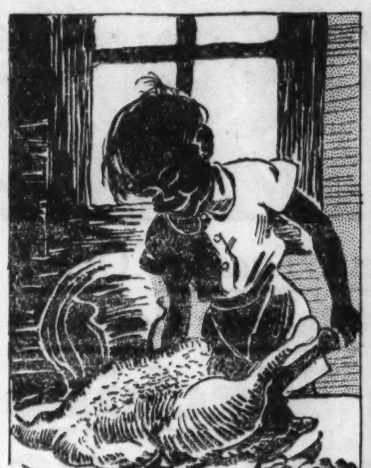
Thanksgiving Lesson



By Eleanor Jewett.

Pride goes before a fall and it
Is not a laughing matter,
As any one can tell to see
A turkey on his platter.
There is not in his strength a bird
More proud, nor one more haughty,
And yet nurse tells me to be vain
Is something very naughty.
I count my blessings, big and small,
And try not to feel perky,
For I see plainly where pride leads
In our Thanksgiving turkey!

Grace Moore Is Big Hit of the London Season

Grace Moore has proved the big hit of the season thus far.

LONDON She gave a concert at Albert hall to which the American ambassador and Mrs. Kennedy took a large party, including Mrs. James Field, Mrs. Ronald Tree, and Lady Mary Gilmour. Albert hall is a huge place, but it was crowded to the roof to hear the American singer.

After the concert the Kennedys picked her up and whisked her and her accompanist, Mr. Ivor Newton, to the Ritz to a supper party given in her honor by the concert committee.

Nor did even that complete the evening, for after the supper party she was taken to No. 3 Belgrave square, where she sang again to a small party, which included the duke and duchess of Kent.

And her subsequent evenings have been very full. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy gave a dinner party of about twenty guests in her honor at the embassy. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Sanford, the Geoffrey Toyes, and Richard Hunt, an American lawyer, who brought his sculptor daughter.

Following that the Geoffrey Toyes gave a dinner party for her at their Hampstead home, at which all the dishes were American. Mrs. James Field and Miss Ruth Chatterton were among the guests.

Coat-Dress Ensemble.

Handsome ensembles with full-length, fur-trimmed coats, the dress of the same color and fabric but in a lighter weave, are the thing on both sides of the Atlantic. The smart women of New York, Paris, and London usually choose them with rich fox trimming. One model in purple woolen has the coat trimmed with panels of blue fox extending from a wide collar with fox heads at either shoulder.

Table Luncheon Sets.

For table luncheon sets to be used in a dinette, those of a heavier weave and rougher type are more appropriate than the fine ones used in more formal dining rooms.

Berlin's Venice.

Greatest fun on week-ends in Berlin is boating in the Spreewald, the German Venice. There thousands of holiday folk with fold boats, launches and yachts float through forests, past old villages and meadows.

Hangs by Its Toes.

In midair several stories above the street in Stockholm is the Ny Katerinahiss, a restaurant that hangs "by its toes" beneath a sky bridge.

St. Thomas Isle Dreads Ghost of Blackbeard

By Anson Brown.

In the islands once inhabited by privateers and buccaneers live myths and tales vastly more entertaining than the stories that were left in the wake of the European conquerors. In our American Virgin Islands group the isle of St. Thomas was the home of two such pirates: Blackbeard and Bluebeard [not to be confused with the Bluebeard of the French legend]. Standing today are the relics of their "reigns"—two silolike castles, crumbling a bit, of course, but eerie and interesting enough to conjure up in a curious mind a desire for information.

Each castle is a perfect cylinder about fifty feet high and twenty feet in diameter. They stand atop separate hills that help make up the city of Charlotte Amalie, and the gaily colored roof tops of the homes straggle down the hills from their foundations. Picturesque indeed, in the warm sunlight of the day, but when the full moon picks itself up out of the ocean at night and casts shadows among the loose bricks of the castles, the Negroes shudder in their homes.

● ● ●

They are almost morbidly superstitious, these black people. They board up their windows at night to keep out the jumby ghosts, and sleep without a breath of air filtering through their rooms. On the night when the moon is full Edward Teach, the Blackbeard, is said to come down from his castle and roam the water front. Black children of the Virgin Islands fear his ghost more than American children fear the bogie man, for they actually can see where he lives!

Of the two pirates, Blackbeard is reputed to have been the fiercer. He was born of good parents in Jamaica about 1670 and was soon proud of the fact that people referred to him as the black sheep. Bitterly heartless and cruel, he gradually altered his appearance by growing a long black beard which he braided in strands and decorated with pink and blue ribbons.

He set out to sea with other freebooters and, by sheer force of his fearless personality, was soon ruling the Caribbean waters. He plundered ruthlessly any merchant vessel that crossed his path. He locked up an astounding fortune somewhere within the confines of his castle on St. Thomas.

Then he grew amorous.

● ● ●

In all, Blackbeard is said to have had fourteen wives—one at a time. He would sit in his castle, brooding over his wine, and bellow for the wife. As she entered he began shooting at her toes. All fourteen wives, each during her time, became excellent jitterbugs. And as he tired of each one he would lock her in the basement with the jewels and let her starve to death. After a couple of weeks there would be no more sounds from the cell; so he would take on another spouse. Wife No. 13, however, was from New York. She smelled a rat when Blackbeard attempted to entice her into the jewel vault. Somehow she gained the upper hand in the situation, slammed the iron gate on the pirate, and fled for the wharf. There, by good fortune, she caught a boat sailing for America.

Blackbeard's servants released him, but his feelings were so hurt that he took only one more wife. He remained faithful to her until the day he was captured and killed off the coast of Virginia in 1718. To this day his reputedly vast fortune has never been found.

Blackbeard's castle, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

In any of the small cafés of St. Thomas the dark waitresses or the black boys behind the counter will relate such stories. Maybe the night before one will have had a dream and is sure of the location of a treasure chest, "Don by Brewer's bay, 'neath dat mango tree where dey hung dat murderin' nigger ten years back. I'se sure it's true, 'cause dat black man he come to me in my dream and to' me to dig der!"

● ● ●

Perhaps they will wait until the moon is waning, and then those that are less afraid will go in a group at midnight to where the palms wave on the shore of Brewer's bay. Next morning the white residents find a great hole in the sand, and none of the Negroes is saying a word. That treasure is being found down there every few years is a certainty, because occasionally a golden doubloon will turn up at one of the local stores. They've become tight lipped about such finds, for they know that the white man's government will take half the treasure and tax the other half.

How fascinating it is to visit these islands, to hear bits of native superstition, to swim in the coral strewn lagoons, to wander over the dusty roads into the hills, to hunt lobsters by torchlight at night, or to board a native 16 foot schooner and visit some of the unspoiled smaller islands nearby.

There's only one objection. The fleeting feet of time seem to speed even faster down there, and one hates to think of the day when his ship will carry him northward to the chill of winter.

Rates Lowered.

Reductions in sleeping car rates were announced last week by E. H. Moot, Great Northern railway passenger agent in Chicago. They will go into effect Dec. 1.

Dozen Cruises Announced by Swedish Line

"You people of the United States have given us courage to build new ships and increase our service. Most of our business comes from this side of the Atlantic. The splendid support accorded the travel business by the American newspapers has enabled us to forge ahead as never before."

Axel Jonsson of Gothenburg, president of the Swedish American Line, made this statement at a dinner at the Swedish club last Monday evening. His company was host at the dinner, and 150 Chicago travel agents were the guests.

G. Hilmer Lundbeck, United States managing director of the line, told the agents of the cruise program arranged for the coming season. This program includes the journey of the Gripsholm around South America, sailing Jan. 31 and calling for a side trip 125 miles up the Amazon; the journey of the Kungsholm to Rio de Janeiro, leaving Feb. 17 and also calling for a trip up the Amazon; five West Indies cruises on the Kungsholm between Dec. 20 and April 17; an excursion to Northern Africa and Western Europe on the Kungsholm, sailing April 21, and a jaunt to Bermuda on the same ship over Memorial day. Next summer the new flagship, the Stockholm, launched last May, will join the Kungsholm and Gripsholm in three cruises to the North Cape and the Viking lands. The total of an even dozen is the heaviest schedule in the company's history.

At Monday night's meeting Thorsten Hanson, Chicago manager of the line, said the advance bookings were 50 per cent ahead of last year's. He predicted a record season for this winter. Donald G. Robertson of Winnetka showed his color films of last winter's Gripsholm cruise around South America.

Dog Racing to Open in Miami on December 1

Miami, Fla., Nov. 19.—Miami crowds will be "going to the dogs" in another twelve days. Four greyhound tracks will operate this season with 80-day meets, lasting from Dec. 1, to April 10.

More than 200 thoroughbreds are stabled at Hialeah and Tropical park in preparation for the horse racing program of ninety-six days, opening Dec. 19. Among the arrivals is Lawrin, winner of the 1938 Kentucky Derby and the last Hialeah park Flamingo stakes. He is scheduled to run in the $50,000 Widener race March 4.

An event of the first week in December will be the tilt between the University of Miami and the University of Georgia.

GOING SOMEWHERE?

The new Mauretania will leave Liverpool June 17, 1939, on her maiden voyage to New York. Word to this effect was received last week by William Franklin Crum, Chicago manager of the Cunard-White Star Line. She will sail eastward from New York July 1. The Mauretania, largest liner ever built in England, will have ten decks and accommodate about 1,500 passengers. She will have a gross tonnage of 33,000—slightly larger than that of her famous predecessor.

At times last summer Yosemite National park had more business than it could handle, and next summer's trafic—with the San Francisco fair being held nearby—promises to be even heavier. So new accommodations are being provided. Stanley E. Plumb, trafic manager of the Yosemite Transportation system, told about it last Tuesday at a luncheon at the Bismarck hotel. With Joaquin W. Buckley, traveling passenger agent, in charge, the guests at the luncheon were shown color films of the park's year round attractions.

"On Tour in Africa" is the title of this week's travelogue at the Fair store. D. Vernon Evans of the Cunard-White Star Line will show the sound film at 11 a. m. Friday.

Mrs. Harold M. Vanderbilt will give an illustrated lecture at the Lake Shore Athletic club Tuesday evening. Her subject is the places of literary and historical interest along the shores of Lake Geneva in Switzerland.

Capt. Comm. P. Guglielmo Maggini, midwestern manager of Enit, Italian tourist agency, has been appointed supervisor of his country's pavilion at the Golden Gate International exposition. He left for San Francisco last Monday. Until Christmas Capt. Maggini will divide his time between Treasure Island, site of the exposition, and Chicago.

The Baltimore and Ohio's new Capitol Limited, Diesel powered and streamlined, will go into service between Chicago and New York next Wednesday. A public preview is to be held at the Grand Central station, Harrison and Wells streets, all day Tuesday.

Outdoor scenes from all over America are being displayed at the North Western station. They won awards in the spring, summer, and fall contests of the Chicago and North Western's Camera club, the members of which are patrons of the railroad. The exhibit will continue until next Saturday.

Not only Christmas, but nearly every other day in December, will be celebrated as a holiday by the people of Mexico. C. J. White, midwestern manager of the American Express company, relates that the festival of Our Lady of Guadalupe will be held Dec. 12 and that La Posadas will be observed the nine days before Christmas. An escorted tour to that country leaves Chicago each Sunday throughout the year.

Victoria Falls One Mile Wide, Drop 400 Feet

Victoria falls, to be visited this winter by travelers taking the cruises around Africa, were discovered by David Livingstone, Scottish explorer, in 1855. A statue of Livingstone has been erected on a spot where the spray from this great natural phenomen will forever fall upon it.

Contrary to general belief, the falls are more than a thousand miles away from Lake Victoria, with which body of water they are associated in the popular mind. They are situated on the Zambesi river in Southern Rhodesia. They supply the outstanding scenic attraction of the continent of Africa. They are more than a mile wide. The waters roll over a precipice 400 feet high, falling into a cleft in the earth, surging into a chasm of unknown depth, and narrowing into a forty mile zigzag canyon cut through solid rock.

• • •

From immemorial times an atmosphere of mystery and superstition hung over these mammoth falls. Livingstone had difficulty in persuading his natives to accompany him to the scene, as they believed the region to be the home of monsters and devils because of the thunderous noises made by the tumbling waters.

Approaching the park which now includes the falls, the visitor sees from a distance of ten miles huge columns of vapor shooting their rose-ate-tinted shafts hundreds of feet heavenward.

The bridge of the nearby Cape-to-Cairo railroad is a favorite point from which to observe its wild beauty. The view takes in the full extent of the swirling waters as they leap from the precipices to the abyss below.

• • •

There is a hotel near the railway. From its verandas a magnificent panorama of the canyon and Batoka gorge may be had. A walk of half a mile brings the visitor to "the place where the rain is born," as the natives call the Rain forest. Here the tropic heat and constantly falling spray produce vegetation of wonderful luxuriance and variety. Among the flora are the delicate maiden-hair fern and the feathery-leafed palm, both of which attain unusual heights.

The falls are broken by islands and rocks, so that the edge appears more curved than it really is. In some parts the fall is precipitous, while in others the water is caught by projecting rocks and reaches the bottom in a series of majestic cascades.

Owing to the spray, the rainbows by day and the lunar bows by night are outstanding features. Those seen from the Rain forest or from Danger point are the most vivid.

Just what is the "Spanish Main"?
—R. K. M.

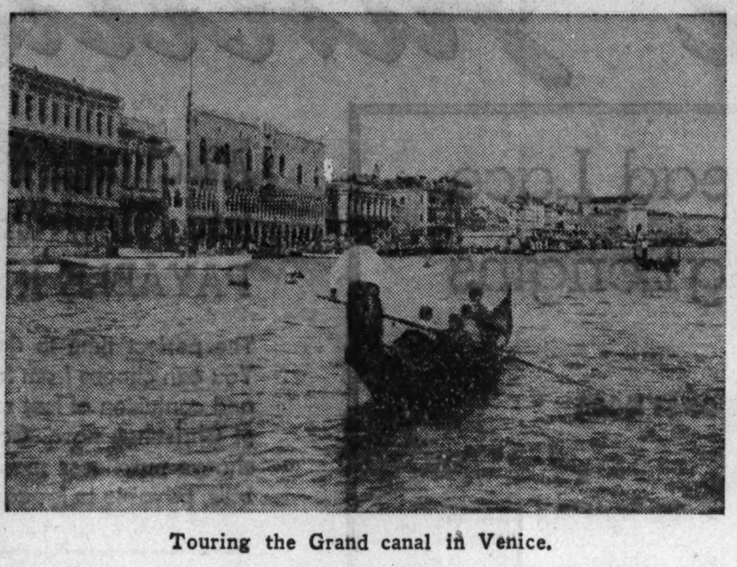
Originally Venezuela and Colombia constituted the "Spanish Main," meaning mainland. In England the sea is frequently called the bounding main, and as the English spread their rule over many of the West Indies the Caribbean sea came to be known as the Spanish Main. It is generally spoken of as such today.

Will the Columbus go on a Caribbean cruise soon after the first of the year?
—B. D.

Yes. It will sail from New York Jan. 7 for a 12 day trip.

DETOUR - By FREDERIC BABCOCK

The Venetian season comes to a close tomorrow. . . . That is the day of the Sagra Madonna della Salute—Fête of Our Lady of Good Health. . . . And, unlike feast days elsewhere, the festival is held in an environment as ancient as the celebration itself. . . . For Venice is no modern city. . . . Its triumphant beauty, its lanes and amphitheaters of water beside aged palaces suggest the ideas and customs of three hundred years ago. . . . In nearly every other city everything has changed, but along the Grand canal almost nothing has changed.



Touring the Grand canal in Venice.

● Because of its history, the church of the Madonna della Salute is known as one of the four great "plague" churches of Venice. . . . In the middle ages the city was exposed to the ravages of the plague. . . . This was due to its commercial relationships with the crowded and pestilence stricken centers of the Levant. . . . When a similar scourge appears nowadays we isolate the worst cases and clean up the sanitary conditions. . . . But in those days, when disease was regarded as a divine visitation and punishment, men met it with vows and with the construction of churches to influential saints. . . . As a result the Adriatic is dotted with these buildings.

● In 1630 Venice was winning its long fight with the black plague. . . . The people vowed that if God would deliver them they would put up a church of unusual beauty. . . . It was designed and built in the then fashionable Palladian style, and even today it has much of its former grandeur. . . . Most of its objects of art refer to the pestilence. . . . Some of the paintings show the city imploring Our Lady for protection; others depict angels dispatching the dark demons of disease. . . . One other, striking a happier note, is Tintoretto's "Marriage at Cana in Galilee."

● But the sight of plague pictures and the memory of the scourge are of little concern to the present day Venetians when Salute's festival arrives. . . . Two big wooden pontoon bridges are thrown across the Grand canal to convey the thousands of pilgrims to the votive church. . . . All day long the bridges are crowded with people and banners, and in the evening the balloni, or multi-colored lanterns, form an impressive spectacle as their lights are reflected by the water. . . . Bands play; the crowds sing. . . . Everybody loads up on castradena, a dish of salted and smoked mutton. . . . Coster barrows are everywhere with offers of something gay, noisy, or edible. . . . On the canal and in St. Mark's basin there is a medley of gondolas and craft of all kinds, shapes, and sizes—even sand wherries, timber barges, and rafts—highly decorated with banners and lanterns. . . . Thus Venice ends its Italian summer.

Cruising Scores Heavy Increase, Says Woodbridge

"We're headed for a big winter business in cruising, and an even better spring and summer," said Henry S. Woodbridge of Boston, general manager of Raymond-Whitcomb, Inc., at a luncheon at the Blackstone hotel Friday. "The travel business has picked up tremendously since the election; it promises to gain still more momentum by the first of the year."

Calling attention to the important place tourism occupies in the world's economic structure, Mr. Woodbridge pointed out that nearly a billion dollars is spent by American visitors to other countries annually.

Raymond-Whitcomb, he announced, will have seven cruises this winter and early spring. It will be in charge of the Bremen, sailing Feb. 11 to circle South America; the Columbus, leaving Feb. 4 to circle Africa; the Normandie, setting out the same day for Rio de Janeiro; the Stella Polaris, leaving Jan. 21 for the South Sea Islands and then on around the world to England; the Saturnia, sailing Feb. 15 for the Mediterranean; the Champlain, embarking on a Mediterranean journey March 4, and the same ship, leaving Feb. 17 for the West Indies.

This is the first time in ten years the agency has arranged cruises around both Africa and South America. The Bremen will depart from previous custom and will include both the Straits of Magellan and the Chilean lake country in its schedule.

Etienne Jordan, manager of Raymond-Whitcomb's Paris office, was another speaker Friday. Fred V. Robinson, Chicago manager, presided.

Heads Travel Society.

G. Robert Longabaugh is the new president of the Bons Vivants, Chicago society of steamship and travel agents. He was chosen at a dinner-dance at the Knickerbocker hotel last Saturday evening. William C. Morrissey and Raymond E. Peterson were elected vice presidents, Ernest L. Walsh was made treasurer, and Kenneth A. Cook was reëlected secretary.

Sun Valley's New Ski Run Is Ready

SUN VALLEY, Idaho.—Sun Valley's new ski run down Bald mountain, with a 3,100 foot drop in a scant two miles of running if taken "straight," is virtually completed.

The run, beginning at a 9,200 feet elevation on the bare summit of the timbered mountain and ending in Warm Springs canyon, probably will be the scene of the downhill races March 25, 1939, as part of the third annual Sun Valley open ski meet. Trips two-thirds of the way to the top will be by "snow tank," a caterpillar tractor which climbs steep hills through deep snow.

The Yankee Diplomat and the Geisha Girl

By KIMPEI SHEBA

Tokio, Japan.

IN THE LONELY and picturesque port of Shimoda, not far from Tokio, but secluded by green mountains and the deep blue-black ocean, there was a girl named Okichi Saito. She was regarded by the townspeople as the most beautiful and accomplished maiden in the whole Izu peninsula.

● When she was 16 Okichi's father, who was a carpenter, sent her to a geisha house to be trained for that profession. The story of this girl unfolds some eighty-odd years ago and takes us back to the time when Commodore Perry visited Japan with four American warships to open this country to the world.

● There is much in the unusual life of this hitherto little known maid which brings to mind Puccini's operatic tragedy, "Madame Butterfly," based on the love of a Japanese girl for an American. There is also a touch of Mata Hari in her exciting career.

● Until a few years ago Okichi's was a name despised and scorned by all Japanese. Today there are two shrines in her honor and hundreds daily pay homage to her. Her memory is treasured in a newly built picture gallery and museum. Her life story recently has been dramatized and portrayed on the stage and screen. Today Okichi is enshrined as a heroine.

● It will be recalled that as a result of Perry's mission Japan agreed to establish diplomatic relations with the United States. This was in 1853. Three years later, in 1856, Townsend Harris was sent to Shimoda by President Pierce as the first American diplomatic representative. He was landed at Shimoda from the United States frigate San Jacinto on Aug. 21 of that year.

● Harris' main task was to negotiate a treaty of amity and commerce. The negotiations were started soon after his arrival, but dragged on day after day and week after week with virtually nothing being accomplished. Harris accused the Japanese of being insincere and dishonest. The Japanese charged that Harris was irascible and domineering.

● Things finally came to a head when Harris flew into a rage at one of the discussions and was said by the Japanese to have hurled a fire pot, which was used to light tobacco, at one of the officials of the magistrate's office.

● "Lies! Lies! Nothing but lies from beginning to end," Harris cried. "How can

Looking at Hollywood with Ed Sullivan

SONJA HENIE

JOHN BARRYMORE, through as a star, has made a new career as a comedian.

MARTHA RAYE

Laugh Is the Word for Success

By ED SULLIVAN

Hollywood.

EACH NIGHT promptly at 6:30 o'clock the tree-shaded streets of Beverly Hills are melodiously aware of the "Good Humor" men, who pass along ringing their tinkling bells and calling on the youth of the community to sample their wares. They have a particular significance out here, as good humor is one of the main assets of a cinema performer. Sonja Henie's smile, for instance, lifted her from the ranks of ice-skating champs and made her one of the big money-makers of celluloid.

Greatest single asset in the répertoire of Don Ameche is the Italian youngster's booming laugh. When Don laughs there is no doubt of his intention.

Hugh Herbert is still another good humor salesman. His "woo-woo" is the antidote for every known nervous disease. When Herbert runs head-on into a crisis, not for him the posture of "The Thinker" or the morbidity of the melancholy Dane. "Woo-woo!" he chortles, and while it may be idiotic, it is a safety valve that never fails. Audiences adore Herbert. He gives them a laugh.

Consider, if you will, that the highest-priced performers in this business are the comedians. The Marx brothers, the Ritz brothers, Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, Bob Hope, Amos 'n' Andy, Roland Young, W. C. Fields, Edward Everett Horton, Alan Mowbray, Alan Hale, Burns and Allen, Fred Allen, Lew Lehr, Allen Jenkins, Frank Morgan, Patsy Kelly, Billie Burke, Hugh Herbert, Joan Davis, and Martha Raye are just a few that can be called to mind. They can work week in and week out for as many years as they desire, simply because they provide laughs. John Barrymore, all washed up as a star, launched a separate career as a comedian and is doing handsomely at it.

Ed Wynn, when he was at the peak of his radio success, operated a zany laugh that had the entire country giggling in sympathy. Wynn's laugh was several octaves in range, but, try as you might to resist it, there was no chance. At first you might frown on it, but eventually he had you grinning with him.

Comedians never have wanted for an audience.

This has been true down through the years of show business. It is particularly true now because of the mess into which civilization has advanced itself. At the depth of the depression the pictures that did the greatest business were comedies. In fact, to satisfy the demand there was a whole series of screw-ball comedies based on slapstick. The minute that things began to look a little brighter the screw-ball comedies started losing out.

Germany and Italy, the totalitarian states, in which individuals are completely regimented, are the greatest consumers of comedy films. Adolf Hitler, in a press conference before the drastic anti-Semitic laws were clamped on, admitted to interviewers that his greatest relaxation was gained from films in which Charlie Chaplin and the Marx brothers appeared. In Milan, Italy, two years ago I was interested in the movie advertisments. Five Milan theaters were playing Laurel and Hardy pictures.

The tremendous box-office success marked up this season by "You Can't Take It with You" is due to the fact that it is not only a comedy but a clever satire on political philosophy. Lionel Barrymore, kidding the income tax collector, is acting as spokesman for entire audiences in theaters. That sort of comedy reaches a plane that is seldom achieved. In some theaters the picture has been held over for a sixth week, which indicates what audiences want.

The death of Robert Woolsey broke up for all time the comedy team of Wheeler and Woolsey, and recalls some of the famous teams of comedians who became headliners. You undoubtedly remember Moran and Mack, the "Two Black Crows." There was the combination of Bernie and Baker. They split out to become better known individually as Ben Bernie and Phil Baker.

Quite a few of the great comedians were born too soon. Bert Williams, greatest of the colored comedians, would have been a natural on the screen, as he was a magnificent pantomimist. Frank Tinney, commonly accepted as the greatest comedian of them all, got all jammed up with Imogene Wilson (Mary Nolan) and sacrificed his career when he was at the very peak. Herb Williams died just at the moment when he had turned from the vaudeville stage to score on the legitimate stage. Harry Langdon is engaged currently in a come-back.

The thing about comedy and comedians is that they are always in fashion.

Famous Paintings in Magichrome

ON PAGE ONE of the Picture Section today are full-color reproductions of two paintings every art lover should have. "Thanksgiving," by Doris Lee, is an excellent example of this young American artist's story-telling ability. This picture won the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan prize at the Art Institute of Chicago (which later bought it) and was the inspiration for the famous "sanity in art" movement.

Typically Dutch in feeling, "Maternal Affection" is the product of Laren, Holland, home of famous Dutch painters from time immemorial. It was painted by Bernard Pothast, who was born Nov. 30, 1882, in Hal, Holland, but settled in Laren after studying in Paris and under his father, H. A. Pothast, famous portrait painter in Holland and Belgium.

Now through MAGICHROME you can reproduce these paintings yourself in four colors. Send the attached coupon for your kits, each of which contains materials for making one picture approximately 4½x5½ inches. The operation is simple. Instructions are included in each kit. When mounted in the self-framing mats that bear a description of each subject the finished picture can be hung on the wall or placed in the 10-cent album, also on sale.

Twice Size of Today's Giants

By WAYNE THOMIS

EARLY in 1936 army engineers and experts of the Douglas Aircraft company at Santa Monica, Cal., began work on plans for about the biggest airplane ever built. It was to meet advanced army air corps requirements for speed, extraordinary range, and load-carrying capacity. Today the component parts of that most formidable aerial fighting instrument are being prepared for final assembly by the Douglas company.

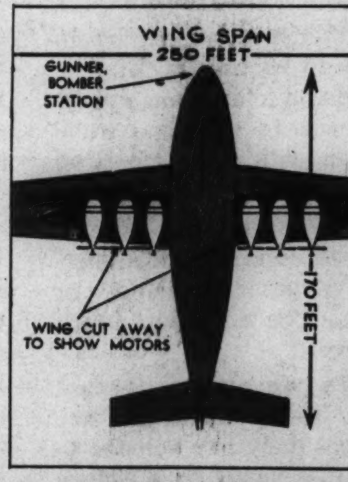
Only a few air corps chiefs and Douglas executives have known the goal at which the army was shooting. Even the engineers who have calculated the stresses for the wings and fuselage, the landing gear, and the control cables have been given only the information pertinent to the particular job to which they were assigned. Now a few extremely interesting details of this great war plane have been released.

The plane will weigh, it is understood, about 160,000 pounds. That is just under twice the gross weight of Pan American Airways' 82,500-pound Boeing boats now undergoing tests.

The new plane will be 100,000 pounds heavier than the new Douglas DC-4 that will be released to the country's airways during the first days of 1939.

The wing spread of the Pan American boat is 152 feet and of the DC-4 138 feet. The new army plane will have a span of over 230 feet. The fuselage of this aerial giant will be nearly 170 feet long, according to engineers. Where the Boeing plane has four 1,500-horsepower motors and the DC-4 four 1,400-horsepower units, the new fighter will have six motors capable of developing 2,000 horsepower each for takeoff and a maximum of about 1,650 horsepower thereafter. Its speed will be over 300 miles an hour at 30,000 feet or higher. A supercharged cabin will protect the crew from lack of oxygen, low outside air pressures, and cold.

This ship is expected to be able to carry heavy guns, an enormous bomb load, and such vast fuel tanks that it can fly from the United States to Japan and return nonstop. The bomb load is supposed to be about 15,000 pounds with fuel for an 8,000-mile nonstop flight.



How engines of new plane are contained in wings.

Combined with these bombs and fuel, the plane's quick-firing cannon of the two and three pounder type are expected to make it invulnerable to the single-seater type of fighter. This performance will allow the ship to perform in the air duties similar to those now assigned to heavy battle cruisers on the sea.

The new plane will incorporate many features until recently just experimental. For instance, it will, like the Bell Airacuda fighter, be powered with Allison V-12 Prestone-cooled engines installed as pushers. Like the Lockheed X-35 stratosphere plane, its cabin will be supercharged. It takes another feature from the DC-4—the tricycle landing gear, with the two main landing wheels behind the center of gravity to prevent a ground-loop and to make cross-wind takeoffs and landings simple. A nose wheel makes it impossible to nose the plane over.

The new bomber is to have its engines entirely concealed in the wings, eliminating drag due to nacelles or engine inclosures. Each engine will turn a propeller on a long, rigid driveshaft extending behind the wings. Wind tunnel and full-scale experiments have shown that a pusher propeller is 10 per cent more efficient than a tractor or puller type. It will be possible for mechanics to reach every part of the motors while the giant plane is in flight.

It was a commercial adaptation of this plane that Douglas submitted in Pan American's competition for a trans-Atlantic craft.

At present all the windows in the special secret factory are painted over and the work on the bomber parts proceeds behind huge screens. Every employé is sworn to secrecy under the military secrets act. Armed guards are at the doors of the plant, and a contingent of army engineers is living in Santa Monica to oversee the work on every phase of the big machine.

The plane is expected to fly about Jan. 1, 1940.

HERBERT MARSHALL
Movies' gain was accounting profession's loss.

Dear Miss Tinée: I wrote a little story and want you to hear it. The names of pictures are in quotation marks. "Sally, Irene, and Mary" were in "Algiers." They visited a friend who had "Four Daughters" who were sailing to "The Port of Seven Seas" to see "The Rage of Paris." They also met a "Shopworn Angel" and her friend, "Little Miss Broadway," who loved the guy called "My Bill." Then there was a "Prison Break." The "Sky Giants" caught them and sent them to the "Reformatory." They saw a lot of "White Banners" on houses, and when they asked a "Cowboy from Brooklyn" why, he said because of "Mysterious Mr. Moto." Then they wrote home to "Our Gang" and said, "Having a Wonderful Time."

That's the end, and if this gets printed I'll be very glad. I'm 12 years old and hope you have loads of success.

Sincerely, GLADYS JENKS.

P. S.—Could you print a picture of Herbert Marshall and a little about him?

Editor's note: I've enjoyed your "little story," Gladys. And you only 12 years old—my, my! Indeed we can print a picture of Mr. Marshall, also "a little about him." He was born in England, May 23, 1890. He's 6 feet tall and has dark brown hair and blue eyes. Educated St. Mary's college. He intended to be an accountant, but changed his plans and went on the stage instead. His stage career started in 1911. You're welcome!

Dear Miss Tinée: Reading your column as usual the other day, with its ominous headline about "Reds," I had a good laugh.

True, the story is of czarist Russia, but the production, actors, and director are all Czech. The film was produced doubtless in some studio in Prague.

The comedian Vlasta Burian whom you liked is a screen and stage actor both. He has his own theater in Prague, called Burianovo Divadlo (Burian's theater). He plays a comic figure with a certain amount of pathos, a kind of Bohemian Charlie Chaplin, at whom you laugh while tears fall, because you are sorry for the person he portrays.

I have seen several of his films (not this one) in Chicago, mostly in the theaters in Czech neighborhoods.

To have Vlasta Burian and the other actors called Reds is mighty funny to those who know them. It would be the same as calling Wallace Beery a Mexican because he played Pancho Villa, and Norma Shearer French because she played the rôle of the French queen recently.

Naturally you were misinformed somewhere and we cannot blame you for the mistake.

Hoping that you will receive this correction in the good-natured spirit in which it was written. Sincerely yours,

MARY K. TRUHLAR.

Editor's note: It was a dumb error for which nobody but myself was responsible. Thank you for your pleasant and interesting correction. I ran a "Beg Your Pardon" on the day following the review. Please come again.

ISABEL JEWELL

Dear Miss Tinée: No need to be upset over Ruth Donahue's letter. Where her mind was while she was seeing "We're Going to Be Rich" I don't know. Our family has for a long time relied on your reviews, and still does. Of course, once in a while we don't quite agree, but, after all, you are only human, and so are we.

Gracie Fields was not supposed to be a romantic type, as Miss Donahue wrote, and we see nothing ludicrous about either McLaglen or Donlevy wanting her for their own, because she seemed the type of person any one would want around in a home. The only ludicrous thing in this connection is Miss Donahue's reaction. The child actor we thought one of the most interesting personalities we have encountered, and we hope to see much more of him. And where has Miss Donahue been to not know that McLaglen and Donlevy are both American stars and not foreign importations? So just keep on, Mae, in your good old way, and we'll stick by you.

Incidentally, could you some time squeeze in a picture of Isabel Jewell? We'd like to see her as Scarlett O'Hara. (What do you think about that?)

Sincerely yours, CLIFFORD BRIER.

Editor's note: You and I get along just fine, don't we? A picture of Isabel? Of course; but she'll never be Scarlett O'Hara, my fran'!

Dear Miss Tinée: If you wanted to write to Barbara Stanwyck and Janet Gaynor in Hollywood, how would you direct your letters? Would just Hollywood or Los Angeles reach them?

If you will answer this question in the "Voice of the Movie Fan" I will be under a deep obligation and thank you.

I. M. GRACE.

Editor's note: This column is here for the purpose of serving you, and we bid you welcome to our corner! You can write to Miss Stanwyck care of RKO-Radio Studio, 780 Gower street, Hollywood, Cal., and to Miss Gaynor care of Central Casting Agency, Los Angeles, Cal. Miss Gaynor is free-lancing.

The Crimson Wizard—Escape from the Reds

PRINCIPAL CHARACTERS OF THE DRAMA

PETER QUILL, a hunchback, inventor of invisible lightning with affinity for explosives and capable of destroying battleships.
ALLAN TYLER, chief of secret bureau.
ERIC LAMBERT, designer of super-battleships.
MAIDA TRAVERS, radio singer, beloved by Lambert.
IVAN MOLOKOFF, assistant engineer of radio station.
PETROVICH, embassy attache.
SONYA DANILO, beautiful and mysterious figure in plot against Peter Quill and his lightning.
MICHAEL RACLOV, assistant of Sonya.
HERR KALMITZ, Red Circle agent, director of Berlin radio station.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALMENTS

● At a public inquiry into theft of Eric Lambert's plans for a super battleship, and the attempted kidnaping of Peter Quill—a kidnaping forestalled by Maida Travers—Ivan Molokoff, Red Circle agent, is killed. Sonya Danilo, believed to be the Firefly, beautiful Red agent, is suspected. She eludes Allan Tyler's dragnet and with Comrade Petrovich boards the liner Gigantic, which is taking Maida to Europe where she is to study voice. Michael Raclov is also aboard, and in the excitement caused when Sonya explodes a bomb on the ship, he takes off in a trans-Atlantic catapult plane with Maida as his prisoner. Back on land Sonya spies on Peter Quill's tests of his ray. Maida and Raclov, forced down on an uninhabited island of the Hebrides, finally repair the plane and take off just as Raclov's brother is executed in Moscow during a Red purge. "Captured" by British army planes, Raclov and Maida are freed by Gorin, another Red Circle agent, and continue to Berlin. There Herr Kalmitz offers Maida a radio contract if she will induce Peter Quill to come to her assistance. Seeing the trap to ensnare Quill, Sonya agrees, but sings instead a warning to Eric during an international broadcast. Sonya and Petrovich are captured at W-G-N, and unknown to them their conversation is broadcast. They say Peter Quill will join the Red Circle to be near Maida in Moscow—where she is to be taken because of her warning to Eric. Quill disappears, along with his blueprints, and eludes secret agents, boarding a Russian power yacht which takes him to a destroyer beyond the three mile limit. At Tyler's request British planes intercept the destroyer taking Quill to Russia, but are withdrawn when a fleet of Russian bombers appear over London. The bombs are harmless but the ruse succeeds, for the destroyer is able to escape in a fog.

Raclov waited until the airship's commander had obeyed his orders, then backed toward the windows of the bridge.

Peter Quill Engineers a Plot in the Night Sky

By SPECIAL AGENT

(Copyright: 1938: The Chicago Tribune.)

I.

LATE AUTUMN. The sky was the hue of time-worn marble. A friendless Russian wind wailed in the eave troughs. The door opened with a dreary creak of ancient hinges and a man walked slowly into a Moscow workshop. He stood briefly considering the figure bending over a laboratory bench.

"I am called Comrade Raclov," he said. He waited.

The figure at the bench did not move. Comrade Raclov continued to watch him. The comrade had not removed his cap. His black hair fell negligently about the collar of his smock. His trousers were thrust into the tops of his boots. He spoke again. "I am Comrade Raclov," he said.

This time the figure at the bench moved. It was a terrible figure. The arms were thin and long and they ended in bony fingers. The fingers were great claws. The legs were short and uneven in length. The body was fearfully contorted. The breast was thrust forward, the back hunched, shoulders narrow and painfully contracted. When the figure moved Michael Raclov retreated in a kind of horror. The head of this figure seemed as large as the grotesque body. The hair was strewn over a parchment skull. The eyes were strangely and brilliantly and peacefully blue. Great shrub-like brows shaded the eyes. The forehead was deeply furrowed. The face was drawn and pale.

"I am called Peter Quill," he said. The voice was a dead level. The tone of the voice was hollow and expressionless.

"Peter Quill." Michael Raclov repeated the name. "Yes, I know that. You work night and day?"

"I work," said Peter Quill.

Raclov hesitated a moment. "Those who do not work must die," he said. There was no answer.

"My brother is dead," Raclov said. "He did not work. Perhaps I shall die. I was sent to America to find plans for huge battleships. I was asked to bring home with me a young girl. Her name is Maida Travers."

"Is Maida Travers in Moscow?" Peter Quill's monotonous voice was like the chill of the autumn wind.

"Yes," said Raclov. "But if anything happens to the presence of Maida Travers or to the battleship plans there is always the firing squad."

Peter Quill's face showed not the least interest. "I have no time to lose," he said. "My work is very important."

Raclov disregarded him. "You will be invited," he said, "to make the first voyage aboard the new dirigible airship Siberia."

"I must do my work," said Peter Quill.

"There will be another guest aboard the Siberia. That guest will be Maida Travers."

Peter Quill gave no sign. He glanced anxiously at the little forest of wires and tubes and electrical material which surrounded him. "I have only a little time," he said.

"Another word, Peter Quill," said Raclov. "You are sailing with the Russian fleet. Perhaps you will want to know that there will be fifty vessels in that fleet."

Peter Quill showed the first sign of interest. "Fifty ships?" he said.

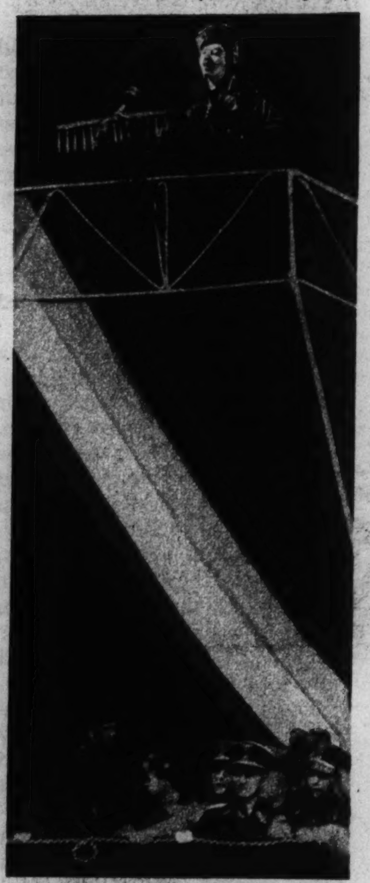
"Fifty ships," Raclov repeated.

"Fifty ships," said Peter Quill. "That is quite a number of ships even for a wizard."

"But not too great for the Crimson Wizard," said Raclov. He noted the face of the dwarf with shrewd interest.

Peter Quill's face did not change. "No," he said in his toneless voice, "not for a Crimson Wizard. May I ask you a question, Comrade Raclov?"

"One does not ask many questions in Moscow, Peter Quill," said Raclov with a slight smile.



Sing for Red Russia? No! For America! And now Maida sang with all the melody in her soul.

The Wizard's brilliant blue eyes did not waver. "I think," he said, "that we have in America two capable agents. One is the girl Sonya Danilo. The other is Comrade Petrovich. Perhaps they can do me a service."

"Perhaps."

"In my laboratory in America there are hidden a number of small radium tubes. I shall want them at once, before the fleet sails."

Raclov studied the face of the dwarf anew. He saw no change in its fearful outlines. "I shall take the message," he said. He turned to the door.

The Crimson Wizard again crouched over his bench and was absorbed in the puzzling maze of wires and tubes and filaments before him.

II.

The temporary airport at Minsk was densely crowded. Men and women, comrades, that is to say, were pressed close together before a spectacle such as they had never seen. The spectacle was an enormous dirigible airship. Perhaps the people stared because an airship is in itself a spectacle. Perhaps they stared because an airship is a means of travel. A means of travel may take one to a far distant place. Perhaps the airship was the symbol of freedom from Red communism. The people stared. When the commissar spoke to them through the amplifiers they cheered. There were those in the throng who seemingly knew when it would be suitable to the commissar for cheering to greet his remarks. These persons cheered first. The throng always followed.

The people cheered when the music was played. They cheered most of all when they were told that an American girl would sing for them. Maida Travers, white of face and trembling, did not understand. She had understood nothing since she had been taken boldly out of Berlin and transported to Moscow. She had been given the most courteous attention. But she was always attended. She never saw friendly faces to which she might turn. Wherever she turned there was always another agent of the Red Circle.

It was Michael Raclov who told her she was to be a guest of honor on this maiden flight of the dirigible Siberia.

"You will not be alone," he said. "Besides, the Circle considers it of great value to let the people see that an American girl has become one of them."

"You say I shall not be alone?" Maida caught at the sentence as a stray hope.

"Wait," said Raclov.

And now she was in the official party on the platform from which the dirigible would be boarded. The applause which followed her name left her confused. Some one behind her clutched her arm. The clutch was of fingers that were long and clawlike. A hard, monotonous voice spoke low in her ear.

"Sing," said the voice. "Do not fail."

Maida knew the voice. It was the voice of Peter Quill. She shuddered. Then she walked to the microphone. She had a vague feeling of hypnosis in all this accumulation of strange sensations. She constantly sought some one friendly influence, but yet feared to find it. There were times when Michael Raclov seemed to be playing two parts. She dared not trust him. What had Raclov meant when he said that she would not be alone? If he had meant Peter Quill, it was a chilling, forbidding reassurance. Peter Quill had never been anything but a pitiful, skulking, and broken fragment of a man. He had always been alone in his curious pursuit of knowledge. He flamed with a kind of genius, but he had always walked in a shadow.

Alone with Peter Quill! Alone with a monster who had sold his twisted brain to the Red enemies of liberty! The clutch of his claws upon her arm drove the blood from her face and left her pale and resentful. How could she sing in such a scene? Around her were the emotionless faces of terrorists whose single law was exact obedience and whose single punishment was cold and relentless death. Before her was the crowded square of those who knew not what moment the accusing finger might point them out. She smiled bitterly as the thought flashed through her mind that she had known her own countrymen to thrill at the magnificence of the Red revolt and at the same time plead mercy and the sweeter life for murderers at home. And a Russian might be shot down for holding an opinion!

Sing for whom? For Red Russia? No, for America! And now her resolution was made and she sang with all the melody in her soul.

III.

In a storm of excitement the Siberia cast off its moorings. The airship rose swiftly and moved steadily westward.

Comrade Dimitri, the commander of the Siberia, was alone in the glass-inclosed forward cabin. He was so closely occupied with his calculations that he was uninterested in the approach of a man behind him.

"We are well over Poland, are we not, Comrade Dimitri?" The voice was easy and pleasant.

The commander turned impatiently. "Who are you?"

"You do not know me. I have the good fortune to be an uninvited guest. Perhaps I should be called a stowaway."

"You will be put in irons. And when you return you shall find yourself in serious trouble." The comrade commander put his hand toward a signal button.

The visitor drew a pistol. "Do not touch anything," he said. "And now I ask you again: We are over Poland, are we not?"

The commander sullenly withdrew his hand. "Yes," he said, "we are over Poland."

"Then," said the visitor, "I shall be leaving you. You cannot fail to notice that I have my parachute. Even if I had not, I still might leave you, since any death is preferable to death in Moscow."

"Who are you?"

"I am the man whose brother was murdered by a firing squad because he wanted to think. I am the man who served the Red cause by stealing the plans of the great American battleships. I am the man who might have been shot for misplacing those plans, for they have been misplaced, I am told, Comrade Commander."

The commander repeated his question: "Who are you?"

"I shall ask you, comrade, to open the window before you." The commander, under the steady pressure of the eyes behind the pistol, did as he was asked.

"Now, then, comrade, stand here in the rear of this cabin and do not move."

The man with the pistol waited until his orders had been obeyed. Then he climbed nim-

I KNEW HITLER

HANFSTAENGL

A Former Ally Rips Veil from Face of Despot

By KURT G. W. LUDECKE

(This and previous instalments adapted from "I Knew Hitler," by Kurt G. W. Ludecke. Copyright, 1937, by Kurt G. W. Ludecke.)

I.

HITLER'S intimates, as I have said, regarded him with veneration and respect. I shared their feeling, and coupled it with a deep personal affection. We were together a good deal, and out of a thousand trifling incidents I began to piece together the puzzling fragments of his character.

In spite of the simplicity, almost austerity, of his private life, his personality is by no means uncomplicated; and since Hitler is the party, even today, his traits have large significance.

Artistic and retiring by nature, he had nevertheless thrust himself into the most violent sort of active life. There were times when he gave an impression of unhappiness, of loneliness and inward searching, so poignant that my sympathies were stirred. But in a moment he would turn again to whatever frenzied task was next on his schedule, with the swift command of a man born for action. Outside the political field his inclinations were all toward art; yet one felt that if he had realized his early dream of becoming an architect, he would have designed great projects, not cottages.

In this formative period of the Nazi movement he was surrounded chiefly by men like himself, and not by people who were rich or highly educated. The exceptions, of course, were Eckart and Rosenberg, and a few others, like Gottfried Feder, possessed of money or scholarship. Apart from these few, Hitler's associates were for the most part simple souls, a fact which had a lasting influence on his psychology. They were men from the most modest homes, like his own; men who knew nothing of the great world beyond their own towns, but were sincere, enthusiastic, loyal, looking upon Hitler as not only a genius but an inspired prophet. To understand these men was largely to understand Hitler and his power.

Night after night he sat in their little homes or in the simpler cafés of Munich, expounding his doctrins. His listeners adored him. The fact that he was always the center of a spellbound audience explains why for so many years Hitler was unable to listen to any one or to carry on a normal conversation. In his circle Hitler alone talked; the others listened.

Frau Hanfstaengl

I have happy memories of evenings passed with Hitler, Eckart, and the others in a weinstube in the Barerstrasse or in the restaurant Bratwurst-Gloeckle, when Hitler's asceticism did not yet stand in the way of his accepting a glass of beer or wine. The play of humor, especially Eckart's, was contagious. Hitler liked to be amused, to laugh, and showed his utter contentment by slapping his knees.

More or less by accident I was the means of introducing an official jester into this group. The story shows me returning with a cap and bells when I went forth to bring back a ducal coronet. Moreover, the jester ended as one of the party's strangest assets—and my enemy.

Through my acquaintance with the Princess Joachim, widow of the kaiser's youngest son, I met her young brother, the duke of Anhalt. As he was only 20, impressionable, and one of the richest princes in Germany, I tried—for the party's advancement and to put a plume in my own hat—to bring him into the movement. Moreover, I imagined he might take a real interest. His tutor was a wary Saxon colonel, very suspicious, who opposed everything that might complicate his job; but nevertheless I managed to get my young highness to two mass-meetings.

The effort was wasted. The duke turned out to be an exquisite young man who suffered tortures at such intimate contact with the rough masses. Attending incognito, of course, he received such a jostling at the second meeting that he became almost ill; the close air overwhelmed him, and possibly he was frightened to learn that the lower classes could think and talk. I gave him up as a possible Nazi fighter. Nearly in tears, he fled outside to his white Mercedes, and so away forever, little dreaming that a decade later Hitler would be master of all the dukedoms in the realm.

But before the young man escaped from the masses he at least helped to make one convert for the Nazi banner. Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl of Harvard fame, who was hearing Hitler for the first time and was enthralled by the sheer artistry of his show, saw me leaving with the duke. Taking advantage of our slight acquaintance, he edged up for an introduction and drove away with us. Finally I found myself alone with him when the Mercedes dropped us at my hotel.

I stepped out, he kept pace, and up and down the street we walked, discussing Hitler. In the flush of enthusiasm I was eloquent. His interest became less detached.

Two days later I met Hanfstaengl again in Max Amann's Nazi publishing office, where he had gone to find out more about the movement. Amann was present, and so were Hermann Esser and Christian Weber.

Hanfstaengl, with his great, lanky height, cadaverous, lantern-jawed face, and eccentric manners, amused Weber and the rest enormously. So did his wariness about joining the movement. He wished to be put on a secret list, fearing that an open avowal would expose him to the gibes of Munich society.

But I knew that the amazement of the salons would benefit us more than it could harm him; Hitler's potpie needed a bit of upper crust. Hanfstaengl was partner in a well known Munich art print publishing house, which until the war had maintained offices in New York. He was also a Harvard graduate, the son of an American mother, and had valuable connections on both sides of the Atlantic. Finally, he had money and his position in society was secure. We could probably find special work for such a man to do.

At last Amann and I succeeded in getting him to sign, most reluctantly, on the dotted line. We put him down for one American dollar a month—not so absurd as it sounds, for at that time the dollar was worth about 6,000 marks.

II.

It was soon apparent that "Putzi," as we called Hanfstaengl, would find his own special work. Fantastically enough, he became Hitler's toady-in-chief; the leader seemed to find it easy to relax in the presence of the long, windmillish, elaborately amusing recruit.

Putzi's comfortable and cultivated home was unquestionably the first house of the kind to open its doors to Hitler. He seemed to feel at ease with Hanfstaengl's pretty wife and handsome children. Putzi played Wagner beautifully, and Hitler, who loved music, ranked Wagner among the demigods.

In time Hanfstaengl made himself a sort of social secretary to Hitler, zealous in introducing him to hostesses. Hitler still had an air of shyness in the presence of those who had wealth or social authority. But his very naïveté in social matters tempted the salons to lionize him. He was asked many places and was received always with delight, though sometimes with amusement.

For instance, Putzi introduced him to the Bruckmanns, who had a fine house, with good pictures and books, tasteful furniture, and excellent food. I can still see Frau Bruckmann's eyes shining as she described Hitler's truly touching dismay before an artichoke.

Horror
in a Nazi prison

● Kurt G. W. Ludecke, the author of this all-revealing story, was a stanch disciple of Hitler when the events described in this chapter took place. Some eleven years later he was betrayed by Hitler and cast into a Nazi concentration camp. He describes two fellow prisoners:

● "There was one unfortunate youth, a degenerate imbecile and a clear asylum case, around whose neck some grim joker had tattooed these words: 'This neck belongs to the hangman.' And next to him lay weeping a little man, 65 years old, broken by life. He was a country doctor, unpolitical and harmless. But he did not like the Nazis, and he had committed the crime of deleting a Nazi election slogan which had been smeared on his own fence. One morning at dawn he had been dragged away from his wife. Looking at him, I felt ashamed to be a Nazi."

● But Herr Ludecke was luckier than most Nazi prisoners. He escaped. When finally he reached this country he wrote:

● "Adolf Hitler—you fool! The energy and perseverance, the thought and will I have wasted in escaping from you . . . could have moved a mountain for Germany and you."

"But madam," he said in his softest voice, "you must tell me how to eat this thing. I never saw one before."

In those days that naïveté was sincere and genuine.

Indeed, it was a little too genuine. Hitler loved beauty and appreciated good taste, but it never occurred to him to consider himself as an object that people might examine with curious eyes. I soon gave up my futile efforts to induce him to give more heed to his person and dress, though it might have been advantageous for the leader of the party to appear less like a refugee. He clung to his shapeless trench coat and clumsy shoes. His hair still fell over his eyes at every vehement gesture during his speeches. He continued to eat in a hurry, some messy stuff or other, while he ran from place to place. If you succeeded in making him stand still long enough to confer on important matters he would take out of his pocket a piece of greasy sausage and a slice of bread and bolt them while he talked. The only improvement I was able to persuade him to, was to give up his ugly and uncomfortable hard collars for more suitable soft ones. He would never resent my suggestions, but simply ignore them.

At one of our Monday meetings Hitler expounded the Nazi program with his usual mercilessness toward party enemies, using Alfred Rosenberg's pamphlet, "Character, Principles, and Aims of the Nazi Party," fresh from the press as the first printed exposition of the Nazi program, the famous twenty-five points. The speech was of a sort to inflame not only our friends and followers, but our opponents even more.

On the way home I pointed out to Hitler that he could no longer consider himself safe from personal attack. Yet he walked through the streets sometimes alone; at the Monday meeting place it would be easy to shoot him through the window at which he was frequently visible.

"I will live as long as I must live to do my work," he said.

Hitler was always on the go, but rarely on time, and we were always asking each other, "What in hell is he doing?" All the clerical work was discharged by others, but his attitude shaped theirs; so the party machine, none too well handled at best, more than once was in jeopardy through sheer inefficiency.

Only one thing was managed marvelously from the beginning—the propaganda, Hitler's personal hobby and perhaps his strongest point. He had a matchless instinct for taking advantage of every breeze to raise a political whirlwind. No official scandal was so petty that he could not magnify it into high treason; he could ferret out the most deviously ramified corruption in high places and plaster the town with the bad news. He shone in print and positively dazzled on the lecture platform.

PRINCESS JOACHIM

III.

The Coburg experience had proved how vital the function of the storm troops was; yet this branch of the organization was least developed. Something ought to be done to improve the S. A.

The storm troops were still under the command of young Lieut. Klintzsch, who had taken the men Hitler gave him, drilled them a little, and without uniforms or arms—or, to be fair, much money—had turned them into a useful corps. But Klintzsch was only 25 years old, much younger than many of the troopers he commanded, and discipline suffered accordingly.

Our fighting men were little better than gangs, and still regarded themselves more as ordinary party members than as storm troopers. We needed to instil into these men a pride in their special function, perhaps even create rivalry among the various units for the honor of being Hitler's crack company. The competitive spirit might work wonders for their morale.

I discussed the idea with Klintzsch, who agreed completely, but declared himself helpless to undertake any reforms immediately. So I decided to test the power of example. Hitler listened to my plan and told me to go ahead and form a troop.

Two fine men who had been regular officers in the war were engaged as platoon leaders. For adjutant, I accepted one Heubach, a poor choice, as I realized too late. Government laws and international treaties forbade the formation of the sort of troop I was developing, and by the time Heubach showed his true colors I dared not dismiss him because he knew too much.

Soon we had a few young students, splendid, strong fellows, among our veterans, and I began to organize a band with four drummers and four fifers.

To have more space for our exclusive use, I leased an apartment which contained, besides living quarters for Ludwig and me, an enormous studio. At once it became a sort of armory, the meeting place for the men. Ludwig often had to cook for ten or twenty hungry giants. He was an excellent but very liberal cook, and without batting an eye could use the most appalling quantities of fancy groceries. As most of the men were unemployed, and of course received no pay for serving in the company, Ludwig's bounty was accepted with enthusiasm. It also provoked considerable envy among other troops, since I was the only leader who could afford to subsidize what was almost a mess hall.

On party day, scheduled for Jan. 27, Hitler was to dedicate the first standard to his S. A. My great ambition was to appear at the presentation of the colors with my company completely equipped, perfectly drilled and at war strength, and to hand them over then to be sworn in by Hitler himself as "Shock Troop Hitler No. 1."

This idea so gripped me that I spent less time at headquarters than wisdom would have urged, and lost touch with the party gossips who always knew which way the wind of intrigue and rumor was blowing. Politics makes such strange bedfellows that only a rash party member ever closes his eyes.

IV.

The new year—1923—had scarcely begun before I noticed a change in the attitude of party men toward me. What change, or what incidents gave me the impression, it would be impossible to say, now; probably I noticed nothing definite. Something unpleasant was in the air . . . but the whole thing was so vague that I tried to dismiss it as an illusion.

I had given orders to my men not to mix with the regular S. A. groups until after the party day presentation, when they would no longer be my troop, but Hitler's, and had insisted that they must keep close mouths about our activities, to avoid petty jealousies. Apparently they did not. Later I heard of the dissatisfaction they aroused among other groups by reporting—of all things—Ludwig's meals!

Then, one night in early January, Hitler visited me in my new apartment. I took him into the studio, an immense room with skylights, comfortably furnished, one end giving into a cozy alcove, the wall of which was covered by a beautiful swastika banner.

"Schoen, das ist sehr schoen!" ("Beautiful, it is very beautiful!") he exclaimed, walking around. "Exactly what I've always wanted to have. I love this place."

"I'm certain," I said, "that it won't be long before you have something far better than this."

We sat down to a good dinner prepared and served by Ludwig, who was turkey red with pride and excitement; his big bat ears fairly twitched, and for once there was no cigaret glued to his lip.

Hermann Esser

Despite a lively discussion I began presently to feel that Hitler was not quite as cordial as usual. He was still very friendly, and apparently frank, but there was a shadow over us. I am used to grasping a situation and meeting it openly, but when the issues are intangible I am at a loss. With Hitler I was still too much the disciple to force the issue. Moreover, I had already witnessed his tactic of arming himself with an impregnable air of aloofness when he did not like a topic.

Our conversation turned to the storm troops, and again I promised him a surprise on party day. He questioned me about Klintzsch, and I answered frankly that while in my opinion he was doing his best, he was not equal to his task. Hitler said that he had reached the same conclusion some time since; he had in view a splendid man whom he could not approach until he was able to offer him a salary. Then we drifted into a discussion of party funds. After a little further talk he left.

I was disturbed by the overtones of the evening, but I could not believe that Hitler's confidence had been impaired by the silly gossip floating about. To worry was just to borrow trouble. Were not my time, my energy, my heart all dedicated to party work without any reservation? And my bank account as well? In a quiet way I was giving money to Hitler and others, in addition to the large sums the troop was costing. The inflation had reached terrifying proportions by this time. Everybody from Reichsminister to bootblack scrambled for foreign currency. To possess "valuta" was to be fortunate, though it were only a single dollar bill. Klintzsch and other men, knowing from my way of life that I was less embarrassed by the crisis than most were, frequently came to me for aid and got it. Several times I gave them foreign notes, including some French money left over from a trip to Paris.

Duke of Anhalt

I still remember how the last of those French notes went. One afternoon I was in the Nazi office with Max Amann, Dietrich Eckart, and Adolf Mueller, the printer, when in stormed Hitler aflame with an idea. Scarcely pausing to acknowledge our greeting, he began dictating to Amann a stirring, exciting text to be used for placards and handbills, to be distributed at once. As always, he demanded immediate action. But Amann, shrugging, said there was no money. Hitler raged.

"Absolutely necessary — of highest importance—must be done—Do it!"

The handbill had vigor and I liked it. Acting on impulse, I took out of my pocket 300 franc notes and tossed them to Amann, who counted them, his eyes gleaming. Then the four of us tried our higher mathematics, and found that the French money, figured in German marks, would be ample to pay the printer.

As it turned out, this sort of ready open-handedness earned more comment than appreciation. Politicians don't believe in Santa Claus.

Next Sunday—Swift disaster.

The Yankee Diplomat and the Geisha Girl

How a Despised Beauty Became a Heroine

I continue negotiations with a pack of rascals such as these?" he asked Heusken, his Dutch interpreter.

"Tell them," Harris instructed, "that I have finished with them. Tell them that we'll let the guns speak; then perhaps we shall have an answer."

With that Harris knocked over his chair and left. The flabbergasted and not a little frightened officials wondered what the consequences might be. This was a serious situation indeed. It was plain that Japan was in no position to offend the representative of a powerful country, much less go to war.

The officials were at first divided regarding the course to follow. Chushiro Matsumura, superintendent of constables, suggested that though Harris talked of guns, there was not an American ship in port at that time. He urged that the Japanese refuse to give in. Inoue Shinano-no-kami, a magistrate of Shimoda, disagreed. He warned that while the Americans probably would not start war immediately, it nevertheless would be a serious matter if the negotiations were broken off.

During an all-night discussion Miosaburo Wakana, another superintendent of constables, hinted with characteristic oriental philosophy that Harris' irascibility might be due in large measure to his loneliness. He was in a strange land, without friends, without his accustomed food, without a knowledge of the language. He was even without sufficient domestic help. He had requested the Japanese some time back to find a maid for him. Perhaps, Wakana suggested, it might be a good idea to send instead of an ordinary maid a more intelligent person.

• • •

Some one recalled that Harris, while on a stroll through the town with Heusken one evening, had seen a girl named Okichi come from a public bathhouse. The townsfolk noted that Harris gave Okichi much more than a passing glance. This, of course, might be regarded only natural, for Okichi was famous throughout Izu peninsula for her beauty.

It was decided by the officials to send Okichi to Harris. The more the officials considered this plan the better it appeared. Okichi was beautiful and intelligent. She was one of the few girls in the town who could read and write. Undoubtedly the peculiar oriental psychology of these officials convinced them that this girl could also, while working for Harris, learn much of value about him and communicate the information to them.

Shinjiro Isa, a town official of Shimoda, was delegated to enlist the services of Okichi. Harris had offered to pay a maid the then fabulous sum of 25 ryo to purchase suitable clothes and a salary of 15 ryo a month.

Okichi said she was not interested. This came as a shock to the officials, for 15 ryo was in those days a lot of money. Okichi, however, appeared to care little about money. She pleaded she was betrothed to a young ship carpenter named Tsurumatsu.

Isa informed Okichi that his request was not an ordinary business proposal, but an order from the government. An order from the government in Japan is something no one trifles with.

But Okichi was made of stern material. She said the government was free to do what it pleased with her; she still would have nothing to do with the "hairy foreigners." Like virtually all Japanese of that time, she called Americans and Europeans "hairy foreigners" and disliked them.

Unfortunately, the officials had informed Harris that the girl Okichi would be sent to him. Harris had expressed satisfaction at the arrangement.

The officials feared what Harris might say. They agreed it was necessary to enlist the services of this bewitching but stubborn maid. Isa changed his tactics. He appealed to Okichi's patriotism. Patriotism, it should be pointed out, is something which most Japanese hold in high esteem. It is to them an act of worship.

Okichi finally consented to go with Harris after the officials promised to elevate her lowborn fiancé and allow him to take a family name and carry a sword.

According to Japanese records, Okichi became a maid at the American consulate general on June 15, 1857, and caused the Japanese officials no end of trouble. It was common gossip among these people that Okichi, instead of serving her own countrymen, had become a spy and informer for her American employer.

At first, however, Okichi faithfully lived up to her promise to the Japanese officials. She visited them daily and reported all that she had seen and done.

"Harris," she related, "is moody and austere, but he treats me kindly. He has a distaste for Japanese food. There is a Chinese who cooks strange dishes for him."

Fortunately for Harris, there was little of value Okichi could report, for she spoke not a word of English, while Harris never took the trouble to learn Japanese and always spoke through an interpreter. The inquisitive Japanese officials could not even learn the titles of the books Harris read and kept, much less discover the contents of his letters—at least not from Okichi. Nevertheless Okichi continued for several weeks to submit daily reports to the officials.

Moreover, as time passed, there is evidence to show that the affection for Harris which Okichi at first feigned became a genuine thing. The townspeople of Shimoda did not trouble to ascertain the true nature of the relations between Harris and Okichi. They knew that she had been chosen to be an enchantress and suspected and preferred to believe that the girl had become the American diplomat's sweetheart.

When Okichi went out into the street she was called "Tojin" Okichi, a derogatory word meaning "the foreigner's Okichi." Today only a few people know that her real name was Okichi Saito. "Tojin Okichi," on the other hand, is a name known from one end of the country to the other. Most Japanese preferred to believe that she was Harris' sweetheart.

• • •

About the time Okichi joined his service Harris was ill. Almost an exile in a strange country, with no one but his Dutch interpreter, Heusken, to talk to, and exasperated and worn by the methods of the Japanese officials, he was very disheartened. There is reason to believe that he welcomed the presence of the charming and intelligent girl.

She was kind by nature. Undoubtedly as Harris grew weaker and finally became bedridden she felt pity for him. It is known that she spent sleepless nights nursing him when his fever ran high. Once she even risked her life as well as the positions of the town officials of Shimoda in an effort to relieve Harris' agony. This incident is set down in Japanese records and is a well known episode. In those days, under the influence of Buddhism, it was a crime to drink the milk of cows or to eat beef. Harris vainly pleaded with the officials to make an exception in his case.

As his illness grew worse and he could take only liquid food, he refused to swallow the tasteless fluid obtained from boiling rice which the Japanese urged him to drink. He pleaded for milk, and, although repeated demands were made, the Japanese officials remained adamant. The ruling against milking cows was a pet edict of the shogun himself, and the petty officials at Shimoda dared not permit any one to break it.

As Okichi watched over the ailing diplomat she became convinced that he would die unless he took some sort of nourishment. If the milk of cows would cure him she determined to get some for him, regardless of the consequences.

She went out just before dawn one day and stole into the barn of a farmer and milked his cow. She hurried back to the consulate, and, holding her nose—for, like all Japanese in those days, she abhorred even the smell of milk—she poured a glassful of the refreshing liquid for Harris.

So pleased was her employer that Okichi made secret visits each morning to the farmer's barn, but it did not take long for the Japanese to detect her. When the officials learned what was happening they were shocked. The commission of such a crime within their jurisdiction would mean the jobs of scores of officials.

"You have defied the authorities and done an outrageous thing," stormed Gennojo Saito, a petty police detective who later became a high official of the home ministry.

Saito warned that if the secret became known Okichi would lose her head. Of course, it would also mean that Saito and a lot of other officials would lose their positions or be demoted, so Okichi was actually not in so dangerous a plight.

After this incident the attitude of the townspeople changed considerably toward Okichi. Whenever she traveled through the town in her palanquin (jinrickshas were invented some years afterward by an Englishman residing in Tokio) people would point at her and call: "Tojin Okichi! Tojin Okichi!" Once two drunken rowdies stopped her palanquin and spat in her face.

As Okichi's relations with the Japanese became more and more strained and vexing, her affection for and affinity to Harris grew that much closer. Harris now commenced to shower kindness on the brave girl who risked her life to make his a little more bearable.

Following his recovery Harris was ordered to proceed to Tokio and establish a legation there. Okichi, so far as is known, did not accompany him to the capital, but from about this time the Japanese noted a vast change in Harris' attitude toward them. In his diary he wrote: "I am satisfied with the Japanese and their manners. They are the best race east of the Cape of Good Hope."

Harris' friendship for Japan undoubtedly was nursed to some extent by the kindness shown him by Okichi. To what degree this bewitching girl was instrumental in influencing the irascible American diplomat remains a matter of conjecture, but as investigators delve into old documents the conviction grows that she played a very important rôle in his life.

Soon after Harris established the American legation in Tokio his interpreter, Heusken, was assassinated. This unfortunate incident incensed the members of the diplomatic corps. The ministers of most countries threatened to withdraw. Harris, however, notwithstanding it was his secretary who was assassinated, prevailed upon them not to leave the capital. This action deeply moved the Japanese government.

After remaining in Tokio less than five months Harris suffered from his old ailment and left for Shimoda, where Okichi again nursed him. He was prostrated with fever and remained critically ill for several weeks. Following his recovery he returned to Tokio, but was compelled by a relapse to ask his government to relieve him of his duties.

Townsend Harris left Japan for the United States in 1864, never to return.

• • •

Okichi's life after Harris' departure was a tragic one. She was scorned by her countrymen, and wherever she went nasty epithets were hurled at her.

TOWNSEND HARRIS

This led her to drink. She had saved what in those days was a considerable sum and could well afford to lead any sort of life she chose. Sometimes she would take out a piece of paper currency in the presence of persons she suspected of gossiping about her, put the note to the flame of a candle, and light her long tobacco pipe with it.

As the years passed Okichi became more and more disagreeable and offended even those who wanted to be her friends. Her drinking bouts lasted all night, and she became a notorious character, despised by all who knew her.

Finally she ran through her fortune. She now had no money, no friends, and, after she learned of Townsend Harris' death, apparently nothing to live for, so no one was surprised when early one morning her body was found drifting down the Shimoda river. She had committed suicide by drowning.

• • •

The years have rolled on. The Japanese people, who regarded as a humiliation the attempt of Commodore Perry to open Japan's doors to the trade of the world, have come to look at this "affront" in an entirely new light. Perry today is hailed as a hero, and fancy and myth have begun to gather around his name. A memorial tablet was erected some years ago amidst rejoicings on the spot where he landed. Five years ago the port of Shimoda inaugurated an annual "black ship" festival to recall the arrival of the first American warships.

Likewise the Japanese people have come to revise their judgment of Tojin Okichi. They now believe that through her kindness Harris, who at first was cool toward them, became their friend and admirer and helped to guide Japan in the critical period of her rebirth.

The townspeople of Shimoda are convinced that this is due in great measure to their Okichi. So they have changed their minds about the once despised "foreigner's girl" and have erected a shrine in her honor. Recently they added a museum and picture gallery. Another shrine was built in Nihonbashi, in the heart of Tokio.

In a way Tojin Okichi was the true Madame Butterfly. Although the tragic story of the world-famous opera was not based on Okichi's life, it might very well have been.

TOWNSEND HARRIS

Among outstanding Americans of his time was Townsend Harris, merchant, civic leader, linguist, politician, and diplomat. He was born at Sandy Hill, Washington county, N. Y., Oct. 3, 1804. As a young man he was a partner with his father and a brother in an importing firm in New York City. In 1846 he was elected to the board of education of that city, and while in office was founder of a free college which today is known as the College of the City of New York. In 1854 he was named American consul to Ningpo, China, and on Aug. 4, 1855, he was appointed consul general to Japan. While on his way to Japan he stopped off in Siam and negotiated a commercial treaty between that country and the United States. A treaty beween Japan and America, concluded in 1858, incorporated the policies advocated by Harris, who on Jan. 18, 1858, was elevated to American minister to Japan. When Lincoln was elected President, Harris resigned his diplomatic post and returned to New York City, where he spent his remaining days, interested in church affairs, the temperance movement, and Christian missions. He died in New York City, Feb. 25, 1878. According to his biographers, Harris was a man of wide culture, great moral strength, and singularly upright character. He never married.

Tribune Tour No. 1—Seeing the News Room

How Editorial Staf of the World's Greatest Newspaper Works

YOU TRIBUNE readers have been visiting Tribune Tower at the rate of some 35,000 a year. Since the number is something less than that, we may consider the total in eighteen years as being about 600,000. Well, 600,000 of you readers have been seeing something of newspaper making.

Yet, ladies and gentlemen, the whole 600,000 of you (and children included) make up only part of the nearly 1,000,000 daily readers; and, to make the comparison just a little more important, a smaller part of the 1,200,000 Sunday readers.

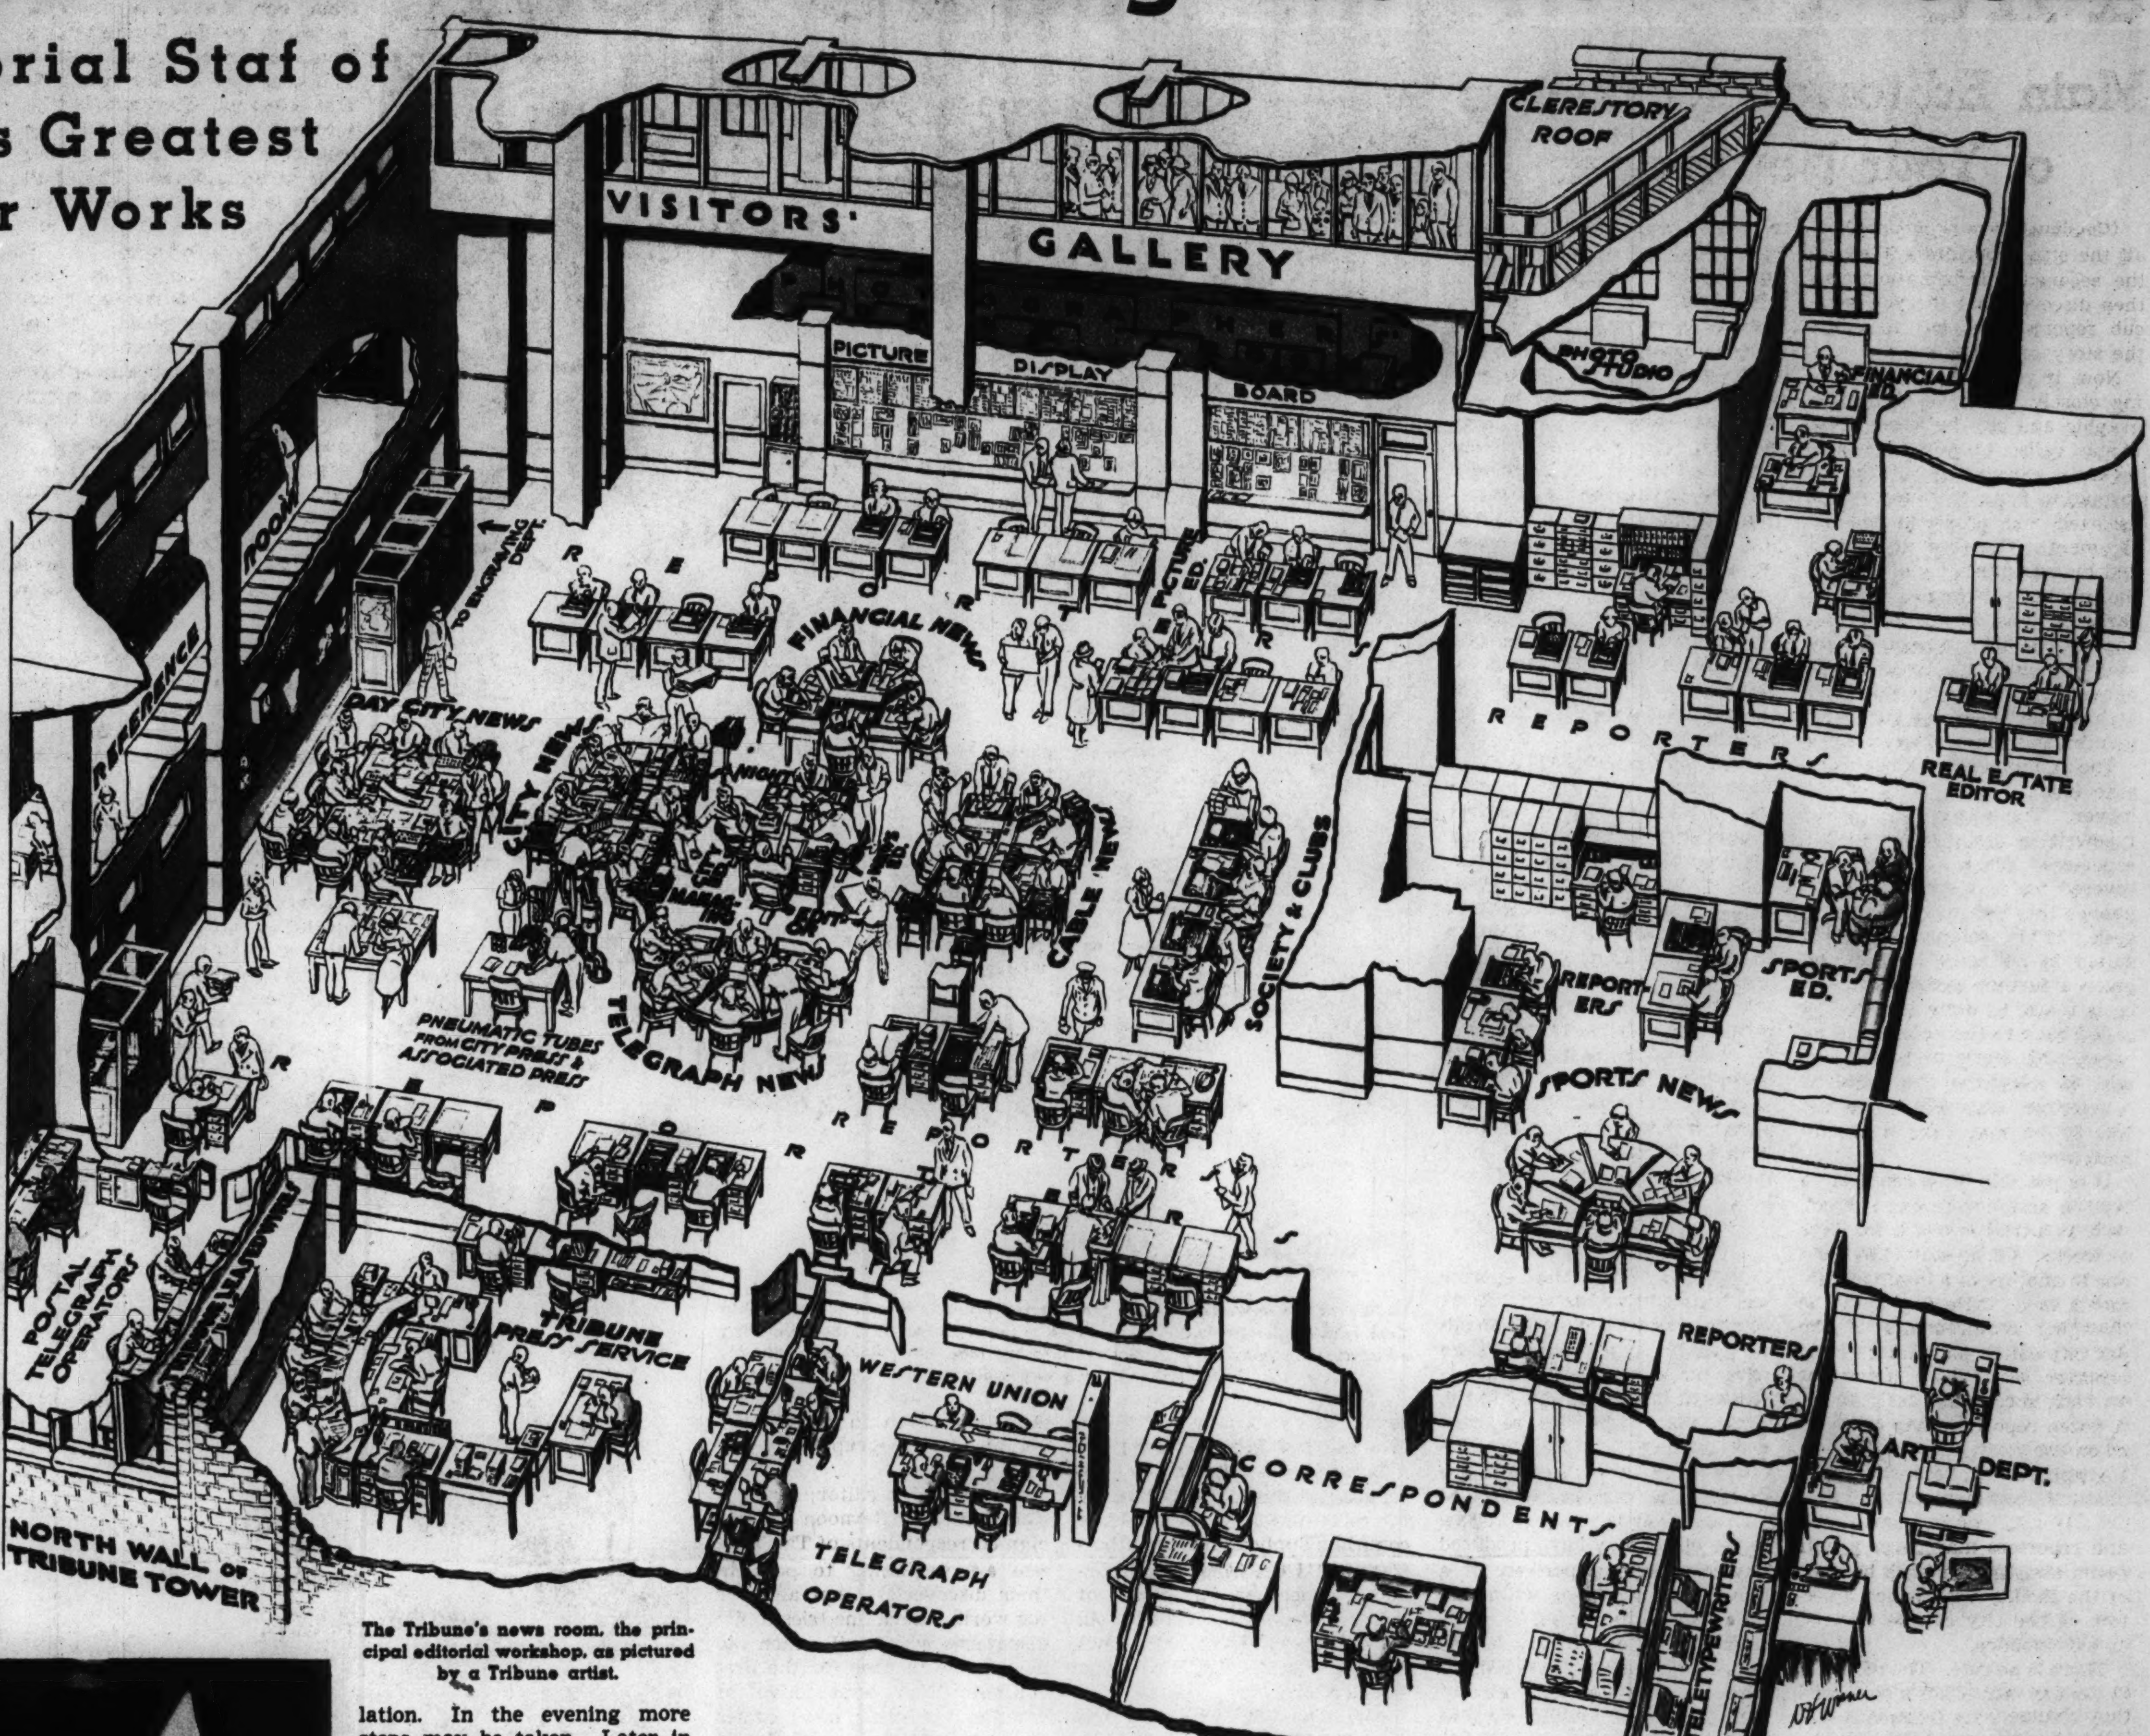
What of it? Just this: Even if you have visited the Tower and the plant you may have been curious about some of the things you saw; and if you haven't been a visitor you ought to know what you are going to see when you do come.

So here it is!

The principal editorial workshop of The Tribune is called the news room. There are smaller editorial workshops in various parts of the Tower and the plant. Some of these are the offices of editorial writers and special writers on a host of subjects; and then there are the Sunday department and the Metropolitan Section. But the big movement of news, the daily articulating of thousands of words of information from all over the world, is in the news room.

The news room is 97 feet long and 58 feet wide. It is two stories high. It is flanked on one side by the photographic workrooms. In these rooms are employed 35 cameramen. On the other flank are the telegraph offices—Postal, Western Union, the Chicago Tribune News bureau, the Tribune leased wires, and other special wires to New York and Los Angeles.

It will be interesting, Mr. and Mrs. Tribune Reader, as well as all you little readers, if you will keep in mind the picture of this big room. Remember, if you will, the cameramen on one side and the telegraphers on the other; do this because you are going to see a great deal of movement as photographs begin pouring from one side, telegraphic and cable dispatches from the other.



The Tribune's news room, the principal editorial workshop, as pictured by a Tribune artist.

* * *

Let us get back into the middle of the news room. You should be in the middle, since everything is directed from the middle. Here you will see a square desk. Four men are seated at this desk, one on each side. They are the managing editor and his immediate staf. Count them again—1, managing editor; 2, city editor; 3, news editor; 4, night editor. You will always see four men, even though holidays and sick leaves may intervene. This is because there is an assistant night editor who takes the place of the absent one.

This desk and its occupants see every printed word before it goes into The Tribune. You may think of this desk as a kind of sieve through which everything passes. Indeed, every process in a newspaper office is a sieve. The news is shaken through this succession of sieves until finally it is considered suitable for publication.

Now, let's see what these sieves are. You must keep in mind first of all that what is news in one place may not be news in another. You, living in Chicagoland, would not be interested in a heavy rainstorm in Tombstone, Ariz. But you would be interested if it happened in Chicagoland. So the Tombstone storm is sifted out. You must also remember that news keeps on happening—that is, keeps changing. Therefore the sieves must keep up with the changing news. In the afternoon congress may take certain steps in legislation. In the evening more steps may be taken. Later in the night more steps. And all of these steps must be followed. The story as it happened in the afternoon has become an entirely different thing at night. All of this requires the most incessant attention.

Consider a crime. In the morning the crime may be reported. In the afternoon the police have caught a criminal. At night another criminal has been arrested, and in the early morning that second criminal has made a complete confession!

In marked contrast to The Tribune's news room of today is the reporters' room of forty-one years ago.

See what that involves. Every district of the city is covered throughout the twenty-four hours by police reporters. Every one of those reporters must keep on the alert for every possible change in the story. In the news room the editors must be constantly advised of these changes. And the story, which began as a relatively simple event in the morning, has developed a multiplicity of changes by late night.

Remember also, ladies and gentlemen, that story changes are not the only siftings. Mistakes happen. You have heard of them in the best of families. Well, The Tribune is the best of families, we think, and we try to keep out the mistakes. The editor must eliminate all libelous statements, all overstatements, all bad taste. Sometimes a story has a historical significance. This means that an editor must develop an article which will supply the historical and informative background.

Well, we could run on at this rate for a long time. The point we are trying to make is that editorial training on The Tribune is a long process. The principal news editors have been in training from fifteen to more than twenty years.

* * *

Now let's take one more glance at that square desk in the center of the news room. It is the most important machine in a room full of machinery. It is interesting because the men you see there have been through most of the battles incident to newspaper life. You will be reading farther on of the day city editor and the telegraph editor, sports editor, and all the other department editors. These are the editors in charge of the first stages of production.

The managing editor has been through them all. He has been a reporter, a copy reader, and city editor. This same thing is true of the city editor, who began as a City Press reporter and went through the labors of day city editor. The news editor has been a reporter, a copy reader, sports editor; the night editor, too; and his assistant has touched many of the rungs in the ladder reaching to his post.

It is necessary to understand these things in order to know how it is that news, after it originates, flows through channels which are perfectly known to all the men who handle it. News start with a reporter and ends with a managing editor.

And now that you have seen the last sieve, let's stop and begin where we ought to begin—with the production of news as it happens and as it is assembled and written and edited and sent to the printers.

The Tribune is a continuous operation. Its processes are active twenty-four hours a day. Yet we must begin somewhere, so we take up at the point which seems the most normal to normal folks. Normal folks begin work in the morning. And since this is as good a place as any, we shall begin with the work of the day city editor at 8:30 a. m.

Now, you have been looking at two sides of the news room—photography and telegraphy. On the third side you will find the day city editor. He is one of the oldest traditions on a morning newspaper.

You must quickly distinguish between the city editor and the day city editor. The city editor, who arrives at 2 p. m., is the master mind, if we may be permitted this pat on the back, of the Chicago news gathering force. The day city editor is the right hand of the city editor.

The day city editor is the man who gets the machinery started and has it all oiled and running so that when the city editor arrives he can be relieved of a thousand details and be free to take over the main movement of the Chicago news.

When the day city editor arrives at 8:30 a. m. he does not find an empty room. This is because, as has been said above, The Tribune is a twenty-four-hour process. So the day city editor sees the departure of the late editor and his staf. We shall not go into that now. It is sufficient for you to remember that the late city editor and his staf are going home to sleep as the day city editor enters the room.

Chief among the troops of the day city editor, if we may use a military simile, are a background of more than 200 editorial people immediately attached to the staf of The Tribune, the communication systems (telephone, wireless, radio, and telegraph), a background of correspondents in hundreds of cities and towns, the morgue, and the future file.

Morgue first: Morgue is the news room argot for reference files. In the steel cabinets of this department are thousands upon thousands of envelopes containing mountains of clippings, memoranda, and photographs, and all accurately filed and cross-filed. Almost never a name in the news which is not pursued through the morgue for a record of that name's past history and the light it may throw upon the news of today.

The future file: Just a card indexing system into which is placed every future possibility for tomorrow, for next week, next month, next year. Every letter and notation and scrap of information which may have any possible future bearing on any possible event in the future is put in the future file. But future file also means The Tribune every day.

It is high time we get back to the day city editor. The first thing he does is to examine that day and date in the future file. A stack of possibilities emerges. These he unscrambles with the expertness of long experience. He is helped to do this by his immediate staf. This staf is made up of an assistant who registers and keeps informed on assignments to reporters; an assistant who registers and is informed on assignments to cameramen; an assistant who keeps a general eye on office boys, the telephones, the sorting of City Press bulletins and telegraphic material; and a varying number of rewriters.

The reporters begin arriving. They do not come in one regiment. They come trickling by ones and twos. When they have finished their eight hours they go home. But all through the day and night they are coming and going. This is why it is necessary to have a day city editor and a staf of assistants whose business it is to keep scrupulous records of every reporter, every assignment, the whereabouts of every reporter and cameraman at every moment of the day. Reporters may be scattered all over the city.

An important event may occur with the suddenness of an explosion. The day city editor must know how to reach those reporters and cameramen on the moment and collect them at a given point. He must not only know this, but he must know the capabilities of each man, so that each may be assigned to the kind of news he is best equipped to cover. It wouldn't be very good journalism to have all the star reporters gathering the secondary information and then discover that the youngest cub reporter was left to write the story of a century.

Now, if you have been watching closely you have seen telegraphic and city bulletins, telephone calls, the memoranda from the morgue, and all the information from the future files assorted and prepared for assignment. The day city editor and his assistants have all read the morning Tribune and the early editions of the afternoon papers and have formed a general opinion of the trend of the news. In addition to this they all have the background of many months and years of experience.

The assignment book begins to take form. This is a loose leaf ledger. The pages contain the typewritten assignments to the reporters. When a reporter has covered his assignment he telephones this fact to the day city desk. If his assignment has resulted in no news he may be given a further assignment. If he is ready to write he may be called back to the news room to prepare his story, or he may be told to telephone the facts to a rewriter, who will write for him so he may take a second assignment.

It is possible for a reporter to remain assigned to one subject, such as a trial in court, for days or weeks. Or he may skip from one to another of a dozen assignments in a single day if in the changing requirements of the day city editor the efforts of the reporter seem more important on each succeeding assignment. A dozen reporters may be needed on one story, and a dozen photographers. Or, because of their constant communication with the day city editor, cameramen and reporters may cover a half dozen assignments each because of the facility with which a section of the city can be covered by automobiles.

There is no rule. The rules are in the day city editor's head, and they change very frequently. It is his business to keep his eye on the result. The result is an accurately reported news item.

We spoke of more than 200 editorial people. In reality the total of editorial persons is something under 300. But since their interests take them into many fields, there is a grouping of their efforts. There are 83 reporters, young men and young women, who are directly concerned with the assembling of Chicago news. Perhaps we can tell you quickly how they operate.

There are certain avenues of news which do not change. These avenues are called beats in news room language. The city hall, the county building, the federal court building, the state's attorney's office, the public schools, the police districts, and some others are the regular beats. Reporters covering these beats become expert. The expert reporter is one who has piled up the assets of acquaintanceship. The city hall reporter knows every official, and so on through the list of beats. A police reporter knows his policemen.

Now, the 200 out of the some 300 editorial people have a more or less direct relation to the movement of the news. You have been hearing about the reporters, the cameramen, the day city editor's staf, and the method of giving assignments. The next step is easy. Only put yourself in the position of a reporter. Suppose you have been assigned to visit a hotel and have a talk with Senator Jimson. Well, you talk with the senator and discover that this or the other is going to happen in congress. You will next telephone to the day city editor and tell him just that.

Now, Mr. and Mrs. Tribune Reader-Reporter, you may have a story or you may not. The day city editor will decide. He may decide that Senator Jimson said that same thing two weeks ago, in which event you may get another assignment. If he decides that the senator has said something worth printing he may tell you to hurry to the news room, sit down at a typewriter, and write what Senator Jimson has told you. There you have a simple act of reporting. You may multiply the activities thus explained by any number you choose, but the result will be the same.

Suppose the story is a crime involving the actions of a number of persons. There will be a number of reporters and cameramen, each assigned to produce information on a given aspect of the crime. Sometimes this causes a reporter to watch an apartment for days at a time; another reporter will patiently ask the same information of a policeman a dozen times a day to make sure that an event doesn't happen without his knowing it. One Tribune reporter followed a criminal more than 5,000 miles with the most meticulous patience, and got him.

• • •

And now, while the reporter has been getting his assignment covered and we have got him sitting at his typewriter, let's go with the cameraman. His assignment is different only in the sense that while the reporter was getting information the cameraman was getting pictures. The camera, when the photographer is ready to return to the office, may have produced anything from a portrait of a movie star, who was willing to pose beautifully for her likeness, to the scene of a crime or the ugly faces of a band of criminals who did not want to pose but who had to be caught in that split second which cameramen call a speed flash. Well, he comes back to the news room and instantly disappears into the door leading into the darkrooms. Here the expert developers of plates and films begin their swift and technical efforts.

So you have seen the reporters and cameramen. Now, while their activities were going forward there have been a lot of other movements which you couldn't have known about. And so we are going to try to bring you up to full possession of the facts in a few swift lines.

All around the clock the reports from the City News Bureau of Chicago have been coming. What's the City News bureau? Well, it is an independent news gathering organization maintained by all the Chicago newspaper. Colloquially it is called the City Press. It employs a large staf of reporters. These reporters cover the routine sources of the news. You will say, why duplicate? Why should there be a City Press reporter in the city hall and also a reporter from The Tribune? Simply because The Tribune takes no chances. It is possible for a ten-line item in The Tribune to have cost a thousand dollars or even more, since that item may have started out as a big item, involving the chartering of an airplane, some railroad tickets, and many transcontinental telegrams and telephone calls; and when the news has all simmered down, or, to use an earlier simile, when the news was sifted, it was ten lines.

Copy comes into the news room like the rush of water out of a hundred fire hydrants; but it is selected by spoonfuls. No reader, no matter how hungry for information, could read the countless duplications, unauthorized assertions, windy and unimportant speeches, and clouds of words affecting trivialities in out-of-the-way places. The news must be edited. That's why you have editors.

Now the City Press reports must be sorted; so the items are sent to the reporters who have been assigned to those same events. The reporters, having the best information, will know what to use or discard.

This has been going on since we first brought you into the news room. But now the Associated Press reports are increasing in size, until by noon there is a small mountain of typewritten copy accumulated from the teletype machines. These are simply a kind of typewriter attached to telegraph wires. Instead of an operator listening to the dots and dashes, the teletype gets going without an operator and reels off endless yards of news items from every part of the world. All this material must be cut and sorted and delivered to the editorial desks directly concerned.

And all this time the tempo of the news room has been increasing in intensity. More reporters are coming and going; more cameramen are alert; more wires are being thrown open; and more editors are beginning to take their places in the pattern of publication.

Since we have been talking of telegraphic news, we must tell you that the telegraph editor gets into action not so long after noon. He is confronted by that mountain of special and Associated Press dispatches we told you about a moment ago. He immediately begins by distributing the items among the subeditors. His desk is shaped like a horseshoe. The telegraph editor sits in the inside of this horseshoe, the subeditors about the outside. Thus there is close contact. And now each item is considered for its value to the Chicagoland reader, is carefully edited, and is equipped with a headline. All of these activities require education and experience. Sometimes a subeditor (whom we call a copy reader) may spend hours in the library and reference room and in making telephone calls to verify the facts in a small item. And his ability to write headlines verges upon the poetic. A headline must tell much in little space and also be typographically correct.

And the cable editor; for by 3 o'clock in the afternoon the foreign correspondents of The Tribune are beginning to pour in their discoveries from all over the world. Each one tries to file dispatches which will reach the news room in time for the first edition. But irrespective of whether the cable news comes from the Tribune correspondents, the Associated Press, or other services, it all goes to the cable editor. You have seen the telegraph editor's horseshoe desk? The cable editor has one just like it; himself on the inside and the cable subeditors (copy readers) on the outside. And the cable editor must have two assistants who are called transcribers, since they transcribe the almost unintelligibly coded cable dispatches into newspaper English. So the cable news comes pouring in, the transcribers transcribe it, and the copy readers read and correct and write headlines for it.

• • •

Next the finance desk. It is exactly like the telegraph and cable desks. But to this desk comes the news of business and finance, not only from Chicago but from every business center in the world. In Chicago the reporters for the financial section have been getting the news from the stock market, the Board of Trade, the banks and the brokers and the investment houses; from the railroads, the insurance companies, and the real estate dealers. All of this material comes pouring to the financial desk, to be edited and to receive the proper headlines.

On another side of the news room you will see the society writers. These ladies have been getting letters and telephone calls by the hundreds all day, to say nothing of the calls and visits they themselves have made. Their news is sent to the editor of the feature pages. He in turn edits and writes the headlines.

And again: Beyond the society writers is the sports department. It seems hardly necessary to remind you of the baseball games, the football games, the boxing tournaments, and all the other hundreds of events in which humanity is interested. Golf alone would make many volumes each year. A rain of scores and sports items is pouring on the sports desk every day and night. If you examine this desk you will find it just like the others—boss copy reader and the subeditors.

Now at last the city desk. This has been kept to the last, since we began with telling you how the city editor works. The time is now well along in the afternoon. The reporters are coming in groups. They pay a short visit to the day city editor, who wants to know all about the story and wants to tell the reporters how much to write. The news room is settling down to a subdued hum of intensive industry.

By 4 o'clock all the desks are in full operation. The telegraph, cable, financial, and sports copy is flowing toward the desks we have described. Remember also that we described that square desk in the middle of the room. It is about this square desk that the telegraph, cable, and financial desks are arranged on three sides. The city desk is the fourth. To this city desk, then, comes the reporters' copy.

If you will put yourself at this city desk you will discover that you have less than two hours to the deadline. Of course, this is true also of the other desks, but it is worth noting that the east is one hour ahead of Chicago, and also that Chicago is the most important, therefore must be later, since the reporters can hardly come to the office before the principal public avenues of news are closed. And the first deadline is at 5:30 p. m.!

Now the mill is going! There can be no waste motion. The reporters make their fingers fly as fast as they can. The copy readers perspire freely in their strain to read the stories rapidly and get the headlines written. If you think this is a holiday, try putting the essential elements of a two-column article into twenty-four letters!

The rhythm increases. Here comes the war in China. There the news of Washington, the White House, and congress, filling three high-speed leased wires. The copy boys are trotting in a sort of regular cadence from one desk to another, snatching up the finished news from the copy hooks and sending it downstairs to the printers. The telegraph operators in the Western Union, Postal, and the syndicate offices are clattering as if in competition. They pull sheets out of their typewriters a paragraph at a time. No one can wait for a full sheet.

Meanwhile copy has been going to the composing room and proofs coming back. The editors at the square central desk, who from early afternoon have kept close to the news with hurried conferences and a stream of memoranda, now begin hungrily reading these proofs. The various department editors, one at a time, arrive at this square desk with their schedules, lists of news, that is, together with recommendations of news value.

• • •

From out the darkrooms come the cameramen and the men who have developed and printed the photographs. From the Associated Press offices come the still wet prints of photographs sent by wire from all over the world. By mail come the packages of photographs sent by correspondents and the pictures services from everywhere. All these pictorial embellishments are thumb tacked to long frames along the south wall where the editors can see them. The picture editors and the caption writers begin their selections. From 100,000 photographs each year are made the selections to run on the back and news pages.

The night editor receives some sheets of paper ruled in the blank form of the full newspaper pages. These blanks are called dummies, since they are blank save for the column rules. Upon these sheets the composing room foreman has allotted the advertising space. The night editor swiftly sketches in the positions of the news stories and the illustrations. It is a Chinese puzzle to the layman; art to the news editor.

A mind-the-tube boy receives a carrier containing news copy or rolled-up photographs.

Page one is dummied on the blank sheet. The cartoonists have turned in their drawings and the engravers are beginning to send their plates to the composing room.

With this rapid clearing away of material from all these sources you have seen the first edition moving to press. This, when it reaches the street, is known as the metropolitan edition. It is the first edition; and it is also a kind of first round in the night's battle.

• • •

For now the scene has changed. The day city editor, whom you saw earlier in the day getting things smoothed out for his superior, has left for the day. With him have gone the men who drew up the assignments for reporters and cameramen. The city editor now has the situation well in hand, as they say in the marines. The city editor has been over the day assignments a dozen times. He knows what every reporter is doing; every cameraman. He has gone over the night assignments; knows what to expect in a general way. He knows the night police reporters are all where they can be reached at a moment's notice by telephone; that the suburban reporters, forming a ring around Chicago from Waukegan on the north to Gary on the southeast, are on duty; he knows that the city desk has its equipment of copy readers; nothing can happen that can't be handled swiftly and completely.

Take another glance at the other desks. The news editor has familiarized himself with every cable and telegraphic dispatch. He knows what the sports department has to offer. He has kept in touch all afternoon with the art department. The artists are knee deep in pictures and maps and charts and graphic illustrations. There are more illustrations turned out by the Tribune art department every day than by any other newspaper in America. The news editor has outlined a map on the latest development in the Chinese war; another for Spain; another in the central European crisis. He has indicated charts to illustrate the condition of the United States treasury, and the WPA, and anything else that can best be brought home to the reader graphically.

A copy reader's ability to write headlines verges on the poetic.

The night editor begins to make over his dummies. There is a new edition at 8:10 p. m., another at 10:10, and then a replate on this edition for Milwaukee; we are drawing near the final edition.

But before we reach that final edition you should know there is almost never a final edition, since The Tribune never stops. After the final has gone to press the late editor arrives. He will work with a skeleton staf of writers, reporters, and cameramen. His first duty is to send in an edition at 3 a. m. This is the two-star final. After this he may have as many as a half dozen later editions, until as late as 8 a. m., all these depending upon the importance of the news.

• • •

We are ahead of the schedule. We resume with the night editor, who when we left him to discuss the late editor was preparing for the final edition. This is the city edition. You are seeing a repetition of the scene you witnessed in the late afternoon, except that the intensity is greater. News dispatches have changed a dozen times because of late developments. Pictures have been coming from cameramen and from great distances by Associated Press wirephoto. The picture page has been torn down and carefully rebuilt to conform to the late news. The engraving room is sending its zinc etchings to the composing room by the armload.

All of the page dummies, those sketched-in sheets showing where every news item and advertisment will appear, have been sent to the printers. The square desk in the middle of the room is studying the chart of page one.

"The makeup of The Tribune," the managing editor will tell you, "is the crystalized judgment of the news organization. Reporters and correspondents advance their best stories to the editors of their divisions. These editors in turn select the news they think most important. After the schedule of news has passed through city, telegraph, cable, financial, and sports editors it is judged by the central desk of four editors. The final approval is that of the managing editor, who is always in communication with the editor."

The editors are struggling with the eight-column line for the first page. The copy readers are polishing the last bit of copy and the last headings; the picture editor is putting the last touch to a caption. The rewriters are straining at the telephone for a last fact from a police reporter or from a correspondent in Springfield or from a foreign correspondent who has just entered Vienna with Hitler's troops (by the way, it happened just so), and the office boys are in a swift, silent parade from the desks to the copy chute. The dummy of page one is sent away. There is a final split-second bulletin. The heads of the various copy desks arise. The copy readers snatch pencils and paper and hurry to the composing room to make last corrections at the printers' forms.

It is deadline.

Next week: Printing The Tribune.

Arch a Boon to Bridge Builders

● Neolithic man was the original bridge engineer. He discovered the principle of the arch when he leaned two stones together. Ancient man of later periods developed the science of bridge building from this first stone arch. All this was discussed in an article in this department last Sunday.

The famous Saint Benezet bridge of Avignon, France. Erected in the twelfth century, it was used for 500 years. Four of its eighteen original arches still are preserved.

IN THE middle ages bridge makers still had only two basic materials with which to work that were available in quantities sufficient for their purpose. These were stones and timber, although, of course, in some cases bricks could be substituted for stones. Rope for temporary suspension bridges also was readily obtainable in this early day, but permanent structures of this type were a much later development, the first chain suspension bridges appearing in the world merely a few centuries ago, and the first wire cable structures of this form within comparatively recent times.

By the beginning of medieval times, however, bridge builders were better engineers than were the ancients. They could span wider rivers and deeper ravines through their better understanding of the principle of the arch and the rules of stresses.

Throughout Europe today are standing bridges that were erected in the medieval period, some of them still in a remarkable state of preservation and some of them virtually as steady and strong as they were the day they were completed. In a large number of cases these bridges of the middle ages were constructed upon the principle of the arch, employing either a single arch or a series of arches.

As proof of the fact that men could build marvelous bridges hundreds of years ago is the famous Saint Benezet bridge in the historic city of Avignon, France, which is shown in one of the accompanying pictures. This massive structure was built across the River Rhone in the years between 1177 and 1185, after all previous attempts to span the swiftly flowing stream had failed. Even the Romans, superb bridge builders of their day, had been unable to span the Rhone at this place.

That the builders of this bridge were able successfully to anchor firm foundations for the structure at the bottom of the river is not mystifying today, for it is recorded that these early builders had learned to improve upon the practices of the Romans. In planting a buttress or a pier in a swift river in that time the builders could resort to one or more of the following methods:

Divert the stream and build in the temporarily dry river bed.

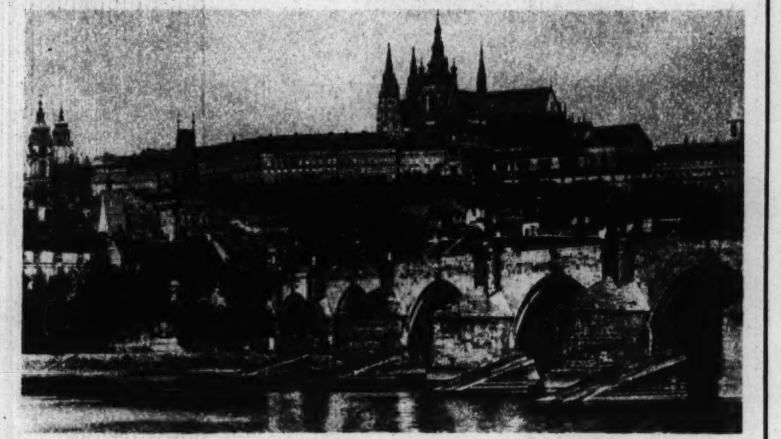
Drive piles in the river bed and build on top of them.

Drop rocks into the river to make a solid bed on the river bottom. These rocks could be dropped singly or sunk in barges.

Build cofferdams to keep out the water.

In the case of the Rhone it is not likely that the river was diverted. Possibly more than one of the other three methods were employed. Even the Romans had been familiar with cofferdam building, the use of cement, and piledriving, ancient records have disclosed.

In the original structure of the Saint Benezet bridge were eighteen huge semicircular arches resting upon giant boatlike stone piers. For about 500 years, or until 1680, this bridge was in constant use, except for those times when it was undergoing repairs. Today there are left only three of its massive piers and only four of its great stone arches, but they still are solid and safe after 750 years.



Prague's celebrated Charles bridge, which was constructed in the fourteenth century and still is in use.

The span of the arches of this old bridge at Avignon was approximately the maximum for its particular type of construction—between 75 and 100 feet. Except in certain rare examples this limit to the length of bridge spans never was greatly increased until relatively modern times, when beams of metal were put to use. Outstanding of the rare examples was the granite arch bridge built over the Adda river at Trezzo, Italy, in 1380. Its arch was 251 feet in length, but it remained intact only thirty years.

Not so old as the Saint Benezet bridge, but built upon similar lines, with massive semicircular arches and heavy buttresses, is the historic Charles bridge (Karlsbrücke) spanning the Vltava river at Prague, Czechoslovakia. Erected in the fourteenth century by Emperor Charles, it still is in use today after more than 500 years of service. It was built to replace the stone bridge of Queen Judith, of which the beautiful bridge tower on the left bank of the river has been preserved to this day. A similar tower stands at the other end.

As can be noted from pictures, the Saint Benezet and the Charles bridges were extremely substantial structures, built for service rather than for beauty, although in their lines themselves they are impressive and pleasing to the eye. They represent the bridge architecture of northern and western Europe in medieval times.

In southern Europe, particularly in Italy, bridge designers in those and in later years placed great emphasis on decorative features. The celebrated Ponte Vecchio that stretches across the River Arno at Florence is typical of the fourteenth-century bridges of Italy. It was erected in 1345, and it is believed that its designer was Taddeo Gaddi. Three low segmental arches resting on stone piers carry the structure across the river between the two famous picture galleries, the Uffizi and the Pitti. Like many of the bridges of its period, the Ponte Vecchio is lined with stalls or shops for small tradesmen. The old London bridge, which was torn down centuries ago, likewise was lined with merchants' shops, although it was not of the arch construction type.

A little more than 200 years after the Ponte Vecchio was built, Vasari, the artist, added an upper story to it to provide for a covered corridor more than a third of a mile long connecting Cosimo de' Medici's Uffizi palace with the Pitti palace.

In Venice, a city of many and beautiful bridges, are two that are world famous—the Rialto bridge over the Grand canal, and the Bridge of Sighs, which connects the old doge's palace with the Prison of Saint Mark. The last-named bridge perhaps is the most widely known of all.

The single great marble arch of the Rialto bridge rests upon a foundation of 12,000 piles driven to a depth of sixteen feet on the banks of the canal. These piles were sunk by means of a hammer (a heavy weight falling in a groove) that was operated either by man power or horse power, since steam piledrivers were not in existence when the bridge was erected in the years from 1588 to 1592. Designed by Giovanni Contino, the Rialto bridge is of the arcaded type of construction, and in its design can be seen the Roman, the segmental, the Gothic, and the Moorish arch.

Perhaps the best-known of all bridges is the Bridge of Sighs in Venice. It is merely a covered passageway upon an arch that is suspended between two buildings.

The Bridge of Sighs is a relatively small structure, the springs of its one arch thrusting against the walls of the two buildings which it connects. Erected in 1595, it took its name from the fact that condemned prisoners walked through its covered passage from the hall of judgment in the palace to the place of execution in the prison. The Bridge of Sighs in New York, connecting the Criminal Courts building with the Tombs prison, got its name from the famous bridge in Venice.

Mostly About Dogs

Cairn Gains in Popular Esteem

THE American Kennel club today recognizes twenty-two terriers. Included in this group are some breeds that are very popular here in America. Terriers have been developed in Ireland, Scotland, England, Wales, and other countries. The ancestry of one of the breeds, the Lhassa, which comes to us from Asia, can be traced for more than 800 years.

Not all terriers are as popular as the Scotty, the fox terrier, schnauzer, Kerry, Irish, and others which have won many friends here in America. And in this group of dogs which aren't so well known we have some which slowly are gaining in popularity. In this list is the Cairn terrier, a short-legged little sporting terrier with an appearance and certain qualities that reflect his usefulness and his sporting instincts.

Two champion Pomeranians, mother and son. Both were imported from England by the Blackacre kennels.

Terriers are what they are today because of the way they have been used for many years. They have been workers. They come from dogs that were accustomed to go to earth for foxes, otter, and smaller animals. So they naturally are very active, full of courage, and extremely alert. In other words, all terrier. This description fits the Cairn terrier very well.

Champion Brock von Lubich, a black standard schnauzer, is a representative of this German terrier breed which has been in existence since the fifteenth century.

A Cairn male should weigh around fourteen pounds. A female tips the scales at thirteen pounds. The coat is hard and weather-resisting. Actually the Cairn has a double coat. The outer one is profuse and harsh. Beneath is a soft, furry one.

The Cairn is fortunate in being of a size suited to the requirements of city life. In its native land (the island of Skye) the Cairn lived an outdoor life under anything but year around favorable conditions. Centuries of such a life naturally have developed an active, rugged little dog that doesn't mind weather and can handle himself beautifully. He's a rough-and-ready fourteen-pound chunk of dog that can pay his way as a rat killer around the premises. If any dog might be said to have come from a line of working terriers this fourteen-pounder is the one.

The histories of some of our terriers are very interesting to the dog fancier. The way some of these breeds have been developed (sometimes by cross-breeding) and the names given to them years ago form fascinating chapters in the stories of dogs. The Cairn today bears a name that is somewhat misleading. We often have wondered why it isn't called the Skye terrier, because it represents a successful attempt to preserve the old-time working terrier of the Isle of Skye. Harding Cox, an English authority on dogs, sums up the situation in this way:

"I am wondering how it came about that the typical working terrier of the fair island of Skye came to be called the Cairn. I believe that at one time in Skye there was to be found a dog with longer coat and back than are possessed by the right son of the soil—the Cairn. So I suppose that ingenious eugenists saw in this animal the basis of the picturesque fancy breed which might win the hearts of dog lovers."

But, irrespective of the differences of opinion on the question of the appropriateness of the name Cairn, the breed continues to win new friends. The number being registered is something of a surprise. During one recent month 41 Cairns were registered with the A. K. C. In that same month 44 bull terriers, 38 Kerry blues, 23 Norwiches, 44 Sealyhams, and 31 Welsh terriers were put on the books, which gives the dog fanciers some idea of the standing of the little Cairn among certain terrier breeds that so far are not challenging the big registration figures of the Scotty and the wire-haired fox terrier.

The registration figures on the Scotty and the wire-haired terrier give one a pretty good idea of their national popularity among breeders, at shows, and in homes. During one month of this year 765 Scottish terriers were registered with the American Kennel club. That same month put 539 wire-haired terriers on the books. These two breeds, commonly hitting the 400 or 500 mark each month, naturally take the race from other terrier breeds in this country.

DOG NOTES

A dog that is ten years old has reached an age comparable to 70 years in a human, since one year of a dog's life is equal to about seven of a human's.

The Boston terrier as a breed is about 70 years old.

The popular cocker spaniel recently scored with 1,471 individual dogs registered with the American Kennel club in one month.

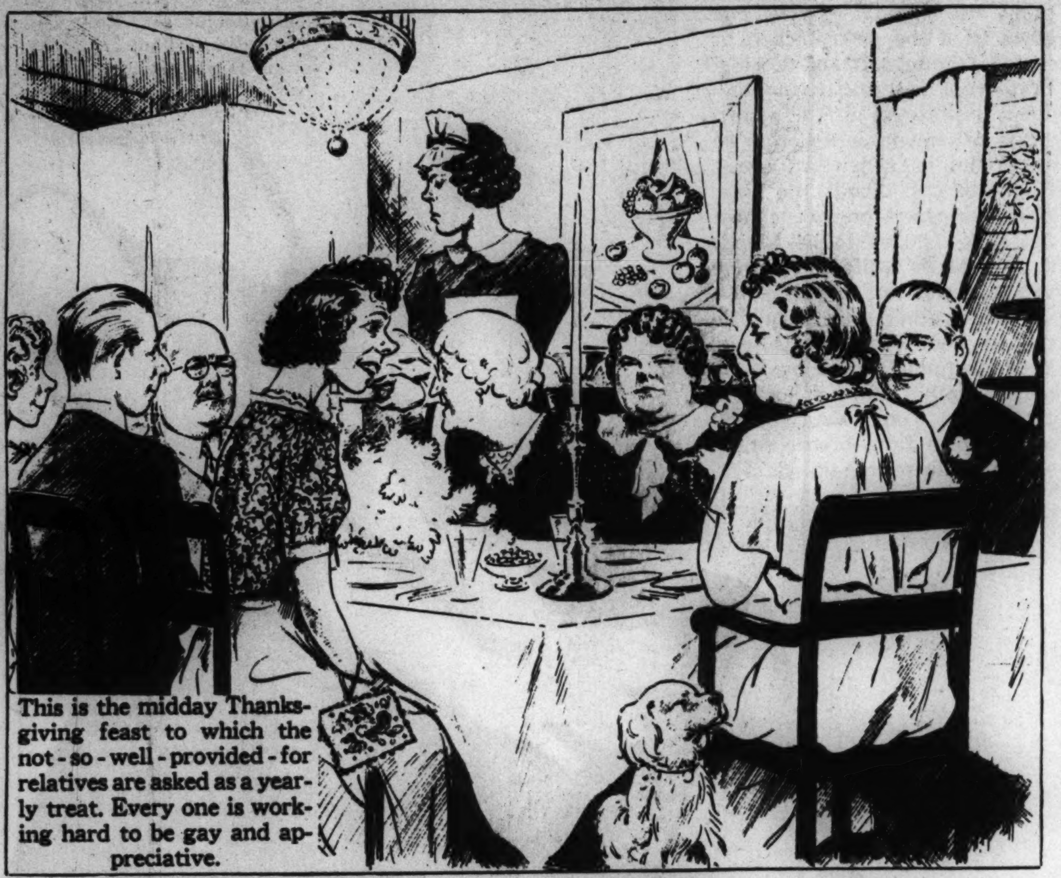
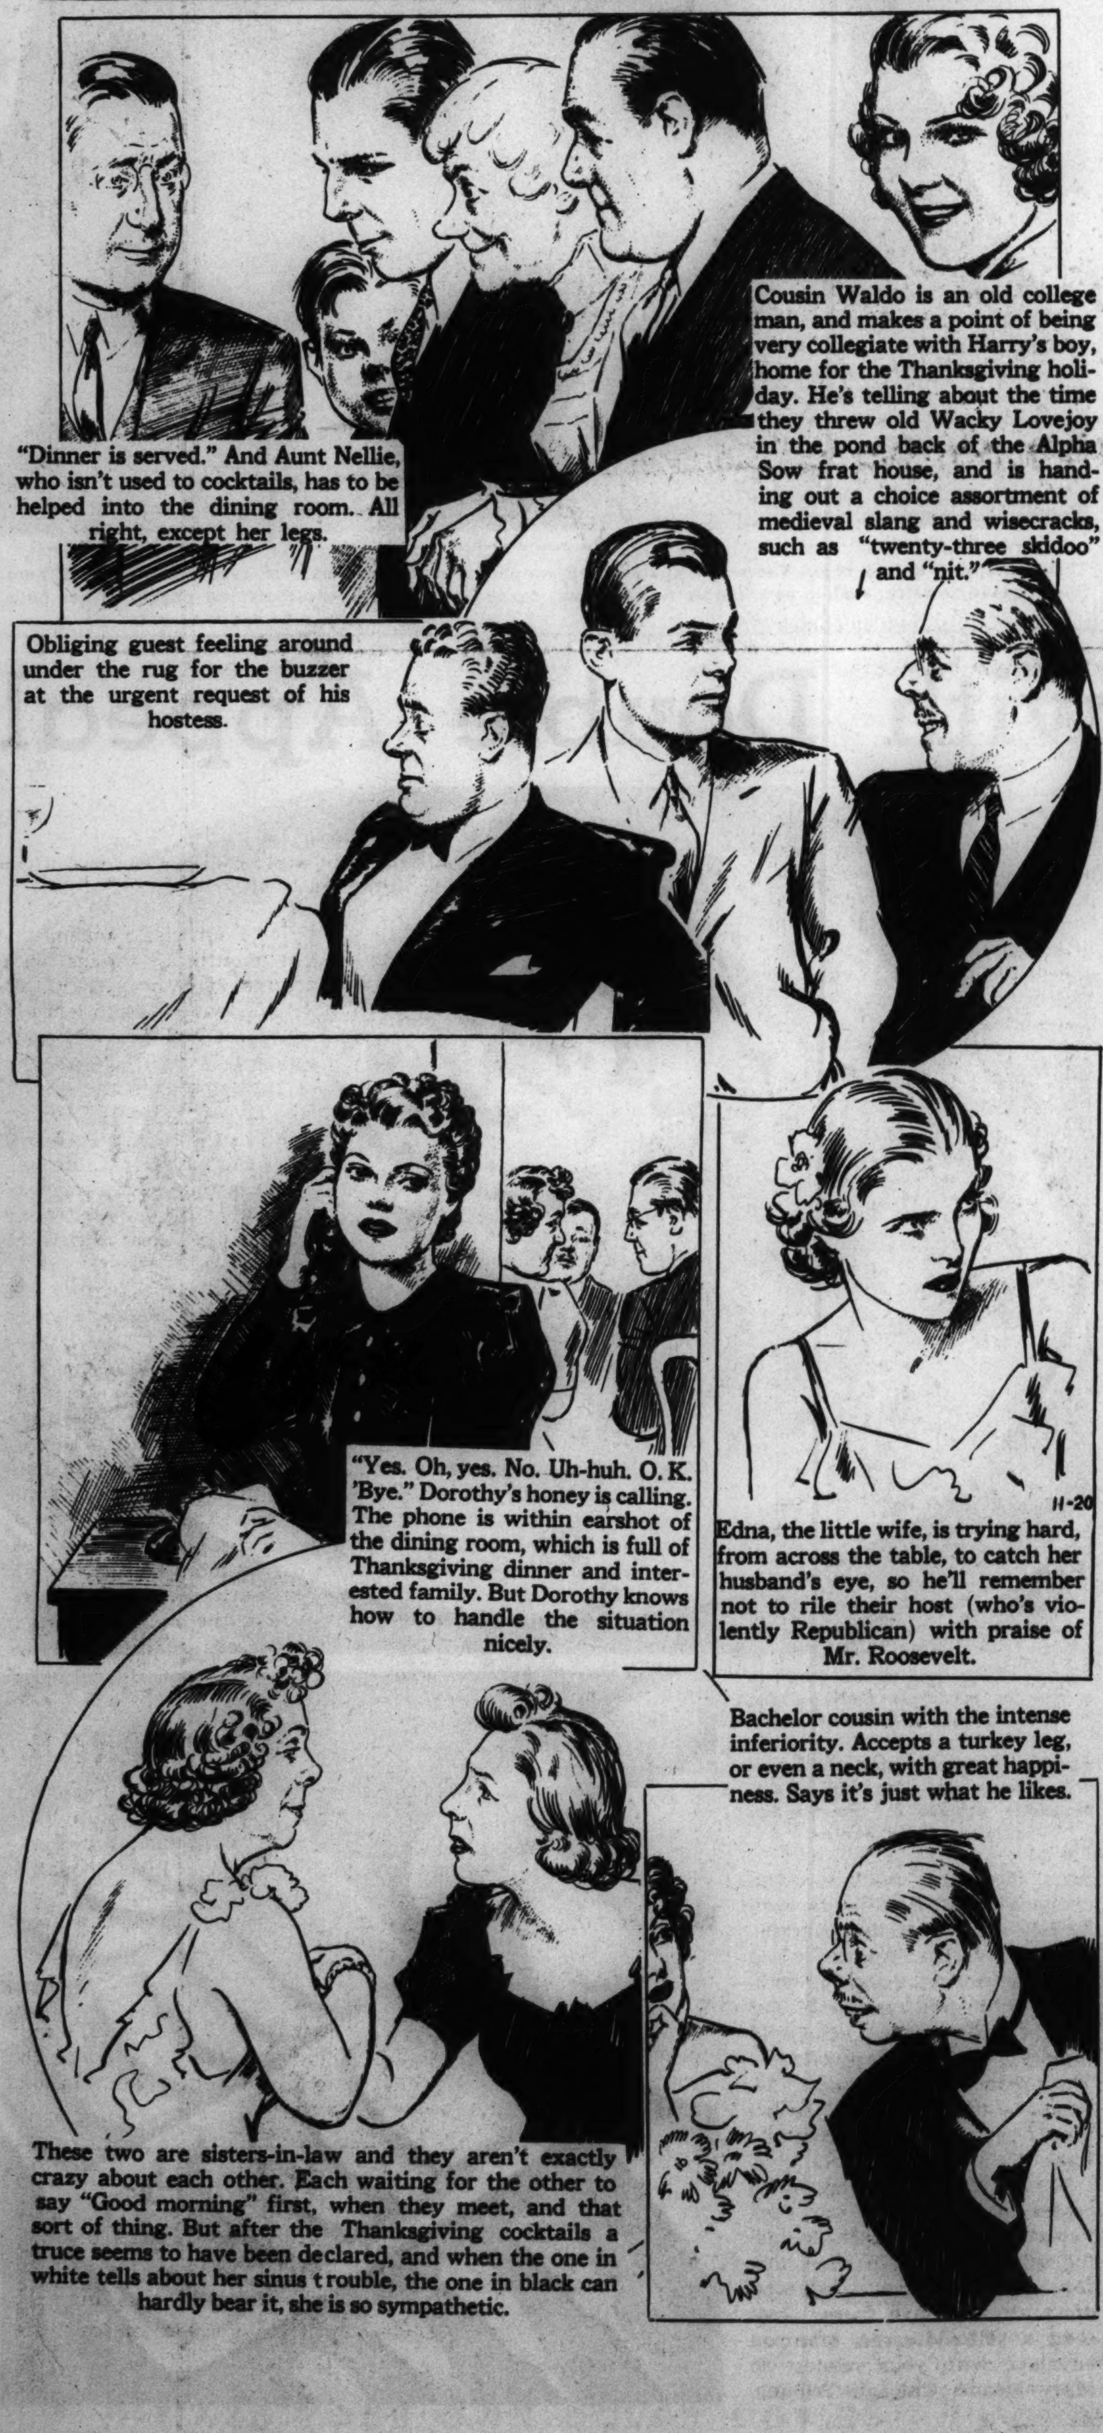
THANKSGIVING DINNER

By W. E. Hill

Copyright, 1938, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.



This is the midday Thanksgiving feast to which the not-so-well-provided-for relatives are asked as a yearly treat. Every one is working hard to be gay and appreciative.



"Dinner is served." And Aunt Nellie, who isn't used to cocktails, has to be helped into the dining room. All right, except her legs.

Cousin Waldo is an old college man, and makes a point of being very collegiate with Harry's boy, home for the Thanksgiving holiday. He's telling about the time they threw old Wacky Lovejoy in the pond back of the Alpha Sow frat house, and is handing out a choice assortment of medieval slang and wisecracks, such as "twenty-three skidoo" and "nit."

"Yes. Oh, yes. No. Uh-huh. O. K. 'Bye." Dorothy's honey is calling. The phone is within earshot of the dining room, which is full of Thanksgiving dinner and interested family. But Dorothy knows how to handle the situation nicely.

Edna, the little wife, is trying hard, from across the table, to catch her husband's eye, so he'll remember not to rile their host (who's violently Republican) with praise of Mr. Roosevelt.

Bachelor cousin with the intense inferiority. Accepts a turkey leg, or even a neck, with great happiness. Says it's just what he likes.

These two are sisters-in-law and they aren't exactly crazy about each other. Each waiting for the other to say "Good morning" first, when they meet, and that sort of thing. But after the Thanksgiving cocktails a truce seems to have been declared, and when the one in white tells about her sinus trouble, the one in black can hardly bear it, she is so sympathetic.

The Crimson Wizard

bly out of the window. He held himself with one hand while he thrust the pistol into a pocket with the other.

"And so, comrade commander," he said with a grave courtesy, "be good enough to say to the commissars that I have failed in my two errands and that I send them the regretful farewell of Michael Raclov."

The commander leaped for the window. "Raclov!" he called. "Michael Raclov!"

Raclov's hand let go its hold. The commander peered over the edge and saw a black object dart downward into the moonlight.

IV.

In the after cabin Maida Travers was alone. All members of the crew were at their posts. The Moscow officials were gathered in a central salon deep in conversation. The comrade commander had unexpectedly received a visitor. Maida Travers was to receive a visitor. This visitor was no stranger to her. He was Peter Quill.

Maida's impulse was to cry out, "How dare you!" It would have been the routine of heroines in distress. She had almost formed the words when the droll thought flashed through her mind that she had read such phrases in romantic fiction.

"O, Peter Quill," she said, "I am so sorry."

"Sorry?" said the Wizard in his freezing monotony. "Sorry that I am doing something for humanity?"

Maida flew from pity to challenge. "Then it is true?" she demanded. "And I tried to defend you."

"You will not be alone," said Raclov. . . . There were times when he seemed to be playing two parts, and Maida recoiled with distrust.

Peter Quill's hideous face threw her a look of disdain. "Defend me?" he cried. "When has any one ever defended me?"

"I tried so hard," said Maida. "I wanted so much to see you succeed in your years of labor. I wanted you to succeed with your terrible—with your invisible lightning——"

"I shall succeed," came the scornful acid of his voice.

"Yes, succeed; but what kind of success, Peter Quill, to turn against——"

"I shall decide that. But I didn't come to debate political morality. You are in an airship. Do you understand that?"

"Yes," she said wonderingly, "and thousands of feet above the earth, I suppose."

"Some five thousand," said Peter Quill. "Airships may fall. Do you know that?"

"I could almost wish that this one would fall—with you on it, Crimson Wizard."

Peter Quill's eyes went half-closed. "Perhaps," he said. He hesitated. Then he shuffled toward the entrance and said: "I have brought a parachute. I shall help you put it on. One never knows."

"You need not trouble, Peter Quill——"

"Here it is." He stepped to the cabin door and drew in the packet that lay just outside. Maida resisted no longer.

Peter Quill slowly, painfully, and carefully fitted the parachute. When he had done he stepped to the window. "It is warm work," he said. He threw the window wide open.

He stood looking down at the receding earth. "Poland," he said, pointing with his long, clawlike finger. Maida unthinkingly drew near. Quill seized her and held her helpless.

"Peter Quill!" she cried.

"Yes," he said. He pressed her slowly to the open window. "Yes, Peter Quill. Peter Quill, the Crimson Wizard. Peter Quill, the grotesque monster. You will remember Peter Quill, will you not?"

Maida's eyes stared unbelievingly into the ugly face of the dwarf. "Peter Quill," she whispered hoarsely, "don't let me fall——"

There was a quick movement of the long tentacle arms of the hunchback. Maida shot backward through the open window. Peter Quill gazed downward. He heard a long, piercing scream.

He turned. In the door there stood the comrade commander. Peter Quill's metallic voice rasped its monotonous sound.

"An enemy has had the misfortune to fall overboard," he said.

"Come with me," said the commander. "It must not happen a third time."

"Not for all the world," said Peter Quill.

Beauty Goes Dramatic

By ELEANOR NANGLE

PICTURESQUENESS is enjoying a renaissance this season. And a great relief it is, too, to the women who just aren't the staccato tailored-suit type.

All the little tricks you've stored away in your memory can now be exercised. Maybe you like the feel and the flutter of feathers; this year you can tuck them in your hair, drape them from your hat, have a cape of them. Maybe you like the old-fashioned pointless whim of black velvet bows; this season you can have them on your wrists, 'round your head, even around your throat, just as your grandmother did. Have a hoop skirt if you want one. Wear a purple-red lipstick to match purple-red nails. For evening have a high-necked gown or a strapless one. For jewelry take your choice of your grandmother's old-fashioned lavalliere or a modern bit like a pair of surrealist hands. You can write your own ticket. The idea is to dramatize yourself effectively.

Maybe you're one of those beauties on a budget who must make one evening gown provide a season's glamor for special occasions. If it's black your rôle is to be chic. Remember that skin must be white and smooth and subtly scented. If you're fair-skinned, by all means try the new makeup with purple undertones; if it's becoming, have nail lacker match it.

When it comes to accessories, keep before you the awful image of the legendary English duchess who wore all her five watches at once! Be ruthless in the elimination process. Don't use two ornaments where one or none would be better. Sweep your hair high and consider well before you tuck an ornament in it. Use a subtle, spicy perfume. If chic is what you want it's better to be severely underdressed than to look like a walking Christmas tree.

But prettiness — that's something else again. If your one gown is of the pretty school it could be white, soft and flowing. Dress your hair softly, too, and don't hesitate to use a picturesque ornament, whether it be an orchid or a jeweled comb. Have softness about the face. A feather cape is one of the most flattering frames to be found; it, too, can be white or can give you a splash of elegant color. Let pink rather than purple be the keynote of your makeup. Your perfume should be a romantic rather than a sophisticated one. You'll want to look as though a faint breeze would send you fluttering skyward.

This is dressing to look pretty, with softness the keynote. The flowers in her hair, the feather cape, and the general effect of picturesqueness all contribute to the type of dramatization this girl wisely utilizes.

(Charmante photo.)

(Charmante photo.)

This is dressing to look chic. There is a complicated simplicity in the ensemble of severe black gown, carefully chosen jewelry, and a new purple-red makeup, carried out even to the matching polish on her nails.

Buffet with Double Appeal

By MARY MEADE

BUFFET FOOD must fulfill two requirements—it must present an attractive picture on the table, and it must be easy to transfer from serving dish to luncheon plate. Ham muffin ring (made with sour cream) is a hot food that measures up to these specifications. It may be served with any creamed vegetable. Peas are perhaps most popular and were used for this picture.

HAM MUFFIN RING

(Serves six)

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
1 egg
1 cup sour cream
¾ cup finely chopped cooked ham, packed firmly

Sift flour, measure and resift with baking powder, salt, and soda. Beat egg, add sour cream and ham, and mix well. Turn into flour mixture and stir until flour is dampened—about thirty seconds, no longer. Drop batter lightly into a buttered six-cup ring mold. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for twenty-five minutes. Loosen the edges and turn out on a hot platter. Fill the center of the ring with creamed peas or other creamed vegetable. The ham mixture may be baked in small rings or custard cup molds if individual servings are preferred.

A variety of homemade quick breads will lend allure to the "snack" buffet table. Two kinds of nut bread and a butterscotch bread are illustrated.

NUT BREAD

(2 loaves)

10 tablespoons shortening (½ cup plus 2 tablespoons)
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup pecans
¼ cup milk

Cream shortening and add sugar, beating until the mixture is light and fluffy. Separate eggs and add yolks one at a time, beating after each addition. Sift flour, measure, and resift with baking powder. Fold flour into egg mixture. Add chopped nuts. Fold in the well beaten egg whites and mix the batter carefully. Add milk and flavoring and mix until smooth. Pour into well greased loaf pans 3½x7½ inches. Bake 45 minutes in a 400-degree oven. The bread may be baked in 14-ounce tins for small round loaves. It will make four of this size.

We still have mimeographed copies of recipes for our four "special" quick breads, including butterscotch and chocolate, for any cooks interested who don't already have them. Just send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

Above: Bake ham muffin batter in a ring or in single portions and serve it with creamed peas.

At right: Several kinds of nut bread with cheese and jam will lend a magnetic appeal to the Sunday evening buffet table.

For Sparkling Clean Teeth

DO AS YOUR DENTIST DOES —USE POWDER

NOTHING else cleans and polishes teeth more quickly and leaves them more naturally white—than POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know, almost always uses powder.

All Cleansing Properties

As it is only the powder part of most dentifrices that cleans, a dentifrice that is all powder just naturally cleans effectively. Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—all cleansing properties.

For over seventy years many dentists everywhere have prescribed Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder because normal teeth simply cannot remain dull and dingy looking when it is used. Dr. Lyon's cleans and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling with natural brightness. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed and your breath so sweet and pure. Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is a special dental powder developed for HOME USE by a distinguished practicing dentist.

No Acid, No Grit or Pumice

Free from all acids, grit or pumice, it cannot possibly injure or scratch the tooth enamel as years of constant use have shown. Even as a neutralizer in acid mouth conditions, Dr. Lyon's is an effective antacid.

Brush your teeth with Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder regularly — consult your dentist periodically—eat a diet rich in minerals and vitamins, and you will be doing all that you can possibly do to protect your teeth.

Costs Less to Use

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is more economical to use. In the same size and price class Dr. Lyon's outlasts tooth pastes two to one. Even a small package will last you for months.

Easy on Your Throat—
Because "IT'S TOASTED"

OTIS RUCKER, Independent Expert Since 1909, says:

"I Smoke Luckies Because They Buy Fine Tobacco"

"I've been an auctioneer and warehouseman ever since 1909," says this typical expert. "I started smoking Luckies when they were first introduced in 1917. The finest tobacco sold at auction goes into them. Most of my friends in the tobacco business smoke Luckies, too."

Sworn records show, in fact, that among independent buyers, auctioneers and warehousemen Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes combined... Yes, Luckies give you the finest tobacco. And they are kind to your throat, too! Their exclusive "Toasting" process takes out certain harsh irritants found in all tobacco. So Luckies are a light smoke—easy on your throat. Try Luckies for a week and see for yourself.
